

Fire 1524

Chapter 1524

Gilbert's eyes were blank and devoid of any emotion, his body rigid and tense as if he was still ensnared in the grip of a terrible memory. Kisa was too scared to even make eye contact with him. Meanwhile, David was puffing away on his cigarette, feeling pretty pleased with himself.

He sneered, "None of you losers will ever find happiness."

"Enough." Madalyn's voice cracked with despair. "I caused all of this. If I hadn't schemed to get rid of you, you wouldn't have broken up with that rotten Emilia. And my son and daughter-in-law wouldn't have gotten into a car crash trying to save her and her unborn child. It's all my fault. Just kill me and spare my grandson. Damon treated Jensen so well, why can't you do the same for Gilbert? Just think about how Damon was, come on." David's eyes flickered with a hint of emotion. But suddenly, aloud commotion erupted outside the warehouse, and everyone turned to look at the door. Except for Sara, who had a dark gleam in her eyes. Two ragged figures burst into the room. Kisa's gaze fixed on the intruders, and she saw that they were none other than Christopher and Carolyn. Both of them had explosives strapped to their bodies, and the guards outside were too scared to even approach them, cowering in fear from a distance.

his eyes and filthy rich brat!" Carolyn shouted, glaring at him like she wanted to kill him. Her face was twisted with a wild mix of love and hate. "I loved you so much, I was willing to give up everything for you. How could you treat face was twisted and crazed, and he fish in bed. If you want her so bad, go look for her in hell. Hahaha...

that could set off the explosives strapped to his body of death and just took another drag of his cigarette while shooting and they looked like he was staring destroyed her. You're the