Chapter 1111 Did you miss me?

She then naturally leaned against the wall, watching an eighteen year old young man dancing inside the practice room across the street while saying to Noah on the other side of the phone, "What's wrong, hubby, miss me?"

Through the mirror, she could see the young man's face, fresh and clean, soft but not weak, beautiful but not gaudy

It's the same type of Ryan.

She thought that perhaps one day, if the young man was properly nurtured, he could become the next Ryan.

He was stunning.

She had seen so many handsome men in the entertainment industry, and there had never been anyone that she felt could compete with Ryan in terms of face.

But the young man in front of her did.

She suddenly thought of what Paige had said earlier. Paige said that she had found an eighteen year old young man who could be the next Ryan and told her to check the information.

But she was so busy at the time that she didn't bother to read it.

Then later, the young man was simply ignored.

She thought it was probably the person in front of her.

There Noah is sitting in a black Bugatti Veyron, the car is parked in front of Grand Treasure Plaza, people are coming and going around.

The golden sunset reddens most of the sky.

A warm glow is reflected in the car.

But even so, it still doesn't melt away the man's cool and awe-inspiring presence.

People come and go all around.

It was clear that he was in the crowd, but he was separated from the others.

It seems to be born, as it were, on a pedestal.

With the window half down, he was smoking in the car with one hand and talking to Jocelyn on his mobile phone with the other, looking lazy.

"Well, miss you, bought you some bags. I'll pick you up from work and you can look at the bags by the way."

The man spoke lightly, his voice damn good.

Chapter 1112 Do You Get Bored

Jocelyn sees in him the next radiant godlike top stream.
Jocelyn smiled and tapped the seat next to her and said, "Sit."
The young man then sat down obediently.
He looked restrained and hesitated for a long time before placing his hands on his thighs.
Like a lost deer in the jungle.
Jocelyn had a gentle face, "Don't be nervous, let's chat."
The young man nodded, still meek and respectful, "Well, what would you like to talk to me about?"
After the words, he suddenly looked panic-stricken, "You don't want to kick me out of the company, do you? Is there something I haven't done well enough?"
Jocelyn immediately smiled and shook her head, "No, you're fine, I just want to talk to you like a friend."
The young man let out a long breath at once.
Jocelyn, "Are you so afraid that the company won't want you?"
The young man nodded, "The conditions here are the best in the business. I love it here."
Jocelyn, "Don't worry, I won't not want you, what's your name?"
The young man let out a long reassuring breath and said, "My name is Denis."
When she heard the name, Jocelyn just thought, "It suits him."
Jocelyn nodded, "Well, it's quite nice to hear, stay well at the company and listen to Paige, you will have the opportunities you want in the future."
Denis' eyes were full of surprise, "Really?"
Jocelyn nodded, "The premise is, do not be a demon. If you want to be in the entertainment industry for a long time, you have to tolerate loneliness."

"Otherwise, when you become popular, all the negative stuff you're doing now will instantly be used as a sharp tool to kill you, understand?" Jocelyn said with a serious face.

Nowadays, there are too many people like this in the entertainment industry who become popular, then get exposed to scandals and then get doomed.

There are even people who, before they made their debut, didn't make it because of their scandals.

She didn't want Denis to be like that.

Jocelyn chuckled, "Will you?"

But Noah immediately raised his hand and lightly pinched her face, "How come? How can a grown man be impatient when he's doing something for his wife?"

Jocelyn instantly felt warm and fuzzy inside once again.

With a smile in her eyes, she sat on Noah, her hands naturally hooked around his neck, and said, "That's good. I'm afraid you'll get impatient one day."

She knows what it's like to stand in line.

Hate queuing for anything herself.

Noah, "No, I am a man of little patience, but I am willing to leave all my patience to you."

Hearing this, Jocelyn burst into joy, "That's very kind of you."

Noah, "So cherish me."

Jocelyn took a natural step and took another sip of her milk tea.

A slightly sweet taste that goes straight to the deepest part of the heart.

At this moment, she felt that even the air was sweet.

"I don't know what kind of kids they are at home, let's hurry back and see them later." added Jocelyn.

At the mention of those two children, Jocelyn felt a tug on her heart.

Now, apart from Noah, those two children are the biggest concern of her heart.

The joy and sorrow of the two of them could easily touch her heart.

Let her emotions, go through all kinds of ups and downs.

Noah, "Okay."

At the mention of Lawrence and Madeline, Noah's heart was thinking about it.

Several times today at work, he had the urge to go home and see them.

However, work is too tight and he just can't get away.

The whole living room is a happy, warm and harmonious place, even if the air smells sweet because of it.
The warmth and tranquillity of family fascinates Jocelyn.
Jocelyn really wished that this peace could go on forever.
On the other side, Noah continued to tease Lawrence in his arms, gently shaking his cute little hand and gently squeezing his fleshy little face.
Lawrence was very cooperative the whole time, and did not struggle, but just let Noah tease him.
A big smile is always on the corner of his mouth.

Those big, clear eyes seem to have a million things wrapped up in them.

It is as if one can really see through everything in the world.

Looking at such a Lawrence, Noah once again felt his heart melting.

Noah hooked his lips shallowly and said, "The two of them really seem like a pair of little angels."

Jocelyn nodded.

She strongly agrees with this.

These two children are truly like angels.

Since their birth, their home has been full of laughter.

Once upon a time, when there were two of them, it was fine, but Jocelyn would often feel that the house was cold.

But not anymore.

Now, because of these two children, it seems like a whole world has been shoved into the house all of a sudden.

There was a great deal of activity everywhere.

Even if the house is bigger, it won't make people feel cold anymore.

Scott nodded, "The two children are really arranged by the sky to send us happiness, right? Since having them, I feel that I am in a much better mood every day."

Allie nodded her head in agreement, "Yeah, that's exactly how I feel. Gosh, I just love these two kids so much, what to do?"

Chapter 1115 Unread Messages

Over the years, the company has signed many, many well-qualified trainees and artists.
But there is no one, apart from Ryan, who is better than Denis.

Noah, "Guide him well then."

Jocelyn, "I'll. I really should take a picture of you to see how good looking that young man really is."

Jocelyn said with a raised eyebrow, "It feels like the first time I saw him, my soul was shaken, it's really stunning. I believe that if this man makes his debut in the future, fans will definitely feel the same way when they see him."

"It may even feel stronger than I do," added Jocelyn.

Noah frowned slightly, "How good can it be? You are charmed ."

Jocelyn, "It's just like a Ryan."

Noah, "Better looking than Ryan?"

Jocelyn, "They both are good looking."

Noah, "Does he look as good as me?"

Jocelyn immediately smelled a strong smell of jealousy in the air.

She couldn't help but feel amused.

She then forced a laugh and looked at Noah with a serious face and asked, "Do you have to do this?"

Noah, "What?"

Jocelyn, "I just complimented someone casually? You're jealous?"

Noah, "No complimenting another man on his good looks to my face."

Is this real jealousy?

She instantly and helplessly rubbed her head on his shoulder and pouted, "Petty."

Seeing that it was a message from Alex, she then clicked on the dialog box.

Alex, "Here you go, boss."

Alex, "Play together?"

Alex, "I'll be waiting for you. Let me know if you want to play together."

Jocelyn immediately responded, "You didn't play a training game?"

Alex, "Nope, off tonight."

Jocelyn, "Oh, play then."

With those words, Jocelyn invited Alex to team up with her.

Seeing that the other members of the team were in the game, she did not invite them.

At this moment, on the other side, Alex is live inside the base.

The pop-ups were on inside the live room.

The pop-ups were saying anything and everything.

On the other hand, Jocelyn knew nothing of all this.

She didn't say anything, just waited silently for her teammates to match.

After a while, the teammate match was completed.

On their side, they were matched with some pros.

Once the match was completed, everyone chose the heroes they wanted to play.

Chapter 1117 What's the point of dressing up for boys

Because of the Lena fox, nowadays, her greatest fear is that the world will suddenly fall into pitch black.

At this moment, Jocelyn instantly subconsciously took a deep breath.

And then she took a quick look around.

Just at that moment footsteps sounded.

Immediately and carefully, Jocelyn got out of bed.

At this moment, her heart was almost in her throat.

Soon, the sound of hurried footsteps rang out.

Doors open.

Allie walked in with a string of glowing bead bracelets in her hand.

In a moment the whole world became brighter.

Each of the beads on that bracelet glowed green.

The large room instantly glows with light.

At this moment, Jocelyn's hanging heart immediately let go.

Inside the eyes, they are full of surprise.

She did not expect that the person who came in would be Allie.

What's more, she didn't expect that Allie would bring in such a string, a nice bracelet.

Soon Allie walked up to Jocelyn with a smile on her face and placed the bracelet on Jocelyn's wrist.
Her wrists were white, and the moment she put on the bracelet, they were set off like shelled lychees.

"Is this the night pearl string?" Jocelyn asked.

Noah, on the other hand, raised his hand and caressed Jocelyn's face, "It's okay, just get used to it."

Allie, "What can you do if you're not used to it?"

Seeing that Noah didn't say anything, Allie pulled Jocelyn again and said, "Jocelyn, you have just given birth now, although it is said that you have recuperated, I think that it is better not to make yourself too tired."

"From now on, you should get up later in the morning, sleep longer, and try to leave work earlier during the day. For those things that you don't have to do personally, you can leave them to Noah."

"Noah is a man anyway, and has inherently more energy than a woman," Allie added.

Hearing this, Jocelyn could not help but laugh once again.

She really felt that she was Allie's own child.

And Noah is adopted.

On the side, Noah did not have any opinion, just nodded, lightly put one arm around Jocelyn's shoulder, and said, "I think it should be like this."

Allie, "You hear that? Your husband thinks so too."

Jocelyn, however, shook her head, "No, since I have recuperated, I have to do many things myself, it is better to do them myself."

She couldn't bear to trouble Noah too much.

After all, Noah has a lot to do every day.

Besides, she needs to be more on top of things in her career.

Allie, "But you've just had given birth, I can't let you work that much overtime right away."

Talking about this, Allie is full of heartache and feels that her own daughter-in-law, in particular, is not easy.

Jocelyn then warmed her heart, smiled, looked at Allie and said, "It's okay, I'm in great health now, it's no different from before."

Allie, "I am heartbroken. Career women nowadays can be so hard, once you have given birth, you have to start a career."

Noah, "Well, it's almost time for you to hurry back and rest."

In the dining room, the sun is just right.

Outside the floor-to-ceiling windows, spring is in full swing.

The whole world is alive and welcoming.

Seeing all this early in the morning, Jocelyn felt more and more relieved.

She stepped into the dining room, and by this time, Allie and the others had everything ready.

Seeing Jocelyn, Allie immediately took the initiative to say, "Jocelyn, morning. Come over for breakfast."

"Mum, dad, hubby, good morning."

She then sat down beside Noah.

As soon as she sat down, Allie immediately looked at Jocelyn with doting eyes and asked, "Jocelyn, did you sleep well yesterday?"

Jocelyn nodded gently.

Looking at the family in front of her, her heart is filled with gratitude.

Thanks to them, she did not have a lack of affection after her father left this world.

They keep doubling up and treating her well.

It never made her feel lacking in love.

"Well, looking at your red face, I knew that you must have slept well, today's breakfast, which was made by Noah himself, are all your favorites, try it." Allie said and put an egg and ham sandwich in front of Jocelyn.

It was only then that Jocelyn took a serious look at the table.

At this moment the table is set, with a delicate egg and ham sandwich, and a vegetable and fruit salad, as well as iced sugar, red dates and bird's nest, and warm spiced orange milk.

All of them, to her liking.

Her heart warmed again at once.

"Honey, than you." Jocelyn said as she carefully picked up a sandwich and ate it.

Noah shallowly hooked his lips, "Eat, how is it?"

Jocelyn nodded.

Allie immediately pointed again to the bird's nest in front of her, and said, "Bird's nest is very tasty, specially added a lot of red dates for you, you can try it later."

Chapter 1120 Stare At His Wife

She was very grateful that God had brought a man like Noah to her side.
He came along at a time when she was desperate for love, shining a light on her world and making her believe in it again.
He took her through the world, in all its best glory.

Weibo is still buzzing with internet users continuing to follow the story of when, at first, Noah blossomed all over the city for her.

As the heroine at the centre of public opinion, she didn't want to see much and simply withdrew from the conversation.

It's not the first time, after all, that the topic has been on the hot seat.

Turning her head and looking out at the sea of roses, she was still as excited as if she had first seen it.

Before Noah, she really never thought that there would be someone in this world who loved her more than her father.

Willingly, even, to turn herself into the heroine of a TV series.

Let her enjoy the adoration of all.

After being with Noah, she was the heart of everyone.

She never had to envy anyone.

What everyone else has, she has.

What others don't have, she has too.

Thinking of this, Jocelyn immediately turned her head again, smiling and looking at Noah, gently holding Noah's hand, "Noah, I love you."

Noah shallowly hooked his lips and naturally interlocked his fingers with hers, "I love you too. This morning, I have nothing to do, so I'll go over to your side to keep you company."

Jocelyn nodded, full of joy, "Okay, but you are not allowed to disturb me."

Noah's eyes were full of doting and his tone was gentle, "Mm, as ordered."

Noah drove all the way and took Jocelyn to Murphy Group.

After parking the car, Noah then opened the door for Jocelyn as a gentleman, holding Jocelyn's hand all the way and walking into the company.

The two women at the reception desk, seeing Noah, instantly got excited.

But even so, the two maintained their proper attitude and simply bowed naturally towards them both and said hello.
