

Every Night 70

Chapter 70: Get me a suit quickly

That was her necklace, the pendant was her mother's wedding ring.

With a resentful glare, Olivia Jenkins stared at Daniel Marshall, a harsh voice sputtering out between her teeth, "You bastard!"

With a cheeky gaze, Daniel Marshall stared back at Olivia Jenkins, "Quickly, switch to my suit for me."

"Did the director approve your leave?"

"I've already talked it through with the hospital dean. Once I'm outside the hospital, whatever happens, they are not going to hold it against the hospital. I will take responsibility, and have already signed the electronic agreement. Rest assured and follow me, I will not get you into trouble. We are just going out to take care of some matters, and will be back soon."

With an icy stare, Olivia Jenkins glared at Daniel Marshall, "Give me my necklace first."

A sharp glint danced in Daniel Marshall's deep eyes.

Without any hesitation, he returned the necklace to Olivia Jenkins.

Only after storing the necklace safely, did Olivia agree to help Daniel change his suit.

The intimacy and ambiguity of their actions made Daniel morph into a creature of surrender under Olivia's touch. His black-as-ink eyes stared at her illicitly.

Although she did not have any make-up on, she was strikingly beautiful. Her features were intricate, her skin as white as jade, her plump red lips, delicate chin, dreamy apricot eyes... all were uniquely stunning, never making people feel repulsed.

Moreover, such an image of her effortlessly aroused a man's interest...

Olivia sensed Daniel Marshall's brazen gaze and subconsciously tried to evade it.

With downcast apricot eyes, Olivia gave Daniel Marshall another cold glance.

She felt extremely awkward in such an ambiguous situation.

Although she has tied Geoffrey Gullington's ties before, she had never helped any man change into a suit with such intimacy.

Deep within her heart, Olivia regretted it terribly.

Inexplicably, her heartbeat quickened, and she felt a surge of heat rise to her face.

Within his sharp eyes, Daniel Marshall's gaze was locked on Olivia Jenkins, a hint of amusement in his expression.

Seeing the news of Daniel Marshall clinching a new energy vehicle project on his first day as CEO of Marshall Corporation, Bella Thompson was furious, gritting her teeth in anger.

She had knelt in the old man's study for a day and night. She had neither eaten nor drank anything, only being allowed to rise when she was on the brink of collapsing.

Her dishevelled appearance was seen by her son, leaving her stripped of her basic dignity.

With her brother's life hanging by a thread, and her son losing his position as CEO of Marshall Corporation... After serving the Marshall family faithfully and diligently for more than twenty years, all she got was the permission for the old man to visit Sebastian in the hospital.

Cooperation was out of the question, and Yonder Group's share prices continued to drop.

Bella Thompson scoffed coldly.

She knew, the old man abhorred that woman and merely used her to drive the woman away.

The old man had forbidden her to adopt Daniel for fear she might lead Daniel astray.

The old man was cunning. He was clear about who was truly on the side of the Marshall family, he only wanted the successor he had personally nurtured.

No matter how hard she had worked over the years, the old man never acknowledged her.

The old man was always wary of her.

The old man was ridiculing her ambitions, wasn't he?

The old man was mocking her for the unscrupulous methods she used to ascend to her current position, didn't he?

The vilest person in the Marshall family was the old man himself. This time, she was unable to escape his schemes.

Bella Thompson felt wronged to the core and her eyes were filled with resentment.

Even if Daniel Marshall becomes the CEO of the Marshall Corporation, she will strive to pull him down.

If the old man refused to acknowledge her, she need not respect him anymore.

Under the pretext of visiting Sebastian, Seraphina went to RenewalCare Hospital.

A bodyguard was stationed outside the intensive care unit. She left her name and requested to transfer a fruit basket, hoping someone from the Thompson family would take notice of her.

After leaving RenewalCare Hospital, Seraphina sought out Aphra Jenkins.

Aphra Jenkins was in a meeting, and she was the only one in the office. Seraphina saw Aphra Jenkins' medicine bottle on the office desk, and sneakily took a pill from it..