Chapter 10 The Kids Needs Father

The room instantly fell into silence.

Ariella looked at her daughter incredulously, "Mia, what did you say, say it again?"

Was it her hallucination? Her daughter talked.

She hadn't been waiting for this moment over the years. Did God finally hear her prayers?

"Mommy, it's the kind-hearted man that made Mia talk."

Jasper put in good words for Ivan again. He should make his mommy feel good about the kind-hearted man and then create opportunities for them to date.

"Jasper, is it true?"

Ariella looked at her daughter in amazement and found it hard to believe.

All these years, she tried so hard to fix the issue. In the end, a strange man succeeded? This was just incredible.

"Yeah."

Jasper looked at his mother sincerely and nodded heavily, "You can ask Mia."

For so many years, Mia just called her once, and she had been looking forward

She almost wept for joy and kissed her daughter repeatedly. This day finally Ariella's hand sti ened in the air. Did she miss anything? She looked at her daughter in shock, "Who is handsome?"

Mia echoed in a milky voice, "Papa, handsome."

"Papa."

The little girl blew a bubble happily at the thought of her 'papa.'

Ariella was ba ed. When did her daughter have a father? Jasper, care to explain?

Jasper seriously unfolded the whole story. Why did his sister call the kind-hearted man papa? How did the other kids at school laugh at them because they didn't have a father?

"Are you hurt? Let me take a look."

Ariella's heart broke when she heard about bullying. The kids were her world, and she rarely scolded them.

"Mommy, the kind-hearted man drove the bad people away. We're fine."

"Sorry."

Other children had both parents while they only had one.

Ariella's eyes turned red as she felt guilty for their su ering at school.

also felt regretful that she failed to give them a complete home.

Gracie whispered, "Will you consider a new boyfriend? The kids need a father."

Soon, the kids fell asleep in her arms, and she felt content. Meanwhile, she

Instead of resisting the topic like before, Ariella fell into silence this time. Her heart died a long time ago.

It was tough for a woman to take care of two children.

Her heart broke four years ago, and the pieces didn't fit anymore.

She sat upright and raised her eyes, "Come in."

A man in a business suit came in. File in hand, he stood there and claimed,

She asked with feigned composure, but under the blanket, her fists clenched.

That jerk looked quite rich. Would he claim a large sum for compensation?

Her heart convulsed as she understood the situation. She tore apart that jerk's

For God's sake, she just returned from abroad and found a job. Before she could buy a house, she had to take on such heavy debt?

"What kind of car is so expensive?"

Ariella lost her cool. Damn, she was driven crazy.

"Here is the vehicle repair bill, and the total cost is 1.38 million yuan. Since you have children to raise, our boss only claims 1.3 million yuan."

"Ms. Shelton, in addition to the vehicle repair fee, you should also pay 500,000 yuan for the shock and mental damage. In total, the amount is 1.8 million yuan."

This was a bolt from the blue.

In the end, she sneered. Probably, there was no longer a position for her in the family. They all wished her gone.

Her mind wandered until she thought of the Shelton family.

Bzzt... her phone vibrated.

Only she would not let them have their way.

In a hurry, she picked up the phone, "Hello, ma'am."

"Are you free, Ms. Shelton? Please come now."

It was a call from school, and Ariella was immediately worried about her kids.

"Yesterday after school, your child had a conflict with another kid. Now his parents are here, and you're advised to come, too."

She was upset with the teacher's serious tone, "Anything wrong?"
