Chapter 1291 The Only One Unhappy

Johanna was extremely annoyed by the close contact with him. Her little face visibly sank, "The doctor said I need to walk more. Let go of me, I can walk by myself."

"I'll carry you to the car," Johanna said, holding Zephyr tightly. It had been a while since Zephyr had carried her.

Johanna hasn't gained much weight, but she is now a bit heavier than before. Zephyr feels the weight on his arm and a faint smile appears in his eyes.

The subordinate was holding Johanna's shoes and coat, following behind the two of them.

Casinos usually become lively at night, but even around five or six in the evening, there are quite a few guests coming and going.

The casino's interior is dominated by gold, featuring a massive crystal chandelier. As soon as one steps inside, it becomes impossible to distinguish between day and night, completely immersing oneself in this intoxicating money-squandering establishment.

There were no shortage of beautiful women in the casino, with blonde hair and blue eyes, and stunning figures. However, there were only a few who had the innocent and charming appearance like Johanna.

Her face was delicate, and her dark, moist eyes were like black holes, capable of captivating anyone with just a single glance.

Johanna handed the menu to Zephyr, but he didn't take it. Instead, he leaned his hand on his forehead, not even wanting to lift his head. "I'm not picky, just order whatever you like."

The couple took their seats diagonally behind Johanna and her group.

Dobermann also squatted down beside his female owner, behaving very well.

It was just across the aisle from Zephyr, about two or three meters away. Zephyr could see it just by turning his head.

After Johanna ordered her dishes, she handed the menu back to the waiter and suddenly said, "The guests at that table brought a Dobermann with them, it's pretty cool."

Zephyr remained silent.

Johanna noticed the man's tense jaw and seemed to guess something. She rested her chin on her hand and smiled at him, "I like dogs too. How about you buy one and bring it back tomorrow?"

"Being pregnant and keeping a pet isn't a good idea..." Zephyr's breathing was rapid, and he could barely hold himself together.

Whenever there are dogs around, his sense of smell becomes incredibly sensitive, able to detect their scent, and he experiences uncontrollable fear.

After returning to the mansion, Zephyr arranged for the housekeeper to attend to Johanna's bath in the bedroom, as he had some work to do and went to the study.

He might have just come from Danontand and felt a bit tired. Rubbing his eyebrows, he lay down on the table for a short nap.

In a vague glimpse, he saw a blonde-haired, blue-eyed woman standing in the living room, scolding the little boy with a stern voice. After berating him, the woman grabbed the boy's arm and dragged him out of the room.

"No, Mom, I promise I'll do better next time. Please forgive me this time, I'm begging you..."

"Mom, I don't want to go there, I'm scared." The young boy knew how terrifying that place was and felt fear deep in his heart.

But no matter how much he cried and pleaded, the woman remained unmoved.

The woman angrily scolded him for being too weak, "Osborn, you are the future heir of the Carlo family. Look at Lostaria, who isn't afraid of your father? How can you cry? You're simply useless!"

"If your father sees your tears, he will only despise you more, and he will despise me as well!"

The woman dragged the little boy all the way to a storeroom behind the manor.

She ordered someone to open the storeroom door and ruthlessly threw the little boy inside. Coldly and heartlessly, she said, "I don't need a useless son. If you can't change your cowardice, stay in there for the rest of your life!"

"Mom, please don't..."

Chapter 1294 This Girl Will Forever Live In His Heart

Zephyr smiled silently and gently kissed Johanna's belly, softly coaxing, "Sleep well, little one, or else Mommy won't be able to sleep either."

It seemed that the baby understood what the father said, and stopped making a fuss.

Zephyr, seeing how well-behaved it was, felt a wave of tenderness in his heart and gently said, "In just one more month, Daddy will be able to see you."

He never thought that one day, he would look forward to the arrival of a child so eagerly.

Even though his childhood was filled with darkness, he loved this child and its mother deeply.

He will do everything in his power to give them the very best of everything.

After chatting with the little one, Zephyr pulled up the blanket and covered Johanna with it. He looked down at her face, which was softly illuminated by the table lamp, and gently caressed it with his fingertips.

He reminisced about the day he met her, and a sense of regret arose in his heart.

Chapter 1295 About To Give Birth

At that moment, Zephyr had just arrived at the baby store in the city. The sales associate showed him the model of the baby stroller from the picture. Zephyr decided to buy one and handed over his card to make the payment.

At that moment, the subordinate who had been waiting outside hurried in and reported to Zephyr, "Mr. Juksford, Mrs. Juksford is about to give birth."

Zephyr's face changed, not even bothering to take the card, and left with his subordinate.

On the way back, Zephyr learned from his subordinate that Johanna had told the housekeeper she was going to sleep. Later, when the housekeeper brought a smoothie to her room, she discovered that Johanna was not in her bedroom. Instead, there was a rope made of clothes tied to a stone pillar on the balcony. The housekeeper quickly informed the bodyguard.

The bodyguard found Johanna under the fence on the side of the garden. When he found her, her face was already pale, and she kept crying out in pain.

It is possible that Johanna fell while escaping, which led to the premature birth of her child.

"Useless! Over a dozen of you can't even keep an eye on a pregnant woman!" Zephyr cursed, urging his subordinate to drive faster while calling the doctor at the mansion.

The doctor answered the phone quickly, "Mr. Juksford, don't worry. Mrs. Juksford and the child are both fine."

Since Johanna had a cesarean for her first child and the time between her pregnancies was relatively short, and the baby was in the correct position, the doctor hoped she would have a natural birth, as it would pose a lower risk.

Even though the doctor said so, Zephyr couldn't help but feel uneasy not staying by Johanna's side.

Chapter 1296 : If I Love You, Then I Must Be Sick

Johanna couldn't help but laugh, as she struggled to pull her hand away. "You kidnap me, assault me, ruin my life, and you still expect me to love you?"

“Sorry.” He knew what he had done wrong in the past and deeply regretted it.

No one had ever taught him how to love others, and he had always been used to doing things his own way. Whenever he set his sights on something, he would stop at nothing to obtain it.

How could he have known that one day, he would fall in love with the woman he once considered his prey?

He wanted to take good care of her and their children.

Zephyr's voice was soft and humble, “Jojo, I know you love Timothy, and I won't stand in your way. I just hope you can spare a little love for me too.”

She looked at Zephyr indifferently, “If I loved you, then I must be crazy.”

She turned her head away, no longer looking at Zephyr.

At that moment, the housekeeper knocked on the door and entered the bedroom with a bowl of mushroom soup. Sensing the tense atmosphere between the two, the housekeeper didn't dare to make a sound and carefully handed the mushroom soup to Zephyr.

Zephyr knew that his presence would only make Johanna uncomfortable, so he asked the housekeeper to take good care of her.

Chapter 1297 Do Not Save Me

Ever since she was little, Johanna had never done anything wrong. She diligently studied and always listened to her parents.

Even when her parents divorced at a young age and she was thrown abroad to live alone by Vanessa, she never hated Vanessa. Even when she was later deceived by the gambling-addicted Yorick and sold, and even when Vanessa no longer wanted her, she never broke down.

Later on, she met Timothy, and after going through so many experiences together, they finally cleared up their misunderstandings and thought they could live happily ever after.

She cherished the time she spent with Timothy, relying on him more than ever. Even when she lost her sight, she didn't cry or make a fuss. As long as she was by Timothy's side, she was content.

But why, of all people, did such misfortune have to befall her?

Perhaps influenced by Johanna's crying, the little one also burst into tears. Johanna seemed not to hear it, as she opened the nursery door and walked out in a daze.

The nurse assigned to take care of the children lived just across the hallway.

Upon hearing the child's cry, the nurse hurriedly left the room, just in time to see Johanna's figure descending the stairs.

Chapter 1298 Her Hands Were Cold As If Devoid Of Warmth

Zephyr followed the nurse into the ward, where he saw Johanna lying in the hospital bed.

She was too thin, and the hospital gown looked empty on her. The ventilator had already been removed, and her small, palm-sized face was incredibly pale.

What startled Zephyr were her eyes.

Even if she hated seeing him, there were no emotions in her eyes now, just emptiness. Despite her young age, she seemed lifeless and dull.

Zephyr's throat felt a bit dry as he walked over and held Johanna's hand in his palm. Her hand was cold, as if it had no warmth.

Her appearance made Zephyr so uncomfortable that he could hardly breathe.

He tightly held the woman's hand and said in a hoarse voice, "It was me who had the contraceptive pill replaced. That's our child. It's okay if you don't like her. I'll take care of her in the future and won't let you see her again."

"Can we agree that you don't have to love me anymore, and I won't bother you anymore? I'll let you go back to Timothy, alright?"

"Jojo, help me sort things out."

Chapter 1299 Where Did He Come From?

When Genevieve woke up in the morning, there was no one beside her on the pillow, but the bed was still warm, indicating that the man had only gotten up a short while ago.

She finished washing up and went downstairs, only to see a figure busily working in the kitchen.

Genevieve jogged in and hugged the man from behind, playfully asking, "Where did this Mr. Incredible come from, bustling about so early in the morning?"

Armand paused his work, turned around, and lowered his head to give her a kiss. "Why did you wake up so early?"

"Maybe it's because you're not here, and the bed feels cold, so I can't sleep," Genevieve rubbed her chin against his chest.

Since Armand was still preparing breakfast, she playfully clung to him for a while before letting go.

Genevieve picked up a bagel from the plate, took a bite, and asked, "Can you tell me now where you went last night?"

"Go pick up Johanna."

Upon hearing this, Genevieve immediately approached him and asked, "Did you find Jojo?"

Chapter 1300 Do You Not Have A Brain Or A Mouth?

Armand didn't explicitly say, so Genevieve assumed that Johanna had been taken away by Zephyr for a few months and had a mental breakdown. Perhaps, like her past self, she had a tendency for self-harm.

Upon arriving at the mansion, she saw Johanna standing there, looking dazed and confused. It was then that she realized how unwell Johanna truly was.

Right now, Johanna seemed as if her soul had been drained, leaving only an empty shell behind. She could walk, smile, and eat on her own, but she lacked any vitality. When people tried to talk to her, she simply ignored them.

Sitting in one place for a long time, not even blinking an eye.

After calming down, she asked Timothy, "Aren't you a doctor? Jojo has become like this, and you have no solution?"

Ever since Johanna was brought back, Timothy has been by her side without closing his eyes for a moment.

He was also extremely distressed because of Johanna's mental state.

"I'm not omnipotent, I'm just a neurosurgeon. Jojo, she..." Timothy couldn't continue, hanging his head and grabbing his hair, filled with immense regret.
