Hanna stood dumbfounded, couldn't help but sneer. Belle's hand was injured, what did it matter to her?

She didn't expect that she would be attracted to a man as handsome and powerful as Rhys, and when Hanna saw him treating her with love and affection, she was jealous and furious.

Hmph! Belle, You're in Harvey Corp pestering Calvin, aren't you planning to take back your father's property through Calvin's hands? You won't get it. As long as Lexie is there, Calvin will not fall in love with you and will not help you.

She had seen through Lexie's trick long ago. She would not really have stomach pain to this extent, but just pretending to make Calvin pity, and no sooner had Calvin received her call than he rushed over, what does this mean?

Lexie is the one he cares about and loves, Belle is nothing to him!

Full of joy, Hanna laughed softly out loud, humming as she walked with light steps towards the outside.

Today she found out that Calvin and Belle had divorced, what a treat! She was still uneasy about taking possession of her family's property, but she completely put her mind at ease and left in good spirits.

The night is deep.

The lights are on in the unique Harvey Corp Mansion in A City.

The Harvey Corp Mansion, a symbol of power and luxury in A City, is dominated by orange and yellow tones, white jade bricks imported from Italy, and the four words "Harvey Corp Mansion" made of pure 24-carat gold shining with dazzling light, every inch of the materials used in the townhouse come from all over the world, and are among the top, most fashionable and unique designs, all of which are indicative of Harvey Corp's wealth and power.

The driver greeted Calvin's Hummer as soon as it sped into the Mansion.

“Young Master.” The driver took the car key from Calvin in a respectful voice and bent down to go in and park the car.

The butler hurriedly came over, “Young master, madam is waiting for you.”

Calvin nodded and headed inside.

In the luxurious living room of the Mansion, the natural mica stone floor tiles glowed under the soft ceiling lights. On the expensive leather sofa, Calvin’s mother, Paige James, sat nobly and elegantly dressed in a pale orchid cheongsam.

The hot air swirled around her as she took a sip, then placed the cup on the coffee table again with impeccable grace, showing off her status as a noblewoman.

When she was young, Paige was a famous beauty in A City. At that time, Harvey Corp, which was created by Hudson Harvey, was invincible in A City, so Paige accompanied her husband day and night to take care of Harvey Corp, and also used the power of her mother’s family to share the worries of Harvey Corp.

When she was pregnant with Calvin, she never rested, and the news would always photograph the successful Hudson with a stunning young woman standing beside him as he tenderly pampered her.

She followed her husband to and from various occasions with a large belly, and the story used to be told.

When Harvey Corp was flourishing, she also had the most dazzling time in her life. Her son Calvin inherited all the couple’s strengths, not only was he handsome and dashing, but he was also decisive in his career, no worse than Hudson.

She really felt that the life was so beautiful, her husband and her son were so wonderful, what more could a woman ask for!

Just when they were ready to hand over Harvey Corp to Calvin with confidence, the old lady of Harvey Corp, her mother-in-law, arranged a marriage for her son, that is, to marry Belle, the daughter of the Minister of Finance.

The old lady gave the word that if Calvin would not marry Belle, the ancestral property belonging to would not be inherited by Calvin.

Paige was shocked, Calvin was angry, and although Hudson did not object, he frowned and was not happy.

Calvin has an uncle, Evan Harvey. Although they have long since split up and developed their own families.

But the real deeds and properties of Harvey Corp belong to the Harvey family. Although Calvin has run Harvey Corp under his name, the Harvey family's inheritance cannot be ignored, and the projects under him are currently developed because of this foundation, and his grandmother is a key figure.

The shrewd Calvin of course knows what is at stake, and the one thing Calvin respects most is his grandmother, in her eyes, he is a rare and good grandson of the Harvey family, compared to the two children of his uncle's family, he is so much better!

He reluctantly accepted!

Three years ago, Calvin and Belle's wedding was the last time his grandmother appeared in public, and since then, at the age of ninety, she has been cultivating her body and taking care of herself, not seeing anyone again!

For this reason, Calvin did not want his grandmother to know about his divorce from Belle.

"Mom, you want to see me?" Calvin walked into the living room and reclined in the sofa, wrinkling his brow, for he had just pacified Lexie, now he was physically and mentally exhausted.

The maid brought up a cup of hot tea and Calvin took a sip, feeling much more soothed.

"Calvin, where have you been tonight?" Paige asked as she lifted her delicately made-up face.

"Lexie has a stomachache, I accompanied her to the hospital." Calvin said with a faint expression and a sleepy face, standing up and preparing to go upstairs to rest.

“Calvin, stand still.” Paige stood up and stopped Calvin who was about to go upstairs, her voice stern, “It is said that you have hired that woman to work in Harvey Corp.”

Calvin’s raised footsteps retracted, his body shook slightly, and a chill flashed in his eyes as he turned away.

“Mom, she is a talent, we need such talent in Harvey Corp now. Our products are now in a critical transition period, I am doing this for the good of Harvey Corp.” Calvin explained patiently, he knew that his mother did not like Belle.

Since Belle married into Harvey Corp family, her mother has been very critical of her, never giving her a smile face.

He did not object to Belle’s escape to America, nor did he send anyone to find her, and this accounted for most of the reasons.

“Calvin, you’re crazy, have you forgotten that your father is still lying in the hospital? It’s all because of that woman. She is your ex-wife and you hired her, are you really crazy?” Paige gritted her teeth and said, her voice trembling slightly, “This woman has a deep heart, your grandmother was bewitched by her. Your divorce is still unknown to your grandmother, the inheritance of Harvey Corp ancestral property must not be lost. Your father and I poured all my heart and soul into Harvey Corp, you can’t have that woman come back and mess everything up.”

Paige was almost begging in the end.

In fact, she was vain, Belle had not received half a cent of their warmth since she married into their Harvey family, therefore, she simply did not believe that Belle would be single-minded for Harvey Corp sake, and she did not expect this woman to have such a talent to design the luxury cars that were taking the world by storm.

She had to stop this, she had almost destroyed Harvey Corp three years ago because of this woman, and now she couldn’t let that happen again.

“Mom, I’m the president of Harvey Corp now, I should be the one in charge of the Harvey Corp, right?” Calvin circled Paige’s shoulders with one arm and brought his head to her ear. Looking at Paige’s angry and worried look, he smiled bitterly and persuaded as he walked away, “Mom, I am an adult now, you have to believe me. I am the president of Harvey Corp, with my ability, how could I let a woman ruin Harvey Corp? She is just a woman who loves money, I will give her money. Besides, if I don't hire her, she will go back to work for the Atkinson Corp, and that will do our company more harm than good. I'm a businessman and know the pros and cons, please trust me."

Is this really the case? Paige was embraced by her son, and her heart felt a lot more secure, but she was still skeptical, while the irritation on her face faded away and her face softened.

The corners of Calvin's mouth curled up slightly and he put his arm around Paige's shoulders and sat her down on the sofa, saying warmly, "Mom, don't worry, I can't let word of my divorce get to Grandma's ears, right? So it is good that she works in my company, so that she will be careful with her words and deeds, and I can control her. Rest assured, Mom, you can go to the hospital and take care of Dad, so that he can get well soon."

A loving smile gradually appeared on her face. What she was most proud of in her life was Calvin, since Hudson was admitted to the hospital, she put all her hopes on Calvin, she could not allow any woman to destroy everything. When she heard such words from her son, her heart settled down.

Calvin walked wearily up the stairs towards his bedroom, stopping in his tracks as he passed a wispy gold door right in the middle.

As his deep eyes fixed on the edge of the glittering golden door, with hesitation, he pushed it open.

This was his and Belle's wedding room three years ago, and he walked in.

The wedding room was as luxurious and grand as ever, and he lost in thought.
