

F. University 1201

Chapter 1201: 'Resident Evil' Gaming Experience

The day after the meeting ended,

Ding Yue headed to the construction site of the New Energy Vehicle Factory to inspect the progress of the factory's construction.

Even before this,

Ding Yue had already instructed his Feiyue Group's Feiyue Construction Company to collaborate with the Construction Institute of Mist City Arts and Science University, to widely recruit manpower and start the grand construction project of the New Energy Vehicle Factory.

Initially, due to a shortage of workers, and because Feiyue Construction Company had two other projects on hand,

Later, after Ding Yue's repeated requests, and the recruitment and coordination efforts of the Feiyue Construction Company staff, as well as an increasing number of students from the Construction Institute of Mist City Arts and Science University joining Feiyue Construction Company, manpower began to become abundant.

So then,

The massive New Energy Vehicle Factory project was launched.

The ace design team from the Construction Institute of Mist City Arts and Science University took on the design of the car factory, which was then constructed by the frontline workers according to the design.

Besides that,

The procurement of equipment for the New Energy Vehicle Factory was also progressing vigorously.

In fact, the amount of equipment needed for the New Energy Vehicle Factory was not large, since Feiyue Group had already acquired a large batch of equipment from Chang'an Group.

You see, Chang'an Group had also manufactured new energy vehicles before, but because of their top-level management issues, Chang'an Group eventually sank deep into the quagmire; even the use of graphene batteries by Ding Yue's Feiyue Group couldn't save them.

Now, this batch of car-making equipment from Chang'an Group was taken over by Ding Yue's Feiyue Group. As for the financing, Ding Yue didn't need to worry at all.

Thanks to the relationship with Mist City Government and their preferential policies and substantial loans, CEO An Yujia informed Ding Yue that everything was going exceptionally smoothly.

At the construction site of Feiyue Car Factory,

Ding Yue and his buddy Huang, along with secretary Wen Ruohan and Miss An, CEO of Feiyue Group, came to conduct an on-site inspection.

"Principal Ding, you're here,"

At the construction site, the overall person-in-charge was naturally Director Chen Ping, the head of the Construction Institute and General Manager of Feiyue Construction Company.

Seeing Principal Ding arriving, Director Chen immediately came over to greet him.

"Hahaha, Director Chen, what a bustling construction scene,"

Ding Yue was overjoyed seeing the construction operations bustling like this.

Such scenes were familiar to him from when he had expanded his own Mist City Arts and Science University, with excavators, construction equipment, transportation vehicles, etc., bustling back and forth on site.

"Principal Ding, we managed to find more than ten construction crews in a short time, and after selection, we chose six crews to join our Feiyue Construction Company. Then our students got to work on the design, and the construction teams started working immediately,"

Director Chen smilingly introduced the situation to Principal Ding.

Ever since Principal Ding issued his instructions the previous time, Director Chen had taken immediate action. Principal Ding had said money was no issue, so under such favorable conditions, Director Chen had used various channels and connections to recruit more than ten construction crews.

However, the quality of these more than ten construction crews was mixed,

So, Director Chen conducted a selection process and ultimately chose six relatively good construction crews to join. Combined with the construction crews from Feiyue Construction Company, they were finally able to start building the car factory on a large scale.

After all, Principal Ding was in a hurry.

The car factory had to be constructed as soon as possible, and then put into the production and manufacturing of new energy vehicles.

"Director Chen, you've done a good job this time and you deserve to be commended. I hope the construction progress of the car factory can be completed and delivered for use as scheduled,"

Ding Yue praised Director Chen Ping, the Construction Institute of Mist City Arts and Science University, and the Feiyue Construction Company, and also reminded them that the subsequent work must also be completed on time.

After all, next month, which is the last month of this year, Ding Yue's Feiyue Group was set to launch their new energy vehicles.

By January or February at the latest, before the New Year, the car factory had to be completed and begin to be put to use, and then produce the first batch of Feiyue Future New Energy Vehicles after the New Year to deliver to the customers who would order cars by then.

This was the most favorable plan.

Naturally, Ding Yue hoped that the development of Mist City Arts and Science University and Feiyue Group could proceed smoothly according to the planned schedule.

"Okay, Principal Ding, we will definitely rush the construction period and strive to realize the construction of our car factory as soon as possible!"

Director Chen replied seriously.

"Come on, show me around,"

Ding Yue said and then prepared to inspect the construction site.

After all, this was a project toward which he had invested a lot of money, and an inspection was certainly warranted.

"This way, please, Principal Ding,"

Director Chen nodded, and immediately brought a safety helmet for Principal Ding. After putting it on, he guided Principal Ding and the rest toward the construction site.

"Yue, the construction speed of our Feiyue Construction Company is truly amazing, how long has it been?"

Huang Youjie couldn't help but be amazed as he looked at the bustling construction site.

Chapter 1202: 'Resident Evil' Gaming Experience _2

Xu Bin vividly remembered the last time Yue confirmed the car factory project, just like it was yesterday. In the blink of an eye, they had already started construction, and the progress of the project seemed quite rapid.

"Director Chen, have we used up all the land we acquired from the Mist City Government?"

Ding Yue asked while inspecting the construction site.

"Principal Ding, our car factory covers several thousand acres in total. It is definitely not possible to construct everything at once, so we've divided it into three phases. Currently, we are building the first phase, which occupies two thousand acres. Once construction is complete, there will be three large workshops,"

Director Chen Ping explained.

"Oh, oh."

Ding Yue nodded slightly upon hearing the explanation.

At first, Ding Yue thought that all the land obtained from the Mist City Government had been put into the grand project of building the car factory.

It seemed he had been too hasty in his assumption.

It was quite normal for such large factory complexes to be constructed in phases.

"So, our plan is to complete the construction of the first phase of the factory and put it into operation before the Spring Festival?"

Ding Yue looked at Director Chen Ping and asked again.

"Yes, Principal Ding. If we were to construct all three phases, it would take at least a year and a half to complete,"

Director Chen Ping nodded and said.

"Understood."

Ding Yue muttered softly to himself.

At that moment, Miss An Yujia, standing beside Ding Yue, spoke up:

"Principal Ding, once the first phase of the car factory is delivered, each of the three large workshops will be able to produce and assemble about 500 to 800 new energy vehicles daily!"

"Oh?"

Upon hearing this, Ding Yue's brain ticked, and he immediately said, "So, you're telling me that phase one of the car factory can produce approximately two thousand vehicles per day?"

If they could produce and assemble two thousand new energy vehicles each day, then that would be sixty thousand a month. If everything went as planned, they should be able to start delivering them to the car owners.

Of course, there might be an even higher demand if the Feiyue Future New Energy Vehicles were to be a sales hit, delaying the delivery times to the customers.

Unfortunately, until the second and third phases of the car factory were completed, they could only manufacture sixty thousand Feiyue Future New Energy Vehicles per month!

"Mm-hmm, essentially, that's the situation," Miss An continued. "Due to tight deadlines, we can only start with the first phase. Once it's complete, we aim to finish the second and third phases in the first half of the year. This way, we won't be so pressed for time in delivering the vehicles."

Miss An had already planned it all out.

Even if sales of Feiyue Future were explosive, consumers would surely understand.

After all, there were far too many companies presenting PPTs for new energy vehicles without producing anything. Feiyue Group was different; they never relied on PPT or advertising – their focus was on actually creating the vehicles.

And for this very reason, people only knew that Feiyue Group was making new energy vehicles. Feiyue Group hadn't produced a single PPT, and all their personnel were working hard, dedicated to producing new energy vehicles as soon as possible!

"That will do,"

Ding Yue agreed, nodding slightly after hearing Miss An's words, and added, "As long as it doesn't affect our new energy vehicle development plan."

"Principal Ding, the construction going on here is phase one. To the left is where we plan phase two, and beyond that is where phase three will be,"

Director Chen Ping pointed out the current situation as he showed Principal Ding around.

Ding Yue gazed over the vast land, feeling greatly comforted.

In the future, this would become Feiyue Group's car manufacturing base, the birthplace of the most extraordinary new energy vehicles in the country and perhaps the world.

After inspecting the site all morning, Ding Yue decided to have lunch at the construction site cafeteria with the workers.

Now, all the workers at the construction site were contracted employees of Feiyue Construction Company. Ding Yue treated all Feiyue Group employees as his own family, so it was perfectly normal to have lunch with his family at the site.

Originally, Ding Yue had planned to check out the land for the second and third phases in the afternoon and listen to Director Chen Ping's detailed construction plans for these phases.

However, a phone call prompted Ding Yue to cancel the afternoon's schedule.

The call was from Pei Gou, the lead of the gaming team at Mist City Arts and Science University.

"Hello, Principal Ding, our zombie-themed game 'Resident Evil' is completed! Today is the first test. Would you like to come and try it out?"

On the phone, Pei Gou was very excited.

They did what they said they would do in the meeting, completing the follow-up part of this zombie-themed game within a week and renaming it "Biohazard"!

Hearing that "Biohazard" was already made, Ding Yue was naturally overjoyed, as this meant that his Feiyue Home streaming media platform could soon go online, since it was just missing Pei Gou's game before.

"Great! Just wait a moment, I'll be right back!"

Ding Yue immediately agreed and prepared to go and try out the zombie-themed game "Biohazard" made by Pei Gou's game development team.

"Alright, then we'll start the initial test after Principal Ding arrives!" Pei Gou said.

"Deal!"

After hanging up the phone, Ding Yue told Huang and Miss An about "Biohazard" being completed, then told Director Chen Ping that he needed to rush back to the school, and that the rest of the inspection was no longer needed.

"Principal Ding, should I drive you back?" Director Chen Ping offered.

"No need, Director Chen, you just stay here and take care of the construction," Ding Yue declined the offer.

"Alright, Principal Ding."

After leaving the car factory construction site, Ding Yue, along with Huang and Miss An, drove back to the school.

About half an hour later.

Ding Yue arrived at the Game Development Lab Building where Pei Gou's game team was located.

"Principal Ding, you finally arrived."

Pei Gou greeted Ding Yue excitedly when he saw him.

Ding Yue noticed that besides Pei Gou's game team, Bin was also there.

Ding Yue did not take Bin to the car factory inspection in the morning because Bin had many of his own matters to attend to, so only Huang was brought along.

But now that Bin was here, Ding Yue could guess why.

Since Pei Gou's team had completed the game, it needed to be reviewed, especially the evaluation of the computer hardware the game required was critical.

And Xu Bin, being a computer genius, was naturally the best person to cooperate with Pei Gou's team for the evaluation.

Moreover, as "Biohazard," a zombie-themed game, was the first game produced with the Feiyue Game Engine, Xu Bin, as a game enthusiast, would definitely want to come and experience it.

"Bin, you came too."

Ding Yue greeted Bin with a smile.

"How could I miss such an important moment?" Xu Bin shrugged and said with a laugh, "Shall we all play a round later?"

"Let's do it!"

Ding Yue agreed without any hesitation.

It's been a long time since they had gamed together since founding Mist City Arts and Science University.

Ding Yue remembered the time when they established the E-sports Game College and the FY team, he, Huang, and Bin would game together.

As everyone became busier, naturally, their gaming sessions grew rarer.

Many gamers and friends must have experienced this, gaming together frequently in the past, and then as work and individual lives take over, the joyful times spent gaming together become few and far between.

It can't help but make one sigh at how quickly time flies!

"Principal Ding, our 'Biohazard' game can be played solo, duo, trio, quartet, up to a maximum of five players together."

Pei Gou introduced the gaming modes of "Biohazard" to Principal Ding.

"Let's go with the five-player mode and game together!"

Ding Yue said with a smile.

Chapter 1203: Three Men and Two Women Fight the Zombies!

Being able to play "Resident Evil" as a five-player team was naturally the happiest thing.

Therefore,

Ding Yue chose the five-player mode.

However, Ding Yue wondered, considering that "Resident Evil" was a zombie-themed game, why was there a five-player mode, making it seem like an e-sports game? What exactly was the mode of this game?

Since Ding Yue hadn't asked Pei Gou thoroughly, he subconsciously thought that the game mode of this zombie-themed "Resident Evil" should be similar to the "Resident Evil" in the previous Earth world, which was about incorporating scenarios and fighting zombies.

"Alright, Principal Ding, let's start the five-player mode."

Pei Gou nodded, saying, "Actually, the more players there are in the mode, the more difficult it will relatively be, and it will also test the cooperation among teammates more intensely."

"Oh, oh."

Hearing this, Ding Yue immediately asked about the doubt in his mind, "Pei Gou, what is the mode of this 'Resident Evil' game? Is it about carrying out tasks according to the storyline?"

"Yes, Principal Ding."

Pei Gou directly answered.

It seemed exactly as Ding Yue had expected. A game like this really should be made in a story mode to be more fun. Otherwise, what should it be transformed into? Tower defense or something else?

That would be too odd.

Besides the zombie theme, the main attraction of this "Resident Evil" game was the storyline aspect.

In this parallel world, there were also popular zombie games, but the zombie games that Ding Yue knew about were mostly "free for alls," allowing players to enter the game and simply enjoy killing zombies, with relatively weak storylines.

However, the "Resident Evil" from Mist City Arts and Science University was different. Its storyline was compelling, and it was created using the Feiyue Game Engine, which meant the game graphics and realism were naturally impeccable—

Sound effects, lighting, physical effects, everything was very realistic!

"Good, Pei Gou, count you in. You be the game commentator and team guide, is that okay?"

Ding Yue was the first to call on Pei Gou.

He counted as one in the five-player team.

After all, Pei Gou knew "Resident Evil" very well, being its creator, and knew how to play.

"But, you can't lead us to 'cheat,' okay? Just guide us like a normal player would," Ding Yue also specifically reminded Pei Gou.

Knowing that Pei Gou was the creator of "Resident Evil," Ding Yue was worried that Pei Gou might use his detailed knowledge of the game to help them get through the game more easily.

In reality, when playing a game, Ding Yue preferred exploring the game's process more.

In short, the requirement for Pei Gou was not to "spoil anything."

"Okay, Principal Ding, actually... I haven't really tried what the experience inside the game is like, and most of the programming and settings weren't written by me, hehehe."

Pei Gou admitted that he only knew a little about the game but wasn't as all-capable as Principal Ding had described.

"Alright, who else wants to join me?"

Ding Yue looked around at the others and asked with a smile.

"Me me me, Principal Ding, I want to play!"

The first and most enthusiastic one was undoubtedly the seasoned gamer, Ding Yue's personal secretary, Wen Ruohan.

"I just knew it."

Ding Yue glanced at Wen Ruohan and chuckled.

For a girl like Wen Ruohan who loved gaming, how could she be absent at such a time?

It's actually quite nice to have a girl like her in the team; playing with five rough guys would always feel like something's missing.

"Yue, what about me, I really love these kinds of games!" Huang Youjie was also very eager.

Ding Yue originally planned to bring his two buddies, Huang Youjie and Xu Bin, along. This way, including himself, Pei Gou, his secretary Wen Ruohan, and Huang and Bin, it would perfectly make a five-player team.

However,

Xu Bin then said, "Yue, for this horror game, I... I'd better just test the hardware while you guys play."

"Hahaha, it's not even a horror game!"

Ding Yue laughed but seeing that Bin indeed intended to test the hardware while he experienced the game, he nodded and said, "Alright, then you do the hardware testing."

Xu Bin's job was mainly to test what kinds of hardware graphics card could smoothly run "Resident Evil," and later based on the evaluation, they needed to release the corresponding hardware specifications required for this game, so that players would know whether their computers could support "Resident Evil."

Those whose systems couldn't handle it but who really wanted to play would either have to visit an internet café or spend money to upgrade their system's specs.

"We still need one more person."

Seeing that Bin wouldn't join, there was still one seat left.

At this time, although many people wanted to "join," they were too shy to speak up.

"Now that there's one girl in the team, why not add another?"

Ding Yue said with a smile and then looked over at Miss An.

Since Miss An had also accompanied Ding Yue to inspect the car factory's construction and had come straight here with Principal Ding after their return because the completion of "Resident Evil" also affected the launch of the Feiyue Home streaming media platform, and Miss An highly valued the launch of the Feiyue Home streaming platform.

Chapter 1204: Three Men and Two Women Battle Zombies! _2

"Miss An, why don't you join us?"

Ding Yue said with a smile to An Yujia.

"Me?"

Seeing this, An Yujia pointed at herself and laughed, "I might not be very good at this type of game."

It wasn't that An Yujia didn't play games. On the contrary, she had played many AAA titles before, but in recent years, due to work-related matters, she had less time to play games.

"It's okay, just for the experience."

Ding Yue said calmly.

"Right, Sister An, come play with us. I'm the only girl in the game, and I'm scared."

At this time, the secretary, Wen Ruohan, also stepped forward to help, pulling An Yujia and urging her to play together.

Seeing that everyone wanted her to join the team, An Yujia nodded and said, "Okay then, but don't blame me if I play poorly."

"How could we!"

Ding Yue shrugged as he spoke.

"How dare I criticize Miss An!" Huang Youjie said jokingly.

And so, the team of five was successfully formed.

There were already five computers set up here, with the highest configuration on the market, and playing this "Resident Evil" was more than sufficient.

"Principal Ding, the highest configuration available on the market can completely handle the games made with our Feiyue game engine. The graphics can be maxed out, but once 'Wandering Earth' is released later, I suspect it might be a bit much."

Pei Gou mentioned the computer hardware requirements for games made with the Feiyue game engine.

This "Resident Evil" wasn't too demanding on hardware, but the upcoming "Wandering Earth" was a different story. The quality of this sci-fi game was top-notch and explosive, involving significantly vast scales—from the surface of the Earth to the solar system, and even beyond, requiring extremely high hardware capabilities to perform well.

"Goodness, then does that mean Intel or ADM will have to release a new graphics card by then?"

Ding Yue said, laughing.

"No need for that, the top current configuration can still run it without a problem, just not with the highest graphic settings. After all, the quality of our Feiyue game engine is very high, and no matter how well optimized, it's huge."

Pei Gou explained.

"It's okay, ha ha ha ha, by then, once our chip technology advances, maybe we can create even better graphics cards."

Ding Yue said confidently.

Although this goal was a bit "far-off," as long as the students from Mist City Arts and Science University kept working hard, and the team on the lithography machine experimental project kept pushing through challenges every day, with Ding Yue's extra external BUFF support, one day, a significant breakthrough in domestic chips was achievable, possibly even leading the world.

"Then it's all up to Director Xu and his team."

Pei Gou said with a laugh.

Everyone knew that Director Xu Bin was involved in the university's lithography machine experimental project.

The university's lithography machine experimental project had gathered all the related field geniuses from Mist City Arts and Science University, including Director Xu Bin, the Mechanical Department's Tong Yihang, Luo Peng, and Principal Ding's genius sister, Ding Xiaoyou, among others!

"We're working hard on it."

Xu Bin responded.

Soon, Ding Yue, Huang, Pei Gou, Wen Ruohan, and Miss An were all seated in front of the computers.

"Hmm? Have we already connected to the Feiyue Home Platform?"

After sitting down, Ding Yue realized that there was already a Feiyue Home platform on the computer, with the icon just like the originally designed Feiyue Home icon.

"Yes."

Xu Bin said with a smile, "We're pretty quick, aren't we?"

Hearing this, Ding Yue thought it was no wonder he saw Bin here when he arrived; it turned out that before he came, Bin had already integrated the "Resident Evil" game into the Feiyue Home Streaming Media Platform.

Not only that.

Ding Yue glanced at it, the Feiyue Home streaming media platform featured all other works under Feiyue Media.

Including animated movies like "Super Combat Team," "A Bite of Xia Country," etc.

The sections for film, animation, music, and games were all very clear—it was precisely the Feiyue Home platform Ding Yue wanted, though the content was indeed a bit sparse.

"Has 'Love, Death & Robots' not been incorporated yet?"

Ding Yue looked at Bin and asked.

"Principal Ding, for that, let's wait until after our Feiyue Home streaming media platform officially launches before we start broadcasting it." At that point, Miss An answered.

Miss An personally was responsible for arranging this matter.

"Oh, oh."

Upon hearing this, Ding Yue nodded slightly and then got ready to try out the Feiyue Home streaming media platform, which operated quite smoothly.

It seemed that today he could not only get a taste of "Resident Evil" but could also test the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

"Very nice, it feels very smooth overall. Alright, let's start the game."

After trying out the Feiyue Home platform, Ding Yue said to the other four teammates.

He opened the game section of the Feiyue Home platform, where currently there was only one game available, produced by Feiyue Game Company under Feiyue Group, named "Resident Evil," which had already been downloaded.

Click to start!

Enter the game interface!

Players could freely choose either male or female characters, and there was the classic character customization process, meaning you could shape the character however you liked.

Ding Yue casually crafted a character as handsome as himself and named him "Mr. Ding."

In this game, one could name and connect to network servers, meaning, in fact, this was not a single-player game. In the server lobby, you could freely find players to team up with.

"Pei Gou, what do we do next?"

Since Ding Yue didn't understand how to start playing the game, he asked Pei Gou for guidance.

"First, create a room, then you can add friends and pull in teammates. If you don't have friends to play with, you can also find like-minded teammates in the server lobby. Once the teammates are added to the room, you can activate in-game voice chat."

Pei Gou detailed the steps.

Thus, Ding Yue followed Pei Gou's instructions step by step, first creating a room, then one by one, he added friend Pei Gou, secretary Ruohan, Miss An, and Huang into the room.

"This feels somewhat familiar. Do we need to choose any modes or anything?" Ding Yue looked at Pei Gou and asked.

"No need. Individual players, as well as teams, whatever stage they reach will automatically save, and next time everyone wants to play together, they can just continue from that saved data."

Pei Gou continued to elaborate.

These were all basic settings, and Ding Yue listened but didn't think much of it.

However, Ding Yue quickly thought of something else and asked, "So, if I play with you guys today up to the saving part, and next time I change teammates, I can't use this save data and have to start over again?"

"Principal Ding, in the game, there are many actions and choices, and different actions and choices will trigger different story developments and directions. In short, in the zombie world of 'Resident Evil,' you have many options!"

Pei Gou explained with a smile.

If that's the case, then it effectively resolves the game's potential monotony.

"Alright, let's get ready to start then!"

After hearing this, Ding Yue got ready and then looked at the other four teammates. Amid the exciting sound effects of the main interface of "Resident Evil," everyone was prepared.

"Alright!"

"Start, enter the world of 'Resident Evil,' and fight the zombies together. Charge!"

Chapter 1205: Girls, Don't Stay Up Late, Just Pull an All-Nighter!

The game loaded quickly.

The loading screen also had a nice feel to it, you could tell that Pei Gou and his classmates put effort into designing it.

The loading screen showed a biotech company, but the glass inside was already cracked, with bloody handprints on it, and the employees inside seemed to be frantically fleeing.

There wasn't a single zombie on the entire loading screen.

Mr. Ding understood why, as if the game followed the storyline set by Pei Gou and his classmates for the "Resident Evil" series, zombies hadn't emerged at the beginning.

It was only after the T-virus outbreak that the zombie frenzy would kick-off!

Quickly, the loading was complete, and all five of them entered the game.

"Principal Ding, after we enter the game, our initial identities are employees of the Umbrella Company, and the biohazard is about to break out soon."

Pei Gou briefly introduced the situation to Principal Ding.

He tried to avoid spoilers as much as possible while giving Principal Ding and Director Huang, Secretary Wen, and Miss An more information to make the game smoother for them.

"Alright, got it."

Ding Yue noticed that the game's graphics were very realistic, the product of the Feiyue Game Engine crafted by his own Mist City Arts and Science University, and enhanced by the highest settings and top-notch audio, lighting, and effects.

He quickly became immersed in his character on the screen.

"Hey, Mr. Ding, hurry and lend a hand, the company is swamped today..."

An NPC character approached Ding Yue's character and interacted with him.

So, Ding Yue began to go about the company's business as directed by the NPC, with the option to participate or not.

But Ding Yue was one to break the mold, and he directly said to the NPC, "I go because you told me to?"

After saying this, Ding Yue also controlled his character to punch the NPC!

Suddenly, a conflict erupted inside the company building.

"Principal Ding, which floor are you on? I'm on the twenty-seventh," Secretary Wen Ruohan wanted to find Principal Ding.

After all, as Pei Gou just mentioned, once the T-virus outbreak happens, the biohazard starts, at which point the five of them would surely have to work together to survive the onslaught.

"I am..."

Ding Yue checked the information available to him, then replied, "I'm on the thirty-ninth floor, I just knocked someone out, holy shit, security is coming to restrain me!"

Right after Ding Yue responded to Secretary Wen Ruohan, he noticed two security officers from the company heading his way.

Clearly, because he had impulsively hit a company NPC employee, the security officers would certainly try to restrain him promptly.

"Principal Ding, you can't afford to get caught now, or we'll have to rescue you later, which will be a hassle."

Pei Gou quickly explained.

Normally, one would interact with NPCs, but Principal Ding, true to his unconventional reputation, simply punched the NPC upon arrival.

And now he had stirred up some trouble.

"Uh, that's the case, eh? Then I'd better run!"

As Ding Yue said this, he turned to run but bumped into someone who seemed to be playing a company executive role.

Then the two security officers came up and restrained Ding Yue's character.

"Oh no, I got caught, where will they take me?"

Ding Yue was completely baffled.

He had just entered the game and was already caught by company security.

"Principal Ding, they'll probably take you to the mediation room and lock you up there for a while. After the company communicates with the NPC, they'll call him over to mediate with you. But by then, it would likely be too late."

Pei Gou quickly explained.

"What should I do?"

Ding Yue urgently asked.

If he were locked in the mediation room, he couldn't flee once the T-virus outbreak began and the zombies emerged.

"I'll go steal the keys!"

After saying this, Pei Gou began to take action.

"So what should we do now?"

Huang Youjie inquired.

"According to the setup, the T-virus will leak in a bit, and the biohazard will erupt. We need to take precautionary steps. Head to the company's armory to secure some weapons. But the armory is guarded. Think the three of you can handle it?"

Pei Gou explained.

"No problem, leave it to us!"

Huang Youjie was brimming with confidence.

The freedom in this "Resident Evil" game was quite high, you could do whatever you wanted. Since it was a survival game, the primary mission was obviously to survive during the biohazard crisis.

"Okay, Pei Gou, you come to rescue me, and then Huang, you take Xiao Wen and Miss An to get some weapons!"

Ding Yue quickly ordered.

"Roger that."

"Principal Ding, besides weapons, we also need food, medicine, and stuff like adrenaline shots," Pei Gou added.

"Did you hear that, Huang? Get food, meds, adrenaline, all of it!"

Ding Yue again instructed Huang.

"Man, is this game really that realistic?" Huang joked and then quickly set off with Wen Ruohan and An Yujia to gather weapons and supplies.

Chapter 1206: Girls, Less Staying Up Late, Just Stay Up All Night! _2

"Wait, where is the company's armory and supply storage room?"

Huang Youjie suddenly said with a confused expression.

"Uh, find a map of the company building!" Pei Gou explained.

"Alright."

"I saw an electronic screen on the wall earlier with the building map, I'll go check it out."

After Wen Ruohan finished speaking, she retraced her steps and arrived at a corridor outside the company elevator, where indeed she saw an electronic screen version of the company building map.

It displayed which departments were on which floors.

For example, the twenty-seventh floor, where they currently were, was the area for regular office work.

The thirty-ninth floor, where Principal Ding was, housed the research and development department.

"Principal Ding, the fifty-first floor is the experimental department, then Director Huang, the fortieth floor is the armory, and the forty-first floor is the supply storage room."

Wen Ruohan shared the information she had acquired in the game with Principal Ding and Director Huang.

"Good, then let's meet on the fortieth floor!"

Huang Youjie said.

"You guys handle the weapons on the fortieth floor; meanwhile, I'll go rescue Principal Ding. The fifty-first floor, where the experimental department is, is likely where the T-virus outbreak started."

Huang Youjie explained.

"OK, everyone, let's move!"

Ding Yue immediately said.

At that moment, Ding Yue's game character was already led to the mediation room by two security guards and locked up.

"Damn, I knew I shouldn't have acted so rashly."

Ding Yue shrugged his shoulders and joked.

However, that rash act had increased the difficulty of the game and seemed to enhance the experience.

Because the graphics were very realistic, Ding Yue's character sat in the mediation room waiting for his teammates to rescue him, making the immersion incredibly intense.

"Principal Ding, I've got the keys."

Pei Gou said at that moment.

You might not trust your teammates, but you can always trust Pei Gou!

"Great!"

Hearing this, Ding Yue was thrilled.

After Pei Gou rescued him, he would immediately head to the fortieth floor to join Huang and others to gather weapons, then to the forty-first floor for supplies and medicine, and then they would start their escape from the biological crisis.

...

As the sense of immersion in the game was so strong, Ding Yue, along with Huang, Wen Ruohan, and Miss An, while playing, felt just like employees of the Umbrella Company, waiting for the leak of the T-virus and the outbreak of the biohazard.

About twenty minutes into the game, Ding Yue and his teammates finally regrouped on the fortieth floor.

Ding Yue picked a suitable weapon and took a lot of bullets, but when he tried to take more, he found he couldn't carry any more.

"Can I only carry this many bullets?"

Ding Yue immediately asked Pei Gou.

"Yes, Principal Ding, each person has a limited carrying capacity. To carry more supplies, we need backpacks. I forgot about that earlier; wait for me, I know where the company has backpacks."

Pei Gou said and turned to find backpacks for Principal Ding and the others.

Soon after, Pei Gou came back and threw a huge backpack to each of the four teammates, similar to mountain climbing backpacks.

"We can load more bullets now, and then save some space for the food and medicine we need. It won't be so easy to resupply later,"

Pei Gou explained.

"Okay!"

Upon hearing that, Ding Yue didn't hesitate and continued loading bullets.

The more bullets they had, the more thrilling it would be to fight the zombies after the biocrisis outbreak.

During the game, since they didn't know when the biocrisis would erupt, every player felt extremely tense and excited.

"Principal Ding, look at the countdown in the top left corner — the T-virus is about to leak. Let's prepare to evacuate the Umbrella Company building," Pei Gou commanded the action plan in the game.

"Only three minutes left, alright, get ready to retreat!"

Ding Yue promptly called his teammates, and the five of them arrived at the elevators. However, not far away, the company's security personnel spotted Ding Yue and his group.

"Damn, the company's security has spotted us!"

Pei Gou, seeing the situation, exclaimed that it was bad news.

"What's the matter?"

"We took something from the company, it's so obvious, after the security sees us, they will come after us."

Pei Gou quickly explained.

"Let's go!"

"Yue, why don't we just take them out?"

Huang said, pulling out an M16 assault rifle he had just grabbed, ready to confront the Umbrella Company security personnel.

"Director Huang, don't be impulsive, if we kill someone now, not only will we have to deal with zombies later, but the police will be after us too!"

Pei Gou stopped Director Huang Youjie's action immediately.

"Oh, that's good then, glad I didn't shoot!"

After hearing this, Huang Youjie could not help but sigh heavily.

Right then, the elevator arrived.

"Get in the elevator!"

Ding Yue shouted.

Quickly, all five of them entered the elevator.

"Principal Ding, let's go straight to the underground parking lot and hijack a couple of cars," Pei Gou suggested.

"Where to?"

Ding Yue asked, puzzled.

As the countdown to the Biohazard zombie outbreak in the top left corner was about to end, what were the players supposed to do now?

"We need to escape from XX city as soon as possible, otherwise when the zombie frenzy breaks out, it will be uncontrollable. Not only will there be zombies everywhere, but after a certain amount of time, they will directly drop a nuclear bomb on XX city!"

Pei Gou explained.

"Good grief!"

Upon hearing this, Ding Yue realized the plot was exactly like the "Resident Evil" on Earth in a past life!

In the "Resident Evil" movie on Earth, a nuclear bomb was ultimately dropped on Raccoon City, but even so, it did not solve the problem of the zombie outbreak!

"To the underground parking lot!"

As Ding Yue and the others had not yet reached the underground parking lot, the T-virus leaked out, and the Biohazard zombie frenzy officially began!

The exciting game had just truly begun.

It must be said, after experiencing this version of "Resident Evil," Ding Yue's review was very high.

Not to mention how immersive it was, Ding Yue was tired of saying it, after all, he had never played a game with such strong immersion.

It was just played on a computer, but if there were virtual equipment, Ding Yue would even think he had entered the world of Resident Evil, truly becoming a part of it.

However, Ding Yue thought there would come a day, right?

After all, with the continuous development of the gaming industry and the advancement and breakthroughs in science and technology, more realistic virtual games are bound to be born.

Whether it's a virtual helmet or a virtual gaming pod, that's uncertain.

Thus, Ding Yue and his teammates continued experiencing the thrilling zombie frenzy in XX city, from fierce battles in alleys to thrilling skirmishes on sea bridges, their adrenaline was surging the entire time, thoroughly enjoying themselves.

Teammates Huang Youjie, An Yujia, and Wen Ruohan were also very engaged in playing the game.

Before they knew it, it turned from afternoon to evening.

During this time, Xu Bin even specifically asked Yue if he wanted to have dinner, but Ding Yue, immersed in the game, replied, "Didn't I just eat?"

Indeed! In the game, Ding Yue's character had just eaten and was full of energy!

Time passed as they played, and soon it was midnight.

"Yue, it's midnight, are you still playing?"

Xu Bin asked on the side.

"Is it midnight already?"

Hearing this, Ding Yue finally snapped out of the gaming trance, looked at his teammates, and said, "It's midnight, quite late, Xiao Wen, Miss An, isn't it not good for you girls to stay up late?"

Ding Yue felt he was fine, and as for Huang and Pei Gou, they should be fine too, considering they were guys, easily powering through a gaming battle.

"Yes."

At that moment, Wen Ruohan nodded and said, "Staying up late really isn't good for a girl's health, so I choose to pull an all-nighter instead, hehehe!"

Chapter 1207: Did the Opponent Directly Self-Destruct This Time?

The next morning.

The sun rose slowly from the east, bathing the campus of Mist City Arts and Science University, which stood to the west of University Town, in sunlight and white fog.

On the various roads within the campus, one could see the energetic students of Mist City Arts and Science University.

They were either headed to the teaching buildings for classes, to the cafeteria for breakfast, or to the sports field for a morning run, gradually filling the peaceful campus with the vitality of a new day.

Meanwhile, over at the experimental building for the gaming major.

Ding Yue and his buddies, as well as Miss An, Secretary Wen Ruohan, and others, had just finished their gaming experience of "Resident Evil".

"Man, we played all night without even realizing it."

Ding Yue said, feeling emotional as he looked at Huang Youjie, who had a greasy face—a clear sign of an all-night gaming session.

"Holy shit! Did we just play all night?"

Huang Youjie finally reacted slowly, turning his head to look out the window, and sure enough, the rising sun was already in sight.

Glancing at the time, it was indeed the next day.

"Ah~"

Wen Ruohan yawned, full of fatigue, and said, "Ugh, it's been a long time since I played games all night."

"Me too."

An Yujia stretched and nodded in agreement.

"Are you all tired?"

Ding Yue looked towards An Yujia and Secretary Wen Ruohan, both girls likely having less physical endurance than him and having stayed up all night playing, it was probably time for them to get some proper rest.

"Pretty tired."

Wen Ruohan replied truthfully.

The fatigue from playing games all night had already spread throughout every inch of her body, making it seem as if every pore could emanate a sense of weariness.

"You two should head back and get some rest, sleep well. Even though it's really cool to play games all night, if you don't rest in time, it can be quite harmful to your health,"

Ding Yue immediately advised An Yujia and Secretary Wen Ruohan.

"Mm, Principal Ding, Xiao Wen and I will go back to rest first," An Yujia nodded and said to Principal Ding.

"Okay."

So, An Yujia and Wen Ruohan left the gaming lab and hurried back to their places to get a good night's sleep.

After An Yujia and Wen Ruohan had left, Ding Yue was also a bit sleepy, but having played "Resident Evil" once all night, even though the gaming progress wasn't significant in terms of the overall plot, the gaming experience was still quite satisfying.

"Huang, what do you think of our "Resident Evil" gaming experience tonight?"

Having experienced "Resident Evil", it was definitely time to make a summary.

"I think the gaming experience was awesome. The immersion was just too strong; I would say the visuals, scenes, and sound effects all achieved an immersive experience,"

Huang Youjie gave his evaluation then added, "As for the game plot, I think it's decent. There's a lot of freedom, and I really love the part where we drive around killing zombies!"

After hearing Huang's summary of the gaming experience, Ding Yue nodded slightly, then turned with a smile to Pei Gou and said, "Pei Gou, my experience is pretty much in line with Director Huang's. The game is already great, not at all inferior to those AAA titles, not to mention our game isn't just a single-player game; playing it is thrilling!"

"Mm-hmm, Principal Ding, when will our "Resident Evil" officially launch for sale?" Pei Gou asked with anticipation.

At the same time, the other students from the gaming teams inside the lab also looked towards Principal Ding, their eyes filled with anticipation for the launch of "Resident Evil".

This, after all, was the first game they had created using the Feiyue Game Engine!

"Regarding the official launch for sale, once the Feiyue Home Platform officially goes live, our "Resident Evil" will be launched simultaneously. As for the price, how much should we set it?"

Ding Yue replied but was immediately faced with a new question.

That is, how much should this game be priced at?

It couldn't be just given out for free, right?

In this parallel world, paid games were very common, generally sold at a flat price. It was only games like "League of Legends," which were free-to-play competitive games, that monetized in other ways, like selling skins!

"Principal Ding, this is Feiyue Games' first game for our players, like a welcome gift, so maybe we should set a lower price?"

Pei Gou suggested.

"Of course, if the company has profit requirements, then in the end, it all depends on how the company sets the price," Pei Gou said, then added a clarification.

Personally, Pei Gou wanted to gain a good reputation by setting a lower price, and also to surprise the players with a welcome gift for their first game.

However, the creation of a game definitely has costs for the company, and if they want to earn back the money, the pricing needs to be a bit higher.

Typically, paid games have various price points, like the special offer of 9.9 yuan, which is generally only for many small games during promotions.

"Resident Evil" definitely couldn't be sold at that price.

Then there were prices like 29 yuan, 49 yuan, 69 yuan, and 99 yuan, as well as more expensive ones like 199 yuan, 299 yuan.

Chapter 1208: Did the Opponent Directly Self-Destruct This Time? _2

"To be fair, with our game 'Resident Evil,' featuring such impressive graphics and built on the Feiyue Game Engine, pricing it at 199 yuan would be entirely reasonable."

Huang Youjie remarked.

Ding Yue immediately glared at Huang, then said, "Pei Gou's argument for a low-price strategy makes sense. After all, this is our first game, and the production difficulty isn't that high. Let's set the price below a hundred yuan, following Pei Gou's advice."

"So, it would be either 69 yuan or 99 yuan, as those are common price points for many games."

Xu Bin suggested at that moment.

"How about 69 yuan then?"

Ding Yue thought for a moment; if they wanted to provide gamers with some savings, pricing the game at 69 yuan made sense. Setting it too low might make the game seem cheap like a web game.

"Yeah, that works."

Pei Gou immediately nodded, feeling that although 69 yuan was a bit low, it aligned with his ideas.

"Alright, regarding pricing and promotion, Pei Gou, you guys will get in touch with Miss An later, and both the school and company will promote 'Resident Evil.'"

After finishing his statement, Ding Yue couldn't help but yawn.

Whether yawns were contagious or not, following Ding Yue's yawn, Pei Gou, Huang, and Bin also began yawning one after another.

It was evident that everyone was tired after pulling an all-nighter.

"Everyone's tired; let's get ready to go back and rest. Oh, right, Bin, have the hardware tests come out yet?"

Ding Yue was letting everyone go to sleep but suddenly remembered about Bin's side of things and asked.

"Yeah, according to our hardware tests, the minimum requirement to run 'Resident Evil' is a 1060 graphics card. Luckily, the 40 series cards are about to be released, and the 1060 is basically the entry-level graphics card for gamers."

Xu Bin replied.

The so-called entry-level hardware refers to the minimum computer hardware needed to play 'Resident Evil,' with the graphics card being the most crucial.

The gtx1060 is the entry-level graphics card for 'Resident Evil.' Anything below this level cannot effectively run the 'Resident Evil' game produced by Feiyue Games.

"That's fine; most gamers and internet cafes should meet the entry requirements, so there should be no big issue."

Ding Yue nodded and said.

After discussing the game's pricing, required specifications, and the promotional plan once it goes live on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform, Ding Yue finally couldn't take it anymore.

He was just too sleepy.

"Let's go back to sleep."

Ding Yue looked towards Huang, Bin, and Pei Gou, knowing that Pei Gou and their game development team had also stayed up all night with him.

"Yes! So sleepy!"

Huang Youjie immediately nodded. It had been a long time since he had stayed up all night playing games, and this sudden session really made him feel drained.

"Rumble, rumble!"

Just as Ding Yue stood up, his stomach suddenly growled loudly.

"Rumble, rumble~"

Following that, whether influenced by Ding Yue's growling stomach or not, Huang's and Bin's stomachs also started to rumble.

Having focused on gaming last night, they hadn't even eaten a midnight snack, let alone anything this morning—who could withstand that?

"Is everyone hungry?"

Ding Yue looked at everyone and said, "Let's grab some food from the canteen on the way, then head back to sleep."

"Sure!"

Xu Bin agreed, suggesting they first grab breakfast at the canteen before heading back for a rest.

"I can't take it anymore!"

Huang felt like his eyelids were fighting each other. While gaming, he didn't feel it and appeared energetic, but once they stopped playing, after a while, Huang Youjie felt extremely tired, nearly at his limit.

"Let's grab some breakfast from the canteen on our way, and we could even take it back to eat."

Ding Yue came forward and patted Huang on the shoulder, saying, "You really shouldn't skip breakfast, especially since you didn't eat much last night, no wonder you're so hungry."

After they finished talking, Ding Yue left the building with Huang, Bin, Pei Gou, and others, heading towards Fifth Canteen.

Since Fifth Canteen was directly on the way between this building and the apartment building where Ding Yue lived, that's why Ding Yue thought of having breakfast; otherwise, he would have just gone back to sleep, as he was really struggling to keep his eyes open.

When everyone arrived at Fifth Canteen, Pei Gou and the others suggested they eat at the canteen and then head back to sleep and rest.

Whereas Ding Yue went with Huang Youjie and Xu Bin to grab a breakfast, then headed directly to the apartment building.

After returning to the apartment, Ding Yue had just entered his own apartment when he heard Big White's voice, "Principal, I've detected you're very tired, you need some rest!"

Big White reminded warmly.

"I know, I am indeed very tired, but I'll sleep after eating my buns."

Ding Yue shrugged his shoulders, acknowledging his current physical condition.

After that, Ding Yue started to eat his buns and drink soy milk, finishing off his breakfast in no time.

"Big White, could you please clean up the trash?"

Ding Yue was too lazy to clean up after eating and just wanted to head straight to his soft, comfy bed to sleep, so he asked Big White to take care of the breakfast trash for him.

"Sure, Principal, have sweet dreams."

Big White responded and then shuffled over to start cleaning up the breakfast trash for Principal Ding.

Ding Yue headed to his bedroom, dived into his bed, and began to snore heavily.

...

"Wow, this top star from Q Entertainment Media, he's actually like this?"

"I heard a girl exposed him."

"Really? What happened?"

"Brothers, get your popcorn ready, a top star from Q Entertainment Media, Wu Qian, was exposed for his wrongdoings."

"I heard they called the police?"

"Don't spread rumors, Wu Qian's studio has already made a statement to clarify."

"Stop making stuff up; you guys are totally slandering our giegie!"

While Ding Yue was still deep in dreamland, a major event had occurred in the entertainment industry of Xia Country, and this event happened on the side of Q Entertainment Media, a competitor of Ding Yue.

In the afternoon, a Twitter user exposed some unsightly deeds of Wu Qian, a top artist from Q Entertainment Media, instantly causing immense trending and public condemnation of this discredited artist.

However, the fans of Wu Qian, as well as his company, were frantically engaging in cleaning up and public relations!

In Shencheng, Q Entertainment Media Building.

When Chen Xueming learned of the situation, he was incredibly frustrated.

After all, Wu Qian was initially a traffic star wholly brought up by Q Entertainment Media, with immense popularity and a huge fan base. Although Wu Qian now had his own studio, he was still under contract with Q Entertainment Media.

"Get the PR department to lower the trending heat immediately! Make sure to decrease the trending heat, and meanwhile, ask Wu Qian's side to not make any statements, maintain silence until then, got it?"

Chen Xueming immediately instructed his PR department at Q Entertainment Media.

Handling this situation poorly could massive impact on Q Entertainment Media.

"Sure, Mr. Chen!"

Consequently,

Q Entertainment Media began vigorously throwing money to control the narrative and reduce trending heat, removing the topic which had peaked at number one on Twitter trending to the thirtieth spot.

That evening, the topic continued to be pushed by netizens but kept being pulled down rapidly, and the related topic's trending also continuously declined.

By night, Ding Yue had pretty much had enough sleep.

But he didn't wake up on his own; he was woken up by the sound of his phone ringing.

"Who's that?"

Ding Yue muttered annoyedly and then opened his eyes, reaching for his phone on the bedside table.

Chapter 1209: Have You Downloaded Feiyue Home?

Since the Feiyue Home streaming media platform had just launched, no PR or large-scale promotion had been officially carried out, so netizens who knew about the Feiyue Home streaming media platform didn't even know it had launched or where to download it.

And when Secretary Wen Ruohan said that the number of registered users had exceeded 10,000 so quickly, there was a reason for it.

"Ah?"

Wen Ruohan looked confused at Principal Ding and asked, "Principal Ding, isn't it because our Feiyue Home Streaming Media is so popular?"

Ding Yue heard her, smiled faintly, shook his head, and said, "Xiao Wen, you're still too young. We haven't even started proper promotion yet, so how could it be popular?"

"Oh, then why do we have more than 10,000 registered download users in such a short time?"

Wen Ruohan couldn't help scratching her head, muttering the question.

"Think about it again, who knows about our Feiyue Home streaming media platform now?" Ding Yue said with a smile, prompting her.

The source of these download and registration users was easy to guess, and Ding Yue reckoned that the numbers would grow by a large amount to several tens of thousands in a short time.

"Principal Ding, are you saying... Are these rapidly increasing Feiyue Home streaming media platform download and registration users from our Mist City Arts and Science University students?"

Wen Ruohan's brain finally caught up, and she said with widened eyes.

"You're not dumb, Xiao Wen."

Ding Yue laughed heartily, then explained, "Recently, the only people who knew we were releasing the Feiyue Home streaming media platform were the students from our school, and the students at Mist City Arts and Science University have very strong unity. As long as one person suggests it—and there's bound to be more than one—everyone else will rush to download and register for the Feiyue Home streaming media platform."

In fact, from the beginning, Ding Yue could guess that the first batch of users for the Feiyue Group's Feiyue Home streaming media platform would be the students from his school.

College students have a strong demand for movies, music, and games.

Besides, all the movies, music, and games on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform were created by talented students from Mist City Arts and Science University under the guidance of Principal Ding's company.

So why wouldn't the students of Mist City Arts and Science University support the work of their fellow alumni?

And besides, these works were already excellent.

In the future, to watch "Super Combat Team" again, they would go to the Feiyue Home streaming media platform. To watch the "A Bite of Xia Country" food documentary, they would also go to the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

The current Feiyue Home streaming media platform might have limited content, like an infant in swaddling clothes, but the students of Mist City Arts and Science University naturally hoped to see the Feiyue Home streaming media platform grow just like watching their own child grow up.

"So that's how it is, haha, our school's students are really adorable."

After Wen Ruohan realized this, she couldn't help but feel delighted.

If all the students of Mist City Arts and Science University supported the Feiyue Home streaming media platform, then there would be at least 80,000 initial users.

And that was before the start of a large-scale advertising and promotion campaign. Once promotion starts, it would surely be no problem to easily exceed 100,000 download and registration users, right?

"Look, Xiao Wen, we have already broken 20,000 registered users."

After looking at the backend data, Ding Yue said to Secretary Wen Ruohan with a smile.

It had to be said, the students from Mist City Arts and Science University were indeed very supportive; many of them must have been eagerly waiting for the Feiyue Home streaming media platform to launch, and the moment it went live, they immediately downloaded it and registered.

"Wow, everybody is so supportive!"

Wen Ruohan said with a smile.

At that moment, Ding Yue thought for a bit, then instructed Secretary Wen Ruohan, "Xiao Wen, contact Miss An and let's launch 'Love, Death & Robots' on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform right now, so our students can be the first to see this work from the Feiyue Animation studio."

Ding Yue felt that, since the animated series "Love, Death & Robots" would eventually be launched after starting promotions anyway, it might as well go live now.

This way, the first batch of student users from Mist City Arts and Science University could see the latest creations, and they wouldn't feel like there was nothing entertaining after downloading and registering on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform—since they had probably already seen "Super Combat Team," "A Bite of Xia Country," and Lin Zhirou's songs many times over.

"Alright, Principal Ding."

After hearing Principal Ding's instructions, Wen Ruohan immediately picked up her phone and called An Yujia.

Meanwhile, Ding Yue continued to monitor the backend data.

He could feel the enthusiasm of the students from Mist City Arts and Science University, even though it was through a screen.

Moreover, these passionate students were right within his own campus.

In the dormitories, on the sports fields, inside the teaching buildings, and in the campus stores and cafeterias, today's most discussed topic among the students of Mist City Arts and Science University was—the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

Chapter 1210: Have You Downloaded Feiyue Home? _2

The first thing everyone asked their friends when they met wasn't anything else but, "Did you download Feiyue Home?"

"Xiao Wen, did you want to see me or was it Principal Ding?"

An Yujia asked after receiving a call from Wen Ruohan.

"Uh, it was Principal Ding who wanted to see you."

Wen Ruohan replied.

"Okay, I'll come over right now."

Within just two or three minutes, An Yujia appeared at the doorway of Principal Ding's office.

Knock, knock, knock!

"An, come in quickly."

Upon hearing the knocks, Wen Ruohan looked through the office door, saw her sister An Yujia coming, and quickly led her before Principal Ding.

"Miss An, could you have Feiyue Animation Studio prepare, our animated series 'Love, Death, and Robots' can go live on Feiyue Home Streaming Media now."

Ding Yue told An Yujia.

"Right now? Wasn't it planned to go online a few days after the official publicity?"

An Yujia frowned slightly upon hearing this.

After all, it disrupted the previous arrangements and plans.

"Who can blame our students for being so enthusiastic? To reward them, let them see our Feiyue Animation Studio's series a bit earlier."

Ding Yue said with a smile.

"Understood, Principal Ding."

An Yujia got it immediately.

Prior to the call from Wen Ruohan, An Yujia had also seen the tremendous increase in registered users on the backend of the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

Such a surge indicated only one thing—that the students of Mist City Arts and Science University had voluntarily registered and supported their school's company by their actions.

"There are already over 30,000 registered users, it's so fast."

Ding Yue glanced once more at the backend data; it was just at 20,000 earlier, and now it had already exceeded 30,000 and continued to rise.

And the students of Mist City Arts and Science University were also very supportive, spreading the word and recommending the Feiyue Home streaming media platform to everyone.

They were not just recommending it to their university classmates, many were also promoting it to students from other universities in Mist City, as well as to their junior high, high school friends, and even family members.

In this way, through the relentless efforts of the students from Mist City Arts and Science University, more and more college students started noticing the Feiyue Home platform.

"Man, I was wondering why 'Super Combat Team' wasn't available on Bilibili anymore, turns out they took back the rights to host it on their own platform."

"Yeah, I used to listen to Lin Zhirou's songs all the time, now I can't find them anywhere, apparently, they're on Feiyue Home now."

"So, all the movies, animations, and music of Feiyue Group will only be released on this Feiyue Home from now on? Then I better download it quickly."

"Yeah, these days, it's rare to find a company like Feiyue Group that creates such good film and animation products."

"If that's the case, then I have no choice but to tearfully support them."

"Why is 'Super Combat Team' not available on Penguin Video or Bilibili anymore?"

"Right, I also want to know why I can't watch 'Super Combat Team' on Bilibili anymore."

"I heard it's because Feiyue Media wants to build its own platform, so they took back the rights."

"I hope Feiyue Group will produce more excellent works. I'm off to download Feiyue Home!"

Many students from other colleges actually really liked Feiyue Media's "A Bite of Xia Country" and "Super Combat Team," as well as Lin Zhirou's many fans who also enjoyed listening to her songs "Meet," "Confession Balloon," "Blue and White Porcelain," etc.

But these works were no longer visible on the previous corresponding platforms.

For example, platforms like Bilibili and Web Cloud Music, where "Super Combat Team" and Lin Zhirou's music songs were no longer available.

At first, many netizens were confused. Why were these suddenly removed?

It was only now known that it was because Feiyue Group was creating its own platform, so they had taken back all the copyrights and then concentrated them for release on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

And today, Feiyue Group's Feiyue Home streaming media platform was officially launched.

Many people didn't even know about it until the students of Mist City Arts and Science University started spreading the word, after which many college students from other regions began to know about it.

"Is your school really that cool to have its own streaming media platform?"

"Just a few works like this, I guess it won't get far, huh?"

"Don't say that, although the quantity of works is a bit smaller, they are short and sharp indeed."

"Indeed, the movies, documentaries, songs, etc., produced by Feiyue Group are of really high quality."

"I just don't know if they can continue to output such high-quality works. If they really can, I'm definitely all for it."

Regarding the Feiyue Home streaming media platform created by Feiyue Group behind Mist City Arts and Science University, some of the colleges' students shared it and said they would definitely support it, as Feiyue Group's entertainment works were indeed of high quality, but many others were skeptical.

The reason for skepticism was only one, that there were too few resource works. Look at Penguin Video; in addition to their own productions, they also have many domestic and international film and television rights that they broadcast after acquiring.

These students actually didn't realize the difference.

What Feiyue Home streaming media platform aimed to do was to create its own ecological industry chain, rather than collecting copyrights like Penguin Video; if others are not willing to sell, then there's nothing to watch.

Since the official launch of the Feiyue Home streaming media platform in the morning, by three o'clock in the afternoon, the user registration had already exceeded fifty thousand.

And at three o'clock in the afternoon, Feiyue Animation Studio's latest animated series "Love, Death & Robots" officially landed on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform.

For this, Ding Yue had posted related news through his personal Twitter account.

[Principal Ding of Mist City Arts and Science University] v: At exactly 15:00 this afternoon, the second animated work from our Feiyue Animation Studio officially launched on the Feiyue Home streaming media platform. Following "Super Combat Team," another animation masterpiece. Welcome everyone to download the Feiyue Home streaming media platform for free viewing, and "Super Combat Team," the only platform for viewing, is also free!

Retweet (12,000), Comments (5345), Likes (27,000)

After Ding Yue posted this tweet, it quickly attracted a lot of netizens' attention.

As Ding Yue was a fairly popular "figure" on Twitter, given he is the principal of Mist City Arts and Science University, which had already garnered many followers beforehand.

Besides Ding Yue posting on platforms such as Twitter, the official accounts of Mist City Arts and Science University, Feiyue Media, Feiyue Animation, etc., all posted related blog news.

At the same time.

Also at exactly three o'clock in the afternoon, the first batch of advertisements purchased by Feiyue Media, personally arranged by An Yujia, had officially started on platforms including Twitter and TikTok.

First, there was Twitter, a platform with huge traffic, the app's splash screen advertisement, where every user who opened Twitter at that moment saw the advertisement for Feiyue Home combined with "Love, Death & Robots"!

TikTok also hit the trending list!

This first round of advertising investment had already exceeded five million yuan.

After all, to get such huge traffic advertising spots, spending a big sum was definitely necessary.

With the spontaneous spread by students of Mist City Arts and Science University and the arranged advertisement dissemination by the university.

The popularity of the Feiyue Home streaming media platform and Feiyue Animation Studio's second animated series "Love, Death & Robots" gradually soared.

More and more netizens saw the advertisement and were recommended by others. They then downloaded the Feiyue Home streaming media platform, preparing to watch the second animated work from Feiyue Animation Studio following "Super Combat Team."