

Read Reincarnation: I Married My Exs Brother Chapter 4

RAW: Stealing beams and changing posts (1)

Settings

Qiao Jiuyin touched Qiao Jiusheng's forehead and asked with a smile, "What are you staring at me? Sleeping stupid?"

Qiao Jiusheng turned his head and stared at Qiao Jiuyin's face for a moment.

She said, "It's okay, I had a dream." A big dream, with misery and despair in the dream, thanks to the beautiful person in front of him.

After all, was that miserable life a dream or a real experience?

Qiao Jiusheng was a little confused.

It was the second month of the lunar calendar, and it was a little cold after the rain, Qiao Jiusheng tightened his coat tightly and looked out the window with his head tilted. This scene was familiar, but strange. After all, it was decades ago for her.

In the last life that seemed like a dream, it was also on this day, Qiao Jiuyin asked her to go to Linfeng County to play together. There was heavy rain on the way, and the two fell into the river at the same time. When she fell into the river, Qiao Jiusheng really thought it was an accident, but later learned that it was a scene where Qiao Jiuyin deliberately drove the car down the ditch in order to create the illusion of her disappearance.

The speed of the car is not decreasing, and the sign erected by the road says that it is still 40KM away from Linfeng County.

"This month, why is it raining so much?" Qiao Jiuyin pursed his lips and looked at the heavy rain outside the window, his tone a little surprised.

Qiao Jiusheng was silent for a while before saying, "The weather is like a human heart, it's hard to understand."

Somewhat unexpectedly, he glanced at Qiao Jiusheng, and then Qiao Jiuyin looked straight in front of the car. As the rain hit the asphalt road and splashed water beads, Qiao Jiuyin said unintentionally, "The road is slippery."

Qiao Jiusheng blinked without speaking.

Just in the dream, she remembered that Qiao Jiuyin also said this to her, and at the time she smiled and replied: The rain is so heavy, maybe someone else is going to suffer. Not long after the voice fell, their car lost control, slammed open the guardrail, and fell into the river.

Qiao Jiusheng turned his head slightly, and glanced at the worried Qiao Jiuyin, his expression was very complicated. They had lived together for more than 20 years, and she didn't even know her own sister at all.

The same words as in the dream, let Qiao Jiusheng be sure that none of this is a dream, and she has truly experienced all the experiences in the previous life. This gentle sister next to her is actually a person who does nothing to achieve her goal.

They are relatives of sisters who are connected by blood and have lived together since their mother's conception. But it was the person closest to her who had imprisoned her for a lifetime and ruined her.

Just when Qiao Jiusheng was secretly fascinated, Qiao Jiuyin suddenly said in astonishment, "Xiao Sheng, there seems to be something wrong with the brakes!"

Hearing this, Qiao Jiusheng subconsciously looked up at the front of the car and saw that the car was hitting the line guardrail at an uncontrollable speed.

boom!

The guardrail was broken, the body shook, and the two people in the car trembled violently. The car began to fall off the cliff. In a panic, Qiao Jiusheng heard Qiao Jiuyin tear his throat and called her name in a panic.

The violent impact knocked the car door open.

The seat belt fastened on Qiao Jiusheng's body broke without warning, as if it had been manipulated in advance. Qiao Jiusheng was violently thrown out of the car, and his body hit a boulder that fell with the car. His ribs ached, and Qiao Jiusheng's face turned pale with pain.

This scene is exactly the same as what happened in the dream.

Dreams overlap with reality, and Qiao Jiusheng's heart is as cold as ice.

"Xiao Sheng!"

Qiao Jiuyin called Qiao Jiusheng's name with a pale face. She watched Qiao Jiusheng who had fallen into the river, her eyes full of fear.

Qiao Jiusheng heard Qiao Jiuyin's shouts, and for some reason, when she fell into the water, she looked up at Qiao Jiuyin. Through the rain, she saw the scared face of the man in the car, and the fierceness of her eyes that was still in the future...

The last trace of luck to the dear sister, at this moment, was cut off by that ruthless look.

Qiao Jiusheng fell into the water, and in the next second, Qiao Jiuyin and the car also fell into the river one after another.

*

As soon as Fang Mu and his assistant walked out of the airport, they saw the driver and secretary waiting outside the lobby.

Seeing the secretary Lin Miao, Fang Mu was a little surprised.

Seeing Fang Mu walking out of the hall, Lin Miao came over, a little flustered, and upon closer inspection, she could see that her high heels were almost crippled a few times. It can be seen how uncontrollable she is in her heart. Before reaching Fang Mu, Lin Miao spoke up, "Ms. Fang, something has happened to Miss Qiao."

Miss Qiao's three words finally broke the indifference on Fang Mu's face, and added a few worries to that Zhang Junyang's face.

Before Fang Mu asked what was going on, Lin Miao explained, "Ms. Qiao and her sister were traveling by car in Linfeng County. The road was heavy rain, and the car fell out of control and fell into the river..."

Before he finished speaking, Fang Mu left his assistant and driver behind, got into the car strode, drove by himself, and rushed to Linfeng County.

*

On the side of the highway, the traffic police opened the security cordon and stopped the car owners and passengers watching the bustle outside the cordon.

The Porsche car at the scene of the car accident was still being salvaged, but the owner was not seen at the scene of the accident. Captain Lin frowned and looked down the river with a look of worry. At this time, a young traffic policeman walked over and said to the captain, "Team Lin, a girl was found by the river beach more than two hundred meters down the river. "

"Quickly, go and see."

The girl who was rescued was very young. She was slender, her hair stretched over her shoulders, and her hair ends slightly curled. She was shivering with the cold in a drenched beige long coat.

Team Lin hurriedly handed her a cotton-padded jacket. The girl didn't care about receiving the cotton-padded jacket, but she grasped Team Lin's hand, as if holding the only straw, and asked anxiously, "There is another person falling into the water with me. , Did you find her?"

Team Lin knew that the opponent was mostly fierce, but his face remained unchanged, and said to soothe, "Miss, you calm down, we are trying to find another lady."

Hearing that, the girl's already white cheeks were a little white again. She leaned to the side, but fortunately, Team Lin was quick and quick to hold her back. The girl weakly grabbed Team Lin's arm and let out a cry from her throat, "I beg you, you must find her..."

After speaking, the girl sobbed, crying so hard that she couldn't afford to cry.

Team Lin made a look with his subordinate, and the subordinate nodded and took the girl to the car, while the others continued to look for the whereabouts of the other girl.

A woman in a traffic police uniform walked to the car and handed the girl a glass of water. Seeing the girl took it, she took out a notebook and pen from her pocket. She glanced at the girl holding the hot water again and confirmed that her mood had improved. Then she quietly asked, "Miss, what is your name? Who was the other person sitting in your car when the accident happened. ?"

The girl slowly raised her head, not knowing whether it was cold or scared, her face was pale.

Her lips trembled, and the girl's purple lips moved twice, "My name is..."

The girl was about to spit out her name when, at this moment, a whistle sounded from far to near. The car door opened, and a tall, domineering man walked down. The girl stared at the man's mad but handsome face, and suddenly an adventurous thought flashed in her heart.

The name of the mouth suddenly changed. "Qiao Jiusheng."

"Joe what?"

The surrounding was too noisy, and the policewoman did not hear clearly.

Looking at the man who walked towards her steadily, the girl said her name clearly again, "Qiao Jiusheng, my name is Qiao Jiusheng."

Fang Mu walked to the car and just heard these words. He swept 'Qiao Jiusheng' all over with worried eyes, confirming that she was still intact, and the hanging heart fell. Bend down and hugged the cold woman in his arms, Fang Mu kissed the forehead of 'Qiao Jiusheng' and said, "Fortunately..."

Fortunately, you are still alive.

Fortunately, you are not the one whose whereabouts are currently unknown.

'Qiao Jiusheng' was stunned, then slowly raised his arms and hugged Fang Mu's waist.

Leaning his head on Fang Mu's chest, listening to his frantic heartbeat, Qiao Jiuyin secretly clenched his fists.

Xiao Sheng, Xiao Sheng, I hope you never show up again.

No data found.