

Read Go After My Ex-wife novel by Maia Martin Chapter 201 online free

“Everyone is here, I have something to say.” early in the morning, the family was sitting at the dining table, eating breakfast, and after Belle had only had porridge, she spoke up seriously.

Paige looked up at her, her eyes full of puzzlement.

She really didn’t expect Belle to come back of her own accord last night.

Naturally, when she returned, her son followed!

“Go ahead, I’m listening.” Despite never wanting to talk about anything else during dinner, Belle’s demeanour was deliberate and her face had a serious expression.

Calvin raised his head and gave her a glance.

This woman was sitting far away from him today, her expression cold and aloof, as if he didn’t exist.

What does she want?

“Auntie, from today onwards the second floor of Fragrance Garden belongs to me only, everyone else has to move out, no one can just barge in without my consent, this is my private territory.” Belle uttered.

All the people froze at those words.

“Who do you think you are? How dare you try to hog the entire second floor? It’s ridiculous.” Lexie was the first to oppose, her face full of disgust.

Calvin’s eyes were downcast and he was silent.

“Why?” Paige asked, frowning in disbelief.

There are six rooms on the second floor, not only Calvin’s bedroom, but also two guest rooms. Currently Lexie and Hanna are living on the second floor. On the third floor is the master bedroom. Before Hudson’s accident, it was Hudson and Paige’s bedroom, but after Hudson’s accident, Paige, afraid of being sad, sealed off the third floor and moved to the master bedroom on the first floor, while the negative floor is a bar, not suitable for people to live.

“Auntie, first of all, I am the heir of Harvey Mansion, there are my shares in Fragrance Garden, I deserve to have my own space; Secondly, I don’t want to live on the same floor with certain people, I feel unsafe, this is my reasonable and legal right, so please respect my decision.” She said indifferently.

“Mom, what is she talking about? Is she trying to drive me and Calvin away?” Lexie once again screamed, complaining to Paige.

Paige’s face darkened. She knew that Belle did not want to see Lexie and want to get rid of her.

However, the first floor is a large living room, although there are four rooms, it is not as spacious and comfortable as the second floor. And it is next to the workers’ room, there is a lot of inconvenience in movement, so will Lexie agree to this?

“Auntie, it is my decision, and I am telling you because you are the elder, and I should respect you, and you are also the heir of Harvey Mansion.” Paige sat there with a difficult look on her face, stunned, at lost what to do.

“Mom, did you hear that? This woman is arrogant, she has already divorced Calvin, how dare she be so arrogant in Harvey Mansion? It’s abominable.” Lexie understood that Belle was about to drive her away. However she was going to marry Calvin, so on what ground should she be driven away by this bitchy woman?

Besides, now that she is pregnant with Calvin’s child, she should be protected, why should she be kicked out?

Belle smiled coldly, reached out and took out some pages from his pocket, saying without moving a muscle, “Look at this, this is my inheritance right to the Harvey Mansion, it has been notarised long ago. I have consulted my lawyer long ago, he told me that I can completely have the second floor. I have come to tell you that I am not here to discuss anything with you, but to solemnly declare that I am taking back the right to use the second floor. Now, please behave yourselves and move out your belongings after dinner, after all, it will ruin your reputation if I make a scene. I have the nanny to clean up the house and the bodyguard to guard the door.”

After finishing, Belle gave a smile and put the paper back in her pocket.

It was her intention to get rid of them, and she made it sound so grand.

Lexie pointed at Belle and shouted at Calvin angrily, "Calvin, she is so domineering to drive you and me away, hurry up and say something."

Calvin continued to eat his breakfast without haste.

Surprisingly indifferent to Belle's decision, he had no opposition whatsoever.

Hearing Lexie shouting at him in his ear, he picked up a bun on the table and took a bite, chewing it in his mouth and saying vaguely, "There's nothing for me to do here, I'm not the landlord."

Lexie was angrier hearing that. He was obviously harboring Belle and wanted to get rid of her. She shed tears and said to Paige, "Mom, you have to help me out, I am still pregnant with your grandchild, and I have been used to living in Calvin's room. Where should I move to?"

After saying that, she wiped her tears pitifully.

Lexie was sitting right next to Paige, Paige patted her shoulder and said comfortingly, "Lexie, don't cry, no worries, we can take our time."

Paige then looked at Belle and asked, "Belle, I know you anger, but the first floor is heavy with moisture. The house to the south is not small, but it is not well-decorated, and it is inconvenient for a pregnant woman to live on the first floor. You have the heritage of the Harvey Mansion, but that can't be up to you, don't you think?"

Paige's tone was as gentle as possible and her speech was quite polite.

"So, Auntie, do you want to redistribute the assets now and clarify the respective ownership?" Belle spoke blandly, "It's clearly written on the papers that the second floor and the third floor, and the main mansion in Ink Garden will all be transferred to me when Sophia passes away."

At those words, the room was once again silence!

Sophia had actually given the valuable Ink Garden to Belle, which was almost the most valuable old house in the Harvey Mansion, and was also the centre of the Harvey Mansion's power position.

Could it be that Sophia had become senile, or that Belle was good at tricks to win such a high regard from Sophia?

Paige was so shocked that she cursed her mother-in-law for being biased. The property that belonged to her son had been given to this woman. Lexie was now pregnant and Calvin had to marry her, but Belle got the inheritance, so it would never belong to her family again. Sophia was really stupid to give out the property to an outsider.

Lexie was jealous.

She had gone to great lengths to marry Calvin, but now, the best properties in the Harvey Mansion had been given to Belle, so what was point if she married into this family?

Even the second floor of Fragrance Garden has been given to her, in the future, where will she live after she marries? If they really want to compensate her, there are many other villas in this Harvey Mansion, they can just give her any one of them, why do they have to make this arrangement? Ink Garden is the power center, and where is her status in the future?

It would be impossible to get rid of this woman, and as things stand, she was lucky not to be driven away by Belle!

Could it be more devastating?

Angry and jealous, she almost fainted.

“Yanis, help Miss Johnson to sit on the sofa.” Seeing that Lexie’s face turned pale and her body swayed, Paige was worried about the baby in her belly, so she instructed Yanis.

Yanis came over and helped Lexie to the sofa.

Calvin finally finished his breakfast, stood up and said with a self-effacing expression, “It’s late, I have to go to work.” After saying that, he was about to leave.

“Wait, Mr. Harvey.” Belle called out to him in time, took out an envelope from the bag and handed it to him, saying calmly, “Mr. Harvey, I resign my job.”

Calvin froze.

“No.” He denied it.

“I insist.” Belle snorted coldly and said indifferently, “Mr. Harvey, whether you agree or not, that’s your business, I’m resigning this job for sure, and besides, I’ve only signed a one-year contract with your company.”

“But it hasn’t expired yet.” Calvin was anxious, and argued, his face full of panic.

“So what? Since I have decided to resign, I am willing to bear the loss of violating the contract, you can see how much I have to pay you. And it was you forced me to sign the contract, my lawyer told me that if a contract is not signed on a voluntary basis, it can be considered null and void. Even if I break the contract, it’s not a big deal. It’s not a crime, I just have to pay you the money.” Belle spoke in a calm and composed manner.

Read Go After My Ex-wife novel by Maia Martin Chapter 202 online free

Calvin was so dumbfounded to hear that. This woman had gone mad and seemed determined to alienate him.

Soon the bigger surprises came.

“Mr. Harvey, please cooperate with the move before you go to work. You are the general manager of the Harvey Corp, it is okay if you go late. You have to be here to move out, and I believe it won’t take too long.”

What? He’s moving out too?

Calvin could hardly believe his ears, he thought that she hated Lexie and wanted to get rid of her, it just so happened that he didn’t like Lexie either, if he could get rid of her, that was something he wanted to do, so he kept quiet and let her give the orders.

She’s not only about getting rid of Lexie, but also about taking this opportunity to get rid of him!

Last night, when he had forced her to sleep in the same bed with him, she was full of resistance and defiance.

Of course he knew that she hated him now, but he never expected she wanted him to move out of her room!

She was going to kick them all out!

A helpless, bitter smile raised at the corners of his mouth.

“Please all of you start moving right away, the people I’ve hired will be arriving soon, if none of you have moved out by then, then I’ll have security to throw them out by force.” Belle’s clear and gentle voice rang out in the living room, “And you, take your things as soon as possible too.”

Belle turned to Belle standing to one side, after that, she walked towards the stairs, not even looking at the faces of the crowd.

“Mom, what should I do? Do I have to move out?” Lexie asked with a sobbing face.

Paige’s face was not good either, but seriously speaking, according to her inheritance, Belle did have the power to do so, and today, this decision had been made up long time ago. If Belle insisted on doing so, she could not do anything to Belle.

Sophia had already given her the inheritance, so she had free reign, and she could only blame Sophia for this.

Paige sighed and sat down dishevelled on the sofa.

She thought Belle was just uncomfortable with Lexie and wanted to get rid of Lexie, but what surprised her was that Belle even wanted to kick out her son. This woman seemed to have everything planned.

What a family of misfortune!

Paige sat with chagrin, having to face both Lexie’s sobbing and Belle’s aggressiveness.

After standing for a while, Calvin put his briefcase on the coffee table and walked upstairs.

Belle was cleaning the room and singing, seemingly in a good mood.

Calvin stood against the door, his eyes fixed on her.

Belle glanced at him and continued with what she was doing, not giving him a second thought.

“Belle, do you really want to do this?” He asked in a deep voice.

“Of course.” Belle didn’t even look up as she packed up her things, clearing out all the things in the bedroom that belonged to Calvin, and carefully looking around the house to see if she had missed something, “Hurry up and move your things, you only have one morning, after that, I’m going to start throwing them down.”

“Don’t you dare?” Calvin was provoked to speak up immediately to object, “Tell you what, other people can move out, but I will not move out. In Harvey Mansion you are still my wife, I have the right to sleep with you, and you have the obligation to sleep with me.”

When Calvin said this, he remembered something, and the corners of his mouth were slightly raised.

“Is that so?” Belle smiled coldly, “Then wait and see if I dare or not.”

“Will you really do that?” Calvin looked at her in disbelief, seeing her eyelashes blinking, and a light smile seemingly on her face. He wanted to kiss her, but this woman was like obviously full of thorns, and if he dared to touch her, he would be stabbed and bruised all over.

“That’s funny, what can’t I do? Are you afraid I’ll hurt your honey? Since so, move out. Don’t worry, as long as you move out before 12 o’clock, I will never hurt her or the baby in her belly, so speed up.” Belle spoke coldly again.

Calvin’s face darkened. Belle misunderstood him, did not understand his heart at all.

“As long as I stay in the Harvey Mansion, I’m your man, Grandma gave you the inheritance right, but at the same time you’re my wife in my family tree, since that’s the case, you have to listen to me. I won’t move out, what can you do to me? We can go and reason with grandma.” Calvin said rascally.

“You’re really scoundrel.” She gave a cold smile and pulled out a red book, saying, “Ex-husband, we are divorced, don’t mention whatever family tree, do you think you are still living in federal world? If you dare to violate me again, I’ll call the police right away, besides, from tonight onwards I’ll have two

'martial arts masters' standing guard on the second floor to prevent thieves and perverts. Sorry, ex-husband, for offending, please hurry up and move out."

Seeing the divorce paper, Calvin felt his heart ache and was to grab it.

Belle had guessed that, so she nimbly dodged, put it away in the box and locked it up, then stood up and stared at him coldly.

Her eyes were cold and bright, and Calvin saw his own wretchedness in her eyes, as well as the hint of chagrin and sorrow in them.

He mood instantly sank.

"Belle, you are cruel." He muttered, his eyes losing their lustre.

"I'm cruel?" Belle laughed coldly, "I've already been hurt by your family and I am cruel? I can only protect myself. Go find your Lexie, she is the daughter of Deputy Mayor, she will bring benefits to your family. From now on, we have nothing to do with each other."

Belle said, as if to show her determination, and raised her head in a proud and disdainful manner

Calvin's heart tugged hard and he looked up sadly, his eyes were deeply hurt.

"Belle, do you mean it? That's how you've always seen me in your heart, isn't it?" He stared at her intently, trying to drill into her eyes and see her through, "You've never loved me, have you?"

Belle's heart trembled, unwilling to face his eyes, she looked away and said indifferently, "Please don't waste time, move out, I still have a lot of things to do."

She was determined to have him move out. Since there was no future, why waste time?

Calvin really saw her determination and his heart hurt and ached, but he was not willing to move out.

"Belle, give me some time, okay?" He took a deep breath before pleading very seriously.

“No need, move out immediately, I can’t wait any longer.” Belle said blandly, “Also, please respect your promise to give me an answer about my father’s death as soon as possible.”

Calvin looked at her motionlessly, his bright eyes were deep with helplessness.

He understood the meaning of her words, and a bitter smile was seen at the corners of his mouth.

Soon, Belle had cleared out all his clothes, even the little bit that belonged to him, and it seemed that she wanted to sweep him out of her life completely.

Was it really that easy?

Calvin stood motionless.

Emily came up with Yanis.

“Mrs. Harvey, some people want to see you.” Emily stood by the door and said to Belle.

“Okay, let them in.” Belle shouted in response when she heard it from inside.

“Okay.” Emily responded.

“Yanis, lead those two nannies to clean up this floor.” Belle called Yanis in and gave serious instructions.

Yanis nodded with a smile on her face.

In a while, two young women walked upstairs. Calvin looked up, only to see them in housekeeping clothes, quite polite and respectful.

It seems that she was impatient.

Calvin’s heart was very uncomfortable.

And they had been love and now she was kicking him out?

The sound of footsteps rang out.

Calvin looked up again and his face was sullen.

Two tall, stocky young men were seen walking towards the upper floor.

“Hello, my name is Dante, I’m a coach at the gym and I’ve taken Miss Morris’ order to come and protect her.”

“Hello, my name is Aydin, I am also the coach of the gym, I am here to protect Miss Morris too.”

The two young men out of politeness first briefly introduced themselves when they saw that Calvin was staring at them with stern unfriendly eyes.

Calvin was so angry at that.

He was kicked out by Belle, she even found two such young men to come to this second floor!