Chapter 1411 Not Allowed To Hug Her Or I Will Cry Too

The plane arrived at Baykeep Airport in about one hour's time.

The weather in Baykeep had been much warmer than in Jadeborough for the past few days. It took Jerry and his companions about half an hour to reach Mount Cokrekyo by car. Since it was not the weekend, there were only a few other visitors.

Due to the small number of people, the promotional team scheduled the shooting in these few days.

Charlotte did not like to hike. Even though her family went to Dopdur Church to pray and worship god every year, she never joined them.

Back then, she complained to Jiminy, "Dad, we live in a materialistic world now. What's the use of praying for blessings? If you lie around, God won't give you any money. You'll die poor before you can even receive the blessings."

Jiminy got upset after that, and he never had her come along to the church ever again.

Charlotte sat in the cable car and watched as the foot of the mountain grew farther away while the cross on the mountaintop became clearer before her eyes.

She felt regretful. If only she had not been so willful in the past, she could have spent more time with Jiminy.

On the way to Mount Cokrekyo, Jerry's makeup artist helped him with his makeup and styled his hair in the car. Upon reaching the mountaintop, they grouped up with the promotional team, and Joash took Jerry to change his clothes.

Charlotte did not disturb his work. She sat in a warm candle shop and took out her phone to sort out emails.

Once she finished her work and rubbed her sore neck, the shooting also ended. It was almost noon, and the scorching sun had

The ethereal hymn echoed through the speakers surrounding the square.

Jerry only came to Baykeep to shoot a promotional video, so he did not have a schedule in the afternoon. He and Charlotte were in no hurry to leave, so they took a stroll around Mount Cokrekyo.

Upon learning that there was an effective wish tree on the east side of the mountain, Charlotte took Jerry with her to check it out.

The evergreen tree was adorned with colorful what she wrote and asked, "Weren't you rich enough before?"

“But I'm no longer rich now,” Charlotte said after she finished writing. She then went to buy a purple ribbon. She wrote on the ribbon: I love Jerry. I hope he becomes rich soon.

He thought she had understood something, but his excitement quickly cooled down because of her second sentence.

She still doesn't understand.

He ran to the end of the colorful ribbon and handed it to Jerry. “You're stronger, so you do it. Toss it up and let it hang on the treetop.”

Jerry accepted the colorful ribbon and threw it with all his might. The ribbon flew out and landed on the treetop. Charlotte saw that both ribbons were hanging on the top of the tree, so she happily hugged and kissed Jerry repeatedly.

Chapter 1412 Do You Want To Have A Child With Me

Jerry had no choice but to hold the kid's hand and take her to a nearby candle shop.

He bought a few sheets of white paper from the shop owner and drew adorable little animals on the paper with a pen. Under his skillful hands, two sheets of paper with doodles were transformed into a paper pinwheel.

As the pinwheel began to spin, the animals on the paper looked like they were running, seemingly incredibly adorable.

The beautiful pinwheel instantly brought a smile to the teary-eyed little girl's face. She exclaimed, “Wow, it's so pretty! Sir, you're so skillful with your hands!”

The kid happily walked away with the pinwheel in hand.

However, Charlotte was unhappy. She got jealous and told Jerry, “You have to make a pinwheel for me too, and it has to be prettier than that brat's!”

“Fine,” Jerry reluctantly agreed.

A few minutes later, Charlotte received a beautiful pinwheel with a cartoon version of herself. She was extremely satisfied.

After leaving the candle shop, Charlotte saw the kid with her hair tied looking quite smug as she showed off her pinwheel to her friends.

Charlotte deliberately walked over to the kid and waved her pinwheel before the child, exclaiming, “My pinwheel is even prettier than yours.”

Under the gaze of the kid's wide eyes, Charlotte proudly walked away arm-in-arm with Jerry.

Charlotte thought he just lost a loved one recently, so he did not want to go back to Xedells

Chapter 1413 Give Him the Best of Everything

"Which cousin are you talking about? I have a bunch of them," Evan raised an eyebrow and asked, "Do you need something from them?"

Charlotte said irritably, "Stop playing dumb. You know which one I'm talking about."

Evan quickly remembered and spread his hands, saying, "I didn't do it on purpose. Lindsay is a fan of Jerry and insisted that I give her Jerry's WhatsApp. If I didn't, she would scratch my sports car..."

"What a coincidence, I'm also a fan of Jerry." Charlotte crossed her legs and leaned back into the couch. "Invite her over, so we fans can get to know each other."

Someone shouted to Jerry, "Jerry, aren't you going to coax your wife? This place is about to turn into a battlefield soon!"

Jerry remained silent.

He enjoyed seeing Charlotte's jealous expression.

Evan's cousin, Lindsay Graham, also came to the bar today, but she was playing in the booth seating in the nightclub. When she found out that Jerry had come to Baykeep, Lindsay came over without waiting for Evan to send someone to call her.

"Evan!" She greeted Evan as she entered the private room, but her gaze quickly shifted to Jerry.

Before Lindsay could speak, Charlotte looked up at her and asked with a beaming smile, "I heard from Evan that you're a fan of Jerry. Have you been a fan for a long time?"

"Yeah, I'm not just an ordinary fan."

Lindsay pushed Evan aside and took his seat, sitting almost next to Jerry's right hand. She proudly said, "I am the vice president of Jerry's fan club."

"You're pretty impressive," Charlotte praised. "He has three major fan clubs."

Watching the fan club grow from a few hundred to a few thousand members, and the number of servers increase from one to over twenty, his dashing images flooded the internet, and his presence was everywhere. Charlotte was extremely satisfied.

When he won the Best Actor award, tens of millions of fans cheered excitedly, and Charlotte was also very proud.

This was her man, the one she raised with her own hands.

Charlotte raised her hand and placed it on Jerry's shoulder, boasting to Lindsay like a child. "Not only am I his most loyal fan in the fan club, but I'm also his girlfriend. Are you jealous?"

"You're talking nonsense," Lindsay said angrily, "Jerry has a girlfriend, but it's not you."

"I'm not? Could it be you?" Charlotte asked in return, then she turned her head to glance at Jerry, "Or maybe he's keeping a b*tch outside, and I'm not aware of it."

Lindsay said, "I'm not. But Jerry's girlfriend is way more beautiful than you."

"Have you seen her?"

"Of course, I've seen her," Lindsay said. "Jerry's new WhatsApp profile picture is a photo with his girlfriend. She's

"No worries, you just want to say

Lindsay choked with anger.

Chapter 1415 Truth or Dare

His kiss ignited the fighting spirit within Charlotte. She tied up her red hair and picked up a glass of liquor from the table, downing it in one gulp.

Lindsay, unwilling to show weakness, also picked up a glass of wine.

Amidst the cheers and laughter of the people around them, Charlotte and Lindsay's glasses of liquor were emptied one by one.

Charlotte had already drunk more than ten glasses, yet she remained composed and relaxed, with only a slight flush on her cheeks. On the other hand, Lindsay, who was next to her, was clearly struggling. Her drinking pace was getting slower and slower, and she could no longer stand up straight.

Charlotte glanced at Lindsay, who was holding a wine glass but hesitating to drink. "If you can't drink it, just forget it. It would be even more embarrassing to vomit in front of everyone."

Evan also came up to persuade Lindsay not to drink anymore.

“She has the title of 'Thousand Shots' in the high society in Jadeborough, and no one can outdrink her,” Evan said softly. “You've already lost. Just give up.”

Lindsay was very unwilling, but she knew that if she drank any more, she would throw up.

She reluctantly put down her glass and admitted to Charlotte that she had lost. After drinking sixteen cups of wine, she called Charlotte “Ma'am” sixteen times in front of everyone.

After Lindsay's commotion, everyone knew how terrifying Charlotte's alcohol tolerance was, and Jerry saw the note she left for himself.

He understood Charlotte, and he also knew that he was not the only person ranked first in her contact list.

The contacts were arranged alphabetically, and if she liked someone, she'll add the character “love” in front of their name to make it easier to find them when needed.

He knew everything, but as soon as she slightly pleased him or coaxed him, he couldn't bring himself to be angry with her.

Jerry hugged her close, his head buried in the crook of her neck. "I know."

The party went on until eleven o'clock, when Charlotte remembered that she had to return to Jadeborough for work the next day, so she left with Jerry.

The car pulled up to the hotel where they were staying, and Charlotte caught a glimpse of something as she got out of the vehicle.

She glanced across the street and happened to see a man handing the child he was holding to someone inside the car. Since the man kept his head down the whole time, Charlotte couldn't get a clear look at his full appearance even as he got into the vehicle.

Charlotte wasn't afraid of infuriating him. She sipped some coffee and continued, "From my perspective as an audience member, I prefer those shots that are suggestive but not explicit, the ones that tantalize and tease me."

Working as a director, Kieron had even won the Best Director award. With just one sentence, Charlotte knew exactly what he meant.

"Indeed, movies nowadays are quite different from those in the past..."

Kieron stroked his chin in thought. "Our female audience enjoys the subtle charm of a veiled beauty, but the male audience prefers more exciting plots. The investors are also quite satisfied with the script."

The largest investor in this movie was Rising Cloud Pictures, who had the right to interfere with the script. They could also pass on a director's casting choice if they weren't satisfied.

The script that satisfied the biggest investor was not something that Kieron could change as he pleased.

Charlotte saw that he was unwilling to back down, so she politely said, "Mr. Zuniga, if I weren't sincere, I wouldn't have personally sent Scarlett to the screen test when you first sent the invitation. She has a great image, and the intimate scene could bring her tremendous exposure, even skyrocketing her career. Who wouldn't want to seize such a great opportunity? However, Scarlett must maintain her image since she has signed a contract with Ophelia Cosmetics. She cannot accept roles with such explicit scenes during her endorsement period."

The meal took almost two hours, and Kieron was in a pleasant mood. As they left the private room, he said, "Your boyfriend is an actor, and it's inevitable for actors to have intimate scenes in their work. But it's all just acting, not real at all. You should ignore them."

Other women may not care about their boyfriends acting in intimate scenes, but it was different for her and Jerry. She would get jealous, extremely jealous.

Charlotte secretly thought that she must hurry up and earn more money.

Once she earned enough money, she wouldn't let Jerry act. Instead, they'll travel the world together.

Charlotte was a VIP customer at Golden Restaurant. Every time she dined there, she would sign a bill and settle the payment in a lump sum at the end of the month. When she reached the cashier counter, Charlotte took the bill and signed her name.

The cashier took two exquisitely packaged apples from the cabinet below and handed them to Charlotte.

"Ms. Benson, Merry Christmas Eve."

Charlotte paused for a moment, and when she saw the Santa Claus doll on the table and the calendar next to it, she realized how quickly time had passed.

After returning to Jadeborough, she was busy with various tasks, and before she knew it, Christmas Eve had arrived.

The day was cold, and Charlotte tucked her hands into her coat pockets as she walked toward the site of the car collision, bending down to take a closer look.

Subsequently, she asked Beatrix, "How will you compensate me?"

Beatrix froze again, seemingly unable to believe what she had just heard. "Charlotte, it was you who suddenly changed lanes. What does that have to do with me?"

"This is a dotted line, there was a car in front of me just now, and I wanted to overtake it. Is there a reason I can't change lanes?" Charlotte pointed at the line beneath her feet and said mockingly, "If your car isn't good enough, don't blame others."

Beatrix was furious beyond words. Who would have known she would be so unlucky today to run into Charlotte?

Charlotte was driving a BMW, not an expensive one, but Beatrix felt that Charlotte had deliberately changed lanes to make her crash into it. Refusing to pay for the damages, she turned around and walked away.

"You crashed into my car, so you have to compensate me," Charlotte insisted, grabbing her by the arm.

"Let go of me." Beatrix pushed her away swiftly.

Beatrix suddenly thought of something and looked at Charlotte with a strange expression.

Ever since the Gaudette family's incident, Beatrix had been on edge, fearing that she might run into Charlotte whenever she went out.

She felt that if Charlotte, who hated her so much, knew Jerry's true identity and how her father died, she would seek crazy revenge against the Gaudette family and her family. However, Charlotte didn't do anything.

Is Charlotte still unaware of everything?

Otherwise, when Charlotte met her earlier, she could have directly killed herself with her vengeful nature. She wouldn't deliberately stage a car accident when someone else would clean up the mess for her.

To confirm her suspicions, Beatrix asked, "Are you together with Jerry?"

"Is that any of your business?" Charlotte's gaze turned slightly cold.

As expected.

Seeing Beatrix's strange smile, Charlotte felt very uncomfortable and frowned. "Either pay me five million or accompany me to play a round of golf at the golf course. Make your choice."

"I can't afford to pay five million." Even if Charlotte knew nothing, Beatrix didn't dare to mess with her.
