

Revenge Against My Ex-husband

Chapter 36 Defending The Mistress

"I'm telling the truth! Irene, if you had a little more trust in me, will it be like this? Let me tell you, you weren't innocent in this entire thing, nor was I innocent. Lily was the most innocent one. She suffered everything that she didn't deserve to suffer!"

Upon hearing Edric commenting on Lily in such a manner, Irene was enraged. If Lily could be regarded as innocent, then everyone in the world should be innocent.

She clearly knew that Edric was her man, but she still rushed forward and got pregnant. Like her mother, she was the most despicable woman in the world. Edric defending a b*tch also reflected how tormented he was. He probably loved Lily very dearly! She felt a little heartache. She had promised not to get angry or sad, but she really couldn't bear it.

"Myers, did you come to me just to defend that mistress? You seem to have found the wrong person, didn't you? I was just telling the truth. If you have the ability, then try to shut the wide-reaching netizens up. It's useless to come to me instead."

"How can you be so cold-blooded? Are you still the Irene I know?"

"You just have to mind your own business. Whether I'm cold-blooded or not has nothing to do with you. I, Irene, am someone that only belongs in your past!"

Edric saw the derisiveness on Irene's face clearly. Her mentioning that she was someone that only belonged in his past provoked Edric. He reached out and held her chin. "You sharp-tongued woman, don't regret it!"

"What do you want to do?" Irene was shocked by this romantically ambiguous gesture. Myers had always treated her brutally, but he wasn't treating her brutally now, was he?

"You will find out what I want to do soon!" He came over aggressively. Their faces were in close proximity. Irene was shocked and reached out to stop Edric. "Stay away from me!"

Edric looked at her blushing face and small lips. He was confused. He had actually forgotten his purpose for coming to her. Her small mouth in front of him coincided with the small mouth in his memory.

In the past, she used to call him 'Edric' with her small mouth. In the past, she always wrapped her arms around his neck and tiptoed to give him a sweet kiss...

A lot of memories from the past occupied his mind, and fury boiled up inside of him. He clutched her chin and aggressively pressed his lips against hers.

The kiss was soft and tender. That feeling was so wonderful! After suppressing the desire for three years, any normal man would have suffocated. His lips rolling around her delicate lips aggressively, Edric was like a ravenous wolf.

Irene was shocked by his sudden action. She sobbed and stretched out her hand to push him away, but how could she bring herself actually to push him away? The desire that had been suppressed for a long time was finally unleashed. Edric lost control, and his big hands wandered around her without scruple. Irene was frightened by his madness. Not only was she scared, but she also felt disgusted.

She didn't know how many times Edric had sex with Lily. It wouldn't be a big deal if she hadn't known, but knowing that he had slept with another woman now, she definitely wouldn't allow him to assault her. Therefore, struggling desperately, she used her hands and feet to grab and bite him. Then she slapped him in the face.

In the past, Irene had always acted fragile and meek in his arms, but now, she was extremely fierce. Edric's face had been hit countless times, but he didn't let her go and suppressed her.

Irene had no strength to break free. She wanted to put up a desperate fight and bent her legs to jab at his private part. In pain, Edric let go of her. Irene seized the opportunity to open the door and escape.

Edric was so angry that he lost his sense of reason. That woman was so cruel that she kicked his private part with her legs. She really hated him so much!

He might have done something wrong at that time, but he had only aggrieved Lily. Regarding Irene, he had a clear conscience. He only wanted to bring peace to his family and prevent her from being tormented by his mother. Why couldn't she understand his difficulties?

Compared to his mistakes, her mistakes were more unforgivable. Why should she treat him like this? Edric became furious, and without thinking, he reached out to grab Irene. He then dragged her back.

Since he dragged too hard, Irene's foot suddenly got stuck in the car door, and she let out a scream.

Her scream made Edric let go of Irene's hand at once. Irene rolled on the ground and groaned with her hands around her feet. It was too painful. Her feet seemed to be broken.

Tears suddenly rolled down her cheeks.

Edric also jumped out of the car to hug her. Irene slapped him in the face. "Jerk! What on earth do you want to do?"

"Irene! Where did you get injured?" Edric ignored the slap and looked anxious.

"My foot... hurts... I'm in so much pain!"

"I'm sorry! I didn't mean it! I'll send you to the hospital right away!"

Irene didn't want Edric to send her to the hospital at all, but it was too painful. She thought that her foot must have been broken. The pain made tears stream down her face. Edric felt his heart ache for her.

He carried Irene into the car and drove his car to the hospital. On the way, Irene kept groaning. Every time she screamed, Edric's heart would spasm in anguish.

On the way, he called the hospital's director. "My wife's foot is injured. Hurry up and arrange a doctor to wait in the hospital!"

The director of the hospital quickly agreed and immediately called the orthopedist to tell him to go to the hospital immediately to wait to provide treatment.

After hanging up the phone, the director recalled Edric's words just now, and suddenly felt puzzled. "Isn't Mr. Myers single? When did he have a wife? Yes, now the young people like to call her husband when they were in a relationship. Mr. Myers must be fashionable."

The director suddenly felt gossipy inside. Who exactly was the person Mr. Myers referred to as his wife!

When the car arrived at the hospital gate, Edric ran into the hospital with Irene in his arms. The highly esteemed doctor of the Department of Orthopedics had already been waiting for him. Edric sent Irene to the examination room. The doctor checked Irene's ankle. Her feet were severely twisted from being squeezed by the car door. There were visible bruises on her snow-white feet, which looked jarring to the eye.

Edric blamed himself. "It was all my fault! If it weren't for me, she wouldn't become like this!"

Irene gritted her teeth with tears in her eyes. In front of so many people, Irene was too embarrassed to cry. She simply gritted her teeth to suppress her tears. Edric reached out his hand and said, "It would be better if you bit my hand."

"Dirty!" Irene spat out the word resentfully.

Edric immediately washed his hands and stretched them out. "They're no longer dirty!"

Irene glared at him resentfully. She didn't say he was dirt because his hands weren't washed, but because who knew how many times his hands had been holding Lily's hand.

Irene hated her mentality at the moment. Now that they were divorced, he was already a stranger. What right did she have to care about who he held hands with and who he slept with?

She suppressed the disgust in her heart and bit Edric's hand fiercely. Edric was in so much pain that he grimaced, but he didn't struggle.

Upon seeing Edric's reaction, the doctor gave him a thumbs-up. "Mr. Myers is a real man! You treat your girlfriend so well!"

"I'm not his girlfriend!" Upon hearing this, Irene suddenly let go of Edric's hand and clarified the matter.

"I'm sorry! I made a mistake!" The doctor apologized. It was Lily who was Edric's girlfriend, and everyone knew that. How could he confuse them?

"She is my wife!" Edric added. The doctor's eyes widened, but Edric didn't care. He continued to stretch out his hand. "Irene, you can continue to bite!"

"Pervert! Disgusting!" Irene turned her face away and ignored him.

There was the rush of footsteps outside the door, and an urgent voice sounded, "Dr. Johnson, Dr. Johnson, are you in there?"

Next, the door was pushed open. Freya appeared at the door. When she saw Edric standing in the examination room, she suddenly stopped. Then, when she saw Irene, her eyes widened.

Edric frowned, and the nurse beside him said, "There are patients here for examination. Please go out!"

Freya retreated. Her boyfriend had his bones broken in a fight with someone at a bar that night. When she sent him to the hospital, she heard that Dr. Johnson, the orthopedics expert, was in the hospital. She rushed over and wanted to ask Dr. Johnson to take a look at her boyfriend, but she didn't expect to see Edric and Irene there.

How could Edric and Irene be here? This shocking discovery overshadowed Freya's worries for her boyfriend's injuries. Were Edric and Irene's old feelings rekindled?

That was impossible. Didn't Lily say that she and Edric would become engaged soon? Did she mistake some other woman for Irene?

No, she had to get to the bottom of things. If she was really Irene, she had to tell Lily her findings. Lily was her financial benefactor. If she told her such serious news, she would definitely give her benefits.

Upon thinking of this, Freya didn't wander far and stood outside to wait instead. After a while, the door of the examination room opened, and Edric came out with Irene in his arms.

Irene's foot was sprained. After the doctor examined it, he applied some specially-made medicine for the injury and suggested that she should rest at home for a few days. Edric breathed a sigh of relief and left the examination room with Irene in his arms.

Irene didn't stay in his embrace cooperatively. The doctor looked at them awkwardly and reminded them, "Don't move. Your injury will worsen if you move around too much."

Upon hearing the doctor's words, Irene didn't dare to struggle anymore. She obediently let Edric carry her out of the examination room.

Upon seeing that Edric took Irene into the ward in his embrace, Freya took out her phone and dialed a call.

Lily was dazedly awakened from her sleep by the phone call. When she saw the number on her phone, she picked it up impatiently. "What's the matter?"

"Lily! Bad news!" Freya lowered her voice. "I just saw Edric and Irene in the hospital!"

Lily, who was already fuming due to being awakened from her sweet dreams, suddenly sat up after hearing Freya's words. "Are you sure you didn't see wrong?"

"No, I saw them clearly. Edric took Irene out of the hospital in his embrace, then got in the car and left. I don't know where they will go. Lily, do you want to go and have a look?"

"Look at what? Do you think it's suitable for me to go there now?" Lily asked her viciously in return.

"It's indeed unsuitable... But, do you want to stand by and let them do that?"

"Let me think about it!" Lily murmured to herself on the phone. Was everything she was worried about really unfolding?