

Every Night 223

Chapter 223: Ruthless

Olivia Jenkins froze, her long eyelashes trembling slightly.

She hesitated for a moment with her hands, but left them hanging at her sides.

“Didn’t you say you needed to use the restroom? Let me go.” Daniel Marshall was silent.

After embracing Olivia for a while, he eventually released her.

Daniel knew that his grandfather must be rudely chasing Olivia away again, trying to force her to divorce him.

She didn’t bring it up, and he didn’t mention it, but he knew she was still contemplating divorcing him in her heart.

He still couldn’t change her mind.

She was still disappointed, even despairing towards the Marshall family.

Upon learning that Daniel had been hospitalized, someone hastily came to the hospital with a fruit basket.

But at the nurses’ station, she was stopped.

No matter what, the duty nurse wouldn’t let her see Daniel in the VIP ward.

She looked back at the nurse with woeful eyes, hopeless and defeated.

Daniel even deprived her of the right to see him. He was really ruthless to her!

Walking in a daze, she smiled stupidly as the tears welled up in her eyes, forming droplets spilling from her eyes, slowly rolling down her cheeks. Suddenly, she bumped into a wall of flesh. She didn't look up, only apologizing repeatedly.

Suddenly, Oliver Johnson grabbed her arm, shaking her body vigorously so she would look at him.

Oliver truly wanted to wake her up; his tone became more severe as he spoke.

"Wake up, stop degrading yourself like this. Daniel will never love you, he won't pity you, and he won't even spare you a glance. You should let go of this idea and love yourself."

"I don't need your concern. I don't need you to see me like this. I don't understand, where am I not as good as that wretch? In what way can't I compare to her?"

She shouted and cried emotionally, her face soon covered in tears.

Oliver furrowed his brows, looking at her with a heartache. His tone softened,

"Stop torturing yourself like this, let yourself go. You're great, it's just that Daniel doesn't deserve you."

"He's really too cruel to me, I hate them!"

Oliver stayed silent, holding her as she cried in his arms.

Didn't she treat him as cruelly? There's no reasoning in love!

After Oliver left, she called Benjamin Davis.

Her eyes were full of cunning.

“I heard that Daniel has been injured and is hospitalized at ResilientCare Hospital. As an old friend, shouldn't you visit him? Olivia must be with him. Moreover, he got injured because of her. Seems like Daniel has fallen for her now; he's betrayed Charmy Bennett's love.”

Benjamin Davis laughed inscrutably with a hint of malice in his deep, dark eyes, “Seems like you've been turned away! Focusing all your attention on Daniel, but he doesn't even spare you a glance, tsk tsk...how pitiful!”

She complained, “Benjamin Davis, you're no different. No need to laugh at me. Besides, you're worse off than me. Till her death, Charmy never gave you a chance. At least, I stayed by Daniel's side for five years after Charmy's death.”

Benjamin Davis scorned, “You consider doing work as companionship, you excel at fooling yourself!”

She ended the call, not wanting to listen to Benjamin Davis' voice.

Benjamin shook his head dismissively.

He already knew about Daniel's hospitalization, Bella Thompson had told him.

It seems the Marshall family was in complete internal strife, Bella must have suffered a lot and wanted to get rid of Daniel through him.

This scenario was getting increasingly interesting!

A streak of craftiness flashed in Benjamin Davis's deep eyes, a smirk playing on his lips.

He had said it before, he wouldn't let Daniel have a good life or be happy, he would make sure of it.

Immediately, Benjamin Davis went to see Jay Bennett, he wanted to take Jay to visit Daniel..