Chapter 95: He Believes He Can Cure Her

Bella Thompson slyly eyed Michael Marshall.

Seeing that the only expression on Michael's face was anger, with no trace of any other emotion, Bella breathed a sigh of relief.

Thinking for a moment, Bella Thompson said, "Dad, don't fall out with Daniel because of Olivia. I suspect this is exactly what she wants. She never regarded herself as part of the Marshall Family. She used to argue about getting a divorce every day, but now she refuses to leave, definitely after the money and the Jenkins Group. She wants to create chaos in the Marshall family."

"Why not let me be the bad guy? I will find a way to make her divorce Daniel voluntarily." Bella's eyes sparkled cunningly as she looked at her father-in-law.

Alexander Marshall nodded, "You know the big picture and consider for the family. You handle this matter."

"Dad, it's late, we'll discuss this tomorrow. I'm part of the Marshall family, it's my responsibility to protect this household. The issue with Daniel is also something I should handle."

Alexander Marshall pressed his lips together, he rose from the couch and went upstairs, his face still serious.

He would never let Olivia make a racket in the Marshall family.

He wouldn't give that disobedient girl a dime of the Marshall family's money. He believed he could handle her.

Michael went to the study, saying he had some paperwork to deal with.

Bella also went upstairs to find her son.

Seeing Olivia and Daniel causing such a fuss, the old man was completely furious and was going to take serious action. Bella didn't know how happily this made her feel, her eyes filled with a hint of laughter.

"Son, you still have a chance, show yourself well, your grandfather still has faith in you."

"Mum, what's the fuss downstairs about? Should I be worried?"

Fluttering her eyelashes subtly, Bella Thompson comforted, "It's nothing. Don't think too much. Your grandfather merely tried to save some face for your older brother. After all, being reprimanded by your grandfather is not something to be proud of."

Lips pursed, Matthew Marshall nodded in agreement. "You should go to sleep early, maybe tomorrow morning will bring good news."

"Night, Mum! Don't worry, I won't let you down."

Bella Thompson let out a relieved smile before leaving her son's room.

Out of her son's sight, her smile changed into something cold, her eyes gleaming with cunning.

For her son's sake, she would spare no effort in bringing down Daniel.

Everything of the Marshall's could only belong to her and her son.

The night made Daniel's face seem even more grim and shadowy.

His sensuous lips were pressed tightly together, his black eyes looking piercingly and coldly at everything.

Suddenly, the Rolls-Royce stopped, and Adam Howard got in.

“Daniel, we’ve found out that it was Seraphina, your sister-in-law’s stepmother, who gave the secretly taken photos to the media. She had them write the affair, she orchestrated the media stirring and havoc.”

Daniel’s eyes were sharp as a hawk, lips slightly parted, “I believe it was Seraphina who incited the media, but the photos were not taken by someone she found. Seraphina didn’t factor this in. The young man with the surname Gu has not left Serene City. He must be hidden by the mother-daughter duo. This suggests they are still pondering over how to use this trump card.”

“Could it be...”

The gloomy light in Daniel’s eyes dimmed, “It seems Bella Thompson colluded with Seraphina. Seraphina is just a pawn selected by Bella.”

Adam Howard spat coldly, “Even if things go wrong, she won’t be blamed; she can still reap the benefits. This woman’s scheming runs deep!”

Daniel spoke at a slow pace, filled with intimidating force, “Pass on a message for me, a reminder for everyone. Anyone who has business dealings with Yonder Group should be careful!”

Adam Howard smiled slightly, “Your words, I’ll definitely pass on.”

Looking at Daniel, Adam couldn’t help but ask, “Are you doing this for your sister-in-law or for yourself?”
