

Ex-Wife 1875

Chapter 1875

A long sigh escaped Damon as he stared at the unconscious Stefan.

"We'd usually need strong herbs like the Thousand Herb, Young Anthler, or other rare herbs...

but there's no way we'd be able to get those now." "What should we do then?" The teacher asked tremulously, looking like she was about to burst into tears.

There were no ordinary herbs on the island, let alone rare ones like the Thousand Herb, but they couldn't just let Stefan Hunt die.

He was the famous president of Hunt Enterprise, and if something happened to him on this trip, the kindergarten would never be able to make up for it.

Renee was silent for a long time, then she asked Damon calmly, "You're saying that strong herbs will be useful?" "Yes, but the problem is we don't have those kinds of herbs around .." Damon fished out a syringe he had with him and tried to insert it into the area Stefan was bitten to slow the spread of the poison.

It wasn't a solution; Stefan wouldn't be able to hold on for long without a strong herb to keep him alive.

"I've got an idea...

but I don't know if it'll work," Renee said slowly.

"What is it?" "If a person consumed a lot of rare herbs, could her blood become medicinal?" Renee asked carefully, clenching her fists.

"People are like containers if they consume rare herbs for a long time, their blood will more or less become medicinal.

Modern physicians might think it ridiculous, but traditional physicians know it's true." Damon was an experienced traditional physician, and his family was an authority in the field.

In the past, he always went out with his father to treat patients and had encountered similar situations back then.

People who always consumed herbs would become medicinal and could heal others.

"That's good to hear." Renee nodded, then took out a knife and slashed her wrist smoothly.

Blood immediately started pouring out of the wound.

What are you doing, Ms.

Everheart?" The teacher shrieked, her eyes wide in disbelief.

Damon, however, immediately understood what Renee was trying to do.

"Are you trying to be the herb to keep Mr.

Hunt alive?" Renee's lips turned pale as she whimpered in pain.

"You said people who consume herbs can use their blood as medicine

I've been consuming rare herbs for the past few years, especially in the recent months; So i'm sure there's medicine left in my blood" She had used her blood as medicine for

Stefan before, and she'd also eaten a lot of rare herbs lately to strengthen her body The content is on

Her blood might be even more effective than the Thousand Herb.

"Let's give it a try then.

It's our only option right now." Damon nodded in agreement.

Renee put her bleeding wrist to Stefan's lips without any hesitation.

Stefan's lips turned red with her
