

Chapter 20

"How can you not know who was standing in front of you? Don't you know a single information about him? Ha..... Seriously, Eva." Nathalia sighed as she rubbed the space between her eyebrows, she thought Eva would be joking but the clueless expression on her face just made more perplexed at the moment.

"He is the most handsome and eligible bachelor and most importantly the dream husband of every single woman in the country. Not only is he just the dream husband, he is a very powerful man no one wants to offend, yet my dear you just casually spoke to him in such a manner, plus you told him to his face that you know nothing about him. Haa.....I'm already losing my mind."

"So you seem to know a lot about that man." Eva raised an eyebrow and gave her a suspicious look.

Nathalia did know that she was advertising Damien to Eva but she couldn't stop at this moment. "Yes, I know a lot about him because that man is my cou..... ehem, I mean because he is very famous and even if you ask any individual about him they will tell you all of these things." She almost spilled the fact that Damien was her cousin. If Damien knew that she told Eva about their relationship, he would definitely grill her alive. She didn't know why he didn't want Eva to know about them but this made Nathalia more suspicious about both Eva and Damien.

Chapter 20

"I doubt that because you seem to have taken a liking to him already. Besides, I don't know anything about any other man because my attention was sorely focused on Mark in the past. I didn't have any interest in other men but you speak so highly of this man." Eva replied. She thought she would marry Mark one day so she didn't spare other men a second glance. Although she could tell that Damien seemed to be a rich individual but with the way Nathalia spoke of him, it gave her another impression.

"Ahhh! You're frustrating sometimes. However, I know that there is something you're not telling me about. There is no way he would speak to you if you didn't know each other. Besides, he is not the type that likes to get close to the opposite sex but he was the first person that talked to you. So out with it already."

Eva's eyes twitched uncontrollably when she heard Nathalia. 'He doesn't like to be close to the opposite sex? D- does that mean he likes to be close with male? Wait! Did I have a one night stand with a gay?! Is that what he meant by 'Found you'? Such a handsome man like him turned out to be a gay.' Eva rampaged internally.

Chapter 20

"Hey, I hope you aren't thinking of giving me some random excuse because I'm not buying it. Make the story count." Eva snapped out of her thoughts again when she heard Nathalia's voice.

Knowing fully well that Nathalia wouldn't let her go if she didn't tell you. "Okay, I knew that man earlier but I had to pretend I didn't because....." Eva pursued, feeling hesitant to say the rest.

"Because what?.....Go on." Nathalia ignored Eva's hesitation and pryed urging her to continue with her words.

"It's really a long story." Eva looked at Nathalia hoping she would grasp why she was hesitating.

"I don't care about how long the story is, I have a lot of time to listen to your long story." Nathalia urged.

Eva sighed at her fate, why can't she just resist this persistent friend of hers. "We had a one night stand together nine months ago." Eva revealed.

The living room fell into dead silence for a few minutes only the sound of both women breathing could be heard. Eva glanced at her best friend who was just staring at her with a blank facial expression. Eva let out a sigh, already anticipating such a reaction from Nathalia, that was why she was trying to avoid this. Eventually it's unavoidable since she came across the same man she had spent the night with.

Chapter 20

After a few minutes of finally digesting and processing the information she had just heard, Nathalia turned her gaze back on Eva.

"Who did you say you had a one night stand with?" She asked in a very low whisper. Eva raised an eyebrow surprised by the sudden change of tone Nathalia was using. Who knew she had such a low tone?

"The man we met earlier at the boutique, he seems to remember me after many months." Eva repeated, oblivious and clueless to what Nathalia was thinking.

"And you did what when you left the hotel room in the morning?" She asked again with the same tone.

"Why are you asking me weird questions? Weren't you listening earlier, or are you that shocked that I had a one night stand? I swear I was totally drunk and not in the right sense when it happ-"

"Just tell me what you did." Nathalia interrupted

Eva in the middle of her sentence.

"Okay, I wrote him a checknote of a million dollars and placed five hundred thousand dollars cash on the table." Eva responded to Natalia's question.

"Now why are you acting strange? Was the money I offered too much or too little?" She asked.

'Should I have given more, is that why he is looking for me?' Her thought wandered off to another direction.

Instead of getting a reply, Nathalia suddenly grabbed Eva by both shoulders which made Eva crease her brows together. "What are you doing?"

"Eva, you seriously don't have the slightest idea of who that man is?" Nathalia queried, her gaze boring into Eva.

"Thalia, I told you and I knew you've taken a liking to that man, but you should that he has such an irritating personality. I was only able to endure it that day because I needed to persuade him to let what happened go but he still refused no matter what I offered him. He's really annoying in many ways." Eva rambled totally misunderstanding what Nathalia meant. She thought her best had fell head over heels for Damien.

"I implore you not to think of having a one night stand with him and pay him off like I did." She added.

Nathalia felt like slapping her friend for thinking such a thing but she controlled herself. "No, that's not what I meant." She shook her head.

"Huh? Then what do you mean?"

"My dear Eva, what this best friend is saying is that the man we saw at the boutique and also the person you claimed having a one night stand with is no other than the CEO of the Cross Enterprise, Damien Cross." Nathalia revealed to Eva.

Comments

Support