

Ex-husband Goes Money Comes Chapter 270

"I will be with you and take care of you.

"I will learn to protect you and dote on you."

Viola's gentle and pleasant voice entered Ormand's ears, echoing in his mind.

He saw her bright and sunny smile.

His painful heart seemed to be wrapped up by a warm light. All his coldness was melted.

He choked and his right hand subconsciously wanted to touch her soft face.

However, he was wearing a leather glove and he just touched Max with this hand.

Thinking of this, he quietly withdrew his hand. His hand, which was hung on the other side of his thigh, clenched tightly.

Jerry was right.

Viola was a cheerful and outgoing girl. When faced with her enemy, she was like a burning sun. She would treat them harshly and let them pay the price.

But when faced with her beloved ones, she was like a soft kitty, cute and making people unable to resist her.

She was lively, bright, and full of vitality.

Originally, Ormand thought that the virus in his body could be suppressed and he could be with her always.

But now, the virus had spread. All those things had become extravagant hopes.

Ormand thought that a man with such a poor body like him no more deserved Viola anymore.

He shouldn't waste her time anymore...

"Orin?"

Seeing that he seemed to be lost in thought, Viola called him softly.

"I'm not injured. If you don't believe me, you can check me." Ormand snapped back to reality and opened his arms slightly. His expression returned to cold.

"I don't believe you. You don't look good. You can't lie to me. I want you to tell me yourself what happened to you. And what were you doing with Max when I came in? Why do I feel like you are trying to anger me..."

"I seem to like her a lot."

Ormand interrupted Viola before she could finish.

“What did you say?”

Viola was startled. She withdrew her hands from his legs and took a step back. She looked at him and suddenly found him strange.

He looked at the rain outside the floor-to-ceiling window and said coldly, “She is sweet and beautiful. And she is very gentle and delicate. I cannot help but pity her. No man can refuse a cute woman like her. So what do you think I was doing with her just now?”

Viola took two more steps back and her clear eyes gradually dimmed.

“You don’t like me anymore?”

“Compared to her, you are arrogant, strong, and ruthless. I chased you for so long, but now I am tired. I want to change my taste.” Ormand sneered and his eyes were cold.

Viola stared at his handsome face and narrowed her eyes. “Ormand, you have changed...”

“Men always like new girls. New girls can bring new excitement. I never change. I'm never a good man. Viola McGraw, you know what kind of man I am now. You can get the hell out of here then."

After Ormand said the rest words with anger. The room fell silent for a while.

Viola stood there motionlessly.

Ormand was still looking out of the window. There was no trace of reluctance in his cold eyes, only endless alienation and indifference.

However, in the cold and silent room...

Suddenly, a chuckle was heard.

Ormand turned his head suspiciously. He found that Viola wasn't angry. Instead, she was laughing.

There was not a single trace of anger in her beautiful eyes.

Ormand's heart skipped a beat. He forced himself to remain cold and glared at her maliciously.

"Is it funny?"

Viola walked up to Ormand and grabbed the armrests on both sides of his office chair with both hands. She bent over and kissed him on his forehead.

On his forehead, there appeared a red lipstick mark. The bright color was especially obvious.

“You!”

“Can’t you understand me?” Ormand raised his head and stared at her angrily,

However, Viola was still laughing. Or it should be said that she was laughing wantonly, as if she had long seen through his tricks.

“Ormand, you are right. I almost believed you, but...”

She dragged the last word out and looked down at Ormand’s clenched hands which were hung beside his thighs. She said in a teasing tone, “Promote your acting skills, okay? Next time when you lie, don’t clenclyour hands so tightly.”

Ormand was shocked. He subconsciously hid his liands behind his back, his eyelashes trembling.

He felt embarrassed when being exposed like this.

He could only pretend to be calm with a dark face.

But Viola was being mischievous this time. She had to break through his defense little by little.

She gently held his lower jaw, her slender fingers caressing his jaw without restraint. She was drawing circles on his chin to tease him.

“Ormand, you underestimate me too much. Do you really think that I am so easily deceived?”

“I was really angry last night and didn’t see through your disguise immediately. But today, I am very clear. Every word you say and every little movement you make is a flaw in my eyes.”

“For me, you risked your life several times. You can’t hide your love for me. Do you think I will believe that you no longer love me and fall for Max?”

“Are you deliberately acting with her just to anger me? Come on, things have come to this point. Do you still refuse to tell the truth?”

“Huh?”

She said the last word in a soft and delicate voice. It was exceptionally pleasant to hear, carrying a bewitching charm.

Ormand dodged Viola’s hand which was drawing circles on his chin. His eyelashes trembled a few times. “What I said just now was the truth. You think too highly of me so that you think...”

A kissing sound appeared.

Before he could finish his words, Viola bent down again and kissed him on the left cheek.

This was a mark. She was leaving a mark to show he was hers with this mark.

“You!”

Ormand glared at her furiously.

“Orin, are you very angry?”

Her fingers continued to draw circles on Ormand’s chin. There was a sly smirk in her eyes.

“Tsk, tsk. You must be unhappy that I exposed your scheme, right? But what can you do? I like to see you angry but can’t get rid of me. It’s so cool!”

“Viola, don’t force me to beat you!” Ormand pursed his lips and narrowed his eyes.

“You want to beat me? I’m so scared!”

Her voice was delicate and charming, but what she said was annoying.

Although Viola said that she was afraid, she was still laughing happily actually. “We have fought. You can try again. Let me see whether you can beat me with your current condition.”

Ormand had no confidence in winning over her at all.

His physical situation was deteriorating. And his angina attacked him last night. He spent all his efforts fighting the pain. Also, he didn't sleep well last night.

If they really fought, he really couldn't beat Viola...

"A good man will never fight a woman. So I never fight a woman."

His gaze was sinister and his deep voice carried a hint of arrogance.

Viola chuckled and took out the lipstick from her bag. She quickly applied it thickly on her lips with a teasing look.

"Then you can continue to make it up. Every time you make up a sentence, I will leave a mark on your face. Let's see how many marks there will be on your face later."

"Viola, be reasonable!"

As soon as he said this, Viola quickly kissed him on the cheek and chin several times in a row.

The red lipstick mark on Ormand's face made him seem a little enchanting.

Viola smiled and her eyes were curved. And she said in a sweet voice. "Continue. When you don't lie and decide to tell the truth, I will reason with you."

Ormand couldn't retort. He felt annoyed. He really underestimated Viola. She was so keen and clever.

He was not only seen through her but also teased by her.

But he couldn't do anything to her when she was like this!
