

Ex Convict 3881

Chapter 3881

Even the doctor performing the examination was startled by her tears and quickly handed her a tissue, "Why are you crying?"

"I'm so happy to hear that there's a fetal bud and heartbeat," Veronica said. This step can be considered a milestone in pregnancy, as some natural miscarriages occur at this stage, resulting in the loss of the baby.

"Don't worry, the fetal bud and heartbeat of the baby are good now. It must be a healthy baby," the doctor said.

"Thank you," Veronica said.

When Veronica came out of the ultrasound room, Mason rushed up to her and asked, "What's wrong? Is there any problem with the test results?"

"No," she shook her head and cried tears of joy again. "The baby is very healthy, with a fetal bud and heartbeat!"

"Then why are you crying?" he said, wiping away the tears from her face.

"These are tears of joy," she muttered.

"But even if they are tears of joy, I don't want you to cry," Mason whispered. "When I see your tears, I always feel a little sad."

Veronica sniffled and tried to stop her tears, while Mason took a tissue and carefully wiped away the tears from her face.

"Okay, let's go to your house," Veronica said proactively. "Tell them that we have a baby and we're getting married!"

"Okay!" Mason said.

In the evening, the Reed family gathered around the dining table, ready to eat. Before dinner, Jasper couldn't help but ask, "Mason, did you ask us all to come home for dinner tonight because there's something you want to tell us?"

"Yes, there is something I want to say," Mason said.

"It's not that you're going to get engaged to Veronica, is it?" Jasper said. She only said this casually and didn't take it seriously.

Even if Mason really wanted to get engaged to Veronica, it would be after they graduated from college.

But then, Mason's words made the whole family look shocked.

“Not engaged, but married. I’m going to marry Veronica in two months!” said Mason.

“Married?” Jasper’s voice was clearly off-key.

Mick looked puzzled. “Why the rush?”

Jason and Grace were the quickest to recover from their shock.

They looked at each other as if they had guessed something.

“Veronica is pregnant, so I want to get married as soon as possible,” Mason seemed determined to shock them.

Jasper widened his eyes and looked at Mason in disbelief. “Mason, are you serious?”

“Do you think I’m joking?” Mason asked back.

Jasper closed his mouth and felt that he needed time to sort out his feelings.

Pregnant? Veronica is pregnant?!

“Does that mean I’m going to be an aunt?” 11-year-old Jasmine asked innocently. Although she is now 150cm tall, her face still has a childish look, with chubby cheeks that make her look very cute.

“Um...yes, you’re going to be an aunt,” Jasper replied nervously. And she was going to be an aunt, and her parents...were going to be grandparents, which seemed a bit early.

But thinking about the new member of the family who was about to be born, Jasper was filled with excitement.

Thinking about the cute little baby, she couldn’t wait for it to be born so she could hold it!

Chapter 3882

“Congratulations.” Mick, who had been silent all along, said to Mason and Veronica, “Do you have any specific wedding gifts in mind? If not, I’ll prepare something myself.”

“Ah, thank you,” Veronica said, but the conversation seemed to be moving a bit too fast for her to think about wedding gifts.

“Big brother, it’s up to you for the wedding gift,” Mason said.

“Okay,” Mick nodded.

Grace cleared her throat and smiled at Veronica. “When did you find out you were pregnant?”

"A week ago, but at that time we weren't sure if the fetus was healthy, so I only told everyone today after receiving the report on the fetal sac and heartbeat," Veronica said.

"So, about 6 weeks pregnant?" Grace estimated.

"Yes," Veronica confirmed.

"Although two months is a bit rushed to prepare for a wedding, it's not impossible. You can ask for whatever kind of wedding you want, and if you have any requirements for getting married feel free to speak up," Grace said.

"Auntie Grace, I don't have any requirements. I just want to marry Mason and safely give birth to this baby. That's enough for me," Veronica said.

"You...don't know how to fight for yourself?" Grace sighed.

"You've already given me so much, I don't need to fight for anything," Veronica said.

Grace looked at Veronica. Over the years, she had treated Veronica as her own daughter, and she still remembered how young Veronica had protected Mason before he was officially recognized as part of the Reed family.

Without that protection, Mason, who had not yet returned to the Reed family at the time, would have suffered even more.

"Veronica, I'm glad you chose Mason and became my daughter-in-law. From now on, this place will be your true home," Grace said.

Veronica's nose felt sour, and she felt a warm sensation in her chest.

After finishing their meal, Grace and Jason went into the study. Grace asked, "Why didn't you say anything at the dinner table just now?"

"I already said it. They're getting married, and I have no objections. I'm also looking forward to the birth of their child," Jason replied. "What about you? Aren't you happy?"

Grace was taken aback. As a couple for many years, only he could see her true emotions.

"I'm not unhappy. Veronica and Mason have been through so much, and now they're getting married and having a child. Of course, I'm happy. But I'm also worried. After all, they're still too young," Grace said. "Veronica is only 20 years old, and Mason is 18. Many people at this age are still children themselves, but now they have to be parents. I'm worried that they won't be able to adapt."

3/3 After all, many things, such as lifestyle, will change when a child is born.

She has encountered many cases where people have experienced severe mental changes due to the unexpected arrival of a child, leading to various mental illnesses.

"If they really can't adapt, we can naturally help them adapt. Besides, it seems that they are both looking forward to marriage and this child," Jason said.

"That's easy to say, but..."

Chapter 3883

"Okay, don't think about it anymore." Jason hugged Grace's waist and pulled her into his arms. "Don't always think about the children. Think about me more."

"Are you even jealous of them?" Grace laughed.

"Yes, I am," Jason said. "Don't forget, you promised me that I am the most important person in your heart, and the children can only come after me."

"..." Grace's face turned red. The reason why she made such a "promise" was because he shamelessly used some tricks in bed. "How can you still say that!"

"Of course, I can say that." Jason lowered his head and kissed his wife's cheek. "This is how you express your love for me the most. How can I not say it!"

"As you get older, your skin gets thicker," Grace muttered under her breath.

"I'm only thick-skinned with you," he murmured, "even if we become grandparents in the future, you'll still have to love me the most, Grace..."

His deep voice was husky and tempting.

Grace looked into his affectionate peach blossom eyes. After all these years, his love for her had never changed.

It was a blessing for her to be able to receive his love. She had been truly happy all these years.

"I love you, Jason. You're the love of my life," Grace said.

Their children had their own most loved ones, but for her, the man who would love her with his life was her most loved one.

She raised her hand and wrapped it around his neck, pressing her lips to his.

His Adam's apple bobbed, and the next moment, he took the initiative to deepen the kiss...

His wife, the love of his life, would always be his.

And he would always be hers!

The Reed family began to prepare for Mason and Veronica's wedding. As a family of their level, the wedding was naturally not a simple matter.

The wedding venue, the invited guests, the bride and groom's attire, and the newlyweds' house, plus the fact that Veronica was now pregnant, there were naturally many things to pay attention

1.

However, the Reed family had no shortage of capable people, and although time was tight, everything was arranged in an orderly manner.

Veronica's task was to choose a wedding dress, select jewelry, and find a new home for her and her husband-to-be.

Of course, there were people who presented various pictures and items for her to choose from, and as for the new home, someone would drive her there.

All she had to do was get out of the car and see if she was satisfied with the house.

At the same time, while she was looking at the house, there would be someone explaining everything to her.

Overall, everything was easy for her. She could "busy" herself with her wedding, continue her studies, and even be pregnant without feeling tired.

Perhaps it was because of her good mood or maybe the baby in her belly was being considerate, but after reaching the eighth week of pregnancy, she didn't feel nauseous anymore and was able to eat and sleep well with good spirits.

If she didn't say anything, no one would even notice that she was pregnant.

"Your wedding is in just over a month, and now you're..." Shirley lowered her voice in the school restaurant's private room. "You're pregnant. Are you really not planning to take a temporary break from school, give birth after the wedding, and then return to school?"

Chapter 3884

Although there was no one else in the private room at the moment, and there were even bodyguards sent by the Reed family outside, Shirley still instinctively lowered her voice when she mentioned the pregnancy.

After all, at the moment, people at school only knew that Veronica was going to marry into the Reed family in two months, but the pregnancy was still a secret.

"My health is still good for now. I plan to take a break from school after the wedding, go on a honeymoon, give birth to the baby, and then see how my body is doing before deciding when to return to school," Veronica said.

This was also the decision she and Mason had made after discussing it.

After all, after the wedding, her belly would become more and more noticeable. It would be more eye-catching to walk around the school with a big belly, so it was better to take a break from school, give birth, and then return to school.

"I'm looking forward to your and Mason's baby. I'm sure it will be very cute," Shirley said with anticipation.

"After the baby is born, how about being the godmother?" Veronica asked. Shirley looked surprised and asked, "Are you serious?"

"Do you think I'm joking?" Veronica laughed.

"But can I really be the godmother of your child?" Shirley asked.

"Why not?" Veronica asked in return.

"You're the eldest grandson of the Reed family, and I..." The difference in status is too great.

"If Mason were just an ordinary person and I were pregnant, would you still have a problem being the godmother?" Veronica asked.

"Ah!" Shirley was stunned.

Veronica continued, "You're my friend, you've helped me a lot, and you were the first to find out about my pregnancy. If it weren't for you reminding me, I might have taken stomach medicine or other drugs, and this child might not have been born. So it's only right for you to be the godmother of this child, isn't it?" Veronica said.

Shirley smiled awkwardly and said, "Then...I'll be the godmother of this baby for real!"

"Not just this baby, if I have other children in the future, you'll be the godmother too!" Veronica said. "And your child's godmother, I've already decided."

"Great!" Shirley smiled broadly.

Just then, Veronica's phone rang, it was a text message about her bank card.

But when Veronica saw the contents of the message, her expression became blank, as if she couldn't come back to her senses.

"What's wrong?" Shirley leaned over and glanced at her friend's phone, and then she too looked stunned.

"Is this...a real message or a prank?" After all, the amount of money transferred in the message was too shocking. At a glance, there were n zeros after the 2, was it 20 million? Or...uh, 200 million?

"I... will make a phone call to ask," Veronica said, and dialed the bank's customer service number directly.

The answer she received confirmed that the 20 billion transfer was indeed real.

Veronica quickly called Mason to inquire about the situation.

Upon hearing the news, Mason simply said, "Your parents mentioned that they wanted to give you a sum of money as a dowry, so you can buy whatever you want with it. If it's not enough, just let them know."

"Veronica suddenly felt speechless. 20 billion, and it still might not be enough?

Chapter 3885

Was it because he had no concept of money, or because she was too inexperienced?

"Is this enough money?" He added at the end.

"Yes, it's enough!" Veronica quickly replied, "This money is more than enough. Should I tell Uncle Reed and Auntie Grace that this money is too much if they give it to me?"

"Just take it. If you return the money to them now, they might think there's a problem between us," Mason said. "If you don't know how to spend the money right now, just save it for later. You can think about it when you're pregnant and resting at home after the wedding."

Veronica was speechless again. She probably couldn't spend this 20 billion in her lifetime.

After ending the call with Mason, Veronica looked at her curious and gossipy friends around her and cleared her throat. "Um, this money is probably... my dowry."

"Dowry?" Shirley widened her eyes and stuttered, "As expected of a wealthy family, you can probably make it onto the female rich list of Emerald City now."

Veronica thought about it and realized that she now had a net worth of 20 billion?!

"Veronica, you will definitely be very happy in the future!" Shirley sincerely wished her friend well.

Even though the Reed family is the wealthiest in Emerald City, their willingness to give 2 billion to their future daughter-in-law proves their value of Veronica. Shirley is genuinely happy for her friend.

"Thank you, Shirley. I'm sure you'll be happy too in the future," Veronica said.

"I'll hold you to that!" Shirley replied, and the two girls burst into laughter.

Wedding photos are an important step before getting married.

Since Veronica's belly is not yet visible, they quickly completed this step. However, to prevent her from getting too tired, the wedding photos were almost all arranged indoors. They only took one set of outdoor photos, and in the team, there were also obstetricians, nurses, and a nanny assistant to take care of Veronica.

Overall, Veronica felt like a VIP panda with the treatment she received during the photo shoot. She didn't even have to lift a finger to drink water, as someone would bring the cup directly to her lips.

Several people worked on her makeup and hairstyle at the same time, which greatly saved her time.

After everything was done, Veronica looked at herself in the mirror wearing a white wedding dress, with exquisite makeup, and almost couldn't recognize herself.

It must be said that top makeup artists and stylists are different. Although the person in the mirror is still her, it doesn't give an exaggerated feeling, but it's different from usual.

It's like enlarging the beautiful parts of her facial features, making her more prominent and stunning.

"Are you ready?" a voice sounded behind her. Veronica turned around and saw Mason walking towards her.

He was wearing a black suit, a white shirt, and a white bow tie, looking like a prince in a fairy tale.

No, to her, he was always her prince!

"Okay, let's go," Veronica said.

Mason reached out his hand to Veronica. "Let's head over to the studio."

She placed her hand in his, and they walked towards the studio.

Chapter 3886

o get to the studio and makeup artist, they just needed to walk through a corridor.

Along the way, Veronica couldn't help but glance at Mason. Today, even though he only had light makeup on, he looked especially handsome.

Perhaps it was because his bangs were combed back, revealing his full forehead, and he was wearing a suit, making him look more mature than usual.

His handsome eyebrows, paired with his sharp nose and chiseled face, along with his sexy thin lips, made him look good no matter how you looked at him!

"What's wrong? Is there something wrong with my face?" Mason's voice suddenly rang out.

Veronica's eyes suddenly met his narrow and deep gaze, and his handsome face was suddenly right in front of her.

"Ah, no...nothing's wrong!" she quickly said, but her face couldn't help but turn red.

"Really?" Mason narrowed his eyes and leaned closer to Veronica.

"Really, there's nothing!" she awkwardly said, especially since there were other people following them. But seeing that the person in front of her seemed to want an answer, she could only say, "I just think you look really good."

"Good-looking?" Mason pondered, "Do you like me dressed like this?"

"You... um, you usually look very beautiful, but today and the usual feeling is a bit different," Veronica whispered, urging, "Okay, let's go, the photographer is still waiting!"

Only then did Mason continue walking with Veronica.

When they arrived at the studio, the photographer was already waiting.

All the props were already prepared.

After posing a few poses as requested by the photographer, he let the two of them do as they pleased while he captured the shots from the side.

"Are you tired?" Mason asked Veronica.

"Not really," she replied, "just my feet are a bit sore."

"Your feet hurt?" He was taken aback and glanced at her feet.

But because her long wedding dress covered her feet, he couldn't see them.

"I wore high heels today. I rarely wear high heels, so if I stand for a long time, my feet will get sore," Veronica explained.

"Then sit down for a moment, let me take a look," Mason said.

"But we're still taking pictures now, aren't we?" she asked anxiously.

"Just pause for a moment," Mason said, gesturing to the photographer to pause, and then pulled Veronica to sit on a nearby chair.

The chair was originally a prop in the studio. Veronica sat on the chair, and Mason crouched in front of her, slightly pulling her skirt to reveal the pair of high heels she was wearing.

“Why are the heels so high?” Mason frowned.

“Because there’s a bit of a height difference between us, if the heels weren’t a bit higher, the photos wouldn’t look good,” Veronica explained quickly. “They let me choose the shoes, and I thought it would be better to go with higher heels.”

After all, it was a once-in-a-lifetime wedding photo shoot, and she always hoped to look better and strive for perfection.

He pursed his lips and helped her take off her high heels, his fingers gently massaging her feet. “Does that feel more comfortable for your feet?”

Veronica felt a bit embarrassed, but she had to admit that Mason’s massage was just right. Her sore feet felt much better.

But the problem was...there were still many other people around! It was like he was massaging her feet in front of everyone.

And yet, he was so natural about it that the awkwardness only seemed to affect her.

Chapter 3887

“What’s wrong? You seem tense,” Mason spoke up.

Her body had stiffened, and he could feel the tension even though he was just holding her feet.

“Everyone’s watching, so maybe...”

“You feel embarrassed?” he asked.

Her face turned a bit red, clearly he had hit the nail on the head.

“But why should you feel embarrassed? We’re going to be husband and wife, and everyone knows that. Even if we act more intimately, it’s only natural, isn’t it?” he said.

He was right, but...she still felt embarrassed!

Veronica blinked, once again feeling that Mason was a bit clueless in certain ways, and was definitely different from her.

He seems to rarely blush or feel shy, and he doesn’t care about other people’s gazes.

But that’s just him, the him that she has always liked!

Although her face is red, Veronica doesn’t try to retract her feet. Instead, she tries to ignore the gazes around her and lets him continue massaging her feet.

Anyway, let the people around them look! She'll just pretend those people don't exist.

Thinking this way, her gaze naturally becomes more focused on his face. The light falls on his face, making his features more clear and three-dimensional.

His long eyelashes cast a shadow on his eyelids because of the way they droop.

His straight nose and sexy, pale lips. This is him, only 20 years old, but they're getting married!

He's only lived a quarter of his life and is about to embark on the most brilliant part of it. Does he think it's too early to get married?

What will their married life be like in the future?

Soon, they will have their own child. How will their lives change then?

Sometimes, in her eyes, he looks like a child. After all, she often remembers what he was like when he was younger.

What kind of father will he be?

Also, he seems different today, more mature. Is it because of the light makeup or his hairstyle?

Her hand couldn't help but stroke his black hair.

Mason's body suddenly stiffened, and he looked up at her, "What's wrong?"

"It's nothing, I just suddenly feel like you've grown up," Veronica murmured, "If we hadn't grown up together, I wouldn't have thought of you as a little brother for so long. If we had met in high school, well... maybe I would have fallen in love with you at first sight."

Maybe then they wouldn't have gone through such a big circle!

After all, his appearance really does fit her aesthetic.

"I prefer a slow burn to love at first sight," Mason said, "You once said that love at first sight is just being attracted to someone's looks, right?"

"Haha!" Veronica couldn't help but laugh, it really seemed to be the case!

"And I think it's great that I can be your little brother for so many years. And in the future, I'll be your husband, so I'm afraid not many people will have this experience," Mason said seriously.

Chapter 3888

"Um... how about you call me 'sister' again?" Veronica said.

He frowned slightly, "Why do you suddenly want me to call you that?"

"Because I haven't heard you call me 'sister' in a long time, and I miss it. After we get married, we won't be able to call each other that anymore, so I want to hear it more now," Veronica said.

After all, the time they spent as siblings was mostly happy, and those memories were precious.

"After we get married, if you want me to call you that, I can do it anytime, there's nothing wrong with it," Mason said, looking deeply into Veronica's eyes, "Sister."

This 'sister' contained the affection they had for each other since childhood, as well as his intense and devoted love for her.

She was his sister, but also the person he loved the most!

This will never change!

Veronica smiled and responded softly, "Hmm."

Meanwhile, the photographer not far away was silently pressing the shutter button, feeling that the scene before him was extremely beautiful.

The man was supporting the woman's feet with his bent knees, and the woman was wearing a pure white wedding dress, looking soft and pure.

The woman's hand gently stroked the man's black hair, with a smile on her lips. They looked at each other, with only each other in their eyes!

It was really beautiful!

A week later, after seeing the sample photos of the wedding dress, Veronica was surprised for a while.

Many of the photos were taken without her noticing, but it couldn't be denied that they were beautiful and natural.

"What should I do? I don't know how to choose," Veronica said.

"Then don't choose. Print them all and make a book," Mason said.

"...That's too many," Veronica quickly said, "I'll fix them and store them on a hard drive. I can also put some on my phone to look at anytime."

One afternoon, Veronica happily picked out the photos, especially some that she was particularly satisfied with. She even thought about printing them in other places.

Of course, these photos that she was particularly "satisfied" with were usually Mason's solo shots.

For example, there was a lazy solo shot of him. When she saw the photo, she let out a scream like a groundhog and exclaimed, "This photographer is really a famous one in the country. I heard that many celebrities want him to take their photos! You look like a big star in this photo. Oh my god, should I print this photo on a big pillow?"

"Print it on a pillow?" he asked, puzzled.

"So when I hug my pillow, it's like I'm hugging you," Veronica said.

Mason frowned, seeming even more confused. "Then why hug a pillow? Just hug me instead."

"You're not always by my side, though. When you're not here, hugging a pillow is nice. It's soft, comfortable, and satisfying!" She used to not understand why fans bought body pillows of their idols, but now she kind of gets it.

Being able to hug a body pillow of someone you like...that feeling...mmh...just thinking about it makes her excited!

"Is hugging me not good enough?" Mason leaned down, his beautiful black eyes staring at Veronica with what seemed like dissatisfaction. "Or do you think I'm not soft enough and hugging me isn't comfortable?"

"..." Veronica widened her eyes. No way, he's not...jealous of a body pillow, is he?! "Why are you comparing yourself to a pillow?"

"You're the one comparing me to a pillow," he said.

"I'm not!" she protested.

Chapter 3889

"Anyway, there's no need to get a pillow with my face on it. If you want to hug something, just hug me. If I'm not by your side, just call me and I'll come to you," Mason said seriously.

Veronica's expression became one of mixed amusement and exasperation. "I want a pillow with your face on it, not some celebrity's face. You're not allowed to forbid that."

"I'm petty like that," he said.

She rolled her eyes. Okay, she gets it now!

In any case, Veronica's idea of putting Mason's face on a pillow was extinguished while it was still a small flame.

So Veronica continued to choose photos from their wedding album like a good girl.

Just then, out of nowhere, Mason said, "Have you ever hugged a pillow with a celebrity's face on it before?"

The tone of his voice made it seem like there was some kind of danger lurking.

Veronica shuddered and looked at Mason with a speechless expression. "No, I haven't," she replied.

"Well, don't start now," he reminded her.

"..." He really was as stingy as he said he was!

The wedding was being prepared in an orderly manner.

Although they were a bit pressed for time, it wasn't a big problem for the Reed family. The media had already dubbed this wedding as the wedding of the century in Emerald City!

And just the leaked portion of the guest list that the Reed family wanted to invite was enough to make people's jaws drop.

They were all big shots in Emerald City, from wealthy families and aristocrats!

There were even some important figures from the academic and judicial circles.

It was said that some popular stars wanted to attend the wedding, but they couldn't even get an invitation.

For a while, being able to get an invitation to this wedding became a symbol of status.

On the other hand, because Veronica had previously announced at a press conference that she had cut ties with her biological family, some people were speculating whether she would invite them to the wedding as the bride.

Some media went to interview Veronica's father, Archer, and her stepmother, Rosalind.

Facing the camera, Archer confidently stated that the issues between him and his daughter were just misunderstandings, and he believed that she would come around. As parents, they should naturally attend their daughter's wedding, even if it meant meeting her biological mother who had passed away, just to see their daughter in a wedding dress.

As soon as this interview was posted online, it immediately sparked a heated discussion among the public.

Veronica understood very well that her father and stepmother were trying to use the media to attend her wedding.

As long as they could get into the wedding, they could use her status as the Reed family's daughter-in-law to gain more benefits in the future.

In this matter, Veronica was the one in charge on the Reed family's side, and she had made it clear to them that she would not invite anyone from the Barlow family to her wedding.

When Archer found out that his daughter really didn't want them to attend the wedding, he sat in front of the media and cried out, expressing his desire to meet his daughter and get some clarity.

Archer also bluntly stated that his daughter was too fond of wealth and despised her own family, and that there would be a day when she would suffer losses and be looked down upon by others.

Chapter 3890

These words naturally spread online.

When the gossip media reporters finally met Jason, they asked him for his thoughts on Archer's words.

"As the Reed family's daughter-in-law, I don't need anyone else to judge me! If Veronica suffers any losses, I, as her father-in-law, will naturally help her get them back!"

As soon as these words were spoken, Veronica immediately became the envy of many women online.

Not only did she have a young and handsome brother-like husband, but she also had a protective father-in-law like a CEO. She was truly a winner in life!

This even became a hot topic online with the phrase "I want to be Veronica!"

After that, the gossip media stopped reporting any news about the Barlow family.

The Barlow family also seemed to have gone silent and didn't make any statements online.

The wedding was approaching and Veronica moved back to the Reed family's side. Firstly, there were more people to take care of her, and secondly, it was to avoid being disturbed by news reporters.

Veronica took a temporary leave of absence from school and would have to wait until after giving birth to complete her remaining courses. This meant that she would graduate a year later than originally planned.

On the night before the wedding, Veronica stayed in the villa arranged by the Reed family. They would pick her up from there the next day.

Due to tradition, Mason couldn't see the bride on the night before the wedding.

Jasper, Veronica's sister-in-law, stayed with her in the villa that night to keep her company.

Of course, although only Veronica and Jasper were in the villa that night, there were also a group of bodyguards and servants present.

At night, Jasper held a pillow and lay on the bed with Veronica. "Veronica, are you nervous about tomorrow's wedding?" she asked.

"A little bit, but not too much," Veronica replied.

"Is it because you're too familiar with Mason?" Jasper asked.

"Maybe it's because I'm not too worried about my future marriage," Veronica said. "Although there may be difficulties and conflicts in my marriage with Mason, I'm not afraid of marriage. Marrying him is what I've been looking forward to the most."

Jasper blinked and asked, "Does Mason argue a lot?"

"Sure," Veronica said.

Jasper's mouth formed an "O" shape. "Have you ever had a fight with Mason?"

"Sort of..." Veronica murmured.

"What was Mason like when he was arguing? Did he cross his arms, or shout and roar? Or was he the type to talk non-stop?" Jasper was clearly curious.

Veronica was sweating profusely. What was this little girl thinking? "Well... his voice was a bit louder than usual, but that's about it."

She was too embarrassed to say that the few times she had argued with Mason, he usually ended up holding her and kissing her to shut her up.

And even earlier on, it was difficult for her to argue with him at all.

"I see..." Jasper looked disappointed. "I haven't even seen what Mason looks like when he's arguing!"

Suddenly, Jasper's eyes lit up. "How about this, Veronica? If you ever have a fight with Mason again, just call me and I'll come over right away. Even if he's Mason, I'll definitely be on your side and help you!"

She could also see what Mason looks like when he's arguing. She was too curious.

Veronica couldn't help but laugh at Jasper's words, but she agreed to it as Jasper wished.
