

Ex's Brother 1211

Chapter 1211 fan 2 was so lucky hearing her words, lin jiyin's face, which was covered in bridal makeup, turned pale. however, with the peach-colored blush on her face, she looked like a coughing patient on the verge of death.

when the relatives and friends who came to attend the wedding heard this, their expressions changed.

wang ye didn't say anything all this time, since he was in the wrong.

"it's your wedding today." fang taoran took out a red packet from her shoulder bag and placed it on wang ye's chest. inside was 250 yuan. fang taoran said to wang ye, " wang ye, i wish you and lin jiyin to be together for a hundred years and be a loving husband and wife. "

!!

she said the last few words through gritted teeth.

after creating the sensational scene he wanted to see, fang taoran clapped his hands and left.

as for how his friends and family would look at wang ye and lin jiyi after he left, that was not something fang taoran should consider.

she, fang taoran, had never been a small morning glory. she was a man-eating flower. whoever provoked her would be in trouble.

after fang taoran made a scene at the wedding, he was finally happy.

at the end of november, the stage design work that the studio worked together to complete was finally adopted by the tv station. this deal didn't earn much money for the studio. fang taoran was only interested in the influence and publicity that the variety show would bring to the studio after it became popular.

as she had expected, the variety show really became popular. after that, the studio's business got better day by day and gradually got on the right track.

she had been busy for a year, earned a lot of money, and also gained a good reputation. however, her grandmother's health was getting worse day by day.

the older brother, fang zikai, had a daughter four months ago. she was named fang che. the name sounded like a boy's, but the little girl was only four months old. she was fair and chubby. she would definitely be a beauty when she grew up.

fang che's nickname was little pumpkin.

fang zikai would occasionally come back with the small pumpkin to accompany lisa. on this day, lisa was sitting in the courtyard with the small pumpkin in her arms, basking in the sun. fang taoran wasn't at work. he was making pastries for grandma.

she brought the pastries to the yard and handed them to lisa. " grandma, have a pumpkin pie. " lisa picked a small piece to eat. the little pumpkin was already very clever. when it saw grandma eating, it looked up and stared at her. lisa's teeth had fallen out a long time ago, so she was now using a full set of porcelain tooth covers. she had eaten pumpkin patties, so they easily stuck to her teeth.

lisa saw that the little pumpkin wanted to eat it, so she quickly put the pumpkin pie on the plate. " i'm not eating anymore. the little guy is very envious and his teeth are inconvenient. however, ranran's pumpkin pie is really delicious. " fang taoran said, " that's right. i learned it from you. " lisa coughed, and she couldn't stop. she coughed as she handed the small pumpkin to fang taoran.

fang taoran carried the child and got up to pour a glass of water for lisa.

lisa drank it and smoothened her breath before asking, "ranran is already 24, right?"

fang taoran grunted in agreement.

"i'm afraid grandma will have to leave before she can see you get married," said lisa.

"grandma, don't say that." fang taoran sat down next to lisa with the little pumpkin in his arms. "i'll get married next year, really."

"you don't even have a boyfriend." lisa stabbed her in the heart.

fang taoran was speechless.

"i'm so pretty, do you think i'm lacking a boyfriend? i'll take my company's people on a trip to United States next week. after i'm done, i'll bring you a grandson-in-law."

when lisa heard this, she covered her mouth and laughed. "then you'll have to work harder."

"alright," he said.

in the past six months, the studio had achieved quite a good result with the joint efforts of all the employees. after the new year, fang taoran was going to take them to philadelphia for a week.

fang taoran had a netizen called he qichen. he had always lived in philadelphia. fang taoran had heard from a netizen that philadelphia was very beautiful and had long wanted to visit it. in addition, the employees of the studio had long been fascinated by the university of pennsylvania and wanted to visit it. that was why they decided to visit philadelphia.

fang taoran also had another purpose, which was to get to know that netizen. they had known each other for more than a decade, but they had never met. from the occasional conversation, fang taoran learned that the netizen had graduated from the university of pennsylvania and studied finance.

in fact, this netizen had a special meaning to fang taoran.

when fang taoran was in his youth, he had once had a crush on this internet friend. the netizens seemed to have feelings for her too. they had been in an ambiguous relationship online for a year or two. when fang taoran was 16, the other party said that he would come to binjiang city to visit her.

fang taoran thought the other party was lying, so he agreed.

the next day, she received a call from an unknown number. the other party claimed that he was very lucky to be there and asked him how to find her. fang taoran was so frightened that he turned off his phone.

the last time they had contacted each other was not long after chi boguang's death. for the other party to contact him on his own initiative, this was unbelievable in fang taoran's eyes.

she thought of how she had lied to him when she was young and felt a little bad.

this trip to philadelphia, fang taoran also wanted to see the other party.

she wasn't lying when she told lisa that she was going to United States to find a boyfriend. fang taoran had a good impression of the man in her memory, who didn't talk much but was very reliable and would answer all kinds of tricky questions.

this trip was organized by the company, so fang taoran was responsible for their plane tickets and hotel accommodation expenses. as for the expenses for fun, it wasn't her responsibility.

although it was a company event, fang taoran didn't limit their scope of activities. everyone could do whatever they wanted, as long as they kept a safe time.

fang taoran also went to a few places he wanted to visit.

they spent three days in philadelphia. on the night of the third day, a guy named wang yang suggested that they go to a nightclub together. as a young man of society, it was a shame not to go to the local bar when traveling to a city.

wang yang's suggestion was approved by everyone.

fang taoran was also tempted, so he agreed.

after putting on some pretty makeup, fang taoran and his subordinates entered a club called dragon bar ktv.

fang taoran had heard of this bar before. it was a famous entertainment club in philadelphia, located in Chinatown. once she was ready, she walked to the entrance of the hotel, took a photo, and posted it on her social media.

fang taoran replied, [let's meet at dragon bar tonight.]

she had sent the message in chinese, hoping that she would be lucky enough to see what she had said.

if he was still willing to come and see her, if the other party was not ugly, and the two of them got along well, then fang taoran wouldn't mind pursuing him. if the other party had not come, fang taoran would have also taken the initiative to cut off this thought.