Chapter 691 Back to the Top

The same content was prompted on both people's mobile phone screens -

[Ms. Phoebe's body has been sent to the Flento City funeral home and will be cremated and buried in a week.]

Both of them, after a faint glance, returned their attention to the table at the same time.

Neither mood produced any fluctuation.

Inside the No. 1 funeral hall of Flento City Funeral Hall, Phoebe's corpse had already been placed in the hall.

The hearse had been decorated.

The finest white jade coffin, which contained Phoebe's corpse, was tightly packed.

In front of the coffin, a black and white photograph of Phoebe was placed.

On the photo, Phoebe is smiling brightly.

Around the coffin, countless wreaths were placed.

All of them were sent by relatives and friends who had dealings with the Stewart family.

The Stewart family were crying.

There was an endless stream of people coming in and out of the funeral hall to mourn and offer incense.

Archie, Joseph, William and Bella were standing at the entrance, holding back their grief while greeting the guests.

The journalists who arrived on the news were all standing by outside the funeral hall.

They were ready to report on the funeral.

The security was so tight that the reporters could only squeeze in at the entrance, but none of them were able to enter.

At this time, the entire Flento City Funeral Hall was shrouded in intense grief.

At six o'clock in the evening, Jocelyn ate her dinner in advance and sat directly in front of her computer, waiting for the LPL summer finals at seven o'clock.

The waiting time was truly boring, so Jocelyn directly logged into the Tiger community and looked at the LOL section of the community.

This time, the two teams in the final were all the top teams in the league nowadays, and the attention paid to this game was extraordinary.

As soon as she entered the LOL section, she saw that the whole world was butchered by the IM vs XS match.

The XS team members hugged each other directly, also crying in excitement.

Alex, the God of War, on the other hand, sat calmly, watching their excitement, with a very shallow smile hooked at the corners of his mouth.

The pop-up screen in the live broadcast room was swept by [XS is awesome].

Two commentators was excited incoherent.

Commentator man, "My god, Alex is simply a god of war, he gets 80% of the credit for winning these three games so quickly."

Commentator woman, "Oh my god, look at how calm Alex is, as if everything is under his control, can you believe it?"

Commentator man, "Alex is a god. Alex is the number one top player in the LPL and in the world."

Commentator woman, "Let's congratulate Team XS for winning this year's summer tournament. Soon, XS will represent our region at the Worlds as the number one seed in the LPL. Let's hope that they will be able to amaze the world next."

Listening to the commentators' shouts, the corners of Jocelyn's mouth involuntarily curved up into a satisfied curve.

At this time, the guide gave Alex a big close-up.

The teenager in the camera, calm and elegant, was in stark contrast to his teammates who were so excited that they were crying on the scene.

Under the teenager's eyes, it was as if countless stars had been rubbed into them, all spirited and shining with confidence.

Jocelyn once again clenched her fist, muttering to herself, "Nice."

Even if she didn't go to the scene, she could still feel, at this moment, the excitement of the audience and the joy of the entire XS team.

Such a feverish image had her mesmerised.

Just smiling, she dropped tears of excitement.

Taking out her phone, she went straight into the XS team's chat group and typed in the group, "Congratulations, guys."

Because of Regan and the medicine prescribed by the doctor at the First People's Hospital, those bruises have all scabbed over and the swelling has gone down.

But even so, it was still unsightly.

In the dining room, Noah had already prepared breakfast.

At this moment, Noah was standing in front of the dining table, carefully setting up the tableware.

As soon as Jocelyn entered the door, she saw a table of delicious food.

She instantly had an appetite.

She then walked to her seat and sat down.

"Hubby. You took a long time to prepare these, right?" Jocelyn asked as she gracefully ate her bread.

"Well, I got up in the early morning to prepare." Noah spoke lightly.

Jocelyn's heart instantly warmed, "Actually, we can go out and buy, you don't have to work so hard every time."

Noah hooked his lips, "But you prefer me to do it with my own hands, don't you?"

Jocelyn, "But it's too much trouble."

Noah, "As long as you love it, it's not troublesome."

Jocelyn knew that Noah was afraid that she did not like to eat lately, so he cooked in different ways.

What more could a woman want if she had a husband like this?

Chapter 694 Heart Knows

What was displayed on the screen was the news about Ryan that had just been released by Weibo news, [Ryan was exposed for playing a big game on set and disappearing without a reason.]

Ryan is a person who has always been very careful on his behavior, no matter when he was a newcomer or now, he never comes late or leaves early.

In the entertainment industry, he is known for his dedication and is a super model worker in the eyes of many people.

But wherever, needed, he never arrives early.

Moreover, he would even take the initiative to ask for overtime if he could not complete his work perfectly within the stipulated time.

Why would a man like that disappear for a day and a night for no reason at all?

She subconsciously felt that this was fake news.

With a slight frown, Jocelyn clicked into the news and read it carefully.

On the news, it wasn't very clear, it just said that a person broke the news that when Ryan was guest starring in a drama before, after the crew had prepared everything, he simply disappeared, causing the crew to lose a lot of money.

And this person who broke the news claimed to be someone within the crew.

This kind of information without pictures or evidence makes Jocelyn feel even more that this is fake.

It's really just a rumour.

In the entertainment industry, it is common for people to fight with each other, so Jocelyn has seen a lot of scenes like this before.

At this point in time, there were no major ripples in her heart.

Compared to what she had encountered in the past, this was nothing compared to what was happening in front of her.

She knew that it would be on the hot search list, so she clicked on it.

Everything was exactly as expected.

"Okay."

Looking at the rain outside, Jocelyn couldn't help but think again of Paige's words just now.

She felt that she needed to talk to Ryan, properly.

Just at this time, in her phone, another one popped up, just forwarded by X Entertainment, Director Bailey's post, "@Director Bailey, thanks to the director for helping to dispel the rumors."

Jocelyn clicked straight in.

The first thing she saw was a post that director Bailey had just released, "Don't start rumors, the crew this person is talking about is my crew, that day, Ryan didn't leave for no reason. It was a problem with the crew's filming site, there was no way to shoot, so I let him go back first. Another rumors, lawyer's letter is served."

Although director Bailey's post was published in a short time, the following forwarding and comments have already exceeded 300,000.

[I knew it, Ryan is not that irreverent.]

[Ryan is so good, why should he be smeared?]

[Ryan, I'm sorry. I shouldn't have smeared you, please ask the person who created the rumor, do you have a problem?]

[The entertainment world is filled with real and fake, I'd rather be neutral.]

[All fans, thank director Bailey, we will definitely support your new drama when it is released.]

[Ryan is so miserable.]

The public opinion instantly flipped.

Jocelyn hooked her lips in relief and dialed Ryan's phone number.

On the other side of the phone, Ryan was sitting in the studio of HC magazine downtown, styling his hair while watching everything in the Weibo.

His eyes had no a single ripple.

He was wearing a white casual shirt.

The first three buttons on the collar of the shirt were naturally open, revealing the white t-shirt inside.

Chapter 696 Rosa

According to what he knew about his mum, when the time came, she would definitely be excited and ask after him about that woman, and maybe even desperately buy gifts for that woman.

By that time, he would probably be annoyed.

After saying that, Ryan leaned against the wall feebly, closed his eyes melancholy, and let out a long breath.

"Don't worry, I won't say anything." Jocelyn snapped her fingers briskly.

"Then I'll get busy first." said Ryan, and hung up the phone, smiling helplessly and bitterly.

He kept standing in place for a long time before he put his phone back in his pocket and returned to the studio.

After the styling was completed, Ryan started the magazine cover shoot.

After the shoot was completed, Ryan took his assistant Rosa and a large number of security guards with him, and walked out of the magazine.

There were long lines lined up on both sides of the entrance to the agency, standing there neatly.

The two lines, the fans at the front, were holding banners that read, on one side, "Fans will always be with you."

On the other side, they read, "We will always love you."

The huge array drew the attention of countless passers-by.

The security guards on site pulled up a cordon in front of them.

Although there were many people, it was very orderly.

When fans saw Ryan come out, they immediately started to cheer wildly and shouted.

"Ahhhh, Ryan, we love you."

"Ryan, I love you, always support you."

Chapter 697 Rosa is scolded

"Ryan, what are your orders?" Rosa looked at Ryan with a serious face, acting cautiously.

"What's next on the itinerary?" Ryan asked.

"Next, go to K City, shoot the cover of S Magazine and also the inside page." Rosa had a serious tone.

"Okay." The words fell, Ryan closed his eyes, not saying another word.

In the headphones, the song was playing on a loop.

Rosa knew that he was very tired now, so he did not speak again.

Even if he didn't say a word, just listening to the music with his eyes quietly closed like this, he was still shining.

"After today, I guess you will be working late, tomorrow, you will still be busy, so tonight, you can probably only sleep for three hours, you can rest more on the way later." Rosa seriously admonished.

"Got it." Ryan said indifferently, not opening his eyes.

About an hour later, Ryan and Rosa, with a group of bodyguards, showed up at the Flento City International Airport.

The airport was so big that all the floors up and down were filled with fans.

The security guards at the airport were tense and maintaining order.

The fans on this side of the airport were so crazy that when they saw Ryan on the ground floor, they started to push forward with all their might.

Those on the upper floors, on the other hand, were running down like crazy.

The whole airport was chaotic to the extreme.

For a while, the screams, and shouts of the fans, almost drowned out everything.

The bodyguards Ryan carried with him formed a human wall in front of him, carrying him forward, but with great difficulty.

Rosa, on the other hand, directly blocked in front of Ryan, and while working with the bodyguards to clear the way for Ryan, he said over and over again towards the fans, "Make way, make way."

Yet not a single person listened.

No matter what kind of scene it was, Ryan was used to it.

Chapter 698 Blasphemy

She even felt that she was even blaspheming the gods by moving such a thought.

The woman who will stand by Ryan's side in the future must be a rich woman who is a good match for him.

Not a woman like her.

What's more, she could feel that deep down, Ryan seemed to like Jocelyn a lot.

Ryan treats Jocelyn differently than he treats other people.

On top of that, earlier she accidentally saw that Ryan had saved a lot of Jocelyn's photos in his mobile phone.

Thinking about Jocelyn made her feel even more inferior.

Opening Weibo, Rosa saw that the number one hot search had changed again.

At this moment, the number one hot search changed to #Ryan protecting his assistant#

She guessed that that scene would be in the hot search, but she didn't expect that it would be so fast.

When she opened the hot search topic, there were all kinds of screenshots of the moment when Ryan was protecting her.

The pictures show that the scene is even more surreal than when she experienced it in person.

It was like an idol drama picture.

Ryan's fans were almost furious.

[What the hell is this assistant doing? She can't protect the artist, but have the artist to protect her.]

[Will Ryan be not interested in this person. No, she is so ordinary.]

[You guys should not be imagining things, okay? How can Ryan be interested in such a person?]

[Ryan's woman should at least be of Jocelyn's class, right? What the hell is this woman?]

Chapter 699 Meeting Abel's Mother

Upon entering, the first thing Paige saw in the crowd was a woman dressed in a black Hermes sheath dress.

The woman was wearing a black Hermes bowler hat, her face was with delicate light makeup, and she was wearing hundreds of millions of antique pink diamond jewels, bejeweled and noble and beautiful, looking very young.

She suspected that she was a lady from a rich family.

But she couldn't be quite sure.

After all, this person looks too young, just under forty years old.

Abel said that his mother was in her thirties.

But rich people, who take good care of themselves, look like they are less than forty in their fifties.

Between her thoughts, the woman in Hermes waved at her.

She beckoned in a downward motion, with a cold face and a condescending look, as if she were calling her dog.

Such a gesture looked very disrespectful.

Paige coldly frowned, but forcibly held back her discontent, walking all the way straight to Abel's mother and sitting down.

The moment she sat down, Abel's mother then elegantly leaned back on the soft beige European sofa backrest, sizing her up and down, with disdain in her eyes in addition to coldness.

Paige felt displeased, but given the fact that she was Abel's mother, she just looked at the woman peacefully.

The woman's tone was full of contempt, "Nowadays, young girls all like to get close to a rich man, and then live a rich life."

Abel's mother's words were blunt and harsh.

Paige still smiled as good-naturedly as possible, "I never thought of getting anything from your son, moreover, if I want to live the life of a rich man, I can rely on myself."

Chapter 700 Being Cured

Back in her own office, Paige was still holding her anger.

Just at this time, Abel's phone call came in.

She frowned coldly, walked to the floor-to-ceiling window and pressed the answer, "What's up?"

Because she was in a bad mood, her tone was also bad.

She had seen a lot of arrogant and rude rich people.

But those like Abel's mother were really few and far between.

The actual fact that she has some money, she thinks she is noble?

Although, it is quite impressive.

But there is no need to look down on people like that, right?

What kind of delusional person is this?

She thinks that everyone wants her money, doesn't she?

"Who has upset my baby? Why do you sound so upset?" The tone of Abel's voice was ingratiating.

"Your mother."

"Don't scold me, okay? I didn't provoke you." Abel said innocently.

"Just a few minutes ago, your mother and I met." Paige patiently explained, her tone still a bit bad.

"What? She went to you? From the tone of your voice, your conversation should have gone badly, right?" Abel asked cautiously, thinking that no wonder just now his mother would just be in such a bad mood.

"Listen, you can stay with me, provided that you take care of your family."

"I don't want your mum to come at me with money again and insult me with a bunch of vicious words. If it happens again, we're done." Paige added.

Now, she was in a fit of anger, and many words, without thinking, came right out of her mouth.
