Chapter 391 Lily, the New Star of the Design World

Allen introduced them one by one, with immense patience.

Jocelyn got up, shook hands with them one by one politely and said hello.

After that, they sat down.

Allen then picked up the three design drawings, looked at Jocelyn and asked, "Jocelyn, what do you think of these three drawings drawn by Gloria?"

Gloria drew them?

Jocelyn couldn't help but sneer inwardly and looked at Gloria next to her, "You drew them?"

Gloria continued to pretend to look very melancholy and nodded, "Well, it's me."

"Your daughter is really good at this, quite like the talented designer. Mr. Murphy, you have really raised a good daughter." Lincoln flattered.

"Jocelyn, what do you think?" Allen asked.

"Jocelyn, your sister's design has been praised by the most famous international architect Lily." Sara added.

"Lily?" said Jocelyn, her eyes full of consternation.

"Yes, you know Lily, right? The new star of the design world right now, she is talented, she can win an award with just any design."

"She praised our Gloria being gifted, Jocelyn. Gloria's major is architectural design in college, in this area, she is a professional."

Sara finished, and then looked at Allen and said, "Didn't you say that there was a sea park project? How about letting Gloria try it out? When the time comes, compare her with the one Jocelyn found, and we'll use whichever is better."

After saying that, she tightly held onto Allen's arm, her tone gentle.

Allen nodded, "Okay."

Now that Gloria is so unhappy every day, it's good to give her a chance to be happy.

"Honey, if Gloria's design is good and is chosen, is there any reward?" Sara added.

Kinda looking forward to it.

At this time, her phone vibrated.

Seeing that it was Noah's video call, Jocelyn smiled, got up and walked to the floor-to-ceiling window, and pressed answer.

Soon, Noah's face appeared in the camera.

He was wearing a white shirt on top, and his hair seemed to have just been washed, loose and thick.

Without hairspray, it looked flowing and natural.

Such a hairstyle covered his eyebrows and made his oppressiveness weaker.

"Honey, it should be ten o'clock at night on your side, right? Don't you sleep?" Jocelyn asked.

"Well, I want to talk with you before I go to bed." He had a smile in his eyes.

As soon as Jocelyn heard that, she smiled, "Can you go to sleep now? I'm at dad's house."

"Do you miss me?" He asked.

"There are a lot of people here, so watch what you say." Jocelyn reminded him, fearing he would say something dirty.

"Okay, put dad on the phone, I'll say hi to dad." Noah said again.

Jocelyn immediately sent the phone to Allen.

Allen waved enthusiastically with Noah, "Noah."

"Hello, dad, how have you been these two days?" Noah asked.

"I am good, is everything going well abroad?" Allen asked.

"Yeah."

"Take care of your health, don't get too tired."

"I know, you too, dad." Noah was a filial good son-in-law.

"Dad, I've found a new Thomas Hill's landscape painting, I'll bring it to you," Noah said again.

Chapter 393 Swallow It

Having finished her day's work, Jocelyn pushed the mountain of papers in front of her to the front.

A strong soreness in her neck hit her, and she carefully turned her neck for a moment before getting up and stretching.

Turning around, the city's aesthetic night came into view.

The intersecting roads were lined with traffic and bright headlights, merging into a staggering river of gold.

As far as the eye could see, it was spectacular.

She didn't want to leave, and after watching the night scene for a while, she sat down and took a half-drawn design of the sea park out of a drawer and traced it carefully.

At eight o'clock in the evening, feeling hungry, Jocelyn locked the design into a drawer, then carried her Hermes bag and walked out of the office.

The bodyguards waiting outside nodded respectfully when they saw her, and then followed her steps.

As Jocelyn had just walked out of the office, her mobile phone vibrated.

A gust of cold wind greeted her face, blowing into her clothes and bringing up a chill.

The weather in Flento City was unusual this year.

Even though it is already late spring, occasionally the nights are still as cold as early spring.

The roses on both sides of the road, not far away, have been transplanted from their pots into the soil and are in full bloom.

A gust of wind blew, the fragrance of the flowers was so refreshing.

Seeing that it was Paige's number, Jocelyn immediately pressed answer, and then, escorted by her bodyguard, got straight into her red Maserati.

The bodyguards closed the door and she started the car straight away, rushing into the traffic.

The bodyguards got into their own bodyguard car and followed closely behind.

"What's wrong, Paige?" Jocelyn drove with one hand, and with the other hand, she took out her headphones from her bag and put them on.

"Didn't your husband go on a business trip? I am afraid you'd be lonely, so come to the bar."

On the other side of the phone, Paige was standing outside the door of the bar that people were entering and leaving, with a smile on her face.

She was wearing a tight black halter short dress with a short dark blue denim jacket over it and a pair of black high heels underneath.

The woman dared not disobey and swallowed it, the bitter taste of it made her frown.

"You have been poisoned, without an antidote, the point will kick in in seven days. As long as you are good and obedient, I will have someone send you the antidote after Maddox's death." Lois said.

The woman's eyes were full of fear and she kept nodding her head.

Lois didn't say anything more and unlocked the woman's handcuffs and shackles, "Before you go, clean this place up for me."

"Yes." The woman nodded respectfully.

Lois then stood up, opening the door and looking at Jocelyn at the door.

He leaned lazily against the door panel and looked at Jocelyn, still in a bandit air, "It's a coincidence that I actually met you here."

"Before, you went out with a group of people. Why are you by yourself today?"

"Do you believe me when I say it was a ploy?" Lois chuckled.

He had long suspected that woman.

So when that woman took the initiative to come to his door and seduce him, and even offered to take him out to play alone, he agreed without even thinking about it.

Then he secretly mobilised his men and ambushed them outside the bar.

He intended to use himself as bait to get the boss behind her out.

But to his surprise, the other party was too stupid to come out, and there was only this one woman from the beginning to the end.

He didn't know if the other party was too stupid or if they underestimated him.

Just now, when the woman turned on him, he wanted to ask her to understand everything and then kill her.

After killing her, he would then use her mobile phone, pretending to be her, to contact the one behind her and tell him that Lois was dead.

Then let the other side down their guard and just wipe them out in one fell swoop.

But he saw Jocelyn, so his plan changed, he didn't want to kill in front of her, didn't want to dirty her eyes.

So then he changed his mind.

"Yes." Jocelyn's eyes were full of determination.

The car started, Lois closed his eyes.

"Mr. Carter. Jocelyn is always surrounded by a bunch of bodyguards, is it necessary for our people to continue to protect her in the shadows?" Kyle glanced at Lois in the back seat through the mirror in the car.

Lois slowly opened her eyes, her fingers tapping her thighs one at a time, "Yes."

"Okay."

"Recently, has Jocelyn suffered any aggravation?"

"No."

Lois did not speak again, just silently closed his eyes again.

"Mr. Carter, in fact, you don't need to be so nice to her, she is not destined to become your person."

"Nosy."

Kyle instantly shut his mouth, not daring to say another word.

"Have Jocelyn encountered any difficulties in her business?"

"No."

Lois was completely quiet.

In the carriage, there was silence.

Kyle once again silently looked at Lois through the car mirror, thinking that he was really different to Jocelyn. He was cruel and violent to everyone, but he treated Jocelyn with care and attention.

Lois asked for repay in everything, but to Jocelyn, he did things secretly.

He thought that Mr. Carter had probably given all of his lifelong tenderness to Jocelyn.

All night long, Jocelyn was distracted by that question from Lois.

When she returned home, Jocelyn put a bathtub of warm water, and then went to wash her face and put a mask on her face.

After that, she made foam and rose petals in the bathtub and soaked her whole body into the tub.

The warmth of the touch soothed her whole body.

She put on the backrest and closed her eyes.

"Just got lost in thought," Robert said.

The car was moving away from the scene of the incident little by little, and through the rearview mirror, she saw the traffic police coming.

There were more and more people gathered around the car.

"Driving needs to the focus."

"Well, don't blame me. I am fine anyway, leave me be quiet for a while."

"....."

She drove Robert all the way to the entrance of the nearby Palace Hotel.

When the car stopped, Robert let out a long breath helplessly and said, "Thank you, I'll go first."

"Don't you need me to help you with anything?" Jocelyn asked.

"No, the traffic police will find me themselves. Besides, I didn't hurt anyone, it's not much of a fuss." After that, Robert waved his hand towards Jocelyn and turned to leave.

"Robert." Jocelyn couldn't help but call out to him.

Robert paused in his steps, turned his head to look at her, "What's wrong?"

"Still not found Zoe?" Jocelyn asked.

Although, she had an average relationship with Robert and didn't have much contact with him, he was Noah's friend after all.

His friend was her friend.

At those words, Robert's eyes instantly turned red.

He laughed bitterly and pulled the car door open, sat back in the passenger seat and said feebly, "I found her."

"So she's not coming back?" Jocelyn asked.

"More than that."

Chapter 397 Design Selection

The name Harry was displayed on the screen.

"What's up?" He answered the phone while kicking his shoes to the floor, before burrowing into the snow-white quilt and closing his eyes.

"You're back from Shimizu Country? When did you get back? How come you've had a car accident now?" Harry was standing on his balcony, leaning over the railing, smoking a cigarette and overlooking the garden full of blooming flowers at his feet.

"Last night. Well, the car accident was nothing, just the car broke down, I didn't."

Harry took a deep puff of smoke and asked carefully, "Did you see Zoe? You guys didn't make up? How come you look so bad?"

"Don't fucking mention it, she's already married. Come out for a drink together tonight, bye." Robert said and then hung up.

Harry frowned slightly, staring at the phone screen for a moment, then withdrew his gaze and continued to look at the garden full of flowers at his feet, muttering to himself, "Zoe."

Underneath the eyes was an indescribable loss.

.....

A few days later.

This day was all about the design selection.

Early in the morning, Jocelyn was woken up by the alarm clock.

She got up and made sure of her design first. After that, she went to wash up, put on a light make-up, changed into a white silk shirt and a pair of red velvet thin high heels.

In front of the gold and diamond-encrusted dressing mirror, she took a good look at herself, making sure her make-up was OK, and then casually loosened the black ribbon tied around her hair.

In the next moment, the low ponytail fell apart.

Curly hair fell naturally, as thick and dazzling as seaweed.

The immaculate mirror reflected her appearance at the moment, fairy and beautiful.

Her make-up was light, but her features were delicate, her face perfect without any half-hearted flaws.

After casually taking a red Chanel backpack from the bag rack and carrying it on her back, she left the house with the design in hand.

Gloria's design drawing was a hand-drawn three-dimensional drawing.

The piece of land on the sea of ten thousand seas was arranged in a clear manner.

Each area was marked with text.

The style is cartoonish.

There are various cartoon patterns, and the main colour is blue and white, which looks fresh and dreamy.

It was like a fairy tale world.

Seeing her design, the corners of Jocelyn's mouth immediately curled into a cold smile.

She didn't expect that Gloria had actually taken out the one design she was least satisfied with.

And the one she took was the original drawing.

This was no longer plagiarism, but outright theft of the picture.

The reason why she threw away this design at that time was because after the design came out, it felt too ordinary.

It was no different from an ordinary sea park.

What she didn't expect even more was that just such an ordinary design could actually get the crowd so excited.

With all eyes on her, Gloria began to introduce her design to everyone, and the more they listened, the more they liked it.

The three professional architects also nodded their heads as they listened.

Sensing the joy of the crowd, Gloria became more and more confident in her presentation.

After the presentation of one diagram after another, Gloria respectfully bowed towards everyone, "Thank you all. My explanation is finished, next let my sister show her design."

After that, Gloria then took the microphone and came in front of Jocelyn, handing it over with both hands, without any extra expression on her face.

Jocelyn calmly took the microphone, and then walked to the front of the projector.

At this time, the staff at the bottom started to laugh.

Gloria stepped off the stage and sat down beside Sara in a pretend calm manner.

"Actually, I didn't want to say this, but I have to, because if I didn't, it would cause a huge impact on our company's reputation." Gloria looked at Allen with a sincere face and added, "My sister's design was copied from someone else."

Allen's eyes were full of disbelief, "What did you say?"

"This picture is eighty percent similar to a design drawn by Lily when she was a newcomer. Not many people may know about it, but as a fan of hers, I know it well. I'll show it to you. "

After saying that, Gloria then immediately searched for a design in her computer and projected it on the big screen.

The design drawing was a huge overall drawing, no matter the style or layout, it was eighty percent similar to Jocelyn's design.

Seeing this scene, all the employees present were stunned.

The three architects, too, were full of disbelief.

With this style, and style, the discerning eye could tell that it was copied.

"This is something Lily designed when she was a rookie, she once took this to a very small design competition over in Y Country and won a runner up."

"This design, compared to her designs that won big awards, is insignificant, so it wasn't widely circulated."

"But as a fan of Lily, as a good friend of hers, I've checked out a lot of information on this person."

"So I'm very familiar with this picture, and the person who copied it has no right in this competition, shame for plagiarising."

After Gloria finished word by word, she glanced at Jocelyn and added, "Whereas my designs are different, mine are all original and have even received Lily's compliments."

In an instant the whole hall was shocked

"No wonder someone who has only studied design for six months can design such a diagram, it turns out that she copied someone else."

"How dare she go and copy a big shot like Lily? Miss Gloria is actually Lily's good friend? That's awesome."

"Crazy, right? My god. What a disgrace to our Mr. Murphy. if I had known about this, I wouldn't have picked her."

"If Miss Gloria didn't find out, when this project is built and Lily finds out, won't things get big? That's Lily..."

The qualification certificate still had the official stamp of Y Country. It really couldn't be more authentic.
Allen couldn't believe his eyes even more.

Gloria, Sara, Lincoln and their three designers on stage, and the staff all subconsciously took a deep breath.

Who could have imagined this drama?

Who could have known that Jocelyn was actually the superstar of the architectural design world, Lily, the most famous international architect?

"Jocelyn, how many other things I don't know? How did you manage to do that? You studied architectural design for just six months?" Allen's eyes were filled with excitement.

Jocelyn nodded, and then returned to Allen, "Yes, half a year, mainly because my master, Dr. Mason, is awesome, my architectural design was all taught to me by him."

"You are really my good daughter! I never thought that I could actually have such an excellent daughter!" At this moment, Allen was proud of Jocelyn.

The architects couldn't wait to get on stage at once.

In the next second, the three of them knelt on the ground together.

Seeing this scene, Jocelyn's pupils shook mightily, "What are you doing? You are all my elders, how can you kneel down to me?"

Jocelyn bent down slightly and tried to pull the three of them up.

But the three of them refused to get up.

Lincoln clasped his hands and looked at Jocelyn with a pious face, "Lily, I worship you very much, can you take me as your disciple?"

"Me too." Sadie said.

"And me. Lily, I also worship you, you are my idol." Micah added.

A few people's eyes were filled with excitement.

This image, once again, shocked everyone present.
