Chapter 661 Amazing

The same content popped up in everyone's phones.

"X Entertainment has successfully signed a number of potential directors, cinematographers, producers, executive producers and screenwriters one after another."

People are talking about it.

This was something that Jocelyn had kept very low key when she carried out with Paige and a bunch of senior executives.

So apart from the management, no one else had heard a word of it.

At this moment, seeing this news, she was surprised.

"What is this situation?"

"Our company signed up a production team, could it be that they want to produce a TV series independently?"

"Then aren't we going to have a lot of resources? I am excited."

Many stars began to talk about it excitedly.

Compared to the stars, Ryan seemed much calmer.

After glancing at her phone, Jocelyn retreated back to the stage, picked up the microphone again, and said, "Well, this is a surprise I have prepared for everyone."

"As you guessed, in the future, we will independently invest in fine web dramas and promote our own people in the company."

"In the future, we will definitely get better and better."

As soon as her words fell, the stage applauded like thunder.

All members of the company was emotionally uplifting.

Noah was also applauding along with everyone.

"Ryan, you should look at Jocelyn less, although that's your sister-in-law, but I'm jealous too."

Their fans shouted hoarsely and hysterically.

They were more emotional than one another, crying and shouting while frantically taking pictures of their idols.

Their voices directly drowned out all.

The spectacular picture drew countless passers-by to turn around.

On Jocelyn's side, the armed police and the security guards, who were waiting at the entrance, saw them coming out and part of them, held hands with their bodyguards and formed a safety circle around them.

Ryan took a good look across the road.

He saw many lighted signs of his name.

Ryan then pushed aside the security guards as well as the armed police, walked to the side of the road, and bowed deeply towards his fans.

Along the way, he was really grateful to them, who was never leaving.

The moment they saw Ryan bow, the fans, one after another, shed tears.

"Ahhhhh. He's thanking us."

"I am lucky to be a fan of Ryan."

"He deserves it. He is the best."

A deep bow crashed directly into their hearts.

The young girls swore in their hearts to love Ryan for the rest of their lives and never leave him.

When Dorian and Nicolas saw this, they also immediately walked over to Ryan and bowed deeply towards their fans.

The three of them stood shoulder to shoulder, waving towards them.

Across the road with heavy traffic, they looked at each other quietly, each with stars under their eyes.

Some of their fans' emotions were outright uncontrollable.

The good order of the fans, and their excited appearance, deeply touched Jocelyn.

Jocelyn looked at the security guards surrounding herself, as well as the armed police, and said, "No need to stop them, they won't come over."

[Jocelyn is really happy..]

After a brief look, she clicked on it again, the hot search where Ryan, Nicolas and Dorian bowed to their fans.

At the top of each topic, were videos posted by their respective fans, of their respective idols bowing, deeply, towards their fans.

Below each video, there were various screams and exclams.

In the three topics, their respective fans, all of them, were in a frenzy and moved.

[Ryan really loves us. Regret not going to the scene.]

[Dorian looks cool but is actually so gentle inside.]

[Nicolas is so nice.]

Looking at the fans' messages, Jocelyn could deeply feel that they were excited and moved.

Finally, she clicked on the hot search that she was in the same frame with Noah and Ryan.

When she clicked on the topic, the first entry was a photo posted by a fan of Ryan, in which they were walking out of the hotel together.

In the photo, she is standing in the center position.

To her left and right were the two brothers, Ryan and Noah.

Behind them are Dorian, Nicolas, and a large group of bodyguards.

The photo has been fine-tuned and the picture, looking very good.

The post was published in just ten minutes.

But the following comments was more than five million.

Several fans of the idols were excited.

"Dorian, where are we going?" The young driver looked at the position of Nicolas and Dorian through the car's interior mirror and asked.

"Let's go directly to my home." Nicolas said, looked at Dorian and asked, "Is that okay?"

Dorian nodded, and then he closed his eyes.

About half an hour later, the caravan drove into the centrally located neighborhood.

This one neighborhood was a high-end residential area in the centre of the city.

Nicolas bought a house here and spent all of his savings since his debut.

Soon, the caravan stopped at the entrance of building number eight.

Nicolas and Dorian then dismissed the staff and went straight into the building wearing caps, large sunglasses, and masks, fully armed.

Taking the lift, the two of them made their way into Nicolas's home on the 19th floor.

His house was a large flat floor, with a floor area of 500 square metres.

As soon as he entered, Nicolas gently leaned down and, on the shoe rack at the door, took a pair of white slippers and placed them at Dorian's feet.

Subsequently, he took another pair of the same type of white slippers and put them on her own feet.

After Dorian changed his shoes, he lifted his hand and gently rubbed his hair, "Thanks."

With those words, he walked to the front of the living room sofa and sat down.

That intimate action just now caused Nicolas to blush uncontrollably.

Between him and Dorian, it had subtly changed since then.

Trying to calm his emotions, Nicolas walked over to Dorian, sat down, and asked, "What do you want to see me about?"

Just at this time, Nicolas's mobile phone vibrated.

An unfamiliar number was displayed on the screen.

Nicolas then pressed answer with eyes full of puzzles, "Hello."

Chapter 665 Perspective Eyes Upgrade (2)

She saw that there was an old gentleman burning this perfume bottle of hers.

In addition to that, she saw an old lady adding perfume to her bottle of perfume.

What is this about?

Why could she see all this?

Jocelyn was stunned.

Could these be her own illusions?

She then stopped seeing through and closed her eyes, trying to gather her thoughts.

She then placed her gaze back on the sink, above the wax plum face cream.

The next second, she turned on her perspective eyes directly.

Soon, her gaze pierced through the face cream and saw everything inside.

After taking a realistic look inside, the face cream's production appeared in her mind.

She saw the modern production plant and saw the modern production procedures.

She also saw lots and lots of workers in white isolation suits.

Once again, Jocelyn was amazed, it was truly amazing. It was unbelievable.

She then put her eyes on the bottle of Dior perfume next to the face cream.

The process that followed was exactly the same as before, exactly the same.

She saw the process of making the Dior perfume bottle again.

At this moment, the shock in her heart deepened once again by several points.

Retracting her gaze, she cautiously looked at herself in the mirror.

Her own eyes in the mirror were unchanged from the usual.

She couldn't help but ask herself a question.

The result, however, was still the same as before.

She was able to see through Noah's clothes just like before.

And in her mind, she also had the process of making this dress of Noah.

But that was all.

Her gaze still could not penetrate Noah's body, and she could not see the internal structure of his body.

But even so, she was already satisfied.

Her eyes hurt, so she immediately closed them and forcibly withdrew her gaze.

Feeling that something was wrong with Jocelyn, Noah immediately said with concern, "What's wrong with you?"

Jocelyn opened her eyes and shook her head, "Nothing. My perspective eyes upgraded."

Noah's eyes were full of consternation, "Upgrade?"

Jocelyn nodded, "Yeah, now as long as something is within my line of sight, I want to see through, I can just see through, no matter how thick that thing is."

At these words, Noah's eyes flashed with a touch of inquiry, "Really?"

Jocelyn nodded, "Yes, but it's limited to inanimate objects. Like you, my gaze can only penetrate the clothes on your body, but not your body."

"So, that's good enough." Noah said.

Jocelyn nodded heavily again, "Yes, it will be much easier if I look at the veins in the future."

"Apart from that, it will also be much easier to do other things." Jocelyn added.

For example, if she went to the auction in the future, she wouldn't need to, at all, deliberately sit very close to the stage.

"Yeah." Noah said indifferently.

For all of this, his heart was still full of surprise.

What came into view was a brooch made of enamel, set with pearls, rubies, emeralds and diamonds.

Soon, on the big screen, the brooch also appeared in its entirety.

The display stand beneath the brooch kept rotating slowly.

Through the big screen, she could see every little detail.

The material of the brooch is a family crest made of high temperature mineral enamel.

The brooch is hand-worked in 20 carat gold, with the royal coat of arms in the centre, surrounded by white pearls, rubies, emeralds and diamonds.

Only a French royal could have made such a magnificent brooch in the Georgian period of material scarcity, and the back pin is made of hard 18-carat gold and comes in an antique box in perfect condition.

However, the back of the brooch is so obviously inconsistent with the front of the brooch that it would be impossible to tell without a closer look.

Jocelyn switched on her perspective eyes.

Soon, her gaze penetrated the brooch.

After a few seconds, bits and pieces of the brooch's production process appeared in Jocelyn's mind.

She saw a man dressed in black traditional clothing using a modern machine to make the brooch.

After that, she saw, again, the man taking the dye directly and applying it to the surface.

Here, the scene ended.

Jocelyn immediately looked at the brooch and shook her head.

She had to admit that the master who made the brooch was really good at making his brooch to the point where the enamel could be faked as real.

The brooches are so good that if you don't look closely, she can't even tell that they are artificially painted.

The bald man couldn't help but suck in a cold breath and kept shaking his head, "How is that possible? This is an ancestral one from our family, you lied to me."

Sean, "I haven't lied to you."

The bald man was directly completely dumbfounded, "Take a closer look, you did not take a closer look, really do not casually jump to conclusions. "

He now regrets.

Had he known that this was the case, he would have chosen, not to make a bet.

So that it can still sell a good price.

Now everything was running out of steam.

Soon the hall was in an uproar.

"So Jocelyn was right."

"I really didn't think that those of us who have been in the antique business for decades would be no match for girl."

"Luckily I didn't auction it, or I would have lost out."

Hearing the crowd open their mouths, Jocelyn's gaze looked at these people who were vocal.

Just now, it was these faces that mocked her most vigorously.

Sean did not speak again, just went up to the stage.

The bald man saw this and also followed along on the stage.

"Help, take this out." Sean waved his hand towards the beautiful auctioneer next to him.

The beautiful auctioneer took the item out carefully and put it into Sean's hand.

Sean pointed directly at the enamel part and said, "The surface here is very unnatural, if it really is fired with minerals, the surface of the enamel should be smooth and flat, and this part of the halo should be very natural."

Jocelyn performed so well that some of the people who were waiting to see what was going on were disappointed.

Although disappointed, everyone also admired Jocelyn from the bottom of their hearts.

The bald man, on the other hand, at this time, was frozen.

How could he have expected that Jocelyn would actually let him off just like that?

After all, he had just gone really overboard.

Looking back, the things he had done were simply as silly as they could be.

"Miss Murphy, are you serious?" the bald man asked.

Jocelyn nodded blandly.

Seeing this, the bald man then ran off the stage and knelt directly in front of Jocelyn, "Miss Murphy, thank you."

"You are truly an angel." The bald man added.

This kneeling immediately took away all the resentment Jocelyn had in her heart towards him.

Jocelyn then stood up, leaned down and helped him up, "It's nothing, after all, I don't like to drive people to extinction."

The bald man was grateful, "Miss Murphy, you are so nice. Compared to you, I am really a fool."

He just treated Jocelyn like that, and she can still be so generous now, is this girl an angel?

He asked himself, if the victor was himself now, he would never be so generous.

Perhaps this is the difference between people.

"Well, hurry up and sit back down." Jocelyn said again as she looked at the bald man.

"Okay." The bald man wiped his tears and sat straight back down in his seat.

And at that moment, the others also gave a thumbs up towards Jocelyn.

"As expected of a woman from the Mason family, how generous."

"Jocelyn really deserves to be rich and lucky."

"That's a hundred million!"

Jocelyn smiled and didn't say anything, just shook her head.

Sean asked in a low voice with interest, "Oh? Why?"

"Intuition." Jocelyn whispered.

"Intuition?" Sean's eyes were filled with confusion.

"Yes."

"But I don't think your intuition is right. It's 100% full of rubies, whether it's the appearance, or now the cutting surface, it all leaks such a message." Sean whispered again.

This time, he genuinely felt that Jocelyn's intuition was inaccurate.

"I trust my intuition." Jocelyn said again.

Sean, however, shook his head and smiled, "This time, I also believe in my own intuition."

"How about we make a bet? If this piece of raw stone is really worthless as you say, then I will give you one thing." Sean added.

Jocelyn nodded, "What do you want to give me?"

Sean, "What do you want?"

Jocelyn, "You can give it as you see fit."

Sean, "If it is true, I will give you an antique, you can go to my antique shop and pick anything you like."

Jocelyn smiled, "Are you sure?"

Sean, "Yeah. So what if you lose? What are you going to give me?"

Jocelyn, "If I lose, I will give you whatever you want."

Sean, "Good, then it's a deal."

Jocelyn nodded her head readily.

This was a bet that was only won and not lost.

The reason why she agreed was only to accompany Sean to have fun and amuse her elders.

If the final result came out, she would not really want anything from him.

Completely unaware of Jocelyn's thoughts, Sean looked confidently at the raw stone on the stage, "I have to think hard about what would be better to ask you for."
