

Every Night 131

Chapter 131: Already Fascinated by You

Hesitating for a moment, Jordan Bennett sent a WeChat message.

[Merry, stop messing around! Focus on your class, your uncle will pick you up later.]

Chloe Lee sent a cute cat emoticon.

[Uncle, I saw my sister's true face, she's so pretty! It seems like she's close to Miss Thornton from our dance center, I can ask Miss Thornton for her contact number!]

[Uncle, I'm going to start my class, no more chatting for now.]

Jordan Bennett thought that would be the end of it, so he put his phone down and prepared to continue looking at files.

Suddenly, his phone rang again.

Jordan Bennett pursed his lips slightly, a frown playing on his face.

A few seconds later, he decided to pick up his phone to check the message.

From a photo that Merry had sent him, Jordan Bennett could clearly see the features of the beautiful woman.

Instantly, Jordan Bennett's eyebrows furrowed, and he squinted his profound eyes.

A hint of complex emotions flashed across his face.

So this sexy woman was Daniel Marshall's wife!

Jordan Bennett couldn't believe that this woman had approached the school where Merry was learning to dance.

Daniel's wife was really scheming; she even dared to make moves against him.

After contemplating for a moment, the look in Jordan Bennett's eyes turned deep and dark, his handsome face seemed to be covered in frost. The notification sound rang again, it was a WeChat message from Merry.

She had sent over another photo.

It was a photo of Merry and Daniel's wife together.

With a slight smile, Daniel's wife emitted an air of nobility.

Just by looking at the picture, one could not discern her scheming nature and manipulative methods, she seemed as harmless as a small white rabbit.

Her expression seemed as innocent as Merry's!

Such a woman could be quite dangerous!

She might resort to any means necessary.

Suddenly, Jordan Bennett shut his computer, grabbed the suit jacket that was draped over his black leather swivel chair, and walked out of his CEO's office in big strides.

When Olivia Jenkins was decompressing, she would dance a few pieces at the dance center, as her dancing skills were quite solid.

After finishing a tango, the children at the dance center seemed to quite like her, so she joined them for practice.

After finishing a piece, Winona Thornton approached Olivia Jenkins for a conversation.

“In three days, our center will be performing at a charity event hosted by the Marshall Corporation. Are you interested in performing as a special guest? Just now, you paired up with our foreign teacher quite well, appearing as seasoned partners who have trusted each other for a long time, you wouldn’t need to rehearse, you could just go on stage. No matter how many years have passed, your performances are still perfect.”

Olivia Jenkins gave a light laugh, expressing some reservation, “Will it cause trouble for your center?”

“There’s no issue, I really hope you can perform. Honestly, I was just entranced by you earlier. Your participation in this charity event would also be a good deed. Keep in mind that it’s for fundraising, so there’s pressure involved. Especially considering your current status, it’s also a challenge.” After thinking it over, Olivia Jenkins nodded, “Okay, I’ll perform.”

“When we were training together initially, our instructor really wanted you to be a professional dancer, he even wanted to recommend you to a foreign troupe, but you refused. At that time, I thought it was a pity not to develop in this field, you would have been a huge star in the dancing world by now.”

Olivia Jenkins gave a light smile, her eyes reflecting a hint of complex emotions, “Being a doctor is quite nice as well. Five years later, I never thought I’d regret the choice I made.”

Miss Thornton hugged Olivia Jenkins, “I heard about what happened in your family. I’m sorry for bringing up painful memories.”

“It’s okay, I have no regrets about the choices I made.”

Suddenly, Olivia Jenkins saw Jordan Bennett making his entrance.

Jordan Bennett was heading in their direction.

Olivia Jenkins ignored Jordan Bennett and continued to chat with Miss

Thornton..
