The First Heir – Chapter 1598

Martin laughed and said, “Haha, well said. Since you’ve chosen me, I naturally won’t treat you badly. But I didn’t expect Philip to be so vicious and ruthless, not showing the slightest mercy at all. This is simply too disrespectful of him.”

While saying that, Martin even slapped his hand on the armrest of the sofa in anger.

Although it was a bit pretentious, nobody would say anything. Instead, they smiled flatteringly and said, “Exactly! Philip is simply too arrogant. We’re veterans in Beacon, after all. For him to kick us out like this, it’s too disheartening!”

“Mr. Johnston, as long as you say the word, we’ll definitely follow you to the ends of the world!”

“We must get rid of Philip quickly!”

Martin nodded as he stood up and said, “Everyone, please rest assured. The scale of Martin Pharmaceutical is comparable to Beacon. I believe that with your help, Martin Pharmaceutical will soon be among the top three in the pharmaceutical industry in Riverdale. At that time, we’ll fight with Beacon to the death!”

“Great!”

Everyone applauded and laughed.

Martin nodded and said, “In that case, we need to come up with a good plan on how to deal with Beacon.”

Someone immediately raised their hand and proposed, “Mr. Johnston, I think we should first snatch away all the business partners of Beacon. As long as all of Beacon’s business channels are cut off, they would be like a tiger that has had all its teeth pulled out!”

“That’s right, we should cut off all Beacon’s cooperation channels. That way, even if they produce more drugs, they won’t be able to sell them. And if they can’t sell them, there’ll be a backlog. Then, the efficacy of Beacon will definitely decline! At that time, we can offer our cooperation. I don’t believe that Beacon will still refuse by then!”

“Yes, and if this continues, Beacon will eventually be controlled by Martin Pharmaceutical and end up being at your disposal.”

Hahaha!

Everyone laughed. It seemed that they could already imagine the scene of Beacon being on the verge of bankruptcy. They would desperately come to Martin Pharmaceutical for help.

Martin also nodded and said, “Good, this method is feasible. As expected, all of you are talented. I’m lucky that Martin Pharmaceutical has all of you!”

Having said that, Martin also expressed his gratitude, doing his part perfectly.

Everyone also got up and said to Martin, "Mr. Johnston, you're too polite. This is what we should do."

"Let's do this next. Before I left, I made a copy of the list of Beacon's partners."

Someone stood up, pulled out a list of Beacon's partners from his bag, and respectfully handed it to Martin.

This scene made everyone a little miffed and envious. Whoever could contribute to Martin Pharmaceutical at this time would naturally be valued by Martin.

This guy actually copied the list of Beacon's partners before leaving. Although this was stealing trade secrets, in the eyes of these people, it was normal.

They were just jealous of this person's means.

Martin took the list with excitement, roughly glanced at it, and laughed raucously. "Well done! With this list, we can strike them where it hurts the most! Beacon will be doomed sooner or later. By then, it'll be time for Martin Pharmaceutical to take the lead!"
