Chapter 451

At this moment, Paige's aura was strong, and the assistant felt scared just by looking at her.

However, although she was scared, she felt great in her heart.

These days, Francesca had really been making a fuss, and she had long disliked Francesca.

Francesca was so scared to the extreme that she instantly knelt down on the ground, put her hands together and looked at Paige, "Miss Gill, I really won't play a big game in the future, and I won't disrespect you again, give me a chance. It's not easy for me to come this far."

"If you knew that, why did you do that in the first place! I declare that X Entertainment, from today onwards, will ban you indefinitely!" Paige coldly responded.

Francesca instantly burst into tears, "Don't. Miss Gill, I was wrong, I was really wrong."

Paige was completely unmoved, shaking off her hand and preparing to get out of the car.

Seeing that her words did not work, Francesca jerked up, wiped her tears, looking at Paige' back, shouting, "I will cancel my contract."

Paige laughed again, "Want to cancel your contract? Sure, your breach of contract, according to the contract, is one hundred million, not a penny less!"

The words fell, Paige then got out of the car.

Closing the car door, she walked to the director.

In the car, Francesca was desperate, but could do nothing but stand in place, stomping her feet, hissing and raging with impotence!

When the assistant saw that Francesca was completely out of luck, she gave her a blank stare and got out of the car.

In an instant, Francesca felt like she had fallen from the top of the mountain, falling down.

She rushed out of the car regardless, and humbly caught up with Paige, stopping her way, crying while continuing to beg for forgiveness, "I was really wrong, Miss Gill, please, give me another chance, I really really don't dare to do it again."

Paige, "Those who don't behave have no chance in X Entertainment."

With those words, Paige and ruthlessly pushed her away and continued to walk towards the director.

Chapter 452 Arrogant after being popular

Jocelyn had to allow him doing so, a serious face waiting for Paige to speak.

"I fell out with Francesca yesterday." Paige said.

"She made a fuss again?" Jocelyn frowned slightly.

Francesca was one of the company's artists who could play a big game the most.

Ever since she became popular, her temper was getting bigger and bigger, and everyone in the company was scared by her.

When everyone gave in to her, she was more arrogant.

When Jocelyn thought of this person, she felt a big headache.

Paige lazily got out of bed and stretched her back, "Yeah."

She then recounted the whole process of her falling out with Francesca last night, all of it to Jocelyn.

After hearing the process, Jocelyn's eyebrows slightly knitted together, "This person is crazy, is it?"

Paige helplessly let out a long sigh, "She is arrogant after being popular. Miss Murphy, you won't blame me, right?"

Jocelyn shrugged, "No, I had disliked this person for a long time, this is quite good, to make an example, so that everyone can learn lesson from this."

In this period of time, many artist in the company who have a reputation are beginning to show their temper.

She thought Paige had a nice move.

With this, the others would be a lot more obedient.

"In fact, I did this, apart from because she is arrogant, there is a more important reason, that is, I want to use her to set an example to alert other people in the company." Paige added.

Jocelyn smiled, "Well, I think so too, Paige, if you want to do something, just do it."

Paige, "Well, it's good that you understand."

Jocelyn, "One hundred percent understand."

Chapter 453 A Beautiful Blueprint

"Paige, I plan to get involved in the field of film and television production on a large scale, web dramas are very popular now."

"I want to tap a few outstanding young directors, producers, executive producers, cinematographers, and scriptwriters to independently invest in the production of web dramas."

"The dramas will all feature potential new actors, trainees and lovebirds from our own family."

"Nowadays, a lot of traffic is up through web dramas, as long as we make more high-quality web dramas, it's definitely not a problem if we want to make a group of people famous."

Word by word, Jocelyn spoke out her thoughts.

After Paige listened carefully, she was silent for a few seconds and finally nodded, "Well, I've actually thought about it that way. I think it's very feasible, over the years, the popularity of boutique web dramas is even much better than some star-studded dramas."

Jocelyn instantly snapped her fingers, "Then let's do that."

Paige, "But it would be very costly and risky to produce a web series completely independently. The reason I didn't mention this to you before is because of the cost risk. "

Jocelyn lightly smiled, "Want high returns, we have to bear high risk, as long as there is a good script, everything is not a problem. I plan to buy a few web novels over to adapt the script, buy some scripts that have a certain fan base and suitable for adaptation, what do you think? "

Paige nodded again, "Well, I think it can work."

Jocelyn picked up a pen and gently twirled it between her fingers, adding, "Then let's do this first, the web drama aspect is just an experiment, if it's successful, later we can follow the same model again and independently invest in producing movies, TV series, and so on."

"In addition to that, in the future, when we get bigger, we can also create, or acquire an excellent web novel platform, and train our own original creators on our own platform."

"The author provides the novel, the scriptwriter is responsible for adapting it, and our company is responsible for investing in it and filming it."

Jocelyn continued to speak word by word about the beautiful blueprint she had constructed in her mind.

working, that would be great, if we can really develop to that point, we can also create, or acquire a video website, acquire a TV station, and strongly recommend our homemade web dramas, TV series, movies, and the variety shows we invest in, company's artists, just as I said when we first decided to create X Entertainment, I want in the world. I want our company to become the biggest star-making factory in the world." Speaking of this topic, Jocelyn began to be in high worry, as long as it is something you want to do, I will wholeheartedly do it grew into a smile, "Paige, it's good to have you, if the to say this to you, if what you say can be achieved, then we, X Entertainment, can definitely become the world's largest take it one step at a time, one day, we will achieve our goal." Jocelyn was full of confidence in her heart had endless energy definitely not treat you "Okay, by the way, Cleo has already entered the let her this opportunity Jocelyn, "Good." to look at the building behind her, constantly playing the words of Abel's confession, her chin lifted towards that side, "Paige, Abel seems to be really serious this time, it too lazy to take care judge on you feeling, but you should just Paige, "I know." how is hard, but he's rest, other artists should do the same. "I don't want your bag, give your address to me, I'll send it back to you."

"No."

"Abel, I told you very clearly, we are not suitable."

"Suitable or unsuitable, how can you be so sure if you don't try?" Abel added.

"No need to try, I know we are not suitable."

"How?"

"It's just not suitable. I'm not interested in playboys."

"I can change for you." Abel continued to respond in a good-natured manner.

"Character is hard to change." After Paige finished speaking, she hung up the phone and handed the box to the receptionist, "I will leave it here, when I ask for the address of the person who delivered the parcel, you can mail it to me."

A receptionist took the box, nodded and said, "Miss Gill, you really don't want it? This is a global limited edition."

Paige, "You put it away for me."

After saying that, Paige stepped away.

After she left, and the two receptionists couldn't help but discuss.

"Is this Abel she's talking about the one who confessed his love on the big screen in that building across the street and sent roses to the company?"

"I think so, it's not enough to confess his love on the big screen, but he also send roses and luxury goods."

[Damn! What a shocking news! Big boss behind X Entertainment, you don't even care if your employees are like this?]

[I heard that the boss of X Entertainment is a woman, so maybe the two of them are having an affair, otherwise why would she let Paige do this?]

[I guess this bitch Paige will definitely do what Francesca said and smear our Francesca, don't fall for it.]

[I just want to ask, when is this bitch Paige going to die? Fuck, shameless dog!]

[God, how desperate should Francesca be right now? How is it so hard to be clean in the entertainment industry?]

Because of Francesca's post, public opinion is now completely tilted towards Francesca's side.

Everyone believed Francesca's bullshit.

Her post, and the comments at the bottom, made Jocelyn feel extremely uncomfortable.

She really didn't expect that Francesca would choose to sue first.

If this happens, even if X Entertainment releases news like her playing a big name, people will not believe it.

Everyone would have the preconception that Francesca was framed by Paige.

In all her time in the entertainment industry, this is the first time she has met such a bold female artist and such a strange thing.

Although Francesca's tactics were good, she would never let this woman get away with it.

Although Francesca had made the first move, it was not difficult to resolve the matter.

As long as they produce solid proof to prove that Francesca was indeed playing a big game, that would be enough.

At this moment, Paige's phone call came in once again.

Jocelyn then pressed answer and said soothingly, "This matter, in fact, is not that difficult to solve, as long as they can produce the solid proof that she played a big game, that will be enough."

"You will help her to suppress those solid proof of playing a big name, use our company official to put out and then clarify it yourself, that's all." Jocelyn added.

Seeing that it was Noah's call, she hooked the corners of her mouth slightly and pressed answer, "What's wrong, Hubby? Miss me?"

As she spoke, her tone began to become would be more gentle, smiling.

"Where are you?" Noah asked.

"I'm at Grand Treasure Plaza, I want to help you choose some clothes, how about you?" Jocelyn asked.

"I'm here too." said Noah.

On the other side of the phone, Noah was on the women's wear floor below her and was patrolling the shop with a bunch of management and a dozen bodyguards.

Everyone behind him was trembling, not daring to utter a word.

He was wearing a tailored white shirt with black trousers.

A thousand stars seemed to converge on him alone, and although he was surrounded by countless people, all they could see was him.

Everywhere he went, everything was automatically reduced to a backdrop.

The eyes of the clerks and passers-by were all focused on him.

Everywhere he went, he was greeted with a sweet voice, "Welcome."

And he never gave a single look to anyone else.

"Where are you?" He asked again, his tone becoming soft.

"I'm on this floor of the men's Gucci shop here." Jocelyn looked around and gave a truthful account.

"Wait for me there, I'll be right down, I'm upstairs from you." He said.

"Okay."

"Be good, okay?" He said again, his tone still gentle.

Chapter 457 Stark Contrast

"I do think black shows slimness and is more resistant to dirt than white." The woman said again.
"I will take this one, pay the bill." The middle-aged man gave the woman a cold look, pointed to the shirt he was wearing and said.
The woman let out a long, helpless sigh and silently put the black shirt back on the rack.
Jocelyn gave the middle-aged man and woman a faint glance, and then took Noah's hand and began to take the suits on him one by one, according to his preference.
Noah cooperated the whole time and stood beside her.

That man's attitude with Noah was a stark contrast in an instant.

The clerks couldn't help but all sigh in their hearts.

Jocelyn looked around and finally selected a set of mauve.

She took the dress and while carefully measuring it on his body, she asked, "Do you like it?"

Noah's eyes were full of doting, he stood there obediently, "Well, it's good if you like it."

Jocelyn, "But do you like it?"

Noah, "As long as you like it, I'm wearing it anyway."

Jocelyn's heart suddenly warmed, "You should like it."

Noah, "Well, as long as it's what my wife chooses, I like it."

The conversation between the two people was heard by that middle-aged woman.

The woman, with an envious face, looked at Jocelyn's face.

And then she couldn't help but complain to the middle-aged man beside her, "Look at him, and then look at you."

After saying that, she turned around and left with a dissatisfied face.

The middle-aged man gave her a blank look before taking the clothes he had bought and following them out.

Jocelyn handed the suit she had chosen to the clerk, "I will take this. this size fixes him, please wrap it up."

"Grandpa sent me a message today, saying he's going to stay at Mom and Dad's for the next two days and won't be at our house starting tonight." Jocelyn added.

Noah, "Well, I know, he informed me too, so where are we going for dinner later?"

Jocelyn, "Well. I want to eat seafood."

Noah, "Then go to the beach?"

Jocelyn nodded.

Noah then looked at the bodyguard, "Go to the Waterfront Hotel."

Waterfront Hotel, one of the high-end hotels in Flento City, was named so in the first place because it was by the sea.

The per capita consumption of this hotel was extremely high, and those who were entertained on a daily basis were usually some rich and powerful.

In the past, when she accompanied her father to talk business, she often went over there.

Not only was the environment there good, but the seafood was also extremely well cooked.

The chef there, the former president's royal chef, was a masterful cook, and even the most ordinary ingredients, once in his hands, would be given a soul.

Afterwards, their motorcade, slowly rushing into the traffic, began to move forward towards the location of the Waterfront Hotel.

A row of luxury cars hit the road, once again attracting the attention of countless people.

Outside the window, flowers were still blooming all over the city.

The fragrant scent of roses lingered in the carriage, making her heart happy and relaxed.

She naturally leaned against Noah and took out her phone, ready to read Weibo.

The Weibo hot search list had been updated.

However, Paige and Francesca's affair was still in the first hot search.

And on the second and fifth of the hot search, she saw her name.

"Francesca showed proof of Paige again!"
This piece of news was sent by Weibo Entertainment.
Jocelyn saw it and clicked straight in.

What caught her eyes was a large string of text, as well as a screenshot of Francesca's post:

[Just a few minutes ago, Francesca showed proof of Paige once again! It stated that Paige had hooked up several artists within X Entertainment!]

And the boss behind X Entertainment knows all about it, but she doesn't do anything about it! She even supported Paige!

It was implied that there was an ulterior relationship between the boss of X Entertainment and Paige.]

Clicking on the screenshot, the post that Francesca had just posted was clear to see.

The content was exactly the same as what Weibo Entertainment had said.

Jocelyn genuinely was surprised by this person.

The last time she had acted out, perhaps she had made it up herself, but this time, if she said it was entirely her alone, she did not believe it.

She didn't think Francesca would dare to do such a big thing if she didn't have someone to back her up.

On the screenshots, Francesca's post has already broken three million likes and comments below.

And the post posted by Weibo News has even broken 5 million comments.

In the comment section below, Francesca's fans are getting more and more irritated.

Francesca smiled, "Thank you, Mr. Wood, don't worry, I will, and tomorrow morning I will continue to create rumors and slander them by name. Mr. Wood, you are targeting X Entertainment, is it because the big boss has offended you?"

The middle-aged man, "Yes, these days, X Entertainment is really too strong, because of them, our company artists are almost out of food. if I do not do something to deal with them, then our artists can't survive."

Francesca, "It's true, the cake of the entertainment industry is only so big, with X Entertainment artists becoming popular one by one these days, that big piece of cake is taken up by them all of a sudden."

"They get more, that means, the portion that others can share is less. It's really too normal for you to hate them." Francesca added.

The middle-aged man, "Yes, so you have to cheer up."

"Okay, I will definitely not disappoint your expectations, you sought me out and even offered me such lucrative conditions, I will work hard."

"It is hard to explain latent rule, if you said she did so, then she did. After all, she has no way to prove she did not."

"And, the entertainment industry itself is filled with latent rules, the public is also aware of it, so as long as I name it, that X Entertainment artists will have to be unlucky."

"At that time, as long as your company issue more circulars, blacken them, then their career will be greatly ruined."

Francesca continued to speak seriously word by word.

When the words fell, she began to laugh, "Hahaha, I'm so happy. X Entertainment, and Paige, all go to hell."

The middle-aged man, "Actually, before looking for you, I really didn't expect you to agree to me so quickly, after all, X Entertainment is the place that has made you."

Francesca coldly snorted, "We are a mutual achievement. They made me famous, didn't I make money for them? Besides, Paige treated me badly, that big boss didn't even say a word for me, isn't it normal for me to hate her?"

Middle-aged man, "Yes, you are right, but Paige is so quiet, I always feel not normal."

Francesca again coldly snorted, "What's not normal? What else can she do? Now, no matter what she says or does, no one will believe her, my first post has blocked all her paths."

The middle-aged man laughed, "That's true. However, I still think that it's not that simple."

Before he could finish his words, Francesca's kiss covered down, "Don't worry, it will be fine."
