Chapter 176: Making Olivia Jenkins' Reputation Ruined

Olivia Jenkins said meaningfully, "No, you must be a lawyer, you can't forget your professional ethics and you know very well what can and can't be said. When you're being clever, you can create a false story even with your eyes open."

The smile on Martin Wallace's face deepened.

Knowing that Olivia Jenkins was being sarcastic, he didn't get angry.

That's the kind of person he was. He lied to her because he could not betray Daniel Marshall.

Olivia Jenkins finalised the agreement without wasting a single breath, swiped Daniel's card to make the final payment. and left Martin Wallace's office.

Immediately, Martin Wallace called Daniel.

"Your wife mentioned last night's events to me. She tested me, but I didn't say anything. However, I'm sure, she knows almost everything, except for the fact that the black feathered dress belongs to Charmy Bennett."

Daniel furrowed his eyebrows, narrowing his eyes in silence.

Martin Wallace paused for a few seconds and continued: "Your wife said she wants to sue you? She's really having a big problem with you, everything about you bothers her. I think she won't ask you about the black feathered dress directly, but she knows it has something to do with you. Perhaps, she already guessed it belongs to one of your women. The two of you are really a match made in heaven; both of you use me as your mouthpiece."

"What else did my wife say?"

“Nothing!”

Suddenly, the connection from Martin Wallace’s mobile phone went silent.

Dammit! Daniel hung up without saying a word again.

Martin Wallace muttered to himself: “Will the day come when both of you hire me to handle your divorce? If you do, I would definitely demand the highest legal fee.”

After having several interactions with her, Martin Wallace held a positive impression of Olivia Jenkins and thought she was a perfect match for Daniel. “The two of you are really a perfect match, you might as well stick together forever, I don’t mind losing out on some money.”

Bella Thompson switched to a low-profile private car.

She followed Olivia Jenkins from the Jenkins Group to Martin Wallace’s law office.

She naturally saw the female bodyguard who was following close behind Olivia Jenkins.

Last night, the old patriarch was furious and had already issued a death order to ensure that Olivia Jenkins and Daniel Marshall divorce within a week.

Bella Thompson was carrying out the order. She could only succeed; failure was not an option.

Gentle persuasion was apparently no longer viable. She needed to show Olivia Jenkins how tough she could be, bringing Olivia Jenkins to ruin was the inevitable outcome.

“Follow that BMW X6 in front, and try to divert those two female bodyguards.” Bella Thompson’s men nodded and followed Olivia Jenkins’ car quietly.

Meanwhile, Bella Thompson made a new discovery. Apart from her, there was someone else following Olivia Jenkins.

If she wasn't wrong, it should be Benjamin Davis's men.

Bella Thompson did not hide her cunning or ambition and had formulated an excellent plan in her mind.

If Daniel could see Benjamin Davis sleeping with his wife... The thought was very stimulating.

With the two tigers fighting, it was perfect for Matthew Marshall to reap the benefits.

That slut, Olivia Jenkins, was fit to become a rat running through the streets. By then, the Jenkins Group would be in Matthew Marshall's hands.

Thinking of this, Bella Thompson's smile became even more sinister and ruthless!

Daniel called Olivia Jenkins but she didn't answer.

She had even blocked all calls from Daniel.

The phone of the female bodyguard rang. It was Daniel, he asked her to activate the speakerphone mode.

All scumbags!

Why do they all use her?

Why do they pull her into this?

Olivia Jenkins grabbed the phone from the female bodyguard and hung up the call..
