

First Heir 50

The First Heir

Chapter 50

By then, Martha's friends had noticed Philip. They snorted out and mocked, "Martha, is that your son-in-law? He looks really plain and so absentminded, like a blockhead. Your daughter is so pretty, she must have been blind to marry him!"

"Yeah, such a useless man is a disgrace to us elders. Thankfully my son-in-law is not like him."

The group of elders started laughing in mockery.

Martha's cheeky smile earlier was now completely gone. She snorted. "That wretched piece of trash is not my son-in-law. In a few days, I'll have my daughter divorce him!"

Philip had heard the insults directed to him by the group. He could only shake his head and smiled coldly. He was already used to insults like this. They called him a wretched piece of trash, but what were they doing here? They had even called Aiden to come over and help. Now Philip really wanted to see just how Aiden can help with this situation.

Just then, a white Maserati drove over on the street, looking very flashy.

Martha squealed in delight. "Addy, Aunty's over here. Look, our Aiden is here. We can solve this now." Martha emphasized on the word 'our', as if afraid that others would not know.

a little suffocated on the sound source to see a handsome young man wearing an

with an expression like she was looking at her son and smiled. "Addy, got out, he politely greeted Martha, "Aunt Martha, it's alright. I just happen to be free today. What's the situation here? Has something bad glance around, Aiden noticed Philip, who was shouting hysterically in the crowd. Aiden's came here this morning, the boss has gone missing. Can you tell us what's going on?" Martha clapped her hands together anxiously and seemed to have thought of something. She asked, "Addy, you own a company, so you must know some people. Can you help me find the owner of this

This group of older people had definitely

"Aunt Martha, don't worry, I can take care of this. I just happened to be acquainted with the boss okay." Martha was excited. She wore a bright smile and tugged at Aiden's arm. "Addy's still the best after all. Better that today was his day to shine. After he had lost his favor with his future father-in-law, he would now get it back from his future mother-in-law. If he could have Martha on his side, that out his phone to call his father. "Dad, didn't you say that you've dined with the boss older folks, enjoying how everyone had their eyes on him. He cleared his throat and said, "Don't worry, everyone, my