

FBI Detective 451

Chapter 451 What happened in the second half of the night of the crime

"how could I know?!"

Hearing Luo An's question, Pietro cursed immediately.

He said with anger on his face that the three of them did not know who the woman who was replaced in the villa was. The woman had been in single-line contact with her employer.

The three Pietros had questioned this, but the employer said that they either believed that women were okay or quit the task. The three people who were short of money looked at each other and felt that the commission after the task was successful was more important.

Pietro continued:

“That night, the three of us followed the plan, drove around the surveillance camera, and arrived at the outskirts of the villa.

First of all, the woman found a way to insert a USB flash drive prepared in advance in the monitoring room. I used this to hack into the villa's monitoring system and replace the monitoring with a replay video.

After success, we drove the car close to the southwest corner of the villa. I stayed in the car and turned on the signal jammer to prevent anyone from calling the police. Hubert and Daryl sneaked into the villa from under the barbed wire fence and stole things according to the list..."

But what Daryl and Hubert never expected was that they successfully sneaked into the villa, but in the process of stealing things, they found that all the people in the villa had lost their breath.

Hubert and Daryl were frightened when they saw that all twenty people were dead. The two of them, who had grown up playing together, looked at each other and understood each other's thoughts and gave up the mission.

The two took nothing, quickly erased all traces of their entry into the villa, got out of the barbed wire fence and returned to the car, pushed Pietro away, turned off the signal jammer, and drove quickly away from the area.

The employer was contacted afterwards, but the employer lost contact, and the three men immediately started to curse.

But fortunately, they did not lose money on this trip, because the employer originally expected to give Henry $100,000, but the three Pietros withheld half of it and only gave Henry $50,000.

After Pietro finished narrating, Chenelle frowned and looked at Luo An, who was silent for a few seconds and asked:

“What did you mean when you said that the employer asked you to steal some things? Are there many target items?”

"a lot of!"

Pietro nodded heavily and said that the employer listed more than a dozen items.

Among the precious ones are Pranay O'Dell's fingerprints, photos taken from all angles of the safe in Pranay O'Dell's study, a certain ivory sculpture in the upper right corner of Pranay O'Dell's study, and Pranay-O'Dell's study. Certain papers, etc. on the bottom floor of O'Dell's desk.

In addition to things related to Purannai-O'Dell himself, there are also items belonging to Purannay-O'Dell's two daughters-in-law, as well as things belonging to six overnight guests, such as fingerprints, bracelets, necklaces, keys, rings, etc.

There are a lot of them, nearly twenty kinds in total.

So that night, Daryl and Hubert both sneaked into the villa with bags on their chests, giving the impression that they were buying goods.

“...”x2

Chenelle twitched her lips when she heard this, and Roan was speechless. He continued to ask Pietro a few questions, and then the two of them got up and left the interrogation room.

In the corridor, Chenelle looked at the small notebook in her hand that recorded the interrogation content, raised her head and asked:

“What do we do next?”

Luo An held his chin and pondered for a few seconds, then turned and walked towards the other two interrogation rooms:

“Continue the review and see if there is any difference between Hubert and Daryl's description and Pietro's words.”

"no problem."

Three hours passed, at 4:30 in the afternoon, Roan and Chenelle ended the interrogation of Daryl and Hubert.

The interrogation of these two people was similar to Pietro's, and the general direction was the same, that is, they found the dead people when they entered the villa, and then ran away quickly.

However, there are some differences in small details. For example, Hubert and Daryl did not actually return empty-handed.

They confiscated the cash from the deceased in the villa, as well as the high-end cosmetics that a certain daughter-in-law of Purannai O'Dell had just bought and had not yet been used.

Because a woman Daryl knew was celebrating her birthday, Daryl planned to use the cosmetics to give her a birthday surprise.

Luo Ancheng always turned on the "emotional perception" in his mind. After several inquiries, he was sure that the three people were telling the truth, so he asked these small details.

But these small details are of little use at present, because it was not the three Pietros who drugged and killed people, they were just hired thieves. "The good news is that we caught the three thieves and know what happened in the second half of the night of the villa tragedy."

Hold the interrogation record, Lacey swayed on the chair and said with a strange expression:

"The bad news is that we still don't know what happened in the first half of the night of the villa tragedy, who was the poisoner, and why that person did it."

"We don't yet know who the employer placed the order for the three Pietros."

Next to Michelle added:

"Henry and his mother Belinda have not been found either, and it is not known where they are now."

Lacie threw the interrogation record aside and sighed:

"Well, it sounds like there's more bad news.

But at least we have the next direction of investigation, which is to find out who the mysterious employer is. "

Chenelle picked up the mineral water on the table and took a sip. She looked at Mona who was typing furiously on the keyboard and asked:

“Mona, how did you check that website?”

Before Pietro's interrogation was over, Mona had opened Pietro's laptop and discovered the criminal website.

Then Mona discovered that if she wanted to log into the criminal website, she only had two opportunities to enter her account password.

Once you enter the wrong account and password, the account and password will be canceled on the spot. If you want to get a new account, it will not only take a month to review, but also require 10,000 US dollars.

Ten thousand dollars is not important. One month is too long for important matters, and the special investigation team seems unable to wait.

Just when Mona was hesitant to try to invade, Roan's interrogation ended and he asked Pietro if he recognized the account password.

Mona successfully logged into the website and discovered the chat history between Pietro and the employer, and then began to track down the identity of the employer.

Hearing Cheniel's question, Mona didn't even raise her head, her eyes were fixed on the letters and numbers flashing on the computer, and she said coldly:

“Give me some more time!”

"Thanks for your hard work."

Chenelle nodded, reached out on the table and picked up a piece of cake Lacey bought, sat down next to Mona and fed it to her.

Mona kept her eyes still, opened her mouth, took a bite, and began to eat the cake while typing on the keyboard.

Lacey, who saw this scene next to her, frowned slightly. She didn't know if it was an illusion. She felt that Cheniel, a cold-hearted person who didn't like to talk, seemed to like feeding others?

Winslow and Michelle lowered their heads to exchange their views on the case. They turned around and found Luo An sitting on a chair, holding a piece of paper and frowning in thought. He stood up and walked to Luo An and asked:

“Team leader, what are you thinking about?”

As he spoke, Winslow looked down at the paper Luo An was holding and found that it contained a list of items that Pietro and the three of them had narrated, and that the employer wanted them to steal from the villa.

Luo An pondered for a few seconds, handed the paper to Winslow, picked up the coffee and drank it in one gulp, frowning and saying:

“I'm wondering if the real target of the mastermind behind this is not the O'Dell family at all?”

“What?”

"What's the meaning?"

Hearing this, except for Mona, Chenelle, Lacey and Michelle all raised their heads and turned their attention to Roan.

Bang!

Winslow seemed to have thought of something and moved his eyes to speak. At this moment, Mona suddenly smashed the keyboard and shouted angrily:

“Fu-k! NSA! (Federal National Security Agency)”

Chapter 452: NSA fishing, the real purpose of the “employer”?

At five o'clock in the afternoon, the temporarily borrowed office area.

score

The sound of Mona typing the keyboard suddenly startled everyone. Lacey put aside her doubts about Luo An's words, turned around and asked:

“Mona, what happened?”

“Damn NSA (Federal National Security Agency)!”

Swearing a few words angrily, she stood up and handed the computer to Luo An. Mona said with an unhappy face:

“Roan, the criminal website that Pietro logged into was most likely created by the NSA group.”

Lacey, Chenelle, Winslow and Michelle had questions on their faces. Roan was stunned for a moment, and then quickly responded:

“For fishing?”

“High probability.”

Mona nodded heavily, indicating that she had just tried to use some means to bypass the firewall and log into the backend of the website to find the employer's computer IP and other information.

As a result, Mona discovered that the underlying architecture pattern of this criminal website felt very familiar to her. Before she could think about it carefully, someone suddenly started to trace Mona in reverse.

Mona had just logged into the underlying structure of the website and had not yet carried out any sabotage operations. The other party did not use more direct methods immediately, so Mona had an opportunity to invade the other party.

But just when Mona was about to succeed, a powerful third party suddenly appeared. Not only did she cut off Mona's intrusion structure, but she also almost successfully invaded Mona's computer and forced Mona's computer to report her location to the other party. Location.

“That new group of third parties is definitely the NSA!”

Mona gritted her back molars and said she would never admit the wrong person. When she first joined the FBI and was still in Investigation Team 5, she had been beaten back several times by the people in the NSA. Mona was very familiar with the other party. Internet style.

Furthermore, the structure of this criminal website is exactly the same as some websites established by the NSA that Mona hacked before. The underlying logic is exactly the same. Mona said that she will never admit her mistake. This criminal website was definitely established by the NSA.

“...”x4

After listening to Mona's narration, Chenelle, Lacey, Winslow and Michelle looked confused, while Roan nodded thoughtfully.

NSA, the Federal National Security Agency, is the largest intelligence department among federal government agencies. It is responsible for collecting and analyzing foreign and domestic communications data. It is affiliated with the Department of Defense and is also known as the National Security Agency.

This department is mainly responsible for monitoring radio broadcasts, communications, and the Internet, especially military and diplomatic secret communications.

14 years later, it was revealed that the Federal National Security Agency had implanted surveillance software in 100,000 computers around the world. World-renowned companies such as Samsung and Dell have not escaped its clutches.

At this time, the time has just reached 2006, and computers have not yet developed to the point of prosperity as in later generations. However, the CIA has begun to use the method of establishing criminal websites, attracting criminals to settle in, monitoring each other at all times, and catching them all at critical moments, and the NSA is learning from it. This is also normal.

In fact, 80% of the mysterious "deep web" and "dark web" that have been rumored in later generations are under surveillance. As soon as some people who don't know why place an order, there will be FBI, NSA and even CIA to knock on them. The door is closed.

He reached out and grabbed the angry Mona and pulled her to sit on a chair. Luo An chuckled and handed her a piece of cake, saying that he would contact the NSA later and would definitely get the "employer's" information from the NSA.

“But we need to investigate one other thing now.”

Picking up the list of items stolen by the three Pietros requested by their employer, Luo An distributed the paper to everyone and explained:

“I have been thinking before, why did the employer want the three Pietros to steal so many things.”

The list provided by the three Pietros lasted for several pages. It was rich in variety and complete with samples, and they almost did not take away the clothes of those in the villa.

Winslow was the first to react and said in a deep voice:

“You mean that the employer's real goal may be just one of the items in the list, or even one of them?”

The reason why he wrote so much was just to cover up his true purpose? " After the words fell, Lacey suddenly realized, clapped her hands, and continued:

“According to what the three Pietros said, their original plan was just to stun the people in the villa.

If the plan goes well, when those people wake up the next day and see that one of their own items is missing, they may panic and make guesses, but when they see that everyone else's items are lost, that person will feel relieved. "

Michelle next to her also thought clearly about the logic of this matter and added:

“Moreover, there are many missing items and various types, which will cause great trouble to the law enforcement agencies who come to investigate.”

“That's right.”

Luo An nodded, then pointed at the paper in the hands of the agents and said:

“Everyone, I will contact the NSA to find out the identity of that “employer”.

You will investigate these items in the list next, connect them with the item holders, and see if any item has a special function. "

At this point, Luo An paused, then looked at Mona and Michelle, and said:

“In addition, you two should carefully check the information about the six guests, as well as the chef, driver, maid, etc. outside the Odell family.

See if two, or more than three of them are related to a certain person or organization. "

"no problem!"

All the agents nodded in unison and walked to their seats to start working. Luo An picked up the cake on the table and ate it in two bites, then walked to the balcony with his mobile phone.

The NSA (Federal National Security Agency) is the agency that employs the largest number of PhDs in mathematics, PhDs in computer science, and linguists in the world. It is also one of the most mysterious intelligence agencies in the federal government.

Because it is too mysterious and even completely unknown to other departments of the federal government, its abbreviation NSA is often jokingly called "No Such Agency".

Luo An has been in the Federation for so long, and he has never had any contact with people in this department. The only indirect contact he had was with Lydia a long time ago.

However, Luo An is not familiar with the NSA, but some people are very familiar with the NSA, such as Mr. Clement, such as Team Leader Elmer of the IRS.

The latter is, after all, a member of the IRS-CI (Internal Revenue Service Investigation Division), and he is somewhat thin-faced wherever he goes.

But Team Leader Elmer paid more attention to money matters, and this case had little to do with them, so Luo An walked to the balcony and took out his mobile phone and called Veranith first.

While on vacation some time ago, Luo An once treated Veranith to a casual meal on a weekend night to build up the relationship.

Although Luo An and Veranith have a lot of phone calls on weekdays, seeing them is better than seeing them. Having the opportunity to chat in person is definitely far better than chatting on the phone.

“Good evening, sir.”

The phone call was quickly answered. Luo An stood on the balcony and looked at the beautiful night view in the distance, smiled, and started chatting with Veranith.

The two chatted briefly for a while, and Luo An brought the topic to the case he was currently handling.

“NSA...”

After listening to Luo An's narration, far away in New York, wearing a gray close-fitting thermal shirt, Lacey Verenis sat lazily on a chair, frowned slightly and thought about it, then quickly agreed and hung up the phone.

Ten minutes later, Luo An's cell phone rang again. He pressed the answer button and a serious male voice sounded on the phone:

“Hello, Team Leader Greenwood. I'm Kotlik, Team Leader of the NSA's External Liaison Department.

Excuse me, is Mona Evans with you now? ”

Hearing the following words, Luo An's eyes suddenly narrowed.

Chapter 453: Investigate clues and discover the suspect!

From the moment he met Mona, Luo An discovered that Mona was not a peaceful person.

The restlessness here does not refer to Mona's lifestyle or emotional aspects, but to the part of Mona related to computers.

Mona's computer skills are very good, but they are not among the best in the Federation.

Mona has two goals in life: one is to save money to buy a large villa of her own, and the other is to hone her computer skills to the top and reach the best level.

It goes without saying that the first goal needs to be elaborated. In order to achieve the second goal, Mona has never stopped exercising her computer skills since she joined the FBI.

The exercise method is very simple. The federal intelligence system includes 18 member agencies, such as CIA, FBI, NSA, DIA (Federal Defense Intelligence Agency), etc. Mona invaded one by one.

Although they were defeated by the people in those departments, Mona's computer skills have been improving rapidly, and Mona is very happy about this... August, the leader of the No. 5 investigation team, feels very headache about this, and the people behind it have headaches. Then he became Luo An, the leader of the special investigation team.

But Mona knew the rules. She only fought with the computer technicians in those departments and did not do anything too extreme.

Coupled with the rapid rise in Mona's computer skills, the special investigation team needed computer talents, so Luo An had a headache, but he did not directly ban Mona's behavior.

Hearing the words of Kotlik, a team leader of the NSA's External Liaison Department, Luo An chuckled:

“Yes, Mona Evans is with me now. Our special investigation team is investigating a case. She followed my order and investigated an Internet crime website...”

Roan gave a brief summary of the case. Team Leader Kotlik on the other end of the phone understood the meaning of Roan's words. He was silent for a few seconds, coughed, and said with a serious face:

“The NSA has also been paying attention to this criminal website, and we have some understanding of the situation inside.

We at the NSA have investigated the "employer" you provided and cannot find out the specific identity of the other party. However, we have found the network IP and signal source when the other party logged in to the website. I can give these contents to you..."

Hearing Kotlik's words, the corners of Luo An's lips raised slightly.

Obviously, the NSA did not admit that the website was set up for fishing. Luo An wanted to know who the "employer" was and needed to check it himself. The NSA could only "find" some basic information.

Luo An doesn't care about this either. He doesn't care who the big fish the NSA wants to catch is. Now he just wants to solve the case in his hands.

After receiving the information given by Team Leader Kotlik, Luo An exchanged a few words with the other party and hung up the phone. Then he quickly walked back to the room and handed the information to Mona.

"I knew it..."

After receiving the message, Mona muttered a few words with an unhappy face, then pulled out her laptop, took a deep breath, and started typing on the keyboard quickly.

With the accurate IP and signal source, Mona quickly found the other party's location:

Oregon, Portland, a coffee shop at the end of a street in the southwest corner.

Lacie was slightly startled when she saw this position:

"So, the "employer" is the owner of this coffee shop?"

"No."

Mona kept typing on the keyboard. She shook her head and said:

“I found out the information about the owner of this coffee shop. He is a sixty-three-year-old grandmother.

Leaving aside whether she knows how to use a computer, judging from her life history, she and her son have nothing to do with the O'Dell family or the few guests living in the villa. ”

“Then check who was in the coffee shop when the employer spoke to the criminal network.”

Hold his hands across his chest, Luo An said in a deep voice:

“Records show that this coffee shop has free internet. It doesn't matter whether the coffee in the coffee shop tastes good or not. Only with free internet can there be good business.”

Michelle and Winslow nodded after hearing this, Chenelle looked confused, and Lacey was speechless.

“What you said makes sense, but it's a pity that this coffee shop has an Internet connection, but because of customer complaints, the original surveillance video was removed.”

Amidst the crackling sound, Mona told the bad news with a helpless expression.

Just as Luo An and others were about to speak, Mona changed her tone, smiled slightly, and continued:

“But there is also good news. Opposite this coffee shop, there is a 24-hour ATM. This ATM records everyone who enters and exits the coffee shop...”

While speaking, Mona's computer began to play the flow of people in the coffee shop. Just when Mona was about to investigate these people one by one, Luo An suddenly raised his brows, pointed to the computer, and said loudly:

"Pause!"

Mona looked puzzled:

"What's wrong?"

"Go back."

According to Luo An's words, Mona began to play back the surveillance video bit by bit. After a few seconds, Luo An pointed at a tall man in the surveillance camera and said coldly:

"Look this guy up."

"OK."

Mona nodded in agreement. Chenelle, Lacey and Michelle were a little confused when they saw this. Winslow reacted quickly and said:

"It's the man described by the old white lady downstairs where Hunter and Belinda, mother and son, live!"

"That's right."

Luo An nodded. When he and Winslow went to Hunter's house to investigate, the old white woman who lived on the corner of the first floor of that building said that Belinda and Hunter left the building with a man that night. building.

The grandmother didn't see what the man looked like specifically, but the man was taller than Winslow, but thinner than Luo An. He could just match the man in the surveillance video who walked into the coffee shop carrying a computer bag.

"I found it!"

As Michelle logged into the FBI's internal database and used facial recognition technology, Mona quickly figured out the identity of the tall man:

"Hector Jamie, 34 years old, has been in prison for violent injury.

Before this incident, Hector Jamie worked as a gardener at Krista's manor for a period of time! "

Roan narrowed his eyes slightly. Krista, 75 years old, was one of the guests who temporarily lived in the villa on the night of the tragedy, and she was also an old friend of Pranay O'Dell.

"I also found something here!"

As soon as Mona finished speaking, Chenier beside her suddenly raised her hand, handed the list in her hand to Luo An, pointed to a red circle inside and said:

"This is the cross around Krista's neck, one of the things that the "employer" asked the three Pietros to steal.

When I was investigating Krista's situation information just now, I found that Krista's family has a legend that the cross around her neck, combined with a ruby ring from Krista's family, can open a gram. The hidden treasure of Lista's family ancestors.

It is impossible to determine whether this treasure is true or false, but the ruby ring suddenly disappeared a few years ago.

The time when the ring disappeared happened to coincide with the time when Hector Jamie was working as a landscaper and went to prison for violent injuries! "

As soon as Chenelle finished speaking, Michelle said loudly:

“I checked Hector Jamie's consumption records in recent times.

Records show that the day before the incident in the villa, he happened to take a plane to Las Vegas and went to several casinos to play.

On the night of the incident, consumption records showed that Hector Jamie went back to the hotel to rest because he lost money. ”

“What a couple of beautiful coincidences.”

After listening to the three women's narration, Luo An chuckled, picked up the coffee on the table and drank it in one gulp, saying loudly:

“Everyone, please work overtime tonight. Michelle, book a flight and we'll fly to Portland, Oregon!”

Chapter 454 Discussion among the agents, arrest operation

Portland, Oregon.

Due to its proximity to the Pacific Ocean, the climate is wet, cold and rainy in winter and hot and dry in summer, making this climate suitable for growing roses. Therefore, there are many rose plantations in Portland. Portland is also known as the "City of Roses" and has been chosen as the "City of Roses" for many years. Rated as one of the most livable cities in the Commonwealth.

When Luo An led the special investigation team to Portland, it happened to be snowing lightly. The falling snowflakes made the whole Portland seem to be put on a crystal clear new dress, wrapped in silver, fresh and refined.

"Really cold."

Next to the 8-seater black MPV temporarily borrowed by the local FBI, Michelle opened the door and got in, distributed the hot coffee she bought to everyone, then looked at Luo An and asked:

“When do we act?”

“Wait a moment.”

Taking the hot coffee, Luo An thanked her, then pointed at Mona on the passenger seat and said:

“Mona is locating Hector Jamie's location.”

The FBI internal database shows that Hector Jamie is currently working as a cook in the back kitchen of a hotel. Before starting the operation, you need to confirm where the other party is, whether he is resting at home or working in the hotel.

Michelle nodded, took a sip of the hot coffee, and turned around to find Lacey holding the coffee and looking out the car window in a daze. Michelle patted Lacey lightly and asked with a smile:

"what's on your mind?"

Lacie came back to her senses and replied with a smile:

“I'm thinking about how to spend the overtime pay after this case is over.”

Although Lakesha O'Dell is young, she is a woman who knows how to solve crimes.

In order to give an explanation to the families of those guests, and to wipe away the dirty water on her body, Lakesha O'Dell is willing to fund the special investigation team with 10 million US dollars in special case handling funds. Each member of the special investigation team, Lakesha also He was willing to pay an additional US$2 million in overtime pay, and the team leader's overtime pay even reached US$3 million.

The salary of FBI agents is actually not high. Every year, up to 9% of FBI agents in San Francisco are forced to resign due to low salary. Before Lacey and others joined the special investigation team, salary had always been a headache for them.

Since following Roan to Los Angeles and joining the Special Investigation Team, Lacey's salary has remained the same, but other gains after each case is solved have begun to increase rapidly, making Lacey's pocket gradually fuller.

The same is true for Michelle, and Chenille and Winslow, who joined the Special Investigations Unit not long ago, also feel the same way.

Especially for Winslow, his previous salary was not enough to spend on himself. In addition, his ex-wife is now looking for a husband who is an engineer and has an excellent living standard. Winslow has been embarrassed to see his ex-wife and son.

Since joining the Special Investigation Unit, Winslow's pockets have begun to swell, and the money has emboldened him. Winslow began to have the courage to meet his ex-wife and son, and bought many gifts for his son.

So when they heard Lacey's words, Michelle, Winslow and Chenelle's eyes all lit up. They all glanced at Luo An in front of them with gratitude, and then began to discuss their plans after the case was over.

Winslow and Lacey had the same idea as before, they still wanted to save things first, and Michelle was the same. Something happened with Chenelle's parents, so she planned to take a leave of absence after the case was over and go back to her parents' place. Take a look while you're at it.

“It's not a good thing to open champagne at halftime, please stop for a moment.”

A few people discussed for a while, and Luo An suddenly turned around and interrupted them with a smile:

“Mona has found the location of Hector Jamie, he is in that hotel.”

“OK!”

Hearing this, all the agents stopped their discussion and nodded in unison. Luo An stopped talking nonsense and waved his hand:

"Set off!"

The next second, the eight-seater MPV roared suddenly and quickly drove into the driveway.

Hector Jamie's restaurant is located on a street in the southwest of Portland. Its main dishes are seafood and barbecue, and there is a lot of traffic. Even if it snows today, the restaurant is still bustling with customers.

The black MPV slowly parked at the street entrance diagonally opposite the restaurant. Luo An glanced at the bustling restaurant, and then began to inspect the equipment and arrange tasks:

“Lessie, you and I go in through the front door and arrest someone.

Mona, Michelle, you two stay at the front door of the hotel. If anything happens, be sure to block it.

Winslow, Chenelle, and you two went to the back door and found the target person fleeing from there, so they arrested him immediately! "

"clear!"

All the agents responded in unison. Luo An nodded with satisfaction. After checking the equipment, he immediately got out of the car and took Lacey into the restaurant. "Hello."

Seeing someone pushing the door open, the restaurant waiter stepped forward subconsciously. Without saying anything, Luo An took out the FBI's golden badge from his pocket and asked sternly:

"FBI. Where is Hector Jamie?"

..."...He is in the kitchen."

The waitress was stunned for a moment, then led Mona and Lacey to the kitchen. The waiters nearby turned around immediately when they saw this. It seemed that they were going to find the manager. Luo An and Lacey ignored them and grabbed Heck first. To-Jamie is the most important.

The restaurant's kitchen was filled with the sounds of flames burning and the chaos of dishes and pans being handled. Following Luo An's instructions, the waitress stood at the door of the kitchen and shouted:

"Hector! The manager is looking for you!"

"OK!"

As soon as the words fell, a tall and thin man responded immediately. He patted the colleague beside him and handed him the unfinished work. He stood up and walked to the kitchen door. As he walked, he asked:

"What does the manager want from me?"

The waiter's eyes moved slightly and he was about to answer. Hector Jamie was stunned for a moment when he saw this. He suddenly grabbed the kitchen door and slammed it shut. Without saying a word, he turned around and ran towards the back door of the restaurant.

"Fu-k!"

"Chase!"

Lacie, who was ambushing at the door of the kitchen, yelled and cursed. Seeing this, Luo An kicked the door open and quickly chased after her with Lacey.

"Step aside!"

"Get out of my way!"

This restaurant is not small in scale. In addition to the back kitchen, it also has a cold storage and a long corridor. Hector Jamie ran away from the back door as fast as crazy. He pulled all the pedestrians and boxes on the road to the ground.

"Shit!"

The narrow corridor and fallen pedestrians' belongings caused a lot of trouble for Luo An and Lacey. Lacey yelled and cursed, and Luo An frowned slightly. For fear of accidentally injuring passers-by, he did not raise his gun and shoot directly, but continued the chase. other side.

Hector Jamie quickly ran to the back door, but as soon as he opened the door, a big fist appeared in front of him.

score

Winslow, who was in ambush, took advantage of Hector Jamie's unpreparedness and punched him hard in the face. Hector's eyes suddenly bulged, and blood instantly flowed from his nose.

Hector Jamie, who was busy running for his life, gritted his teeth and forced himself to keep himself from falling to the ground. He dodged Chenier's second punch. Seeing Winslow standing on the left with a cold face, Hector hurriedly stood up and prepared to go to the right. run.

boom! boom!

The next second, two gunshots rang through the area. Hector Jamie felt a sharp pain in his two calves, and then he fell forward uncontrollably and fell to the ground.

Slowly walking out of the back door with Lacey, Luo An looked at Hector Jamie on the ground with a look of pain on his face, smiled slightly, and blew the muzzle of the Glock 18:

"take away!"

Three hours later, a special investigation team temporarily borrowed an interrogation room at the Portland FBI branch.

"Good afternoon, Hector Jamie."

Across the interrogation table, Luo An and Cheniel sat down and asked directly without any nonsense:

"Where are Henry and his mother Belinda now?"

Chapter 455 The truth about the case as told by the suspect

In the interrogation room, Hector Jamie, who had been shot in both legs, was sitting in a wheelchair, his hands were handcuffed together, and he was silent for a long time. He sighed and replied in a low voice:

"The mother and son should still be alive. They are in the basement of a house in south Las Vegas."

Chenelle in the interrogation room was stunned for a moment when she heard this. Winslow, Mona, Lacey and Michelle who were observing the interrogation in the monitoring room nearby were also slightly stunned.

After learning that the mother and son Belinda and Henry were missing and could not find any clues, the special investigation team had prepared for the worst. After all, the murderer had killed 26 people in the villa, not least Belinda and Henry. Henry these two.

Knowing that the mother and son might still be alive, Luo An frowned slightly and immediately asked:

“Where is the specific location of that house?”

Hector Jamie revealed the specific location, and Luo An immediately suspended the interrogation, left the room, took out his cell phone, and called the local FBI in Las Vegas, asking them to help go to that house to rescue people.

Hang up the phone, Luo An walked into the monitoring room and said to Winslow and Lacey:

“You two will take a plane to Las Vegas now to confirm the situation of Belinda and Henry, mother and son.”

"clear."

Winslow and Lacey nodded in unison, turned around and left immediately. Luo An pondered for a few seconds, walked back to the interrogation room, and continued to interrogate Hector Jamie.

“You must already know why we arrested you.”

Luo An put a cup of hot coffee in front of Hector Jamie, then sat back on the chair and asked:

“Tell me, what is going on in the villa case?”

Hector Jamie did not answer Luo An's question immediately, but stated his request with a serious face:

“I ask to sign a plea agreement.”

Chenier frowned slightly when she heard this and turned to look at Luo An. Only the leader of the special investigation team has the power to decide whether to agree to the other party.

Luo An stared at Hector Jamie for a long time, until Hector Jamie looked unnatural and twisted around in his chair. Luo An suddenly grinned and agreed to the other party's request:

“No problem, but you know the requirements for signing a plea agreement, right?”

After signing the agreement, you must truthfully admit the crime and must not make perjury or make false statements. ”

Hector Jamie nodded repeatedly, and Luo An stopped talking nonsense when he saw this. Two hours later, the two parties signed a plea agreement, and Hector Jamie looked relaxed and explained everything.

When Hector Jamie was young, he met a boss who resold second-hand antiques. He heard about the legendary treasure of the Krista family from him. After ten years of investigation, Hector Jamie Make sure that treasure actually exists in this world.

The cross that Krista lost was indeed stolen by Hector Jamie who deliberately disguised himself as a gardener and entered the manor.

But Hector Jamie only stole the cross and the ruby ring, which Christa had been wearing on her hand, and he had no chance to get it.

After leaving prison, Hector Jamie had been thinking about how to get the ruby ring. At this time, he met Iona in a bar in Las Vegas.

Hector Jamie sighed and said:

“Iona was very sad at the time because her favorite boyfriend, who was forced by Pranay O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law, died suddenly of an overdose during exercise.”

Iona's boyfriend was very handsome and worked in the O'Dell family's company. For some reason, he was attracted by Pranay O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law, so the tragedy happened.

Iona hated that woman very much, but she had a high status and money, so Iona couldn't take revenge. Hector Jamie didn't care after knowing about it, because he couldn't help her.

Until some time ago, Hector Jamie, who had been observing Krista, learned about the reception.

Hector-Jamie thought quickly and found Iona. Hector Jamie didn't tell Iona about the treasure. He only said that he wanted to steal things and make money. The cocktail party was an opportunity. Iona could also take advantage of the cocktail party to take revenge on Puranai Odell's eldest daughter-in-law.

Not only that, Hector Jamie also said that he found out that Puranai O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law secretly deposited a bearer bond worth 50 million US dollars in a bank in Las Vegas.

As long as he gets the fingerprints of Pranay O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law, Hector Jamie can take out the bond from the bank, which will cost the two of them half of the US$50 million.

Hector Jamie felt that what he said was a bit false, but Iona agreed without thinking, and then began to make a plan.

The plan made by the two was not very complicated. Hector Jamie first found the information about Belinda and her son, and then posted an order online to find a capable and skilled thief.

On the night of the reception, Henry, a middle school student who received $50,000, pretended to be sick and called his mother to trick her into going home. Iona took the opportunity to take over Belinda's position as the cook, put drugs in the food, and stunned everyone in the villa. , the thief took the opportunity to enter the villa, purchase goods according to the list... and stole things.

As for the mother and son Belinda and Henry, Hector Jamie's original plan was to deceive the two and kill them, completely erasing their traces.

“But the plan is the plan, and when it comes to killing someone, I still back down.”

Hector Jamie swallowed and said that he still underestimated the psychological pressure of killing someone.

According to the original plan, when Hector Jamie brought Henry and Belinda, mother and son, into the prepared basement, Iona on the other side of the villa should have already drugged them, and the thief should also have entered the villa. , began the theft operation.

But as soon as Hector Jamie brought people into the basement, his cell phone started ringing crazily.

Hector Jamie, who found out that it was the three thieves who called him, was puzzled because he didn't have this step in the plan because he didn't know what happened. At the same time, he was worried that the law enforcement department had caught the three thieves and took them. The phone was fishing, so Hector Jamie didn't dare to answer it.

Hector Jamie did not kill Henry and his son immediately, but took them to a backup location that only he knew, preparing to wait until tomorrow to figure out the situation.

Then the next day, Hector Jamie watched on TV and saw the major news media in Las Vegas reporting overwhelmingly the news that everyone in the villa had died.

“Iona has always been responsible for the drugging, because she needed to do it that night, so I didn't ask carefully.”

Speaking of this, Hector Jamie's eyes widened and he said with shock:

“But I didn't expect that this woman Iona is a lunatic! In order to avenge her boyfriend, she actually drugged and killed everyone in the villa!”

After hearing the news that everyone in the villa had died, Hector Jamie, who only wanted money, sat down on the ground and was at a loss.

After giving himself a few hard slaps, Hector Jamie managed to calm down.

Because of fear and the fact that kidnapping and murder are two different things, Hector Jamie did not kill Belinda and Henry, mother and son, but he did not dare to let them go, so he tied them together to fight for life and death. Leaving it to God to decide, I quickly returned to Portland, Oregon...

Hector Jamie didn't speak very fast. More than two hours had passed since the interrogation ended, and the time had reached 3:30 that afternoon.

"Thanks for your hard work."

Roan and Chenelle left the interrogation room and walked into the nearby monitoring room. Michelle gave them two Big Mac burgers and said with a smile:

"Winslow just called me and Mona and said that the mother and son Belinda and Henry have been found in Las Vegas. Apart from malnutrition and poor mental state, they have no other problems.

Hector Jamie has explained almost everything here. It seems that this case is almost over. "

Luo An slowly tore off the packaging on the burger, looked at Hector Jamie lying on the table in the surveillance video, and smiled:

"The end? I'm afraid Mr. Hector Jamie hasn't gotten us to the last step yet."

Michelle was stunned for a moment when she heard this. Chenille sneered, looked at the surveillance screen in front of her, and took a big bite of the burger.

Chapter 456 The real truth of the case—Part 1

Portland FBI Division, a surveillance room temporarily borrowed by the Special Investigation Team.

Seeing Chenelle and Luo An's faces turned cold after taking a big bite of burger, Michelle was a little confused:

“Luo An, I don't understand what you mean.”

Luo An did not explain immediately, but took out his mobile phone and called Lacey.

“I'm Lacey.”

Lacie in Las Vegas was working with Winslow on the situation of Henry and his son. When she received a call from Roan, she was a little confused:

"What's up?"

Luo An said without any nonsense:

“You now go to the Krista family's manor immediately and investigate the situation when Hector Jamie was working as a gardener there.”

Lacie didn't know why, but she immediately nodded in agreement, and then asked:

“Winslow with me?”

"No."

Roan shook his head, motioned for Lacey to hand the phone to Winslow, and then said:

“Winslow, this guy Hector Jamie, said that Iona committed this crime to avenge her boyfriend.

That boyfriend's name was Fay, and he lived in the north of Las Vegas. Go and investigate his circumstances carefully. "

“OK.”

Winslow had no doubts and immediately nodded in agreement. Roan and Lacey continued to talk for a few words and hung up the phone. Mona, who had been busy writing interrogation records on the computer next to her, saw this and raised her head and frowned and asked:

“Luo An, what happened?”

“It's simple, our Mr. Hector Jamie has been lying.”

Luo An finished the big burger in his hand in two bites, looked at Hector Jamie in the surveillance video, and sneered again and again.

During the previous interrogation, Luo An had always turned on the "emotional perception" in his mind, and then he discovered that Hector Jamie was narrating the story.

Hector said that he was only seeking money and his goal was treasure. This was half true and half false.

Iona's boyfriend died due to coercion and overdose of medication by her eldest daughter-in-law, which is also half-truth.

There is an unnamed $50 million bond in the bank, truth be told.

Hector went online to look for the thief. In order to conceal his true purpose, he wrote the long list to Pietro and the three of them, telling the truth.

Hector kidnapped Henry and his son, but he did not dare to kill him because of temporary fear, so he lied.

Hector said that he was deceived by Iona, but Iona changed the drug to poison, which was a lie.

In addition to these key nodes, in the entire story narrated by Hector Jamie, the ratio of truth to lies is almost half and half. Not only Roan, who has "emotional perception" in his mind, discovered this, but Chenille also felt it. Something is wrong.

The difference is that Roan noticed exactly where Hector had lied, while Chenelle simply felt that the other person was lying, but could not figure out the specific situation.

"damn it."

Hearing this, Mona and Michelle immediately looked at Hector in the surveillance video and cursed a few times, and then asked:

"Luo An, what should we do next?"

"Of course we will investigate carefully according to the story Mr. Hector told us."

Looking at Hector Jamie who was sleeping on the interrogation table, Luo An chuckled and said:

"Previously, Cheniel found out that Iona went to a coffee shop in southwest Las Vegas every Wednesday night after get off work for the past six months to buy a cup of coffee to take away, but she could not find where she went.

Michelle, you and Chenelle, set off to Las Vegas now, carefully investigate the area around the coffee shop, and be sure to find out where Iona went after buying the coffee! "

"No problem!" Chenelle and Michelle nodded heavily and immediately turned around to leave. Mona raised her hand and asked:

"Luo An, what about me?"

"From now on, carefully investigate all of Hector's whereabouts and consumption records in the past year."

Luo An crossed his arms over his chest, narrowed his eyes slightly, and said in a deep voice:

"I would like to see what our Mr. Hector is hiding from us."

After Luo An finished speaking, Hector Jamie, who was sleeping in the interrogation room, seemed to have woken up. He glanced around, raised his head, and gave a faint smile to the camera.

The next day, Luo An, together with several temporarily borrowed detectives, escorted Hector Jamie back to Las Vegas, where the case occurred, while Mona stayed in Portland to continue searching for clues.

Because of this investigation, the computer network in many places could not help, so for the next week, Winslow, Lacey, Chenelle and Michelle could only visit on the spot, working hard door to door. After knocking on the door and making inquiries, he finally returned to the office temporarily borrowed by the Special Investigation Team.

This is the most difficult time for the special investigation team to search for clues since its establishment. Fortunately, everyone's hard work has not been in vain, and all the agents have found useful clues.

All the agents sat down, with serious faces on their faces. Winslow was the first to speak:

"Team leader, you are right, Hector did lie."

According to Winslow's investigation, the man named Faye had a sister, and it was learned from her sister that Faye had indeed pursued Iona and played sports games with Iona.

But the relationship between the two is not good enough to be entrusted with life and death. My sister has seen Iona, and a woman's intuition tells her sister that Iona is not a good woman, but before her sister and Iona can talk in detail, My younger brother Faye passed away due to unexpected circumstances.

After Winslow finished speaking, Michelle looked at each other and followed closely:

“We found out where Iona went after she left the coffee shop.”

The two women checked door to door for several days, and finally found a landlord in a community south of the coffee shop, and learned that Iona had rented a room there.

After spending $1,000, the two women learned from their neighbors that every Wednesday night, the sound of a man and a woman playing would come from that house.

The woman is Iona, but the neighbor has never seen who the man is. However, the two women played Hector's voice to the neighbor, who said it was very similar to the man's voice.

After Michelle finished speaking, Chenelle added:

“In addition, we found Iona's underwear and a small amount of white powder in that room.

According to laboratory tests, the white powder was the dihydrogen trioxide and estazolam that caused death in the villa case.

Not only that, the room showed signs of being carefully cleaned, and we couldn't find anyone's hair or fingerprints except for Iona's. ”

After Michelle and Chenelle finished speaking, Mona stood up immediately and said:

“I found no useful clues about Hector's whereabouts and consumption records.

But I found out one thing. When Hector was in prison, the inmate next to him was a guy who understood psychology and entered the prison because he psychologically induced others to commit crimes. The relationship between Hector and that inmate very nice.

After Hector was released from prison, he rented a house to live in. Not long after, the neighbor's consumption records of that house showed that the neighbor bought a bunch of psychology books. "

Luo An took the folder handed to him by several people, was silent for a few seconds, and concluded:

"So, there is a high probability that Hector and Iona are actually in a relationship, and Hector used his knowledge of psychology to control Iona and asked Iona to kill those people in the villa and commit suicide."

"The possibility is very high."

Chenier and Winslow nodded solemnly. They had rich experience and had seen how religions brainwash people, and how those brainwashed believers were willing to commit suicide.

Luo An's expression remained unchanged, Mona frowned slightly and asked:

"But why did Hector do this? There were 26 people in the villa that night."

After the words fell, Lacey, who had been silent until now, stood up with a sneer and said:

"I found out the reason."

Chapter 457 The real truth of the case—Part 2

Lacie stood up, and everyone in the room turned their attention to her.

"Following Roan's guidance, I went to the old woman Krista's family estate to investigate."

Lacie distributed the folders in her hands to everyone and said as she distributed them:

“The people in that manor have a very bad attitude. I couldn't find any news at all in the past few days.

But then I found an old chef who had worked at the manor for more than ten years and had just left the manor some time ago.

I chatted with the old chef and learned from him that Krista, an old woman, has the same private life as Pranay O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law. She is older but still likes to play. "

Lacie said that Hector was very handsome when he was young. Not long after he entered the manor disguised as a gardener, he was spotted by Krista.

Not only that, Krista, an old woman, had a good relationship with Pranay Odell's eldest daughter-in-law, so she recommended Hector to the eldest daughter-in-law.

At this point, Lacey's face was full of disgust, and the faces of Winslow, Michelle, Mona and Chenelle were also full of disgust.

Luo An's expression remained unchanged. This kind of thing was nothing among the wealthy people in the Federation. He was now paying more attention to the case itself.

Looking down at the folders in front of him, Luo An was silent for a while, then narrowed his eyes slightly and concluded:

“So, Hector, this guy, wanted to pretend to be a gardener, enter Krista's manor, steal the cross and ring, and find the treasure to make a fortune.

But unexpectedly, because of his handsome appearance, he would be spotted by Krista, who is in her seventies, and she would also be recommended by Krista to Pranay O'Dell's eldest daughter-in-law.

Although he successfully stole the cross, he did not get the ruby ring, and he wanted revenge, so Hector found Iona and used emotional and psychological means to brainwash Iona, making her willing to do things for him or even commit suicide. .

After learning about the reception, Hector made a plan to let Iona drugged and poisoned the two old women to avenge himself. Three thieves went in to steal things so that he could have a chance to seize the treasure.

Hector can also put the blame entirely on Iona, who committed suicide due to brainwashing, and show that he was just an accessory, minimizing the crime and killing three birds with one stone. "

"Shit!"

"Damn guy!"

Luo An's analysis combined all the clues currently available to everyone. The five detectives looked very ugly and cursed after hearing this.

After cursing for a moment, Mona suddenly thought of something, her face changed, she raised her hand and said:

"Everyone, we are now faced with a problem."

Winslow and Lacey turned their heads in confusion, Chenelle and Michelle quickly reacted, looked at each other and said in unison:

"evidence!"

"That's right."

Mona nodded heavily, her face becoming even more ugly:

"Iona is dead. We have no absolute evidence that Hector brainwashed Iona and instructed her to poison her."

Although the detectives have now figured out Hector's lies, found Hector's motives, and understood his plan to commit the crime, Hector Jamie can admit that he panicked, or he can admit that he and Iona's relationship.

But it was Iona who poisoned her on the night of the crime. Hector Jamie could have bitten her to death in court, saying that he had no idea Iona would do that.

As for the brainwashing of Iona, the client has committed suicide and passed away. All the special investigation team has is indirect evidence. In court, Hector's lawyer has many rebuttal reasons.

Chenelle and Michelle thought faster because they knew more about the follow-up work of the case. Winslow and Lacey were not very familiar with this aspect of work, but they figured it out quickly after thinking about it, and their expressions suddenly changed. They looked extremely ugly and cursed one after another.

“Fu-k!”

“Sonof better than eating!”

Next to her, Mona's eyebrows were beating fast. She frowned and thought for a long time but couldn't think of any good solution. Then she looked up at Luo An and put forward her own suggestion:

“How about we contact the Office of Legal Counsel?”

Office of Legal Counsel, one of the agencies within the FBI.

When the FBI investigation team encounters legal problems that are difficult to solve, such as the current situation of the Special Investigation Team and it is unable to accurately convict the suspect, the Office of Legal Counsel will find an appropriate solution in accordance with federal laws and regulations.

But many times the Office of Legal Counsel is not popular.

The FBI easily catches the petty thieves, but when encountering difficulties they don't need to convict them. The FBI's grassroots agents have their own unique solutions, such as the Great Memory Restoration Technique. When encountering major cases, many suspects are able to spend large sums of money to find well-known barristers. In order to make money and their own reputation, these well-known barristers understand federal law far better than the people in the legal counsel's office.

So the legal counsel's office has always been in an awkward position. They are not needed for small cases, but they often cannot solve major cases...

Luo An was holding a folder in his hand, sitting on a chair with his eyes closed and concentrating. He had thought of the difficulties encountered in the evidence before Mona, and had been thinking about countermeasures.

Hearing Mona's suggestion, Luo An opened his eyes and nodded:

“Michelle, please call the Legal Counsel's Office.”

“OK.”

Michelle got up and left to make a phone call. Chenille was about to continue talking when Roan suddenly grabbed Mona's arm and pulled Mona, who was holding her laptop, into another room.

“...”x3

Winslow, Chenelle and Lacey looked at each other in confusion when they saw this scene. The three people who knew the relationship between Roan and Mona didn't know what Roan was going to do.

A moment later, Luo An walked out of the room alone, waved his hand and said:

“Winslow, Lacey, you go to the holding room and bring Hector Jamie into the interrogation room.

Chenelle, you will interrogate this guy with me later. "

"no problem."

Winslow and Chenelle stood up and nodded, and Lacey muttered:

"Only forty seconds, so fast."

Snapped-

Luo An, who had black lines all over his head, picked up a folder and hit Lacey on the head hard.

Wednesday, 12 noon, an interrogation room of the FBI Las Vegas branch.

"Good afternoon, Mr. Hector Jamie."

Opposite the interrogation table, Chenelle sat down, and Roan sat down on the interrogation table, looking down at Hector Jamie, and smiled:

"You really opened my eyes."

This sentence is Luo An's heartfelt words. Ever since he came to this world and has seen so many cases, Hector Jamie is still the guy who makes Luo An feel difficult in the true sense.

It's not that the case is difficult to solve, but that the person has been caught and the truth has been found out, but there is no guarantee that the other party will be convicted 100% of the time. This is what makes people uncomfortable.

Hearing Roan's words, Hector Jamie smiled:

“Sorry, Leader Greenwood, I don't understand...”

Before he finished speaking, Luo An directly threw the large frame of clues he found in front of him. Hector Jamie lowered his head and glanced a few times. The smile on his face did not disappear, but became brighter:

“I'm sorry, Leader Greenwood, I still don't understand what you mean.”

Luo An straightened up from the interrogation table, took back the folder, and said expressionlessly:

“No more nonsense, because you lied to us before and now the plea agreement is invalid. Do you have a problem?”

"no problem."

Hector Jamie shook his head and then added:

“I admit that I lied to you before, and I also admit that I had a relationship with Iona.

But I really didn't instruct Iona to kill anyone. My goal was just money. Iona made her own decision regarding the poison. I really didn't know anything. ”

Snapped-

Roan threw the folder next to Chenille, leaning on the interrogation table with both hands, looking at Hector Jamie expressionlessly, while Hector Jamie raised his head and looked at Roan with a smile.

咚! Boom! Boom!

The air in the interrogation room became increasingly oppressive. At this moment, there was a sudden knock on the door outside.

Chapter 458 The real truth of the case—Part 2

FBI, Las Vegas branch, an interrogation room.

There was a knock on the door. Roan looked away from Hector Jamie, turned and walked out of the interrogation room. Michelle and two unknown men and women in suits were standing in the corridor.

“Hello, Captain Greenwood.”

Standing at the front, a white woman in a suit with a ponytail stretched out her hand towards Luo An, introduced herself with a smile:

“My name is Fiona and I'm from the Office of Legal Counsel.”

"Hello."

Stretching out his hand and shaking hands with the other party with a smile, Luo An and Michelle took Fiona and her colleagues to the office area. After a few brief greetings, Luo An gave the second person the legal aspects of the case. people.

After checking carefully for a while, Fiona narrowed her eyes slightly and began to communicate in a low voice with her male colleague for a while, then stood up and walked to Luo An, smiling:

“Leader Greenwood, can you take a moment to speak?”

"certainly."

Luo An took Fiona into a nearby conference room, closed the door, poured two cups of coffee for himself and Fiona, and asked:

“What do you think about this case?”

“To be honest, if it goes to court now, the Special Investigation Team will be very disadvantaged.”

Fiona took the coffee and thanked her, then frowned and said:

“Our special investigation team currently has no direct evidence to prove that Hector Jamie is the mastermind behind this case.”

Luo An took a sip of coffee, his expression remained unchanged, and he said softly:

“That's why I sent my men to find you.”

If the Special Investigation Team had direct evidence now, there would be no need to call on these people in the Legal Counsel's Office for this case.

“What Leader Greenwood said makes sense.”

Fiona was stunned for a moment after hearing this, and then chuckled. Then she thought about it and said that she and her colleagues had come up with three methods.

The first step is to do nothing. Based on the evidence at hand of the special investigation team, go to court and try to convince the judge that Hector Jamie is the mastermind. This plan has the lowest success rate.

The second method is to destroy Hector Jamie's current "accomplice" status and use the evidence at hand to convince the judge in court that Hector Jamie is an "accomplice" in this case.

Federal law has a strong principle of "following precedent", and Hector Jamie has been in prison before. Fiona is confident that "bad people only do bad things", saying that Hector Jamie will definitely be able to make things happen. , taking advantage of Iona's love for him and watching her poison the reason, to convince the judge and jury.

Roan's expression remained unchanged and did not speak. This plan meant that Fiona had given up on revealing that Hector Jamie was the mastermind behind the case.

After a few seconds of silence, Luo An asked:

“What is the third method?”

Iona smiled, put down the coffee cup, and said:

“Respect federal law, respect Hector Jamie's plan, but also respect the rights of the relatives of the 26 victims.”

Roan's eyes narrowed slightly when he heard this, and he understood the meaning of Fiona's words.

According to federal law, the special investigation team cannot tell these relatives all the details of the case, but the relatives of the 26 victims have the right to know who the murderer of their loved ones is.

There are many wealthy people among those relatives, and these wealthy people always have ways to find out the truth of this case from other places.

How the rich people will treat Hector Jamie who is in prison after learning the truth is not something that the special investigation team can control.

It can only be said that in a capitalist country like the Federation, those with money can really do whatever they want.

After thinking about this clearly, Luo An looked at Fiona in front of him and frowned slightly.

Looking at Luo An who was silent, Fiona's eyes flashed with light, she coughed lightly and said:

“Leader Greenwood, I think...”

As soon as Fiona started to speak, Luo An reached out to interrupt her, then opened the conference room door and said with a smile:

“Thank you for your help, Ms. Fiona, I will consider your suggestions.”

"...OK."

Fiona was taken aback for a moment, then left the conference room with a smile. Luo An briefly exchanged greetings with the two of them, and then motioned to Michelle to send them off.

As soon as Michelle and the three walked out of this area, Luo An walked up to Lacey not far away and whispered expressionlessly:

“Lacie, go check on this Fiona and her colleagues.”

"Um?"

Lacie was full of doubts when she heard this. She looked up and saw Luo An's expressionless face. Her expression changed instantly and she nodded heavily in agreement. “No problem, I'll go right away.”

Looking at Lacey's back as she quickly left, Luo An crossed his arms over his chest and narrowed his eyes slightly.

Luo An thinks that he is not a good person, and he has taken many lives in his hands since he came to this world.

But the third suggestion Fiona made was on another level, and might lead to falling into a pit from which one could never climb out.

This made Luo An start to think about whether Fiona was just giving suggestions, or she had other ideas, or there was someone behind her.

“Hey! Luo An!”

While Luo An was deep in thought, Mona suddenly ran out of the room with her laptop in her arms and her face full of excitement:

“You are so awesome! How do you know...”

“Stop!”

Upon seeing this, Luo An quickly reached out and covered Mona's mouth.

After looking down at the laptop screen for a few times, Luo An grinned, turned around and returned to the interrogation room with the laptop in his arms.

Entering the interrogation room again, Luo An asked directly without any nonsense:

“Hector Jamie, you admit that you had **** with Iona, right?”

Hector Jamie looked at Luo An for a moment and nodded:

“That's right.”

Luo An followed up and asked:

“Did you have **** in the room Iona rented?”

“I...”

“Don't lie, dear Mr. Hector.”

As soon as Hector started to speak, Roan interrupted him, staring at him closely and said:

"You have already lied before. If you lie again this time, the judge and jury in the court may have a much worse impression of you."

Hector was silent for a long time after hearing this, and nodded slowly:

"Yes, we did have **** in the room Iona rented."

"very good."

Luo An smiled with satisfaction, then placed the laptop in front of Hector Jamie and said:

“My detectives have just found out that the diquinol trioxide and estazolam in that room were ordered on a criminal website.

This criminal website is the same website that you contacted the Pietro Thief Trio, and when the buyer placed an order, the signal address showed that the orderer was in the room rented by Iona.

What do you think about this matter? "

“I'm sorry, Leader Greenwood, as I said before, Iona has always been responsible for purchasing medicines, and I didn't ask.”

Hector Jamie's expression remained unchanged, with a smile on his face, and he explained lightly:

“As for the website where Iona bought medicines, it was the same as the website where I contacted the Pietro trio, because when I contacted the Pietro trio, I did not avoid Iona.

Iona saw this website, registered an account, and secretly placed orders for medicines behind my back. Isn't it normal? ”

“It's really normal.”

Luo An smiled slightly:

“That room was carefully cleaned, and we couldn't find Iona's computer. Maybe it was broken into a lake or burned by you, so there's no way to prove the truth of what you said.”

“Wow, Captain Greenwood.”

Hector Jamie smiled even more, but he shook his head and said:

"I can sue you for defamation in court if you speak nonsense without evidence."

“Sue whatever you want.”

Roan slowly leaned forward, looked at Hector condescendingly, and said:

“I just want to tell you one thing. That criminal website has actually been monitored by the NSA.”

After the words fell, the smile on Hector's face suddenly became extremely stiff, while the smile on Luo An's face became gentler and kinder.

Chapter 459 Key clues, successful trap, final outcome of the case

Arsenic trioxide, an impurity-free extract commonly known as "arsenic" in the East, is an odorless, tasteless, white frosty powder.

Estazolam, benzodiazepines, sedatives, and psychotropic drugs.

These two are not items that can be bought casually. Only in the underground world can they get large quantities that can kill 26 people.

When Mona and others were thinking about how to prove that Hector Jamie had brainwashed Iona and made Iona willingly poison her and commit suicide afterwards, Roan had been wondering where Hector Jamie was. Got these murderous things.

Thinking of the criminal website full of ghosts and monsters, and thinking that Hector contacted the three Pietros on that website, Luo An made a bold guess. Hector probably bought the medicine on that website.

After catching "employer" Hector, Mona has obtained his account, and there is no record of Hector purchasing medicines in that account.

However, Hector Jamie kept telling Luo An that it was Iona who purchased the medicine and it had nothing to do with him. Luo An naturally focused on Iona's computer and suspected that Hector was using Iona's computer. Computer, log in to that website to purchase medicines.

Hector Jamie obviously thought of this before he made the plan for this case, so the room Iona rented was completely cleaned by him, and Chenier and others could not find Iona at all. Computer.

“But you don't know, this criminal website has been monitored by the NSA (Federal National Security Agency).”

Roan did not directly say that the creator of the website was the NSA. He just looked at Hector Jamie and said with a bright smile:

“I don't know whether the NSA caught a big fish or not, but I, the head of the FBI's special investigation team, caught a little loach like you.”

The smile on Hector Jamie's face has long since disappeared. He stared at Roan for a few seconds, snorted coldly and said:

“Sorry, I still don't understand what you mean, Leader Greenwood.

Even if that website has been monitored by the NSA, so what? It was Iona who bought the medicine, not me! ”

"Wow."

Luo An left the interrogation table, walked to Cheniel who had been recording things, patted Cheniel on the shoulder, and said with a smile:

“Look at our Mr. Hector, he tells so many lies that he even believes it himself.”

Hector Jamie looked very ugly and said word by word:

"I did not lie!"

“A lie repeated a thousand times remains a lie.

It may deceive some people for a while, but when the truth comes out, lies will always fail. It just depends on whether people are willing to accept it. ”

Luo An said a few words casually, then took the laptop on the interrogation table in front of him, and while typing on the keyboard slowly, he said:

“My agents followed my request and contacted the NSA, and obtained the account number for purchasing diclonal oxide and estazolam from the NSA.

The computer can be destroyed, but the records in the account will always exist. The place where the account placed the order was in the room Iona rented. I have already mentioned this before, so I won't go into details..."

When Roan was describing this, Hector Jamie listened closely with his eyes wide open. Suddenly Roan changed the subject, looked up at Hector, and asked with a smile:

"By the way, dear Mr. Hector, the information shows that you went to college. Did Ms. Iona go to college? I remember that the information showed that she came to Las Vegas before finishing high school. Si broke into trouble."

Hearing Roan's question, Hector Jamie was stunned for a few seconds. Suddenly he remembered something, his face suddenly became very ferocious, and he cursed angrily:

“Fu-k! Roan Greenwood! You're just a cousin! @#¥%...”

The curses were so fierce and loud that all the detectives outside the interrogation room changed their expressions and ran to the door of the interrogation room to check the situation in case something unexpected happened.

Roan in the interrogation room showed no anger at being scolded, and the smile on his face became brighter. He liked the hysterical look of Hector Jamie when his plan failed.

Chenille, who had been writing down things next to her, lowered her head and glanced at the words she had written, and suddenly realized: "The information shows that Iona never went to college, and the way and tone she writes English letters is different from that of Hector J. Rice is completely different!"

Snapped-

“That's right.”

Luo An smiled and snapped his fingers, and showed Cheniel the records of the purchase of two drugs, diquinotrioxide and estazolam, which Mona found in her laptop, and the purchaser's chat with the seller when placing the order. .

English is different from Eastern writing. Eastern writing is ideographic writing, while English is phonetic writing.

Even ordinary people cannot understand some professional words, but through the original meaning and combination of several oriental characters, ordinary people can roughly guess what the word represents.

But English is different. Each combination of 26 English letters into a word has a new meaning. The connections between words are different. You must write them all down to understand what the sentence is.

This leads to the fact that even when Westerners enter society as adults, some people still have dyslexia and cannot understand what each sentence means.

If an Oriental person cannot read when entering society, such a person will generally be considered to have intellectual problems.

In the Western world, there are very big differences in the way people speak, write English, and grammar and vocabulary, etc., between those who have received higher education and those who have not.

This is also one of the reasons why the United Kingdom looked down on the "old hats" of the Commonwealth in the past. Many people in the Commonwealth who use professional vocabulary simply don't know what it means, let alone what it represents.

In the laptop computer, when the buyer placed an order for the two drugs, diquinol trioxide and estazolam, the words, word structure, and tone spoken by the seller were completely unmatched by Iona, a woman who dropped out of middle school. Only Hector Jamie, a highly educated man, can tell.

Luo An induced several times before, making Hector Jamie admit that he had had a relationship with Iona, and it was in the room rented by Iona, so Hector Jamie had already lost his relationship at this time. All excuses.

If Hector Jamie had not stepped into the trap dug for him by Luo An and killed himself for not having been to that room, then Hector Jamie would still have a chance to quibble.

But now, NSA clues emerged. Under Luo An's guidance, Hector Jamie walked step by step into the trap dug for him by Luo An. The complete failure of the plan was exposed, and then he lost control of his emotions and cursed crazily.

Papa pa pa—

After Luo An finished explaining, Hector Jamie's eyes turned red and he cursed even more fiercely.

Chenelle next to her and Mona, Winslow, and Michelle in the corridor all looked at Roan with excitement and admiration, and applauded Roan.

“Winslow, Michelle, take this person away.”

Opening the door to the interrogation room, Luo An waved his hand and motioned for the two of them to take Hector Jamie to the holding room.

There was surveillance video throughout the interrogation process, and everything Hector Jamie said was recorded. With the evidence found by Roan and Mona, Hector Jamie had no chance to turn around no matter how much he cursed. .

Winslow and Michelle escorted Hector Jamie away. Mona got her laptop back, smiled and patted Roan on the arm:

“Well done.”

“Thank you for your hard work too.”

Luo An chuckled, stretched his waist, raised his hand to look at the time, and waved his hand:

“Everyone, the case is solved, let's have dinner together tonight, let's have a big meal!”

Chenelle was smiling, and Mona was just shouting happily when Lacey suddenly walked into the room from the outside, grabbed Roan's arm, and said with a serious face:

“Luo An, you guessed it right, there is something wrong with Fiona.”

Chapter 460 Dinner party, Fiona's identity, the logic behind it

8:30 pm, Las Vegas, "Joel Robuchon" restaurant.

This is a Michelin three-star French restaurant that specializes in traditional French cuisine. It is particularly famous for its 16-course dinner set. Those who order it can even enjoy an extended Lincoln transfer sent by the restaurant.

In a room deep in the restaurant, there is a long Western table. Winslow, Chenelle, Lacey, Michelle and Mona sat on both sides of the long table, chatting softly while enjoying the novelties on the table. Beautiful French cuisine.

There were several candle lamps placed on the table beside the five people. At the other end of the long dining table, Luo An, who was wearing a suit and ties, and Lacosa O'Dell, who was wearing a red dress, sat looking at each other. There were colored scented candles in front of them. All kinds of delicious food, but neither of them had the intention to eat.

Today, the makeup on Lexa O'Dell's face was not as sharp as when they first met a few days ago, but became much gentler.

Picking up the wine glass, Lacosa shook it towards Luo An and said with a smile:

“Thank you very much for leading the special investigation team to solve the case of our O'Dell family, Chief Greenwood.”

Luo An chuckled lightly and did not answer this sentence. Instead, he picked up the wine glass and clinked it with the other person, and said with a smile:

“There are six people in the special investigation team, and six set meals are served in the restaurant. Miss Lacosa spent a lot of money tonight, thank you.”

The two of them clinked their wine glasses together. Lacosa laughed, raised her head and took a sip. Then she put down the wine glass, leaned back and crossed her legs. She looked at Luo An with a smile and asked:

“As a family member of the victim, I would like to know the details of this case. Can Team Leader Greenwood tell me some?”

Luo An raised his eyebrows when he heard this and asked:

“Didn't Miss Lacosa already know?”

Roan had previously asked Lacey to investigate Fiona in the Legal Counsel's Office. As a result, Lacey found out that Fiona had close ties with the head of a certain group within the FBI's Las Vegas branch.

Not only that, not long after Fiona left the special investigation team, she called the team leader.

When Luo An heard the news, he immediately understood the logic behind it.

The case of the O'Dell family villa is an outright major case. As long as the murderer is identified and caught, it will be a great achievement.

But because Lexa O'Dell felt that the murderer in this case was coming for the O'Dell family, and there was a group of intricate enemies outside the O'Dell family. She didn't trust the local law enforcement in Las Vegas, so she called in Luo An, who was out of town, handed the case over to the special investigation team.

From another perspective, this kind of thing is a slap in the face of the local law enforcement agencies in Las Vegas.

But Lexa O'Dell quickly gained a foothold with her powerful methods, and Roan Greenwood also had a few thighs looking after her. Even if the local law enforcement agencies in Las Vegas were unhappy, they could only temporarily suppress their emotional choices. Wait and see what happens, and you may even secretly curse Luo An and the others for failing to solve the case.

But Luo An broke their illusions, successfully led the special investigation team to detect the case, and caught the murderer.

The local law enforcement department in Las Vegas was even more unhappy and frustrated when they learned about this incident, but they had no choice but to do anything. Until Luo An was stuck for a full week because he could not find the key evidence.

This was an opportunity, and they sent Fiona.

If Roan follows Fiona's third suggestion and "accidentally" leaks the story of Hector Jamie's crime to the families of the wealthy victims, once Hector Jamie is in trouble because of the incident, Death in prison, Luo An has a handle.

This handle can be big or small. If someone uses it at a critical moment, it will definitely blow Luo An into disgrace.

Even going deeper, I wonder whether the people who attacked Hector Jamie were the rich relatives of the victims; whether some people would use this excuse to persuade Luo An to do something; or whether some people He just wanted to take this opportunity to win over Luo An and make Luo An switch sides at the critical moment...

Before coming to this restaurant at Lexa's invitation tonight, Roan first called Veranith and Potente-Born and briefly talked about the matter.

Soldiers versus soldiers, generals versus generals, this kind of thing naturally has to be left to the higher authorities to deal with.

On the one hand, it is to ask for help, and on the other hand, it is to prove one's abilities and reflect one's worth to the superiors.

At the same time, neither Veranith nor Potente-Byrne are fuel-efficient lamps. They will definitely get some benefits from some people in the local law enforcement department in Las Vegas.

Roan is the one being targeted, and Veranith and Potente-Byrne will definitely share some of the benefits with him after the matter is resolved.

Success in one fell swoop, Luo An likes to do this kind of thing the most. As for what Roan just said about Lexa O'Dell already knowing about the case, it was not a lie or a test.

After all, the O'Dell family has been operating in the city of Las Vegas for several generations. The Federation is still a capitalist country. Lacosa, the current sole controller of the O'Dell family, will not be able to get information about this case if she can't get it. It's a lie.

“I do know some general information.”

Lexa smiled and nodded, then crossed her hands and leaned her chin, looked at Luo An with her two big eyes, and laughed softly:

“But Team Leader Greenwood is an eyewitness to this case after all. I believe you must know something that I can't find out.”

“Since you can't find out, don't ask. Many times it's not good to know too much about things. No matter how high a person's status is, this sentence is useful.”

Roan turned a blind eye to Lacosa's admiration and seductive gaze and chuckled:

“Mr. Purannai-O'Dell died not long ago, and the O'Dell family should still have a lot of things to deal with.

I think those things are more important than getting news from me, don't you think? ”

Hector Jamie's life will definitely not be very good after entering prison. Those rich people will definitely have the means to find out the situation behind this case. This is determined by the federal system.

As the leader of the special investigation team, Luo An had no intention of telling Lakesha too many details about the case.

Lexa blinked and stared at Luo An for a long time, until Mona, who was not far away, narrowed her eyes slightly, then chuckled and withdrew her gaze:

“Well, Leader Greenwood is indeed a good person.”

“It's hard to say that you are a good person, you just do what you do and what you don't do.”

Luo An smiled and waved his hand. Just as he was about to continue saying something, Lacosa suddenly stood up and motioned to the secretary who had been standing next to her to put on her thick woolen coat. Then she walked to Luo An and bent down. He whispered into Luo An's ear:

“I have already asked someone to enter the account for the fund that was agreed upon in advance.

Also, to be honest, if you weren't too young, I might have fallen in love with you. ”

After speaking, Lacosa straightened up, looked around at everyone in the room, especially glanced at Mona a few times, then smiled and left the room with the female secretary.

The side of his face was vaguely surrounded by the smell of perfume left by Lacosa, but Luo An didn't pay attention to the smell, but thought about what Lacosa had just said with a strange expression.

What do you mean he is too young? He is 26 years old this year, and Lakesha O'Dell is only 19 years old.

However, recalling the various ways Lacosa tormented her eighty-year-old father, and the bald middle-aged killer from before... Luo An's eyes narrowed slightly, as if he understood something.

On the other side, after seeing the scene just now, Lacey swallowed the food in her mouth, tentatively approached Mona, and asked in a low voice:

"Mona, are you okay?"

"What?"

Mona was stunned for a moment. Only when she saw the look in Lacey's eyes did she understand what she meant. She immediately laughed, shook her head and said:

"Don't worry, I'm fine. There's no way Luo An is interested in that woman Lakesha."

Lacie was full of doubts:

"Why?"

Mona proudly puffed up her chest and said softly:

"Because she is too young."

Lacie: "..."