

Ex Convict 1671

Chapter 1671

Li Peiyuan's expression turned grim, and her colleague at the side hurriedly smoothed things over by saying, "Alright, Miss Cummins, we're done questioning you today. You can go home now."

Grace got up and turned to leave.

The colleague looked at Li Peiyuan and said, "What came over you? Your question was indeed out of line. We must be objective instead of making presumptions."

Li Peiyuan snapped. "She just has nothing to fear because she's Jason's wife!"

"As you said, she's Jason's wife. Do you think Jason will let her off easily if she does have something going on with her mentor? Will she still be able to be fearless?" they asked.

Li Peiyuan was instantly speechless.

As soon as Grace emerged from the procuratorate, she was mobbed by reporters who asked questions about various speculation regarding Grace and her mentor.

Several bodyguards beside Grace kept the reporters at bay.

"Miss Cummins, you quickly went from an unknown lawyer to someone who was in demand in L. City. Did you reach a deal with Old Lawyer Watts to exchange fame for sex? Someone said your daughter, Jasper Reed, is actually Old Lawyer Watts's illegitimate daughter. Is it true?"

A reporter suddenly asked out loud. Grace immediately stopped dead in her tracks and turned to look sharply at the reporter. "Apologize!"

"What?" The reporter paused.

"Saying such things without any facts is equivalent to spreading rumors. Shouldn't you apologize? I want you to apologize to me, my mentor, and my daughter!" Grace said coldly.

The reporter got excited. "If you think what I said is wrong, tell us the truth and deny the rumor yourself! Otherwise, it just means you and Lawyer Kang Milo have something to hide. Your daughter is probably Lawyer Kang's illegitimate daughter!"

With a cold gaze, Grace raised her hand to slap them in the face but a hand suddenly grabbed hers.

She was momentarily stunned. The person who grabbed her hand was Jason.

"Jay, what are you doing here?" she asked in confusion.

"I came to pick you up, but it seems I came just in time," said Jason.

The reporter was instantly smug when he saw that Jason had come. He even grabbed Grace's hand when she wanted to hit him. "Mr. Reed, you must be dying to know the relationship between your wife and her mentor, as well as whether that daughter of hers is yours or Lawyer-"

Before he could finish speaking, Jason raised his foot and kicked the reporter to the ground.

Jason said nonchalantly, "Sorry, my legs are too long. I didn't hear you just now. Repeat what you said."

Though he said so, Jason did not lift his foot off the reporter. Jason's dark eyes peered down at him with an indifference that terrified the reporter.

A sudden fear swept over him. He could even sense that he might not be able to get up from the ground if he repeated his words.

Chapter 1672

"Mr. Reed... It... It was just nonsense... I... I didn't mean it..." the reporter quickly stammered.

The others around them dared not raise their phones or cameras anymore.

This was Young master Reed of Emerald City! No one dared to film him. If they did, they could forget about staying in Emerald City starting tomorrow.

His cold voice rang out. "You're not going to repeat it? Listen here, then. Jasper Reed's my daughter and I know very well what kind of person my wife is. You reporters can cover news, but if you want to slander my wife and my daughter, you're making yourselves enemies of the Reed family.""

Jason was not only talking to the reporter he was stepping on but also the people around them.

The reporter was being stepped on so hard that his chest ached. He could only repeatedly agree with Jason, while those around them did not dare to speak.

Who would be so stupid as to make themselves enemies of the Reed family?

It was only when Jason and Grace left that they breathed a sigh of relief.

The reporter who was stepped on awkwardly got up and walked toward the parking lot with his tail between his legs. He talked to himself as he walked, "Pfft. What the hell? She's probably just guilty. Just wait for me to write this story!"

However, before he got into his car, two people grabbed him on both sides.

He immediately recognized that the two men holding him were the bodyguards beside Jason earlier. He instantly felt a chill running down his spine.

He thought the whole thing was over after Jason stepped on him. He thought it was the only price he had to pay.

It seemed that he was too naive!

At that moment, he realized that the man he had just offended was Jason. He was the last person one should provoke in Emerald City!

In the car, Grace said, "I thought you were trying to stop me when you caught my hand. But you kicked the reporter afterward."

"I don't want you to hurt yourself for such a person. In the future, let me take care of those troubles for you," said Jason.

"That reporter is clearly a petty person. This incident may be widely reported after this and land you in trouble," said Grace.

"Trouble?" Jason chuckled. "Then I'd like to see who dares to give me trouble. No reporter would dare to cover what just happened."

Grace was dumbfounded. Well, given his status in Emerald City, it seemed possible.

"By the way, Damian Harmon probably has someone behind him. They told him to sue you and your mentor, or rather... he hit it off with them and decided to work together," said Jason.

Grace frowned. "Any idea who it is?" After all, with her profession, she had offended tons of people.

"We're still working on it. It shouldn't take long to find out," said Jason.

"Whoever it is, I won't let them off the hook easily!" said Grace. They had crossed her limits by making an issue out of her and her mentor.

Chapter 1673

"Then you can make him pay whatever price you want!" said Jason. He would do anything for her!

Grace froze. The man in front of her seemed to spoil her a lot. It was as though he would give her whatever she wanted.

"It seems you'll agree with everything I do. Aren't you afraid I'll do something bloody and violent? What if I want to kill the man?" quipped Grace.

"I'll do it for you if you really want that to happen," he said earnestly. He could spill blood for her if that was what she wanted.

"No!" she quickly said as she looked back at him sternly. "I'm just kidding, Jay. I don't want you to do these bad things for me. Don't ever do it."

His lashes quivered a little as his dark eyes glistened with a soft light. "Sure," he answered in a soft voice.

Irene Lynch was in a good mood. After all, due to Damian Harmon's lawsuit, the gossip about Grace and her mentor had been trending these days.

Although the Reed family had taken the news off the trending list, Damian Harmon continued to stay active online. He had a bunch of keyboard warriors supporting him.

Today, Damian Harmon posted another sadfishing post to win the netizen's sympathy, stating how hard his life had been after the case. He also implied that Grace had colluded with her mentor so that Old Lawker Kang would deliberately lose the case to have his apprentice gain some fame.

Irene Lynch saw the post two hours ago. He had just posted it and there were not many comments below.

She waited two more hours to see what the netizens were commenting.

She would feel better seeing those comments criticizing Grace! Then, she just had to find a way to build the momentum. Even if Damian Harmon lost the lawsuit in the end, Grace's reputation would be damaged and a grudge would be planted in her and Jason's hearts.

As long as she made good use of this opportunity, she would be the final winner!

Irene Lynch turned on her phone with a smile on her lips and looked at the post, only to freeze when she read the comments. They were not what she had expected.

Water Faucet: [With a husband like Jason, who would want an old man? Do you think there's something wrong with Grace's eyes?]

Spring And Autumn Stage: [Lawyers have analyzed the case. Only an idiot would think there's something wrong with the case. You know full well what you've done. It's only a matter of course that you lost the case!]

A Tub Of Rice Official: [You're the one who tricked Old Lawyer Watts. If the evidence hadn't proved you guilty, would he have lost the case? You should go to his house to kowtow and apologize!]

King Of The World: [Damn, you're amazing. You alone have caused public outrage in the legal world. They're probably going to blacklist the name 'Damian Harmon'!]

Irene Lynch looked confused. 'What happened? Why did the course of events change all of a sudden? It wasn't like this before. Public outrage in the legal world? What's going on?'

Irene Lynch quickly looked through the news portal again. After 15 minutes, she finally understood what was going on!

L City's bar association was siding with Grace and her mentor. Moreover, many well-known lawyers of the association had analyzed the case with reasonable grounds and finally reached a unanimous conclusion that her mentor did not deliberately lose the case. It was because of the solid evidence that the defendant was declared guilty!

Even the judge who presided over the case posted a statement online, saying he had made his decision based on the evidence and that he had a clear conscience.

Chapter 1674

Old Lawyer Watts's wife questioned Damian Harmon's purpose in doing this. If lawyers who did the right thing had to suffer such slander, then there would be fewer and fewer righteous lawyers in the future!

Many lawyers would be disappointed if those who committed slander were let off the hook!

The post instantly went viral.

Those who sided with Damian Harmon switched sides after seeing so many well-reasoned analyses by lawyers.

Damian Harmon had become a public enemy in the legal world! Many lawyers even said they would never represent Damian Harmon!

Some netizens dug out videos of Grace in court in L City. One could say that she won the cases swimmingly. Therefore, Grace started to gain many supporters online. They all praised her for having it all. She had a tall, rich, and handsome husband as well as a son and a daughter!

A photo of Grace and Jason attending the banquet went viral online that night.

Grace was wearing the limited edition gown that Irene Lynch had her eye on but was eventually bought by Grace. She did not even get a chance to try it on.

Grace was smiling, her comely face looking classy and elegant when paired with the gown. Jason was standing beside Grace in the photo, holding her hand and looking down as his stunning peach blossom eyes looked tenderly at Grace.

From the photo, anyone could see that Jason was deeply in love with Grace.

Had a man like him ever looked at another woman with such a gaze?

Irene Lynch was jealous!

'It should've been me standing beside Jason!

'Why does Grace have so many people speaking up for her?

'Even the mocking remarks online have now turned into praises. Is it just because she's Jason's wife and the mistress of the Reed family?

'I spent so much money to execute this plan, yet I ended up helping Grace instead. Am I just going to watch netizens admire Grace for having it all?'

Irene Lynch's face twisted with jealousy...

When Grace returned to Reed Residence after sending her son and daughter to kindergarten in the morning, she was surprised to see two figures pulling and pushing at the gates. One of them had a bandaged wrist.

As the car approached, Grace saw that these two people were Sean and Zoe Stevens.

Zoe Stevens was a far cry from the person she was five years ago. She was wearing designer clothes, probably from the days when the Stevens family was still rich.

However, the clothes were old and old-fashioned even though they were designer.

Chapter 1675

Zoe Stevens's hair was not as well-groomed as it used to be. It seemed a little frizzy, and she had just tied it loosely with a scrunchie.

The Stevens siblings stopped pulling when they saw the car approaching.

Grace stepped out of the car and looked at the two in front of her. "What are you doing here?"

Zoe Stevens immediately rushed over and told Grace, "Grace, my brother saved your life yet you only paid for his medical bills without even thanking him. Is this how you treat your savior?"

Sean used his uninjured hand and quickly pulled Zoe Stevens back, saying, "I was the one who told her I don't need anything else. Enough, Zoe. Let's go home!"

"Brother, the family needs money. You injured your hand and can't work for more than a month. Don't we need money for Mom's regular visits to the doctor? I won't be able to pay the rent next month with the money I make!" babbled Zoe Stevens.

Embarrassment flashed through Sean's face.

Grace said, "So you came for money?"

"So what if we did? Do you think your life is worth nothing?" Zoe Stevens raised her chin and looked at Grace with jealousy flashing through her eyes. The person she once despised was now the mistress of the Reed family. She lived in a luxurious mansion while she had become an ugly duckling, living just like Grace when she was released from prison!

She used to mock Grace for being a sanitation service worker.

Now, she was just a dishwasher in a restaurant. Due to her crippled leg, she could not even be a waitress!

“Okay, I can give you money,” said Grace. It would be nice to use money to settle this. At least, she and Sean could settle everything between them. “How much do you want?”

“We want-” Zoe Stevens was about to demand an exorbitant price when Sean snapped. “Zoe, that’s enough. I won’t ask for money. I’ll find a way to pay for Mom’s medical expenses and rent!”

Then, Sean looked straight at Grace and said, “Grace, I know I made a lot of mistakes. I was the one who pursued you and promised to protect you for the rest of my life. But I let you go to prison for the sake of the Stevens family and even watche

Lily do what she did to you. Maybe me saving you this time is a way for me to pay you what I owe.”

There was a flicker of pain in Sean’s eyes as he spoke.

He realized that Lily was the real perpetrator when the truth was finally revealed to him.

He was also half the reason why Grace was turned into a scapegoat. It was because Lily liked him, but he loved Grace at the time. Therefore, Lily targeted Grace to kill two birds with one stone.

“So you don’t need to give me any money. Let’s just end everything here!” With that said, Sean left as he did not want to make a fool of himself any longer.

Zoe Stevens stomped her feet as she watched Sean leave. Then, she looked at Grace with hatred.

“Grace, it’s your fault that the Stevens family has turned out this way. Shouldn’t you compensate us?”

Grace said indifferently, “I’ve never owed the Stevens family anything. Why should I compensate you? Zoe Stevens, you don’t have to shout in front of me. Sean saved me, and I would give him money if he asked me for it. But I won’t give you a single cent, so you can forget about it.”

After speaking, Grace walked into the Reed family’s mansion

Zoe Stevens glared at Grace’s back with hatred before finally leaving with a heart full of reluctance.

Back at the residence, Grace hesitated a little before ordering the bodyguard beside her, “Look into what illness Sean’s mother is afflicted with and her medical bills.”

Chapter 1676

“Yes,” they answered.

It did not take long for Grace to find out about the situation with Sean’s mother.

She was suffering from kidney disease. Although she did not have to do uremia dialysis yet, it was pretty serious. She was undergoing conservative treatment before this, which cost over 2,000 dollars a month. She was hospitalized a while ago, and they needed about 100,000 dollars for the treatment plan the hospital gave.

However, 100,000 dollars was money the Stevens family could no longer afford.

Mrs. Stevens now owed the hospital 20,000 dollars.

Looking at the investigation report in her hand, Grace found it a little ridiculous. 100,000 dollars. Any bag Mrs. Stevens owned would have cost more than 100,000 dollars.

The next day, Grace went to the hospital Mrs. Stevens was in. She looked at Mrs. Stevens, who looked sallow and weak as she lay in the hospital bed.

Mrs. Stevens, the once proud woman who always liked to wear expensive jewelry, thought she was superior to others, and despised Grace's ordinary family background, was now frail old woman lying in a hospital bed.

Grace remembered trying so hard to please Mrs. Stevens when she was dating Sean, but what she got in return was... "What the hell is this? Aren't you disgracing me by letting me use this? I never use cheap stuff! I have no idea why Sean likes you!"

However, Mrs. Stevens was no longer a rich lady and had become an ordinary person! She was even at the bottom rung of this society, struggling to make a living.

The shared ward was noisy and had four beds. There were family members of the other patients here, but Mrs. Stevens's area was deserted.

Grace went to Mrs. Stevens's bedside and looked down at her

Mrs. Stevens, who had her eyes closed at first, seemed to sense something and slowly opened her hazy eyes. They widened when she saw Grace.

"You..."

"Long time no see. I heard you're sick," Grace spoke indifferently.

"Yeah, long time... no see." With some difficulty, Mrs. Stevens sat up and sized up Grace. She smiled bitterly. "Karma... It's all karma. If the Stevens family hadn't treated you this way, we wouldn't have ended up like this Still looking indifferent, Grace said, "Sean saved my life a few days ago. I can pay for your medical expenses."

Mrs. Stevens froze. Seeing that Grace was about to leave, she immediately said, "No, Miss Cummins... No, Mrs. Reed, I... I don't want you to pay for my medical expenses!"

Grace froze. "You don't?"

Mrs. Stevens said imploringly, "All... All I ask is that you let the Stevens family go. It doesn't matter how long an old woman like me can live, but... Sean and Zoe are still young. Look at what the Stevens family has become. Please let them go. The... the Stevens family did you wrong, and we got what we deserved. You and Sean... used to love each other, after all. And you said Sean... saved you, so please have mercy and let them off."

There was a touch of fear in Mrs. Stevens's expression when she said these words.

Grace looked at Mrs. Stevens who was begging her. Finally, she left the ward without saying anything.

NIA

After leaving the ward, Grace went to the counter to pay for Mrs. Stevens's bills. She did not have any sympathy for Mrs. Stevens but did not want to owe Sean anything. She would just consider it payment for saving her.

Chapter 1677

Grace walked forward, and her bodyguard dutifully followed her.

Grace had not even reached the hospital's entrance when a voice from behind shouted, "Grace, Grace!"

Frowning slightly, Grace turned to look behind her and saw Sean running over.

However, before Sean could reach Grace, he was stopped by her bodyguard.

"Grace, I... I have something to say to you!" said Sean.

"Okay, go ahead," said Grace. She gave her bodyguard a look and he lowered his hand that was blocking Sean.

"Did you just pay for my mother's medical bills and transferred us 100,000 dollars?" asked Sean.

"Yes." Grace admitted it.

"Why... Why did you do that? Shouldn't you hate the Steven family and me?"

Grace replied indifferently, "I did hate you, but it has now faded and I feel nothing. I only paid for your mother's medical bills to return the favor. We don't owe each other anything from now on."

Sean instantly felt a surge of emotion that he could not explain. There was embarrassment, agony, and regret... It was as though the difference between them was getting more and more distinct.

When a person stood tall enough, things they once valued were no longer valued.

It was just like how she was standing tall right now while he had become increasingly humble and insignificant. He was so down and out that he did not deserve her hatred for him.

"I didn't save you... to get something in return," Sean said with melancholy.

"I know," said Grace. She had seen the surveillance footage after the incident. He probably saved her without even seeing who she was.

"After finding out that Lily framed you back then and put you in prison, I thought of... seeing you, but afterward..." Sean paused and gazed at Grace. "Grace, can you... forgive me? did you wrong back then!"

He should have said this to her five years ago. It was five years 3/3 too late now.

Grace was the woman he once loved. He loved her sincerely without thinking about family background or benefits. He pursued her simply because he liked her.

However, the accident afterward made him understand the power and allure of benefits. He could easily abandon the person he once loved and fall in love with another woman for wealth and benefits!

Looking back now, he found it ridiculous that his love had been so fragile.

"If that's all you have to say, then it's unnecessary. Sean, I don't hate you because it's unnecessary. But I won't forgive someone who once hurt me either. I paid for your mother's medical bills today, and I think it's best we don't see each other anymore," Grace said indifferently, her voice sounding so calm.

However, Sean felt as though her voice was pressing down on his chest like a heavy mountain, so much so that he was almost out of breath.

Chapter 1678

He was tempted to take a few more steps forward to get closer to her, but the bodyguard beside her raised his hand and stopped him again.

Sean looked at the hand stretched out in front of his face. She was so close to him, but he could not even walk up to her.

Back then, he thought he could resist the pressure from his family and be with her. However, he destroyed this genuine and sincere relationship in the end.

"Grace... I really did love you," muttered Sean. His hand was still reaching out, but he could not touch Grace no matter what.

Grace quietly looked at the 35-year-old man in front of her who was going through so many hardships.

Despite his words, her heart did not stir. "Sean, I wish you had never loved me."

With that said, Grace turned and left.

The bodyguard also followed Grace and left. Sean staggered and stood blankly in the same spot until he could no longer

'She said... she won't forgive me. She said... she wished I had never loved her!'

He had only loved two women in his life. He destroyed the love he shared with one of the women while the other dragged him and the Stevens family to the pits of hell!

In the end, he was left with nothing! Nothing!

“Haha... Hahaha...” Sean laughed bitterly, clenching his hands at his sides while his nails pierced into his palms. He did it so that he could still feel alive!

In a nearby corner, Zoe Stevens put away her phone smugly. She had taken some photos of her brother and Grace together. In some angles, the bodyguard could not be seen. If others were to see these photos, they would think that only Grace and her brother were present.

If she posted these photos on the internet, it would create a huge buzz. Coupled with the fact that her brother saved Grace... The netizens would learn about how the ex-boyfriend had saved his ex-girlfriend. The ex-girlfriend was leading a luxurious life while the ex-boyfriend was down and out. His injury also made it hard for him to make a living.

Such a topic was bound to create a huge buzz!

Many people would compare the Stevens family to the past, which would be embarrassing. However, she had suffered enough poverty in these past few years. She did not care about the embarrassment as long as she could get money!

What she wanted was for the topic to go viral. Then the Reed family would ‘repay’ them with a large sum of money for saving Grace’s life!

While Zoe Stevens was happily thinking about it and about to leave the scene, she was suddenly surrounded by several strangers in black suits.

“What... What do you want?” Zoe Stevens instantly felt uneasy.

One of them said, “Young master Reed said to hand it over.”

‘Jason?’ Zoe Stevens was surprised. Pretending to be confused, she asked, “What? What do you mean? I don’t know what you mean.”

They did not seem to bother explaining to her. Two of them grabbed her, and one reached into her pocket to take out her phone.

Chapter 1679

“Let go of me... Are you trying to rob me in broad daylight?” shouted Zoe Stevens.

Her voice instantly immediately attracted the attention of everyone in the hospital. Sean also saw what was going on. He rushed over when he saw his sister being surrounded by several men. “What are you trying to do?”

They said, “Your sister took photos of something she shouldn’t have. She wouldn’t give us her phone, so this is the only way to do it.”

“What do you mean by that? What did she take photos of? Who the hell are you guys? Let go of my sister!” shouted Sean.

“They’re my men, they won’t let go unless I tell them to!” A cold voice rang behind Sean, making his blood freeze for a moment.

'This voice belongs to... Jason!'

He was the man who suppressed the Stevens family and made them lose everything. He was also the man Grace had fallen in love with. He was the last person one should mess with... in Emerald City!

Sean turned around almost in slow motion, only to find that everyone around him had disappeared. A row of security guards was standing in the distance, keeping everyone away!

Sure enough, it was... Jason! He could even command the hospital's security guards and vacate a space like this in a matter of seconds!

The bodyguard brought over Zoe Stevens's phone to Jason.

Jason easily unlocked the phone as there was no password. He scrolled through the photo album and saw the photos Zoe Stevens had taken just now. A sarcastic smile appeared on the corners of his mouth, but his eyes were cold.

"See for yourself the photos she took!" Jason tossed the phone to Sean.

Sean's expression instantly changed when he saw the photos on her phone. He turned to look at Zoe Stevens with disbelief in his eyes. "Zoe, why... Why did you take these photos?"

Zoe Stevens's eyes glimmered. She seemed to be a little guilty "Brother, I just randomly took them!"

"You hid here to take them. You call that random?" Sean said grimly. He could sort of figure out the purpose of his sister taking these photos.

It was all the more embarrassing since he could figure out why.

"I'm telling you, forget about asking for money, I willingly saved Grace, and I never expected anything in return!" said Sean. Even so, Grace still paid for their mother's medical bills!

"Brother, Grace owes our family. If it weren't for her, would our family turn out like this?" said Zoe Stevens as she blamed Grace.

Jason suddenly sneered. "So do I owe the Stevens family too?! was the one who went after the Stevens family."

Zoe Stevens's face instantly paled. How could she forget about him? The Stevens family had problems at the beginning because of Jason.

Sean took a deep breath and said to Jason, "Mr. Reed, I don't want to talk about it anymore. I'm not going to ask Grace for anything."

Jason slowly walked up to Sean, his handsome face full of cold sternness. "Since you're not going to ask for anything, don't appear in front of Grace again-let alone talk to her about your memories together. Even if you did love her once, she'll never have anything to do with you again after this!"

Chapter 1680

Sean's pupils suddenly constricted. "Did... Did you hear what I said to her?"

Jason looked indifferent. "So what if I did? Sean, if you dare appear in front of her and say such nonsense again, or have anything to do with her, I'll make your life a thousand times worse than what it is now!"

Jason's voice was cold with a unique magnetism, which was pleasant to hear but sounded like Satan to Zoe Stevens.

Zoe Stevens was pale with fear, but Sean, who was being warned, suddenly burst into laughter. "So Jason, you were nearby? But you didn't show up when I talked to Grace. Why didn't you show up? What are you worried about? Or rather... what are you afraid of?"

Jason's eyes became colder.

"What's the matter? Are you worried about Grace and I rekindling our romance?"

The next moment, Jason grabbed Sean's collar so hard that he could hardly breathe.

"Rekindling your romance? Grace with you? Jason sneered, his rage intensifying. "Sean, if you hadn't saved Grace's life. do you think you could stand in front of me and talk to me like this?"

It became more difficult for Sean to breathe. He instinctively wanted to struggle, but it was no use.

Just when he thought he was about to be strangled to death, Jason's grip loosened. He fell flat on his face, coughing and gasping for air.

For a moment there, he felt the terror of death.

Jason looked down at Sean condescendingly. "You'd better not challenge my limits, Sean. It's easy for me to kill you!"

With that said, he turned to leave, and the bodyguards took the memory card from Zoe Stevens's phone before following him.

Zoe Stevens finally regained her freedom and limped over to Sean. "Brother, are you okay? How could Jason do that? How can he be so daring?!"

Sean laughed bitterly. "Why are you doubting him? Weren't you daring when the Stevens family hadn't fallen back then?"

Zoe Stevens's expression changed as she bit her lip. "Are we just going to leave it at that? You... even injured your hand trying to save Grace...

“She’s already paid for Mom’s medical bills. Even though I saved her life, she has already paid me back. Don’t ever say anything like that again and leave her alone, Sean got up and said to Zoe Stevens, “You can’t afford to piss off Jason:

“But you pissed Jason off on purpose just now!” Zoe Stevens snapped.

Sean’s eyes dimmed. ‘Yeah, I said those words in the spur of the moment and almost got strangled to death!’

However, one thing was certain... Jason was probably uneasy, and it was because of Grace. Otherwise, he would not have been irritated by what he said.

Who would have thought that a man like Jason would get uneasy for a woman?

How much... did Jason love Grace?

It was something he might never be able to do!
