

Fire 1504

Chapter 1504

Kisa slowly squatted down, with Davian's last words ringing in her ears.

"If I were Mr.Kooper, I would never forgive you for the rest of my life."

'Of course, after what happened, Gilbert would never forgive me," she said in her mind.

Footsteps approached her from behind, and she mechanically turned her head.

Mia stood in front of her, still as stunningly beautiful as ever, but with no trace of the seductive smile from before.

Time had changed everyone, but in the end, Kisa still could not understand her.

She did not even know why Mia had betrayed her.

A faint pain throbbed in her belly, and she struggled to stand up, leaning on her knees.

She looked at Mia calmly, without a word.

Mia smiled, apologetic and indifferent at the same time, with a hint of inexplicable emotion.

"You must hate me now, don't you?" she said.

shook her head.She did not hate other, but apparently not.Lea could betray me for love, and Mia could stab me in the back for her own gain.Am I overestimating to Mia, nor did she want to investigate the reasons done, there's no point in offering excuses," she turned around and walked disappear into the distance, her eyes blurred with tears.She looked up, smiled, and turned to the man lurking in the

"Are you happy now?"

his head slightly lowered, his fingertips flickering

hint of self- mockery

sure if I'm happy or finding herself in an

in a panic,

are awake?" A voice came from the window, both unfamiliar turned toward the sound had changed; this was

at him for a moment

"Uncle David."

for a moment, chuckling

seems you already know my

the huge drama at the wedding yesterday, it was hard not to stood up and walked over to her. He looked at the woman on the bed, his eyes distant yet complex, as if he was looking at another