

Chapter 14 - A Fallen Woman Expecting True Love

He's slender, much taller than me. I needed to tilt my head and look up slightly to see him.

The tenderness that had been on his face when he had frolicked with the child earlier was gone, and he had regained a cool look.

"The doctor said the child didn't get severe illness."

"Misdiagnosis." He said coldly.

Before I could finish, he interrupted me. These two words, like the judge's verdict well defining the matter thoroughly.

His unquestionable tone of voice set me on fire again. His attitude is what he says is what it is. As for right and wrong, it doesn't matter.

"The child has been in the hospital for so long. After several examinations, it will always be misdiagnosed? People in the hospital have said that it was you who manipulated it. I really don't understand. Why did you do that?"

I was emotional, but he had a calm face: "Just misdiagnosis, it's over. Fortunately, the kid is fine. Now, let's get married."

I'm so mad at him. What the hospital did almost drove me crazy and made my life worse than death.

"Mr. Hua, I know you have great power and influence, and you can get everyone to play the plot the way you want. But I don't want to play with you anymore. Thank you for helping me and my child, even though it was all designed by you. Now that I know the truth, take your time playing by yourself."

Then I walked to Xuanlong Jiang's car, ready to take my child back.

But he stood in my way: "Well, it's okay not to get married. Then you can take a picture with me and fool my family, right? I've checked Lucas into the best bilingual kindergarten in Hai City, and he can go to school tomorrow. I've already told the boy, you're not trying to disappoint him, are you?"

I looked at him skeptically, worried about what conspiracy he was playing.

Instead, he pulled me along without a second thought, got in the car and went to a photo shop.

The photographer first took a picture of the child. Then Jacky Hua offered to keep my bag and asked the staff to take me to change into new clothes. Then the photographer took a picture of the three of us together and more pictures of me and him.

Looking at the bright smile of Lucas on the photo, I was a little shaken in my heart, should I ignore the deception and manipulation, marry Jacky Hua and give the child a family he wants?

After taking the photo, Jacky Hua asked me where I was going. I said the baby was fine now and I wanted to go to work.

Jacky Hua said yes and told Xuanlong to send me to the company first, then sent the child back to the villa.

I got out of the car in front of the mall, Lucas waved the small hand at me and said: "Mom, you take care of work, I'll wait for you at home." Then we went to dinner with Uncle Hua.

I wanted to remind the child that the luxurious house he lived in now belonged to Jacky Hua, not him.

But I hesitated for a moment, I didn't want to disappoint my child.

As soon as I entered the mall, some colleagues noticed me and rushed over to greet me with a very warm attitude.

The manager trotted up to me, looking nervous. "You back? Can I show you around? If there is anything wrong, please put it forward."

What he said seemed to convey that I did not come to work, but to inspect it.

I told the manager, my child's trouble had been ironed out and I would start working as usual from today.

"Okay, you don't have to work besides the counter. You'll just be in the office and direct our work." The manager said.

His words made me confused.

"I was a saleswoman and if I didn't work besides the counter, then what am I supposed to do here?" I answered, "That means you don't want me to work here, right?"

To my surprise, the manager was even more nervous with a bitter face

"Yao, please don't stump me on this one. If I let you do that, the general manager will fire me." the manager said sadly, "For the sake of your colleagues, please just do what I said. I had a big family to support, please don't make me unemployed."

I knew he was afraid of Jacky Hua. But I didn't know what Jacky Hua had instructed others to say or do to him. Since he said so, I couldn't insist on working besides the counter.

Jacky Hua was so arrogant and unreasonable that maybe he would do something bad to the manager. I can't get others into trouble.

"I said I'm not going to work besides the counter. How about you give me another job?" I said.

The manager then signed with relief and wiped the sweat from his forehead, saying that I could help him manage the shopping mall as an assistant.

Suddenly, he changed his words and said that it was he who as a assistant help me in managing the mall.

The good thing was that I was familiar with the mall and there was indeed a lot of work I can do.

I was almost at the end of my shift when Xuanlong Jiang came to pick me up at the mall.

Amidst the envious eyes of my colleagues, I got into Xuanlong Jiang 's Audi. The feeling in my heart was complicated.

I was not the kind of person who was longing for vanity, but the sense of superiority and security that Jacky Hua gave me was real.

In the past my life was so bitter that I couldn't help but be moved by the current life now. After all, I am also an ordinary person who needed to earn money to support myself and my family, so I can't escape my materialistic desires in the real world after all.

Xuanlong Jiang took me to the best children's restaurant in Hai City. When I went in, I saw Jacky Hua playing with Lucas in the play area.

Lucas was dressed in a neat little suit and looked like a noble little prince. He had a great time here. I looked at them for a while and realized that there was a real resemblance between the eyebrows of those two beautiful boys.

My heart thumped twice more. There was an unreal happiness that flashed by.

At this time, Jacky Hua saw me, narrowed his smile a bit, and led the child towards me.

" I've already ordered the meal, let's celebrate our marriage."He said softly.

I looked at him dubiously as he took out a red book from his bag like a magic trick and then handed it to me, "This is yours, keep it. I'll give you the household registration too.The marriage certificate was supposed to be done in the presence of two people, but you're busy with work, and I'm more familiar with the head of the Civil Administration, so he made an exception for me."

It was a real marriage certificate. I opened it, and the names of the people who got married on it were Jacky Hua and Kiki Yao.

I did fall for his trap again.