

Ex-Wife 1886

Chapter 1886

"Madam, snap out of it!" Adie helplessly pointed at his face.

"Look at me I'm not your son.

I'm Renee and Stefan's son, and I have nothing to do with you.

Stop trying to steal me away!" "You..." Madelyn covered her face as she burst into tears.

"Why? Why is God punishing me like this? I just want a child who belongs to me...

Is that too much to ask?" "It isn't!" Adie shrugged and said bluntly, "Since Tiffany's father stopped you from having kids, you should divorce him and have kids with another man." "Don't you think I've thought of that?" Madelyn looked up, her face wet with tears.

"After that incident, I became infertile....

I can never be a mother for the rest of my life, which is why I hate her father and her.

I hate everyone who stops me from being a mother!" Madelyn sobbed miserably.

After graduating from college, she had married Damon, who had been married before.

Besides, Damon had Tiffany too.

Back then, Madelyn regarded Tiffany as her own daughter and gave Tiffany endless care and love.

After a few years, she'd thought that she had finally replaced Damon's first wife, who had died during a difficult childbirth.

She wanted to have a child who belonged to them, but when her child was eight months old, Tiffany expressed her fear that her parents might stop loving her.

Hence, Damon forced Madelyn to induce labor.

However, the child had been quite big, and the process had harmed her body irreparably.

After finding out that she could no longer have kids, she grew hateful and no longer regarded Tiffany as her daughter.

On the contrary, she always scolded and hit Tiffany without Damon's knowledge.

Tiffany, however, never forgot how nice her stepmother had been to her in the past.

She never blamed Madelyn, and always sided with Madelyn in front of her father.

Over time, she grew more quiet and reserved, and eventually kept to herself and stopped playing with other children.

When Madelyn was calm, she was aware that she was too strict towards Tiffany.

Tiffany had been so young, and any child that age would be worried about another sibling coming into the picture.

When she was in her senses, Madelyn realized that she shouldn't project her hatred for Damon onto Tiffany, and would be nice to her.

However, when she got angry, she would either ignore Tiffany or be violent towards her.

It was a vicious cycle, and those pent-up emotions had only grown until she'd finally kidnapped Tiffany to die with her.

Truthfully, all she wanted was to be valued by Damon.

She wanted an apology for her dead child.

"Madam, have you ever considered that this might be fate? Adile asked calmly as he watched Madelyn cry hysterically.

"Fate?" Madelyn looked up.

"What do you mean? Are you saying that I'm not meant to have children?" "If you think about it...

Your child was induced, and Tiffany's mother died after giving birth.

Maybe you and Tiffany are destined to be mother and daughter Adien said comfortingly, "Tiffany loves you very much.

She treasures the hairpin you gave her, and even argued with our classmates that day because of it.

Even your biological daughter couldn't love you that much Really?

complicated at Tiffany hesitantly,

feelings overwhelming

her.