Chapter 51 You Cause It

The video was the surveillance footage of the sales office of Faraday Apartments.

The footage was incredibly chaotic, with a large number of people surrounding Jocelyn and demanding a refund.

The three people watched quietly with their own minds, no one said anything, and no one knew why Allen was showing them this.

After the chaos continued for a while, they saw was Jocelyn walking up to a yellow-haired woman and they said something without any sound on the monitor.

Next, the woman was under the control of the security guards.

The moment they saw this image, Gloria and Sara's pupils instantly shook sharply, and their heartbeats accelerated at the same time, and Gloria's hand on her thigh began to tremble slightly.

What to do? The one she found to cause trouble was actually recognised by Jocelyn? What the hell were they talking about? Had that woman told everything?

So her father was angry, because of this? It's over!!! She was screwed!!!

Sara was also panicking at this moment, her heart was beating faster and faster, her mind was blank with fear.

Just at this moment the video finished playing.

They had wanted to see the aftermath, but they couldn't see anything else, and the unknown made them even more scared.

What had happened in the aftermath? What had happened to the yellow-haired woman? Did she tell the truth? Or did she manage to run away without telling the truth?

"What is this?" Joseph, who didn't know the truth, looked at Jocelyn and then at Allen.

"There's another audio file in the recording file, play it." Allen didn't pay any attention to Joseph and directly looked at Gloria and said coldly.

In the next second, Gloria then took a deep breath, tried her best to suppress her fear, and looked at Jocelyn and questioned.

"You arranged all of this, didn't you? That woman, and that man were all deliberately brought in by you to harm me, I have no idea what they are talking about!"

"Jocelyn, what do you have against me? For the sake of the family fortune, are you really going to kill your conscience?"

"Dad, mum, Joseph, you mustn't believe Jocelyn's bullshit, this is a trap she set up."

At this juncture, there might be a chance of survival if she did not admit it, but if she did, she would definitely be crushed by her father!

"Right, honey, you can't listen to these people's side of the story, a lot of things still need to be verified further." Sara walked over to Allen with a tense face, sitting on the arm of the chair, her hands clutching his arm tightly.

Jocelyn had not said a word since the beginning, just looking at the shameless appearance of the two with a bemused expression.

Despite her uncontrollable anger, she maintained her dignity and poise.

The evidence of the crime was overwhelming and her father was present, so there was no need for her to say or do anything more at the moment.

Allen could not bear it any longer, and immediately pushed Sara down fiercely, and then he stood up with one hand trembling and pointed at the two of them.

"You two beasts, how dare you slyly defend yourselves and shrug off the evidence! I think you're fed up with living, aren't you?"

"Gloria, in order to deal with Jocelyn, you actually put the company at risk, how could I raise such a scourge as you?"

"And you Sara, I saw your reaction just now, you obviously knew about all this, otherwise why were you so shocked when you watched the surveillance? You bitch, how dare you be in cahoots with her! I want a divorce from you!"

"You two bitches don't admit it, do you? Fine, I won't nag you, I wasn't going to settle this matter within the family. Someone come, send them to the police." Allen coldly ordered towards the door.

At those words, Gloria and Sara panicked even more, their faces pale without a trace of blood.

"You refuse to admit it, someone will naturally make you talk when you go over there!" Allen panted, his voice hoarse at the end of his sentence.

"I'm not guilty, why are you handing me over to the police? I'm still a pregnant woman." Gloria instantly climbed up and covered her stomach and said loudly.

"What's wrong with a pregnant woman? A pregnant woman can be investigated by the police! You should be glad that you are a pregnant woman, otherwise you would have been beaten straight up by me!" Allen shouted again!

"Honey, we'll settle it internally, family shame must not be disclosed, what are you doing?" Sara exclaimed.

She then knelt at Allen's feet, her hands joined together and kept rubbing back and forth, "We have been married for so many years, Gloria is our daughter, and she is pregnant, please don't punish her, okay?"

"Everyone has to pay for what they do! Even if she's pregnant, even if we are married! I'll get the divorce papers ready!" Anger completely washed over him.

He didn't want to think about it so much, he just wanted to make sure that the sinful mother and daughter were punished.

In the living room, the people were all red-faced, except for Jocelyn who had been sitting blandly, not saying a word.

Looking at them, Jocelyn was in a good mood.

Joseph did not say a word for them from the beginning to the end, only sitting silently, looking angrily at Gloria's face.

Looking at Joseph's eyes, Gloria felt more and more like she was being dragged into an abyss of despair, as if he was looking at an enemy, without any trace of the tenderness she used to feel.

"Okay, I will go upstairs to rest first, you rest early. Joseph, it is late, you go back early." After saying that, Allen stood up and went straight upstairs.

As she watched his back, Jocelyn's heart began to ache vaguely.

Knowing that the person he trusted the most had hurt his feeling, he must have felt a lot of pain in his heart.

After Allen left, Jocelyn went straight upstairs without the slightest intention of paying any attention to him.

Joseph had shown her that he was a total scum, he didn't even deserve a single look from her.

However, just as she reached the stairs, Joseph immediately caught up with her and took the first step up the first step, blocking her way.

The next second, his hands were placed firmly on her shoulders and he said with serious concern, "I was really worried about you after the incident at Faraday Apartments. Seeing that you managed everything so well, I'm really happy for you. Why didn't you reply to my text messages? I'm concerned about you."

His touch and concern made her feel incredibly sick.

What was once her favourite thing had now become distasteful.

Jocelyn frowned slightly and took a step back, coldly shook away Joseph's hand, "Brother-in-law, please don't touch me."

"I did not reply you because I did not want to." Jocelyn's attitude was always cold and aloof.

"Jocelyn, I'm worried sick about you, must you break my heart like this?" Jocelyn's attitude made him feel hurt, every time he faced Jocelyn, he felt like a loser.

But the colder she was towards him, the more fascinated he became and the more he wanted to conquer.

He wanted to possess this woman.

"Do you think it's appropriate for you to do this to a married woman? Brother-in-law?"

Tom froze for three seconds, completely unable to believe his eyes anymore.

Mr. Mason really wasn't like this before.

At this time the game screen suddenly turned grey and the screen displayed: you have been killed.

Noah ignored it and his cool gaze was once again placed back on Tom's face.

Tom immediately returned to his original respectful and serious appearance, lowering his head and saying, "The person who started the rumor has now been found, he is a top hacker and has now honestly confessed, he said that everything was ordered by Gloria."

"I heard that this time it was your wife who found his fake IP and tracked down his real location. I really didn't expect her to be a computer expert, this is too remarkable."

The corner of Noah's mouth hooked slightly, but he didn't say anything, he didn't expect her to have this kind of skill.

"Now as long as the Murphy's issues a statement and brings out all the proof, everything will be fine." Tom said carefully.

"Go on." Noah was as cold as ever, his eyes were as deep as the sea, making it impossible for people to guess his emotions.

"As for the woman who deliberately made the scene at the Faraday Apartments, it has now been confirmed that it was Gloria who ordered her to do so."

"Gloria and her mother are both in the police station and are being interrogated. Gloria has taken all the blame on herself, insisting that Sara knew nothing."

"Sara will soon be let go home because no concrete evidence can be found to prove her involvement."

"Gloria is a pregnant woman, she'll be sentenced, but it's usually outside of prison."

"Tell them to find a way to hold Gloria until eleven o'clock on her wedding day." Noah said coldly, before taking a puff of his cigarette with grace and elegance.

"Yes, Mr. Mason!"

Tom felt his scalp tingling, thinking that Mr. Mason was really ruthless in this move.

If she was released at eleven o'clock that day, how messy would it be for Gloria and her mother?

And how bad luck would it be to go straight from the cell to the wedding venue? But he found this way of dealing with it a real relief.

"Don't they have a lot of time on their hands? Give them something to do." Noah's tone was firm, and his eyes were as cold as an old pool.

"Yes, I'll go arrange it."

"And."

Chapter 56 Can You Play With Me

Although she knew that he disliked having people talking next to him when he was playing a game, but seeing Seven now, she just couldn't help but want to talk.

Noah gave Allie a glance and continued to fight with Seven.

Allie sat on the arm of his chair, watching the battle intently while saying, "Is it okay if I finish watching this game here? After all, this is a top match-up, and I know you don't like it, but just this once."

Her gaze was full of urgency and anticipation, eager to see the image of Noah defeating the opposite side.

But Noah was focused on the game the whole time, and despite the intensity of the battle, his face remained calm, not saying a word.

Allie took him for granted and did not leave.

However, he was soon defeated again.

"Oops, if you'd moved a bit earlier than her, it would be the opposite side that would have lost now." Allie said with a disappointed look at Seven with little blood bar on the screen.

Noah didn't say anything and silently waited for the resurrection.

Seven: good skills, I'll take you on a double row in the future, in that way you'll be able to score faster.

All The Way North: No need.

Allie immediately stood up straight away, "How can you give up such a good opportunity? You actually refused a best player to take you?"

However, he kept losing to the end.

"Get up, let me play with the best player, I think I can play better than you." Allie couldn't stand watching anymore and tugged on Noah's sleeve, wishing to have a try.

"No." Noah said indifferently.

"Hurry up, or I'll take away your mouse." Allie threatened.

Noah gave her a helpless look and stood up, helplessly helping her to her seat.

He knew Allie's temper very well, if he did not meet her demands, she would really do anything, not to mention taking away the mouse, she might even take away the host.

After updating her equipment, she began to fight against the opposite side.

After glancing at that hot search of Gloria, Jocelyn clicked on the hot search of Faraday Apartments.

At the top of the page was a statement released by the Murphy's, as well as various supporting documents from the official investigation.

The general meaning was that the previous news about the Faraday Apartments product was entirely a deliberate rumour by someone, and that they would subsequently pursue the other party for legal responsibility, and that despite the rumours, the Faraday Apartments product was sold out yesterday for six days.

As for who the rumor monger was, the Murphy's official blog didn't give an account, nor did the official documents.

Jocelyn knew that this was her father's intention. Since such a thing happened to the Murphy family, it would become the laughing stock of the whole world if word got out.

She could understand.

Since her father had chosen to stop here, she would also respect his decision.

Underneath the Murphy's blof, there was an outpouring of abuse, with netizens making the same point.

"Why is the Murphy's covering up for that so-called person with a bad intention? Who the hell is it?"

"I hope the one who started the rumour lives a long life and suffers from a hundred diseases."

"As far as I know, Jocelyn is in charge of the sales and the handling of the rumors. Six days! This is unprecedented in the country!"

"Both of them are from the Murphy family, but how come Jocelyn and Gloria are so different? One is doing great things silently, and the other is creating troubles."

Looking at these curses, Jocelyn felt less sleepy.

After browsing for a while, she exited the topic, and by this time she saw that # Faraday Apartments Sold Out# was at the third place in the hot search, and the heat was not low.

She could guess what would be said in it, so she simply exited the page, with no intention of reading on.

Just at this time, Edith's phone call came in.

Jocelyn quickly pressed answer.

"Gloria has taken everything on herself, and Sara did not admit it. We have no evidence, so we have to let her go."

"She is a pregnant woman, she will be sentenced, but it will be executed out of prison." Edith explained carefully word by word.

There was no heating in the back kitchen, and the water in the taps was even cold and biting.

They didn't even have dish towels, and they washed the dishes entirely by hand.

The greasy vegetable leaves stuck to their hands and the two were dry heaving.

Their hands were already purple with cold and they were shivering with cold.

What was more frightening to them than the cold was their inner despair.

Knowing that the situation was already tense, neither of them could think of a way to cope with everything.

Gloria had to break down at the mere thought that she was going to be locked up until the day before the wedding.

The thought that she might lose her father altogether broke her even more.

The same was true for Sara.

She didn't know what she should do if Allen insisted on getting a divorce next.

She was really scared of divorce.

She didn't know how she should go on alone in the future in case of a divorce.

It was easy to go from frugality to luxury, but difficult to go from luxury to frugality.

Could she really bear the huge difference in status before and after the divorce?

After washing several dishes in a row, Gloria couldn't take it anymore and turned her head to look at the prison guards and complained, "I'm a pregnant woman, is it appropriate for you to treat me like this?"

"If the boss says it's appropriate, then it's appropriate, cut the crap! Or I'll break your legs!" One of the guards behind them scolded in a cold voice.

"How dare you!" Gloria looked disgruntled.

"Wanna try? As long as the surveillance is turned off, no matter what I do to you, no one will know." The other prison guard threatened.

Noah was already sitting inside.

Black pajama style shirt and black casual trousers made him look cold but competent.

At this moment he was looking down at the black leather menu book, with grace and elegance in his movement.

The light from the crystal lamp spilled down from above his head.

Just looking at him like this from afar, she felt in her heart that this man was unattainable.

If she had not known his identity, she would have thought that he was some top aristocrat.

Casually tucking a strand of hair behind her ear, Jocelyn walked across to him and sat down.

One of them sat at the head of the table, the other at the end.

Even from a distance away, Jocelyn could still clearly feel the appalling sense of oppression on his body.

"Here you are." He closed his menu book, his cool gaze placed on her face.

"Well, order first, and we'll talk while we eat." With that, Jocelyn waved her hand towards the waiter next to her.

After ordering the food, the waiter left.

Jocelyn placed her hands on the table, crossed her fingers and looked at Noah, "Did you have a good day today?"

"Yes." He looked at her quietly, his expression bland.

"The main thing I intend to teach you today is also rather basic, it's called looking, smelling, asking and feeling."

"Look, means to observe the qi, smell, means to listen to the sound, ask, means to ask about the symptoms, feeling, means to feel the pulse."

"I'll teach you the specifics after dinner later, there's only a week left until Gloria's wedding, you must learn it well, I'm counting on you." Jocelyn said in a soft voice.

Every time she finished an important point, Jocelyn would seriously ask him if there was anything he didn't understand.

His answer, always, was no.

Before he knew it, it was twelve o'clock.

Jocelyn had covered the basics of pulse-taking and diagnosis, and had almost finished.

Glancing down at her watch, Jocelyn's gaze softly fell on Noah's face.

At the moment, he was looking at her intently, and his eyes were like two invisible nets that could trap a person if he wasn't careful.

After a second of wandering, Jocelyn softly said, "I've finished telling you some very basic things, did you understand everything?"

"Yeah." He continued to look at her, his voice damn good.

"Really?" Jocelyn was skeptical.

If it was true, then this man was more than a genius in medicine. This was simply a once-in-a-thousand-year miracle talent.

In the current medicine world, there was absolutely no one with more talent than him.

"Yeah."

"Are you sure?" Jocelyn's gaze was filled with disbelief.

"Yeah."

"In that case, then you can take my pulse." Jocelyn put her hand on the table.

He didn't say anything, he just silently cupped her face with both hands, his cool gaze carefully measuring her face.

The simple gesture stirred up waves of shock in her heart.

Jocelyn's body shook slightly, taking a deep breath, she asked, "What are you doing?"

"Isn't the first step looking?"

"..." Jocelyn had nothing to say, "Then ... then you hurry up."

He didn't say anything and continued to hold her face, looking at it carefully.
