

Flirtacious 571

Chapter 571

My Flirtacious Husband

The police soon arrived at the scene of the car accident.

Genevieve's tummy was hurting due to period cramps, so Bruce drove her back to Regality Gardens.

Along the way, she gave Cooper a call and told him, "I found the person who attacked Johanna, but Sylvie had gotten to him first and killed him off. Have someone check the security camera footage in the area and try to identify that man."

Genevieve was sweating all over from the pain by the time they arrived at Regality Gardens. As she couldn't even get out of the car on her own, Bruce scooped her into his arms and carried her into the elevator.

He still remembered the password to her door as he had been there before.

After placing Genevieve down on the couch, Bruce poured her a glass of water and handed it to her with some medication. "Here you go, Genev. The pain will go away after you take this medicine."

It pained him to see that she couldn't even sit upright to take her medication.

With the pills and water in his mouth, Bruce held her mouth open and fed her the pills orally. Although Genevieve was drifting in and out of consciousness at the time, she was still able to swallow the pills.

droplets on the corner of her lips, he leaned in close to out with her when he felt the sensation of her soft he went to check her refrigerator for ingredients and made her some returned to her bedroom with the oatmeal, Genevieve was frowning deeply as though she was in to eat something before you sleep, or you could get gastritis. Genev, can you hear me? Genev?" Bruce called out to her while holding her a sigh when he got choice left, he could only feed her the eased up when she was held in his arms. She even instinctively wrapped her arms around his waist to get into a more comfortable the bowl of oatmeal on the nightstand, kissed her on the forehead, and hugged her of the morning, she was still a little groggy. She then brushed the to sleep when she noticed a man lying her bedside lamp cast a warm glow on the man's face, and Genevieve froze dreaming? Why is he dazed state, Genevieve didn't notice the black choker on the nightstand when she woke him seeing the exhausted look on her face, Bruce pulled her back

Chapter 572

Genevieve soon found herself blushing really hard as the memories from last night started flooding in. Her train of thought was interrupted by the sound of the doorbell ringing.

Opening the door, she saw Cooper standing outside with breakfast in hand.

Noticing the awkward look on her face, Cooper said, "I went looking for you two at Primrose River last night. Jane is with me at the moment. I can talk to Jane if you object to us being together."

He had told Jane that he wouldn't refuse any of Genevieve's requests as he belonged to her.

Having been snapped out of her daze, Genevieve replied, "I only had you head over to Primrose River because I was putting up an act with Bertilla. I'm really happy that you and Jane are together, so why would I object to your relationship?"

Cooper breathed a sigh of relief as he entered the house.

"Then why do you look so unhappy to see me?"

of the discomfort from my period," Genevieve mumbled as she followed him into the a thing, Cooper asked worriedly, "Do

It doesn't hurt much anymore," Genevieve replied, feeling uncomfortable as she recalled the incident from she asked, "Coop, did you manage to secure guy in the surveillance camera footage was wearing a cap and a mask, so we couldn't see his face at all. The truck was later found at a nearby marketplace. As the heard that,

forces soldiers, so it makes perfect sense that killed shortly after we agreed on a place to meet. I think his phone

Sylvie a track down where he was staying, but all they found at his place were some clothes and other a little more careful... I should've asked him to tell me the address using a stranger's phone instead," even if he testifies against her. No amount of evidence will do us any Old Mr. Zeigler's second son is Baykeep's party secretary. The Zeigler family will be finished if something were to happen to him. Sylvie will have no one to protect her, then," Genevieve said is harder than you think, Genev. The whole process will take at

Chapter 573

Unfazed by Cooper's attempt at asserting dominance, Bruce replied in a deep voice, "Ms. Rachford isn't feeling well, so I made her some breakfast."

"No need! I already bought her breakfast!" Cooper said in displeasure and tried to shut the door, but Bruce was faster as he pushed against the door.

With one hand pushing against the door, he held his food jar up with the other and uttered, "I just want to thank Ms. Rachford, that's all. Will you help pass this to her, Mr. Sutton?"

"Take your breakfast and get the hell out of here!" Cooper's expression grew even colder as the two of them stared each other down at the door.

Upon hearing the commotion, Genevieve went to have a look, only to feel a bit awkward when she saw Bruce at the door.

"What are you doing here?" she asked.

"I was free after completing my morning run, so I figured I'd bring you some homemade meatballs. I just wanted to thank you for getting me that film and the eight-figure payment, that's all," Bruce replied calmly.

Hmph! Does he take me for a fool or something?

Cooper sneered in disdain at the thought of that. "If you truly want to thank her, then give the film your best and stay away from her! There's no need for you to bring her breakfast!"

when she heard the excuse Bruce pie very appetizing, she stepped forward and took the food jar over Bruce would refuse to leave, Cooper closed the door and personally escorted him to roof as the two men who were six feet the button for the first floor, and Productions

you're hooking up to like you is unworthy of being with her!" Cooper shouted be worthy of me such a question!" Cooper hollered with Cooper stood there and watched as Bruce walked out of does Bruce's figure resemble Armand's? No, that's impossible!

then brushed those thoughts aside as he approached the condominium's front

Chapter 574

After taking a few days off, Bruce headed over to the airport with Joash early in the morning of the sixth.

He was a little reluctant to leave without seeing Genevieve as he would be away for about two to three weeks when shooting.

After a brief moment of hesitation, he pulled out his phone and sent Genevieve a text: I'll be heading overseas to shoot a film, Ms. Rachford.

Genevieve replied ten minutes later: How long will you be gone?

Bruce texted: About two weeks.

Genevieve replied with a surprised emoji: That long? What shall I do about lunch?

Bruce broke into a relieved smile when he read that text.

Not only does she find it relaxing being around me, but she has also gotten hooked on my cooking, huh? Thank goodness I practiced it a lot at home during my free time!

Bruce texted: Order takeout or something. I'll continue cooking for you when I get back.

Genevieve replied: Okay. All the best with your shoot!

when he turned really happy, Bruce. Who are simply put his phone away without saying passed by a street, Bruce noticed a fabric store selling open up the shop for business, Bruce pointed at the shop and said, "Pull did as told and brought the car to a halt outside the shop. Bruce then walked up to the owner. "I'd like to knit a pair of slippers like this one. Which type of yarn should I attitude, the owner quickly invited him into her shop and started introducing one is a top pick among our customers! If you're looking to buy your girlfriend a QR code on the table as she continued, "You can also check out our official webpage for video tutorials. It's he scanned the QR code and left after dropped when he saw Bruce enter the car with a bag of yarn in hand. "What the... What did glare. "I want to that you wanted a hat, Bruce. I can buy you any hat you want! You don't have gifted him a green hat, but he forgot about started watching a video tutorial on couldn't eat much as she didn't find the food appetizing at all. Surely enough, it wasn't dropped by to see

Chapter 575

Genevieve clapped alongside the others. She walked over, smiled, and said, "You're such a pro, Paula. I pale so much in comparison."

"Oh, you flatter me." Paula looked pleased as she waved her hand.

Paula sat down on a rattan chair, picked up a cup of coffee, and took a sip. "I wasn't able to attend the grand opening of the Fantasy Film Festival since I was on a business trip at that time, but I've seen the opening performance. They made the right choice of picking you for the opening act. You're such a talented violinist. I'm not exaggerating when I say your music gave me goosebumps," she praised.

Paula poked Genevieve as she spoke. "Genevieve, you are a talented gal. I think you even overshadow Marilyn, who is a rare talent in the music industry."

"Oh, you're too kind. I'm just an outsider." Genevieve flashed her a faint smile.

Paula gave her a look and suddenly broke into a smile. "You played that song for Bruce, right?"

Genevieve was caught off guard upon hearing that.

Paula leaned back into the chair. "Everyone in the entertainment industry knows about Bruce's case. I'm really into music as well. But Ms. Rachford..."

all kinds of filthy, and he's no exception. There are people worse than him out there. He's good-looking, and it's fine if you're not

Genevieve

talented, but she was also in the past when Armand was still even though she her coffee abruptly, causing her to choke and eliciting a string of coughs. "You've misunderstood. I don't have feelings for him.

got treating you from time to time." Paula's ran into Bruce, recollected the conversations they had, and the dinner lowered her head and sipped her coffee bigwig Marlon Hossler. Her words stabbed Genevieve's heart even though they had only herself to go to the bathroom. After she washed her face to clear her head, she pulled her phone out and scary to think that she was starting to form an attachment to this man and thought that it would be the floor accidentally bumped

She ran into two men on her way figured they weren't here for golf since they didn't carry

Chapter 576

Herbert had noticed Genevieve's presence as well. He turned to Paula and asked out of curiosity, "Are you friends?"

"Yeah. She's the younger sister of Mr. Sutton from Specter Corporation." Paula smiled as she gave Genevieve a look. "My husband is good friends with Mr. Sutton."

Herbert fell silent.

His granddaughter had told him that her boss, Genevieve, was a big bully. She also identified Genevieve as the younger sister of Cooper from Specter Corporation and Armand's ex-wife. Who would have thought that she would be standing before him right now?

Herbert recalled that Genevieve had picked up his medicine from the ground and handed him a glass of water at the airport.

Moreover, he found her to be gentle, kind, and polite throughout their conversation in the car.

She doesn't look like the type to bully others.

Herbert waited until he and Paula reached a quiet corner of the golf course before he told her why he was there.

One of the directors that collaborated with Exuberance Group was working on a new blockbuster movie. Sylvie badly wanted to become the female lead of this movie and had auditioned for the role before this. However, it had been quite some time since she last heard from the director.

help when she heard that Paula would be playing golf at a golf course in Jadeborough, hoping that Herbert could help her secure the role as win an internationally-renowned award, and the only thing luck trying to get industry has heard of Ms. Clasen's superb acting skills. I'll have a word with the director when I get back, but I can't guarantee that she knew Paula had rejected his request.

and he wasn't planning on pressuring Paula were subordinate left after their brief

a cup of coffee

I rejected him. I know there's a grudge between you and Sylvie. I can't be short end a big help. Just let me know if you need anything from be having a wedding at Crescent Manor in Baykeep on the twenty-eighth of this what an honor," Genevieve replied. "I will be there jovially at

Chapter 577

Genevieve was handcuffed and brought back to the police station.

As she sat in the interrogation room, the harsh white light of the room shone down on her, and she felt lightheaded.

What does Mrs. Hossler's poisoning have anything to do with me?

Then, the interrogator took out a small bag that was the size of a fingernail. The bag contained white powder and was placed on the table. He claimed that the bag of white powder—potassium cyanide, was found in the coat that Genevieve had left at the golf course.

Potassium cyanide was extremely toxic and lethal in minute doses.

Genevieve found the incriminating evidence amusing. "I'm not dumb. If I truly wanted to kill Mrs. Hossler, why would I leave this inside my coat?"

"The most dangerous places are oftentimes the safest," the interrogator said. "There is not a single corner in the golf course that is without surveillance cameras. So, you have nowhere else to dispose of the potassium cyanide and could only place it back inside your coat, thinking you'd find a chance to get rid of it afterward. Then, you followed the ambulance to the hospital in a rush without taking your coat with you."

There were surveillance cameras all around the golf course, and the cup of coffee that she poured for Paula happened to contain potassium cyanide.

The police claimed that the surveillance camera footage showed that she had poisoned Paula's coffee.

prove her innocence as the police claimed that the footage was enough evidence to incriminate two birds with one stone—killing Paula and incriminating her at the same poisoning spread like wildfire on the internet. Someone had witnessed Genevieve being taken away by the police and speculated initially not many discussions on the news. However, someone mentioned that Cooper was Genevieve's brother and implied that Cooper would cover up the news had made it one of the trending topics on multiple websites. Some people were even making sardonic comments like Marlon from Exuberance Group would be Corporation had been fluctuating as the hotel as he waited for Sylvie so that they could have dinner driver told him about it. The of person who would poison others. If she did lace the coffee with poison in front of everyone else, why after she drank the coffee that was poured by Genevieve. The potassium cyanide was dumb to keep the remaining poison after committing the crime?" Herbert kind-hearted woman and that she would never do when he was about to order his driver to ask the police to be thorough with the ran toward Herbert as soon as she came back and asked the latter in a surprised tone, "Granddad, I

Chapter 578

Herbert knew the hardships that Sylvie had gone through and wiped away the tears streaming down her cheeks as he said, "It was my fault for not being able to protect you well in the past."

Herbert then turned to his driver and said, "Let the police deal as they see fit. Do not let others intervene in the matter."

"Yes," the driver said and headed out to make a call.

Sylvie's eyes were red as she muttered, "Thank you, Granddad."

"Why are you thanking me? You're my granddaughter. How could I sit idly by and let others bully you?"

Even though Genevieve had left a good impression on him, Herbert knew he had to get his priorities straight. After all, Genevieve had bullied his granddaughter and tried to murder someone by poisoning them, and the police even had the evidence of her doing it, nonetheless.

She deserved to be convicted of her crimes if she had really committed them.

Meanwhile, after the news of Paula's poisoning had broken out, Cooper calmly contacted the best PR in the industry and utilized other news to divert the attention from the alleged poisoning.

He could not care less about the plummeting share prices. In fact, Cooper was more concerned that Genevieve would be lynched at the police station.

golf course while he drove to the police station. However, he was stopped by a Rolls-Royce when he arrived at the entrance of the police the car and knocked on Cooper's window with a grim look on his face. "Mr. Sutton, I'm afraid you cannot that Ms. Rachford has indeed poisoned Mrs. Hossler. Word trending on the internet has it that you're going to use your influence to wriggle Genevieve out of this. There are reporters swarming the police grandfather is also at Jadeborough. He is quite close to the chief, Mr. Forger. I'm afraid that Old Mr. Zeigler's words has their eyes peeled on this case," Steven said. "I trust that the police officers are wise enough to silent. Noticing his silence, Steven continued, "I've called a lawyer named Mr. Thompson. He will head to the police station to then as he sharp gaze made

you to say the chief secretary for many years. He was smart and charismatic, but it was also known that he was fiercely loyal the news broke out on the internet, Steven had managed to get a grip of the situation and sorted something that Steven was look fleetingly across Steven's eyes, and he knew that his guess was spot-on. The look in his eyes darkened as he demanded, "Who was it? Did Jack call sometimes found Cooper's Cooper already guessed that those were not his words. Steven even reckoned that if he had told Cooper what happened to Genevieve, Cooper cold sweat broke out on Steven's forehead as he maintained a cool

Chapter 579

She narrowed her eyes and said calmly, "Mr. Thompson, may I trouble you to pass along a few words to Mr. Sutton?"

Thankfully, there was only a low amount of potassium cyanide in Paula's bloodstream, and they managed to rush her to the hospital for dialysis. Thus, she would recover. Meanwhile, Marlon discovered what had happened to Paula and hurried to Jadeborough.

Since the police had solid evidence that Genevieve administered the poison, Marlon did not step forward to defend her.

However, the police did not find any new evidence from the golf course and decided to convict Genevieve of attempted murder based on available evidence. As they were about to submit the evidence to the court, a woman came to the police station and confessed she had poisoned Paula.

The woman said she was a cleaner at the golf course and was jealous of rich people like Paula and Genevieve.

She had another job at night as a cleaner in a school and had access to the school's chemical lab. Furthermore, she had heard that potassium cyanide was colorless, odorless, and poisonous. Therefore, she stole some from the lab.

When she returned to work at the golf course, she pretended to wipe the table for Paula and slipped some potassium cyanide into Paula's cup. Later, she deliberately bumped into Genevieve in the restroom and snuck the rest of the potassium cyanide into Genevieve's pocket, making everyone think that it was Genevieve who poisoned Paula.

Sometime later, Mr. Thompson provided the police with two videos.

lab, showing the cleaner half-hidden among cabinets as she stole potassium cyanide. The other video was surveillance footage from the golf course. When immediately arrested the cleaner based on her confession and other hand, Genevieve was deemed innocent and many reporters to report on the matter and posted the two surveillance footage on station to pick Genevieve up killed the cleaner when I found her. The person drove an unlicensed car and abandoned it after leaving vicinity. However, the person seemed to have disappeared from she listened to Cooper and put it on. "Did she became solemn. "I tried everything. She refused to say anything even after I told her that someone wanted her dead. Therefore, I could only obtain surveillance footage from the school and the golf course and her bank card?"

family situation and her bank card. I even checked her phone but can't find smirked upon hearing him. "Sylvie is getting more reason why Mrs. Hossler ceased to think well of her," Cooper explained. "Since she could not garner Mrs.

her eyes threateningly. "I won't let

Chapter 580

"Dr. Sitler," Genevieve greeted one of the men with a white doctor's coat.

Jermaine was surprised to see Genevieve, but he soon remembered something and nodded without meeting her gaze.

Genevieve asked politely, "When will you be free? I wish to talk to you about something."

"I need to see a patient first. It will take around half an hour." Initially, Jermaine wanted to avoid Genevieve. However, she asked to talk to him about some matter, so he could not refuse.

"You go ahead," Genevieve replied. "I'll wait for you in your office."

After leaving Jermaine, Genevieve pulled out her phone and made an appointment with the cardiac surgery department. Then, she gave Jane a call and asked her to head there.

Jane soon arrived and saw Genevieve standing before the cardiac surgery department. She instantly knew what Genevieve was up to and smiled bitterly. "Forget it, Genevieve. It is pointless."

Jane had traveled overseas many times in recent years to seek treatment for her condition. However, she always returned in disappointment.

she consulted were all renowned figures in the medical field. Even wealthy anything about her condition, Jane did not expect an ordinary doctor to be able have nothing urgent anyway, so you might as well let him check your condition," Genevieve said. "He went to the same medical school as Timothy. Although he did not say anything but grunted his office

him and asked him to give her with her and learned about her symptoms during flare-ups, causing is mostly hereditary. It could be inherited from parents or intergenerational. Furthermore, you were born premature, so you naturally have a weak immune system. I believe none of the doctors in the country eyes dimmed at his words. "I have consulted many doctors overseas. They all said the success rate of surgery patient with a similar condition as yours. He was eighteen years old, surgery

and Genevieve's eyes to brighten his chances of recurrence. He had a recurrence less than four years after surgery and passed away on

He believed the boy could have lived longer if he had not