Chapter 221 Bella Gets Beaten Up

Immediately, Bella's heart began to beat wildly as she looked in horror at the spot where the teacup had been thrown.

Only Archie was staring at her face in anger, his eyes full of murderous anger.

Phoebe sat next to him, not even daring to breathe, wiping sweat all the time.

"Get your ass over here! You rebellious girl!" Archie panted and scolded.

Today he was really embarrassed because of Bella, and now there is no telling how many people will laugh at their Steward family behind their backs.

Thinking about this, he felt ashamed to go out and meet people.

Bella sucked in a cold breath of resignation and walked up to him, hanging her head and admitting her guilt, "Daddy, I'm sorry, I shouldn't have lied to you."

She was well aware of her father's temperament, and the only way to survive at this point was to sincerely admit her mistakes.

Although her father doted on her, he never gave in when it came to some matters of principle.

"What's the use of being sorry? I feel ashamed, is it something you can solve with a word of apology? Why am I so unlucky to have given birth to such an ungrateful children as you and Joseph?"

These two are always in the news.

The Steward family now really has no semblance of the dignity of a powerful family.

In his anger, he really wanted to just strangle Bella.

Bella continued to hang her head, all but afraid to look at Archie's face, "I'm sorry, Daddy, I'm really sorry, I was wrong."

"You got a replica to cheat me out of 50 million, you are really capable. Bella, what is the actual price of this necklace?"

"Ten million" Bella gave a truthful account.

"Ten million ten million, you come back to me for fifty million! You are really capable, at a young age, you earned the family's money. Where is the 40 million you cheated? Where did you get it to?"

"I I bought a car and I bought clothes."

Chapter 222 Acute Appendicitis

It was a WeChat from Billy, who asked her when she would sign the contract.

Jocelyn immediately sent him a voice message and got straight to the point when he got through, "Don't you want to ask about the details of the contract first?"

Over there, Billy laughed lightly, "I believe that you will not treat me poorly."

"Even if that's the case, you should at least ask." Jocelyn smiled, and Billy's quickness was very much to her liking.

"No, just get the contract ready and contact me and we'll meet and sign."

"Okay."

Hanging up the phone, she suddenly felt a twinge in the lower right side of her abdomen.

Her face was white in a flash.

The strength in her body was diminishing as the pain increased.

She grabbed the sides of the tub with a desperate grasp and stood up with difficulty before stepping out of the tub.

In the next second, she fell straight towards the front as soon as her feet gave out.

She subconsciously grabbed the iron shelf next to her that was filled with skincare products.

In another second, the iron frame joined her and fell to the ground.

The glass skin care products on the shelves shattered to the ground with an ear-splitting sound.

Various liquids were spilled all over the floor, and the different scents mixed together in such a way that made her gag at such a moment.

Once again, she fought with all her might to get up, but there was nothing she could do.

The abdomen, still cramping, worsens with every breath.

She felt that she should have had acute appendicitis.

Soon the door opens.

Noah ran in quickly, and when he saw her on the floor, his pupils instantly shook dramatically.

He instantly took a big step forward and quickly picked her up, his eyes rippling, "What's wrong with you?"

"No, I'll ask Paige to help find a professional carer to look after me." Jocelyn shook her head.

She was sure that whichever girl would be upset to know that her boyfriend had to take care of another female close to her.

She didn't want to do such a thing.

He has a girlfriend and they naturally need to keep some distance.

It was a sign of respect for the girl.

Sensing Jocelyn's perversity, Noah frowned slightly, "What's wrong with you?"

Just at this time Jocelyn's mobile phone on the bedside table vibrated.

He immediately helped her pick up the phone, his eyes inadvertently falling on the screen, and he saw that it was a voice call from Billy.

Noah gave her a faint look before pressing answer for her and putting the phone into her hand.

She glanced at the caller before saying, "Billy, what's up?"

As soon as the words were out of her mouth, she began to pant.

"What's wrong with you?" There was a hint of anxiety in his tone, "Why do I get the feeling that you don't sound right?"

"Oh, hospitalized with appendicitis."

"Hospitalized? Which hospital?" Billy immediately pursued the question.

"First People's Hospital", said Jocelyn.

"I'll be right over."

"Really? Why do I feel like something is wrong? When you were injured before, why didn't you say you wanted a carer?" Paige pursued.

And then she sat down on the edge of her bed, her long arms extended, naturally, around her shoulders.

"As you said, that was before, now he has a girlfriend, things are different. His girlfriend would be upset if she found out."

When the words left her mouth, Jocelyn smiled bitterly and her expression became extraordinarily despondent.

Talking about it made her heart start to sting unconsciously again, and for a moment it was as if it was hard to breathe.

The change in her expression Paige all saw, Paige's eyes flashed a touch of consternation, "Jocelyn are you in love with Noah?"

Jocelyn just smiled bitterly once again, not denying or answering.

It was just that Paige knew that this silence was tantamount to acquiescence.

She immediately turned Jocelyn's body around with a serious face, her hands clasping her shoulders with a serious look, "Jocelyn, didn't you say you would watch your manners and not let yourself fall in love with him?"

"You shouldn't get involved with someone of this status. You have allow him to be your temporary husband, but you should never let him be your real husband." Paige's tone became more and more serious.

"Everyone understands the axioms, but Paige, sometimes there is no way to control human emotions." Jocelyn let out a long, helpless sigh.

"What you say is true, but Jocelyn, you really don't fit together, he doesn't deserve you in that capacity." Paige said in a serious tone.

Jocelyn let out another long sigh, "There's no point in talking about this now, he has a girlfriend anyway, it's impossible between us, even if I realised I liked him, I wouldn't say or do anything to him."

Paige's brow furrowed, "It's fortunate that he has a girlfriend, otherwise, who knows how far your relationship would have developed?"

Chapter 225 I have a Friend

A glint of inquiry flashed across Tom's eyes.

He walked to Noah's desk with a serious face, holding his hands on the edge of the desk, looking into the bottom of Noah's eyes, "Is it that Madam's attitude towards you has changed? What has changed? Is it indifference? Will you actually have such a day?"

Noah's face darkened instantly.

Realising that he had gone a little too far, Tom immediately coughed lightly in a serious manner, before taking a deep breath and carefully saying, "Sorry, Mr. Mason, I didn't mean that."

Just now, he was a bit surprised, so he couldn't help but blurt out the words.

It felt like a numbing scalp at the moment.

"Tom, do you want to die?" He spoke coldly.

"No." Tom responded apprehensively.

"No, you want to." Noah frowned deeply.

"....." Tom dared not speak again and instantly lowered his head.

"It's not me, it's a friend of mine whose woman has suddenly changed her attitude towards him." The words fell, and Noah coughed lightly in embarrassment.

At this, Tom wanted to laugh, but he held it back.

Although he knew it in his heart, he pretended he didn't know and asked seriously, "You mean, you have a friend whose woman was quite nice to him and then suddenly went cold?"

"Yes." Noah nodded.

"Generally speaking, there are two possibilities, the first is that your friend has done something to upset his woman, but the woman can't say it directly, so she sulks on her own and then turns on you and your friend's attitude, naturally, turns cold." Tom said.

Noah thought seriously for a few seconds, he couldn't figure out what it was about himself that had upset Jocelyn.

These days, he seems to be behaving quite well.

He frowned deeply again with an inquisitive look on his face, "What is another possibility?"

Jocelyn looked at them, all of them were fruits that she liked to eat.

He put his things on the bedside table, and then took a chair, sat down, looked at her and asked, "Is the lunch I had brought in tasty?"

"Yes, thanks for the lunch and thanks for the fruit. What brings you back so soon?" How is it enough to spend so little time with his girlfriend?

"Worried about you." He said.

"You don't have to worry about me, I have Paige here. I am fine and Paige is taking good care of me, so you should hurry up and go about your business." Jocelyn said indifferently, looking gentle.

Noah frowned slightly and looked into her eyes, "I've only just arrived and you're kicking me out?"

"It just seems that you don't need to waste your time with me."

"You are in a bad mood?"

Jocelyn shook her head, "No, I'm in a good mood"

"So what's wrong with you?" His eyes were filled with confusion.

Although Jocelyn had been calm and gentle, he could clearly feel that she was afraid that he would stay here to take care of her.

"Nothing." Jocelyn kept her smile on.

On the surface, she kept herself as calm and polite as she should have been, but inside she was upset.

Even the thought that he had just made love to another woman made her jealous.

His brow was furrowed and his eyes gazed deeply into her unruffled pupils, and without saying a word, he rose and walked out.

As he closed the door, he frowned again, his mind kept going back to what Tom had just told him those last two reasons.

Inside, he was worried.

Over there Tom said no.

She sent a voice call to Tom on the pretext of going to the bathroom.

Tom quickly picked up.

"What is wrong with Noah? If you don't tell me, I'll tell Noah that you took very poor care of me this time when I returned home and have him dock your salary." Camille stood in front of the sink and kept digging into the roots.

She was convinced that Tom, who followed Noah around every day, would know.

Tom in the office smiled, immediately took a deep breath and helplessly pinched his brow, "You can't do that."

Mr. Mason has always favoured his sister, if she really talked nonsense in front of him, then Tom would be punished.

He immediately let out a long sigh and honestly explained everything.

And then, he cautiously admonished, "Miss, you must not betray me"

As soon as Camille heard that Jocelyn had been operated on, she asked, "Is she okay?"

Tom responded truthfully, "Yeah, don't worry."

She then dropped her heart, and then said, "Don't worry, I won't betray you."

She then hung up the phone, and then looked at herself in the mirror and began to ponder in her head why her sister-in-law would treat Noah that way.

She thought that the second reason Tom said was the most likely one, which was that her sister-in-law had recently fallen in love with some guy!

If that was the case, then Noah would be so miserable! Can she stand this?

She cannot!

She immediately rolled up her sleeves and looked at herself in the mirror, declaring in anger, "No matter who it is, anyone who steals a woman from my brother Noah is an enemy! Bastard, you wait for me! You're dead!"

Chapter 228 Afraid of Billy's Misunderstanding?

Three days later.

After a rigorous medical examination to determine that all indicators were normal, Jocelyn was allowed to be discharged from the hospital.

Early in the morning Ruby sent Billy to help with the discharge procedures.

Paige, on the other hand, took the people who had arranged in advance to carry the tonic that Jocelyn had received, one by one, to the car.

After she carried all her things to the car, Billy also completed all the formalities. He went to push a wheelchair and carefully pushed Jocelyn out of the hospital wing, and then helped her into the car.

At the same time, Camille was watching the real-time surveillance video of the entrance to Jocelyn's ward that the dean had just sent.

She saw clearly, the image of Billy pushing Jocelyn out of the ward.

Looking at the picture Billy's face, Camille's eyebrows instantly wrinkled together.

This man, who visits her sister-in-law every day, stays for a long time on each visit.

No other men come here except this one.

Today, her sister-in-law was discharged from the hospital and he came back, what does this mean?

This means that this guy is the third party between her brother and sister-in-law!

When she thought of this, she immediately paused the screen and poked her finger at Billy's face on the screen with dissatisfaction, "You bad guy, see how I'll fix you. Your mother is so good with my mother, you actually want to steal my brother's wife."

As soon as the words were out of her mouth, she angrily dialed Billy's number.

Billy picked up.

At the moment, he is driving his own green Lamborghini supercar, driving Jocelyn towards her home.

"Billy! Come out tonight! I want to meet with you." Camille got straight to the point.

Billy was dumbfounded, his hand subconsciously holding his headphones, "You've returned? When did you come back?"

Chapter 229 Is it a misunderstanding?

Twelve o'clock sharp.

Billy arrived on time at the rooftop of the Hilton Hotel.

Camille has been waiting here for a long time.

She was wearing a plush Chanel red knitted cardigan with a white shirt and a light blue high waisted skirt, and in a pair of white shoes, standing in front of the rooftop fence.

Her straight yellow hair draped naturally over her shoulders, her bangs are long enough to reach her eyebrows, and her red beret is worn crookedly on top, making her even more adorable.

Billy stepped forward quickly, holding the fence with one hand and looking down on the city at his feet, "Is there something that we must meet here?"

Noah frowned in exasperation and turned to face Billy, folding her arms across her chest, lightly lifting her chin and frowning, "Don't you know that?"

Billy felt confused, frowned incomprehensibly, with probing under his eyes, "What do you mean by that?"

"Billy, you still choose to play dumb, don't you? Fine, since you don't know what it means, then I'll tell you." Camille still had an exasperated look on her face.

"Okay." Billy stretched his hands helplessly, waiting for her to speak.

"Hmph! Fine, Billy, Jocelyn is my sister-in-law, your mother knows about this, so there is absolutely no way you don't know about it." Camille asked.

Billy nodded, "Well, I know, so?"

Looking at his calm attitude, listening to his reply like this, Camille instantly felt her anger was out of control, and in a flash her eyebrows knitted again, "So? What do you say?"

Billy was confused, "What exactly are you trying to say?"

"You want to piss me off, don't you? You seduced my sister-in-law and interfered in the relationship between Noah and my sister-in-law, what do you think I want to say about you when I call you here today?" After saying that, Camille stomped her foot.

"Didn't Tom tell you?" He asked faintly.

"It's okay, don't get involved in things between us in the future." Noah added.

"Okay."

Hearing a response, Noah hung up the phone, the emotions under his eyes becoming more and more complex.

The red light came on and he steadily brought the car to a halt.

Long, bony fingers tapping the steering wheel, he silently watched the numbers jumping on the traffic lights ahead.

Was it really not because of Billy? If she hadn't confessed anything to Billy, then what did she mean when she said, so as not to cause any misunderstanding?

Listening to those words of Camille, it seemed that Billy had nothing to do with her.

What about her treatment of Billy?

What exactly does that phrase mean, for fear of causing misunderstanding?

The phone vibrated, interrupting his thoughts.

When he saw that it was Billy's phone, he pressed answer.

At this time, the green light came on.

He drove the car steadily.

"Noah, if you also want to meet with me because, you misunderstand that I have something with Jocelyn, then there is no need for us to meet. I'm really innocent." Over there, Billy's tone was full of sincerity.
