

Revenge Against My Ex-husband

Chapter 47 Which Stage

Staring at the car in front of him, Edric also stopped the car behind her. Before the door was opened, he saw her helping Jordan unbuckle his seat belt. In the past, it was he who helped her unbuckle her seat belt, but now, she was doing it for another man.

It seemed that she liked Jordan very much, and Jordan certainly liked her, too. Otherwise, knowing that she was divorced, he wouldn't have flirted with her.

Edric felt a little jealous when he thought about how there was no womanizing scandal about Jordan during this period of time. That woman's charm really wasn't ordinary. She had made him fall head over heels in love with her back then, and now, she made a playboy changed his ways.

But why didn't they get out of the car? What happened next was even more unacceptable to Edric. He saw clearly that when Irene unbuckled Jordan's seat belt, Jordan suddenly hugged Irene.

The two of them began to kiss. They were so anxious that they started kissing in the car! Edric could only feel his brows suddenly twitch.

It definitely wasn't the first time they did this. However, at which stage were they in their relationship? Had they slept with each other?

The answer was obvious. When he thought of Irene moaning under Jordan's body with her beautiful eyes half-closed, he fumed with rage.

Unable to bear it any longer, he forcefully started the car and left.

Irene didn't expect that Jordan would suddenly make a move on her. By the time she reacted, he had already gained tight control of her. Jordan's lips quickly sealed her lips.

He was so fierce that he didn't seem like a drunk man at all. Irene struggled feebly. Jordan's kissing skills were excellent.

She was quickly dominated by him. After an unknown period of time, she heard his repressed breathing, and Irene snapped back to reality. Jordan relaxed his grip on her hand a little, and she seized the opportunity to push him away.

"I... Irene, I..." Jordan didn't get to spat out his words before Irene slapped him in the face. After that, she opened the car door and escaped.
