My Revenge Life, Fatty to Sexy

Chapter 71 Jocelyn's Husband (2)

Afterwards, everyone rose together to clink glasses with the bride and groom, and Gloria was the first to clink her glass to Allen.

But before she could touch it, Allen simply withdrew his hand and drained the wine in his cup with a cold face.

Immediately afterwards, the others joined in, tilting their heads and draining the wine in their own hands.

Gloria wasn't surprised by her father's reaction, it was already not easy for him to come today to cooperate with this wedding performance and maintain the decency of the Murphy family as well as the Stewart family.

Therefore, she did not expect that he would give herself any good looks.

She knew very well that they had a tough battle to fight next.

Gloria put down her glass of wine, but did not intend to leave immediately, but continued to look at Jocelyn and said, "Sis, where is my brother-in-law? Didn't you say before that you were going to bring him to my wedding?"

"Jocelyn, I just wanted to ask you too, why didn't your husband come?" Allen asked, outwardly looking fine, but in his heart he was extremely unhappy about him not coming.

He felt that Jocelyn's husband didn't know the rules at all!

"As a brother-in-law, it's not appropriate for him to not even come to my wedding, right? He doesn't know how to behave, does he? Or are you afraid that he'll embarrass you, so you deliberately didn't bring him with you?"

Gloria's words were mean and she had no intention of saving dignity for Jocelyn, she was now even more determined in her heart that Jocelyn's husband was ugly and of no good status, otherwise she wouldn't have dared to bring him.

"I think Jocelyn is afraid of losing dignity, so she simply doesn't bring her husband." Bella said with a smile.

Even if the elders were present, Bella still wasn't half afraid.

Just at this time, Gloria's aunt and uncle walked over arm in arm.

Before Jocelyn opened her mouth, Gloria's aunt held the back of her chair with both hands and said, "Jocelyn, an ugly son-in-law has to meet his father-in-law and mother-in-law after all."

The burst of commotion at the door immediately drew everyone's attention over.

Hanna behind Gloria received a phone call at this time, and she instantly turned around quickly and returned to the dressing room.

Immediately afterwards, Noah's slender and cool figure burst into the crowd's line of sight.

Short, thick black hair was combed into a loose back haircut, and his three-dimensional and perfect features were visible.

His white shirt was matched with a tailored dark blue suit, making his body look extraordinarily straight and upright.

For a moment everything around him became dull.

He carried a strong sense of oppression and stood there as a king.

At this moment, all the ladies in the room turned into his fans.

"Ah! Who is he? He is so stunning." Bella stared blankly at his face.

"He is either a star or some noble gentry from some family, right? I love his face, I must go ask for his contact later!" Jodie was inwardly dumbfounded.

"No, he is mine, none of you will steal him from me." Bella ordered as she looked at the crowd dominantly, before taking the initiative to walk towards him.

Jocelyn couldn't help but sneer before continuing to focus her gaze on his face.

Despite the attention, he remained cold, his eyes fell on Jocelyn among the millions of others.

He looked at her all the way forward, only looking into her eyes. Noticing where his gaze was going, Gloria immediately subconsciously looked at Jocelyn's position and was instantly confused.

What the hell? Why did he keep staring at Jocelyn? Could it be that he has a crush on her? She instantly became even more jealous of Jocelyn.

Bella quickly stood in front of him and took the initiative to extend her hand, "Hi, I'm Bella, Joseph who got married today is my brother."

"Which table are you from? I'll take you there." Bella continued to speak warmly and actively, her face slightly flushed.

But he ignored her, not even looking at her, and walked all the way straight to Jocelyn, dotingly rubbing her hair, "Honey, I'm sorry I'm late."

Soon Joseph lost the battle.

He frowned in pain and was the first to let go of his hand, Noah silently let go of him, and then he sat down with his arm around Jocelyn.

Joseph secretly shook his hand behind his back, not daring to show it despite the pain, for fear of losing dignity.

However, Gloria wasn't going to let them off like that, even if her brother-in-law's face was handsome, his career might not! Who knew if he was a pimp in a nightclub?

She immediately looked at Noah and said, "Brother-in-law, sister said that you are studying medicine, you can take a pulse for auntie. She always felt weak lately, and I don't know what's wrong with her."

Gloria felt her yes on her aunt's face at the next table and gave her a wink.

Gloria's aunt immediately nodded, "Yes, yes, I've been feeling weak lately, I want to sleep a lot, and my appetite isn't very good either."

Gloria's aunt then took the initiative to move a chair and squeezed in between Jocelyn and Noah, taking the initiative to place her hand on the table.

"Brother-in-law, take her pulse." Gloria snorted coldly, expecting Noah to make a fool of himself.

And then, she looked at the crowd and said, "My brother-in-law's grandfather is a medical immortal, he is also very skilled in medicine. If you are interested, you can come over and take a look."

When Gloria said this, she instantly drew the people at the other tables over, each one wanting to see him take a pulse.

She hooked her lips in triumph and watched it all with a look of amusement.

Noah didn't say anything, he just casually pulled a tissue and covered Gloria's aunt's wrist, before placing his finger at the pulse.

Jocelyn was slightly nervous inside, even though she knew that this illness of Eve should not be difficult for him, she was still worried that something might happen.

After a few seconds, Noah quickly released her and threw the tissue directly into the bin, looking at her lightly and saying, "Do you often have bad breath when you get up in the morning?"

Gloria's aunt felt embarrassed, but nodded stiffly.

The people around her couldn't help but laugh.

"There's nothing else wrong with you, it's just a weak spleen and stomach cold, so you can just use the Pill of Ritualistic Medicine to regulate it." Noah said indifferently.

Chapter 74 Sending Gloria to the Center

A handsome man and a beautiful woman's loving interaction was enviable.

They didn't need to do anything more, just this attracted countless eyes.

When Allen saw how well they looked together, his heart was also very satisfied.

He instantly felt that his mood, which had been suppressed for a long time, was much better.

The gaze on them was full of appreciation.

Just at this time, Noah's mobile phone vibrated.

Seeing the two words Tom, he immediately took his phone and walked towards the outside of the banquet hall with modest steps.

On the way, he had received many astonished gazes he had attracted.

However, he was in the middle of nowhere, always cool and calm.

After leaving the door, he naturally leaned against the wall and pressed answer.

"Mr. Mason, I have a few documents here that I need you to look over."

"Send them to my email."

Noah responded coldly, and then hung up the phone sharply, putting it into his inner pocket of his suit.

At this moment, Joseph walked over.

He stood straight in front of Noah and said coldly, "Noah, right? Shall we talk?"

Noah did not respond, his eyebrows lightly raised, his gaze coolly falling on his face as he waited for him to speak.

The strong sense of oppression caused Joseph to subconsciously suck in a cold breath.

The man in front of him was clearly just an ordinary medical student, but why did he carry an imperial sense of oppression in his bones?

He didn't say anything, but a look thrown over would make people afraid.

Chapter 75 The Whole City Spreads

In an instant, the big screen became the place where everyone's eyes went.

In the next second, the skull disappeared and the video of Gloria's confession in the guardhouse appeared on the big screen.

The truth about the hacking of the Faraday Apartments product was revealed.

The whole audience was in an uproar.

Jocelyn was slightly stunned, with disbelief in her eyes.

How could this video have appeared here? Her intuition told her that the person who did all this should be the same person as the one who kept Gloria hanging on the hot search.

How much hatred must one have to have to go to such an extent?

Sara and Gloria's faces were white and their eyes were filled with horror.

Everything was like a fire to them, burning away the light they had been given for this wedding.

Never in their wildest dreams did they think that the darkness they had never wanted to be known would appear in such a way at the wedding.

Joseph, Archie, Phoebe and Allen's faces darkened to the extreme.

Noah, on the other hand, was as calm as an outsider, with no half-hearted fluctuations visible under his eyes.

He took a silent glance at Jocelyn's face, before placing his gaze on the big screen.

"So, the one who started the rumour that there was something wrong with Faraday Apartments was actually Gloria? No wonder I saw Mr. Murphy's face look so pale all the time."

"This kind of behaviour is simply outrageous, if I were Mr. Murphy, I would break off the relationship in a minute!"

"How could the Stewart family marry such a person? This is degrading, isn't it? If I were Joseph, I'd get a divorce right away!"

The words that came to her ears were bloodless knives that struck at the very heart of Gloria.

Jocelyn! Jocelyn must have done it! There was no one else but her!

Chapter 76 You Have to Pay the Price

Pain spread out on Jocelyn's face.

The bright five-finger mark looked particularly harsh on her face.

Her face instantly swelled up.

The anger Jocelyn had been forcibly suppressing at the bottom of her heart was instantly struck out by this slap.

The hand hanging at her side instantly clenched into a fist.

She wanted to hit back, but she knew that if she fought back at such a time, Sara would definitely make a big deal out of it, which would not do her any good.

Looking around her, she placed her eyes on the red fire alarm button in her hand.

The next moment her gaze fell on Sara's face, she took a step towards her and questioned in a cold voice, "What are you doing?"

With this step, the alarm button was just at the level of her elbow.

"I'm teaching you a lesson. It's enough to bribe people in the prison to bully me and your sister."

"And now you're doing this to your sister at the wedding, how can you be so vicious? Are you done with this or not?"

Sara's words were loud and clear.

Such a statement could not help but make Jocelyn feel ridiculous.

She was clearly saying, "It's okay for us to bully you, but you can't fight back, and if you do, you're guilty."

"You are so shameless." Jocelyn snorted coldly and elbowed the button without a trace.

In an instant, alarm bells rang out loudly throughout the floor.

Sara subconsciously felt that there was a fire somewhere, and immediately looked around, her heart in her throat.

At that very moment, the people in the banquet hall came out in an orderly manner.

All carried frightened faces.

At this moment, Jocelyn felt that he shone even brighter.

Every word he said made her relieved.

She even felt that at this moment, he was like an umbrella that could help her withstand the entire storm.

She had been to many places and met many people over the years, but none of them made her feel more secure than he did.

As soon as Sara and Gloria heard the word, their scalps immediately tingled.

Having just come out of that hell on earth, they both knew very well how bitter it was there.

Even if they didn't have to suffer, they couldn't go in now.

The more things went wrong, the more they would be disgusted by Allen.

They were miserable no matter what they did.

The stares of the people around them even sent a chill down their spines.

The anger in the two of them immediately went out.

Sara took a deep breath, forcibly holding back the anger in her heart as she looked at Noah and said, "Do you have to do this?"

"..."

Noah, however, did not say a word, only looking at the two of them coldly, with an appearance of not giving up until he reached his goal.

He clearly said nothing, but the aura on his body was enough to make people's hearts tremble.

Sara frowned deeply and reluctantly lowered her head, saying stiffly, "I'm sorry."

Many of the onlookers could not help but give Sara a blank stare.

Once again, the crowd exchanged pleasantries and sneaked comments.

Even if she didn't turn around, she knew how ugly everyone's eyes really were, and she truly felt ashamed of herself.

If she had known it was like that, she would never have done what she did.

Jocelyn was so cruel.

Noah's eyebrows raised and he gave Sara a deep look, but he didn't say a word, he wrapped his arm around Jocelyn's shoulder dominantly, "The voice is too low, my wife didn't hear you."

He looked awe-inspiring.

At this moment, Jocelyn felt that he was handsome.

The six men formed a circle around them, each with a fierce look on their faces.

"Come together! Get this brat to death!" A big bald man, glaring viciously at Noah, shouted.

Not being able to think much, Jocelyn immediately took off her jacket and threw it to Noah.

And then with a stretch of her arm, she naturally shielded him behind her, "You stand still, I can handle these guys."

Her movements were fast, her gaze was firm, and she changed from her soft appearance just now to look valiant.

He only felt as if something had touched him gently somewhere inside.

This was the first time in his life that he had been protected by a woman in a crisis.

He silently put his jacket on her, "Stand still, I will protect you."

As soon as the words left his mouth, a big man swung an iron bar towards his head.

He did not panic and kicked that man in three strokes, his movements were smooth and with great momentum.

For a moment, Jocelyn felt as if he was watching a well-made action movie in which he was the perfect male lead.

Immediately afterwards, the others all rushed towards him.

She couldn't care less and quickly kicked off her high heels, then quickly took off her wide jacket and threw it at the face of one of the men beside her.

In the next instant, she rushed into the fray, fighting alongside him.

The two of them were like two agile cheetahs, always delivering the most precise blows to their opponents.

Jocelyn was extremely good at it, and Noah was even better, as he was able to kick both men to the ground together at once without much effort.

Perhaps it was because he was so good that she didn't panic a bit.

At the last minute, one of the strong men was so furious that he swung his iron bar down towards Jocelyn's shoulder.

Noah immediately bent his left arm and used his elbow to block the attack for her.

Jocelyn's gaze was incomparably focused and every action was serious and professional.
He sat there very cooperatively, quietly allowing her to examine him.
The light from outside shone on her face, making her gentleness even clearer.
The wide dark blue suit was draped over her shoulders, yet it didn't look the least bit unattractive.
After checking over and over several times, Jocelyn looked up at him and said, "There shouldn't be any fractures but to be on the safe side, you should go to the hospital and have a film taken, because sometimes bones fracture can't be seen like this."
"Okay."
"Wait for the police to arrive later and we'll go after we explain the situation."
"Okay."
"Thank you for blocking that for me." Jocelyn said softly.
Recalling the image of him blocking the iron bar attack for her without hesitation just now in the underground garage, her heart surged with another wave of warmth.
"No need." He responded calmly, with an air of understatement.

"And I'm sorry." Jocelyn frowned slightly, an apologetic look on her face.

"What?" There were a few searching moments under his eyes, but his expression was as cool as ever.

"If I hadn't asked you to play my husband, you wouldn't have come across this kind of thing."

"There's nothing to be sorry since I have taken your money." Noah had a look of indifference on his face.

"Reasoning as it may be, I'm still sorry for getting you hurt."

"It's okay."

"You should be careful next, in case he makes a move." Jocelyn was worried about what was next for him.

"Don't worry." Noah remained calm, with the blandness of a strategist.

"Take a few more men with you when you go out." Jocelyn seriously admonished.

"Okay."

"Call me if you can't handle it." Jocelyn added.

At those words, the corners of his mouth curved up slightly in a playful manner, and his gaze shifted slowly and deliberately to her face.

"Surprise! Expired raw materials used in children's biscuits under Stewart Food Group."

The corners of Jocelyn's lips were slightly hooked, her finger quickly slipped into the key ring and turned it, before tapping on the news while descending the stairs:

"Today, Amaya Brown, an employee of a bread and biscuit factory owned by Stewart's, reported to the police, claiming that in order to save production costs, Stewart's children's biscuits 'eclairs' 'fruity cookies' 'vegetable cookies' all used expired raw materials."

"The employee even provided a number of photos of the raw materials, taken secretly by herself in a Stewart's Food warehouse, which showed that many of the flours were already mouldy and a lot of signs of decay could be seen on the vegetables and fruits."

"It is reported that the three products are the responsibility of Joseph Stewart and are all produced centrally in the same factory."

"The informant Amaya Brown not only broke the story with the police, but also posted the same revelation on Weibo."

Below the brief text were several photos of a warehouse at one of Stewart's factories, in which piles of expired and mouldy flour, slightly rotten fruit and vegetables were clearly visible.

At the end, there is also a posting of Amaya Brown's on Weibo, where, in addition to the text, she has also posted a lot of photographic evidence.

The news had only been posted for a few minutes, but the number of comments below had already exceeded 100,000 by now.

Jocelyn's smile deepened at the corners of her mouth as she carefully browsed the comments section.

"You guys dare to fake the child's stuff, Joseph is really an unscrupulous dog!"

"My child is three years old and he eats these three products every day. I thought the brand was trustworthy, but I never thought something like this would happen. Go to hell, Joseph Stewart!"

"Damn Stewart's! This kind of company should get out of the food industry in Z Country! They are simply assholes!!!"

The internet was abuzz with curses.

Every word that caught her eyes was a cure for Jocelyn's inner pain.

Unknowingly, she had already walked out of the building.

It was snowing again outside, so she quickly got into the car and started it up.
