The First Heir – Chapter 1584

Hiss!

The atmosphere in the small conference room became extremely somber all of a sudden.

“Why is he back all of a sudden? Did you detain him?” Mr. Jenkins from earlier asked nervously at this moment.

Another person also followed and asked, “He’d better not ruin our plan at this juncture or all our efforts will be wasted.”

“What exactly is the situation, Mr. Johnston? Quickly tell us.”

Martin nodded and said, “According to our plan, our people would detain him and Wynn as long as they appeared. But now there are some problems. Philip is not as simple as we thought. Even Webster Shaw has been arrested because of him. Moreover, according to the information I received, Theo Zander is also working for Philip most likely for Wynn. He came back this time and brought a lot of people with him. Theo also arrived in Riverdale not long ago and helped Philip resolve the crisis. Hence, our operation has failed this time.”

After Martin finished speaking, the entire conference room fell into a flurry of chatter.

Everyone looked anxious and worried.

“What should we do? Philip is back and even has Theo helping him behind the scenes. It’ll be difficult to go through with our next plan.”

“Yeah, it’s going to be troublesome now. We should have just sent someone to Uppercreek and abduct Wynn back here!”

“Mr. Johnston, what shall we do now? Since you asked us to come here, you must have a perfect solution already.”

At this time, someone suddenly turned the topic to Martin.

Martin also did not hide and said, “Yes, I do have another plan. But this plan needs the support of everyone here.”

The crowd went silent again and seemed to be thinking about something.

After a while, someone asked, “Mr. Johnston, this plan of yours, what’s the success rate?”

Once this question was asked, everyone’s eyes fell on Martin.

Martin got up and said with his hands behind his back, “80 percent! When the time comes, Bernard and I will resign from our positions in Beacon. Our patron has already set up a new pharmaceutical company for us. It's a large company comparable to Beacon, and it'll operate in the same business. I think everyone should understand what I mean by this, right?"

It was very clear!

How could they not understand? This was a competition!

What kind of people would have the guts to set up a rival company on par with Beacon?

This was an opportunity!

Several people looked at each other and hurriedly said, "Mr. Johnston, if you need our help, just say the word!"

"That's right, Mr. Johnston. Just speak up and we'll definitely support you!"

"Okay!"

Martin said, "I need all of you to withdraw your funds from Beacon and invest everything into my company!"

Suddenly!

The door of the private room was kicked open and a figure stepped in with a dozen people. He shouted angrily, "You must be dreaming!"
