Chapter 451 The Most Popular One

Early the next morning.

Caroline took Wilfred to the hospital to visit Jason and Elena.

"I'm so happy to see you wake up..." Caroline smiled elegantly. "I heard that Paige saved you. Her medical skills are amazing. She also saved me last time..."

She told them about what had happened last time. She was framed by her best friend and hit C30. Fortunately, Jane helped her detoxify, otherwise, the consequences would have been unimaginable.

"That person is so mean." Elena couldn't help but feel sorry for her. "You treated her as one of your own, but she hurt you like this..."

"After that, she didn't find a skilled doctor to detoxify her. She only had herself to blame..." Caroline's eyes dimmed for a while, and she accidentally found the painting on the bedside table. She couldn't help asking, "Is this drawn by Paige?"

"You can tell?" Jason, who was lying on the hospital bed, was surprised.

"It's Paige's style. How can I not recognize it?" Caroline picked it up and admired it. She didn't expect that Paige could draw so well with a pen and an A4 paper. "She has a profound artistic conception, both body and soul, and her painting skills are really amazing..."

"She is also a famous calligrapher..." Jason added with a smile.

"I know. She has countless identities. You're fortunate to have such an excellent granddaughter." When it came to Paige, Susan couldn't stop praising her. "Paige is beautiful and smart, understated, kind, and well-behaved. Wilfred and I like her very much."

"That's right. It's our family's blessing to have such a daughter-in-law." Wilfred was also full of admiration for Paige. "Don't worry, Mr. and Mrs. Lusk. In the future, she won't suffer in the Stowe family."

"Martin wanted to come here today, but he had something urgent to attend to, so he rushed to the company..." Caroline raised her eyes and motioned to the gifts next to her. "These are all prepared by him as gifts for you..."

"Thank you..." Elena knew that they come to visit her because they were satisfied with Paige. Martin had prepared so many precious gifts because he liked Paige.

To be honest, Elena was happy from the bottom of her heart that her granddaughter could be valued so much by her future husband's family. But at the same time, she thought of Patricia. No matter how hard Patricia had tried in the past, she had never been able to get such favor from the Stowe family.

At the end of the day, Paige was much better than Patricia. She had the blood of the Lusk family in her veins.

Patricia didn't.

When their voices reached Patricia's ears, she became even more depressed.

Lamont handed the brewed tea to Patricia and whispered, "When you find a good husband in the future, his family will also treat you like this."

Patricia looked up in shock. She didn't expect Lamont to see through her thoughts, and she felt a little embarrassed.

"Lamont, am I not good enough..."

"Everyone's merits vary, and so does the flowering period." Lamont seemed to have understood what she was thinking. He stood beside her and smiled, "Paige is where she is today because she has put in so much effort that ordinary people can't imagine. When you were shopping, doing spas, and attending parties, she always worked hard silently..."

Patricia seemed to have been inspired. She looked up at Lamont.

"If you think you're not excellent enough, it's not too late to work hard now. When you bloom in the future, there will be people who will envy and look up to you."

"Lamont..." Hearing his words, Patricia suddenly felt that she had been blaming herself, but she had never thought of changing her mind.

"As long as I work hard, can I be like Paige?" Patricia looked at the girl who was surrounded by people in the room.

"I can't guarantee what kind of achievements you will make at that time, whether you will surpass Paige, but at least you will definitely surpass yourself now."

"Wasn't it also a kind of improvement compared to your current self?" Lamont stood side by side with her. "Patricia, do you know it's easier for you to be successful than anyone else? Because of your current status, you can easily obtain the best resources. For example, if you want to learn the piano, Mom and Dad will hire the best teacher and buy you the best Piano. You can focus on your studies without distractions..."

"But in many places in the world, some people wanted to learn to play the piano, but they could only watch it from a distance. They didn't even have the most ordinary piano."

"So, now that you have the resources and the talent, you have to work harder to show it to everyone. I believe you will definitely succeed."

After listening to Lamont's words, Patricia nodded. "Lamont, from now on, I won't give up so easily."

"Actually, you are already much better than your peers." Lamont smiled at her. "Come on, it's not too late to work hard now."

In the ward.

Paige talked about her childhood experience of practicing the piano. She laughed as she spoke. However, the others felt sad when they heard her words. They felt that her training method was too cruel.

After receiving it, she said, "Lamont."

"Hey, are you thirsty or hungry? What else do you want to eat besides candy? I have everything in my bag." Lamont looked like he was on standby at anytime.

'Give me back the bottle of Lemonade just now."

'Ah? You mean this..." Lamont looked at the bottle in his hand and asked a little reluctantly, "Is this sour tasty?"

"Yummy."

"Then I'll buy you more later.'

Martin thought, "Isn't it that you said Paige can't drink ice water?"

"There's no need,' said Paige gently. "Martin has prepared a lot."

"We don't need his.'

Paige and Martin looked at each other and couldn't help laughing. Wasn't Lamont too cute?

On the way to the cinema, Lamont's body kept moving forward and his handsome face stood between Paige and Martin.

'I'm on vacation these days. If there's anything you want to play, feel free to call me at any time."

"Alright." Paige smiled.

"Anytime. We're family." Lamont glanced at Martin, who was driving. 'Tsk, he's just relying on his handsome face. What's the big deal?"

When they arrived at the cinema garage, Lamont unbuckled his sister's seatbelt first. Before Martin got off the car, he opened the car door for his sister and shielded the top of her head with his hands.

'Come on, slow down. Be careful."

As soon as Paige exited the car before Martin could hold onto her hand, Lamont switched positions with Paige. He walked in the middle and deliberately separated the two of them, one hand holding onto the corner of Paige's clothes.

"The mall is big. Follow me and don't get lost."

The people watching the movie were also shocked.

Although Lamont's heart was beating wildly, he subconsciously used his hand to block Paige's line of sight.

"Paige, don't be afraid. I'll protect you..."

Seeing that Lamont closed his eyes so tightly that he didn't even dare to look at the big screen, she found it funny. "Lamont, are you afraid of ghosts?"

"How is that possible? I am not afraid of anything..." Lamont glanced at the big screen, wanting to prove that he was not afraid of anything. He did not expect the ghost girl's head to fall to the ground. Lamont cried out in shock, "Oh my god..."

Seeing that Lamont was so scared that he shrank back into his chair, she couldn't help but laugh. ' Don't be afraid. It's all fake."

"Why would I be afraid? I'm just worried about you..." Lamont did not expect such a terrifying scene in a love movie. Who was the producer? He must talk to him later.

Paige and Martin were talking and laughing as they looked at the big screen. They were even talking about the plot. Lamont was a little surprised. "Paige, aren't you afraid?"

"It's quite funny."

"Funny?" Lamont's eyes widened. He had never heard of it before.

"Don't you think it's funny that her head suddenly fell off?"

"Is, is it funny?"

Lamont could not suppress the shock in his heart. Why was his younger sister even bolder than him?

How could he keep his reputation before his younger sister?

It was not until there was no horrible scene in the movie that Lamont finally put down his foot.

In the movie, the man drove the woman to the top of the mountain to enjoy the scenery. When they arrived at the top of the mountain, it suddenly rained lightly. Instead of getting out of the car, they sat in the car and waited for the rain to stop.

Martin also took the things in his hand to pay the bill and fill in the address and contact information.

After he left, a customer went up to ask the delivery man.

'Excuse me, can you give me the contact information of the handsome guy just now?'

The staff member said apologetically, 'I'm sorry, Miss. You saw it just now. He has a girlfriend. It's not good for you to do this.'

'I just want to make friends with him!'

'Sorry, we can't reveal our client's privacy.'

No matter how much the girl pestered him, the staff refused to reveal the address and phone number on the delivery list.

'Then can you give me another man's contact information? It's her brother. He's also very handsome...'

'Sorry, I can't.'

When he walked out of the jewelry shop, Lamont suddenly realized that he had dropped something.

'Paige, go ahead and have a look. I can't find something. I'll meet you later...'

Seeing that Lamont was a little anxious, she asked, 'What things?'

'Just... a lucky charm.'

'A lucky charm?' She was a little surprised because he looked careless and did not look like someone who would carry a lucky charm with him.

'I'll go look for it first.'

Lamont was very anxious that he returned to the jewelry shop immediately.

He did not know where it had fallen, Lamont had to search around the jewelry shop to look for it. During this period of time, he also asked many shop assistants, but no one saw his lucky charm.

Lamont then returned to the cinema.

Chapter 456 Jealousy Boils

Who would have thought that Martin would even send out the Shadow for pursuing Paige?

This was definitely true love.

Early the next morning.

When Patricia got up, she suddenly noticed two people at the door. They seemed to be deliverymen.

After asking around, Patricia found out that Lamont and Martin had bought a lot of things for Paige last night. There were a total of six boxes, and each box was printed with the brand logo of this shop.

Patricia knew the price of this store. Any small hair clip would cost hundreds of dollars. Because of its unique style and girlish nature, many friends liked to buy things from this brand.

As the fiance of Paige, it wasn't a big deal for Martin to buy some trinkets for her, but how could Lamont buy so many for her?

In addition to the 18 gifts that Lamont had given to Paige when he returned home last time, he had received more gifts than she had received from Lamont over the years.

Patricia felt a little sad. When she came to the fitness center and saw that her brother was busy working for Paige, she became even more jealous.

"Patricia, you're awake? Come, have some milk first." Lamont was pouring milk. When he saw her, he poured her a glass and handed it to her with a bright smile.

"Lamont, I don't want to drink milk today." Patricia still felt unhappy as she sat down dejectedly.

"Do you want to eat the sandwich? Or add some cheese fragments like before?"

"No, thanks. I want porridge."

Sensing her unhappiness, Paige looked up at her and saw hostility in her eyes.

"What's wrong? Haven't you slept enough?" Lamont filled another bowl of porridge for Patricia and placed it in front of her. "Who made you unhappy?"

Patricia lowered her head and ate her porridge without saying a word.

"It's really hard to guess a girl's mind," said Lamont with a smile when he saw that Paige had finished eating a bowl of porridge and was about to serve it to her. "Paige, eat more."

Patricia could no longer hold back her tears and they fell one by one.

"You heard it just now. Old Mr. Lusk and old Mrs. Lusk gave Ms. Paige pocket money. They were lying in bed for a few months. The first thing they did when they woke up was not to care about you but to transfer money to Ms. Paige. What does this mean? What they care more about is their own granddaughter... You are just an outsider to them..."

Patricia felt even worse.

"They are a family after all. Ms. Paige has only visited them a few times, and their relationship is already so good. They sends messages and calls to Ms. Paige every day, and then take a look at your mobile phone. Since Mr. Lusk and Mrs. Lusk woke up, how many messages have they sent to you, how many phone calls, and how much pocket money have they transferred?"

Patricia's eyes dimmed. No, not even once.

They didn't transfer the money to her, nor did they show her any concern.

Amily sighed. "Ms. Patricia, you've been well protected all these years. You don't understand the complexity of society and the sinister hearts of people... I've advised you many times before, but you didn't listen... If you were willing to be realistic at that time and fight for more benefits, you wouldn't have gotten nothing now..."

Patricia raised her eyes in a daze. "What benefits do you mean?"

"Of course, it's the group's dividends. Don't you want to get the group's dividends every month like your brothers? That's a lot of money. Also, while your parents still have some feelings for you, you can ask for a few more villas and shops..."

Now, it was up to them. Just get as much as you could.

"At the very least, You can ask Mrs. Luck to buy you a few more limitededition supercars, branded bags, and watches. In the future, if you need money urgently, you can sell them and exchange them for some money."

Patricia's eyes dimmed. "But what I want... is their love for me."

"Hey! Ms. Patricia, don't you understand now? When Ms. Paige comes back, they won't treat you the same as before! Instead of gaining nothing at that time, it's better to ask for more benefit for yourself. At least at that time, you will still have money!"

What was the point of having feelings?

Chicago was the most developed first-tier city in the country, and any villa there could cost hundreds of millions of dollars...

He didn't dare to call the little girl Skylar Benson, for fear of exposing her identity.

Lamont was a little surprised. Why was Captain Lee more excited to see his sister than to see him?

"Dr. Benson, did you come out to play today?" After he finished speaking, he noticed the man standing next to Skylar and was almost shocked. "Mr.

Stowe, you're also here..."

"Mm." Martin only nodded lightly and didn't have many expressions.

"Paige, how do you know the time of death is about six months ago?" Lamont asked curiously.

"When the corpse is soaked in water for more than three months, there will be a layer of white wax-like substance on the surface of the corpse, also known as corpse wax."

There was a calmness in Paige's eyes as she continued, "It will take about half a year for an adult's corpse to form corpse wax. With the weather, we can roughly deduce the time."

However, the time of death was far from enough, because the police wanted to know the height and age of this person to compare with the missing person database and find clues.

"Paige, how tall do you think he is?" Lamont came to Paige and asked.

"Around 1.6 meters." Paige analyzed as she looked at the body before her. "When they're of age, their height will decrease by 1.6mm every year, and every 20 years, it will decrease by 0.1cm. When an adult man is between 40 and 60 years old, his height will decrease by 1.6cm, and when they're between 60 and 69 years old, their height will be 1.5kg shorter than theirs."

Paige looked at the long bones of the deceased, so she roughly deduced that the height of the deceased was about 1.6 meters.

The people around her seemed to be looking at a myth, looking at this talking girl in disbelief.

Martin smiled. "Don't worry, Lamont. In this life, only Paige can choose to abandon me by herself."

"What do you mean abandoned? You make it sound like my sister is bad!"

At the end of the transparent glass plankway was a large heart-shaped figure. The three of them stood there, chatting and laughing as they looked at the distant scenery.

In the evening.

When Martin sent the siblings back to Larsen Villa, he suddenly noticed a Rolls-Royce parked at the entrance.

There should be guests coming.

"Then I won't disturb your parents." Martin looked at the girl in front of him and said gently, "Have a good night."

"Okay, drive slowly on the way."

"Alright."

Seeing how reluctant the two of them were, Lamont suddenly felt that his existence was unnecessary.

In the living room.

Danica looked at the girl in front of her with a smile. "I haven't seen you for a while. You have become prettier."

"I'm flattered." Callia looked lively. "I haven't seen you for a long time, and you've become more beautiful. You're naturally beautiful without makeup. If you put on makeup, you'll look like a fairy. Even money is not as good as yours."

"Look, you're becoming more and more eloquent." Danica grinned from ear to ear. "You're almost praising me as a flower."

"How can flowers be as beautiful as yours? The flowers that just sprouted are not as dignified and generous as yours, and the flowers that bloom are not as beautiful as yours, let alone the withered flowers. They can't compare with yours at all."

Danica laughed out loud. "How sweet..."

"Callia is lively by nature. She has been smart and quick-witted since she was a child. The more she grows up, the more likable she is." Donald smiled and said to his old friend, Mr. Shawn, who was sitting on one side, "With such a cute little girl at home, I'm not afraid of being unhappy. Chapter 460 Find a Needle in the Sea

As soon as Paige hung up the phone, she saw her mother waving at her, signaling her to go over.

She walked over suspiciously, but Danica grabbed her hand and asked in a low voice, "How's it going? How's Lamont going with Callia?"

Paige glanced at the couple in the distance and asked in a low voice, "You want to matchmake them?"

"Callia, I've watched her grow up. She's innocent and clever. She has a perfect family background, character, and educational background."

Danica seemed very satisfied with this girl. "The point is, everyone has seen her affection for your brother for more than ten years... When she was in primary school, she said that she would marry Lamont when she grew up. At that time, we thought that she was childish, but we didn't expect that after so many years, she only cares about him. I think they are a good match."

"But Lamont doesn't seem to be interested in her."

"Your brother needs someone to push him from behind, or he'll be very dull... Look, Callia already taking the initiative, but he doesn't know how to respond..." Danica felt a headache coming on.

Paige saw Lamont texting in the distance. After a while, her phone vibrated.

[Paige, where are you?] Lamont felt like weeping. [Quick, come here.]

"Let's go. Let's not disturb them." Danica took Paige's hand and left. "Let them spend more time together."

Looking at the figure in the distance with sympathy, Paige replied: [Mom and I have entered the house.]

Lamont was stunned.
