

Full Marks Hidden Marriage: Pick Up a Son, Get a Free Husband

Chapter 31: What Kind of Eyesight Do You Have!

After saying this, Guo Qisheng had a 'wait and see' expression on his face.

As expected, when all the reporters turned towards the direction that Guo Qisheng was pointing at, their first reaction was to be stunned silly.

Ning Xi was wearing a magenta dress made out of lace. The cutting of the fabric flattered her mesmerising waistline while the collar revealed her beautiful collarbone. This colour was even harder to pull off than pure red and it was even made of lace. Although it had a great design, most people would only look terrible or tacky when wearing it.

However, it was as if that dress was made for Ning Xi. It enhanced her looks and made her even more charming and lovely, thereby causing her beauty to stand out.

When the stylist had picked this dress out for her, Ning Xi herself had also thought that she wouldn't be able to pull it off. However, she had been proven wrong after putting it on.

As expected of the Godly Hand of Golden Age Entertainment, he had great eyes. He knew her better than she knew herself after just one meeting.

Although it was Ning Xi's first time walking the red carpet, she was an actress after all. She had already tried on many various roles with different occupations, which naturally included celebrities, and had even acted as one once or twice. Walking down the red carpet was easy.

Every step, every smile and every action caught just the right angles for the cameras. She could even show the most perfect expressions.

The reporters remained dazed for even longer than Director Guo had, and only regained their senses after a long while.

This... this was Ning Xi, the actress who was going to play Meng Changge?

An unknown rookie without any known work?

This.... wasn't she too beautiful?

There were no other words to describe it, she was just... beautiful!

Now they realised why Director Guo's expression didn't look right when they were so persistent with their questions just now. It was ridiculous to ask whether Jia Qingqing or Ning Xi was more beautiful.

In front of an absolute beauty like Ning Xi, even a 'beautiful' starlet like Jia Qingqing would become just a simple face in the crowd.

It wasn't just her looks, but also the way she held herself that made her stand out from the other rookies. Her gestures were both elegant and open, even exuding an innate nobility.

Ning Xi walked to the center of the red carpet and casually posed a few times to let the media take pictures. Following that, she turned around and picked up the pen from the tray to sign her name on the wall.

This one turn of her body caused a wave of excitement and shutter clicks.

The dress had been designed to reveal the back, and that was one of the reasons the stylist had chosen this dress in the end.

Ning Xi's shoulder blades were simply too beautiful. They were the most entrancing part of her whole body, and it would be too much of a shame if they weren't shown off.

Most female stars liked to reveal cleavage to draw attention when walking the red carpet, but Ning Xi had taken another route, elevating her above the rest.

After murdering countless rolls of film, it was finally time to interview her.

The reporters were actually quite pitiful today.

They had all prepared questions like 'Do you think you'll be able to play a vixen like Meng Changge well with looks like that?', 'Who do you think is prettier, you or Jia Qingqing?', 'We've heard that you were specially picked outside of official channels, was there a reason for that?'...

Now they weren't able to use any of those questions at all...

As long as they weren't blind, they would know that nothing had happened behind the scenes, her face was just too convincing.

She was just the most suitable person to play Meng Changge.

Thus the reporters had to spin up questions on the spot.

"Miss Ning, may I ask if the dress you're wearing is a customised piece from Karl Lagerfeld?"

Ning Xi was stunned.

What the heck, this was a custom gown from Karl Lagerfeld?

She had casually put on a dress worth thousands of dollars?

Evil King Lu, what were you thinking!!

However, an even more terrifying question was lying in wait for her. Following that question, the same reporter named the origins of each item she was wearing and then asked, "Miss Ning, is Arthur your stylist?"

You could even tell something just like that?

What kind of eyesight do you have!!!

Chapter 32: Troublesome Exes

"No, I think I must have seen wrongly..." Luckily, without waiting for Ning Xi's answer, the reporter had already given up on his own question.

He had most likely recalled that Ning Xi was an artist from Starlight, how could Arthur be her stylist when he was the personal stylist for Golden Age's Su Yimo?

Ning Xi heaved a huge sigh of relief. Worried that they would continue this line of questioning, she quickly spoke up to change the topic, "Since it's the opening ceremony for ?Land Under Heaven?, it would be better if everyone asked questions related to the movie!"

“Miss Ning, Miss Ning, is this your first time acting in a movie?” Someone in the crowd asked.

“Of course not, I’ve started acting since I graduated from university. However, I didn’t appear in a lot of movies, so you wouldn’t be able to recognise me.” Ning Xi replied honestly, not at all bothered by her sparse resume.

The media could easily get a hold of such details, thus it would be better to be upfront about it.

“So what has Miss Ning acted as previously?”

Although this question was quite normal, it was somewhat awkward for Ning Xi to answer. However, she had to give an answer since they had asked.

“I’ve acted as...” Ning Xi started to list the roles she had played since returning to China.

During the time she had been studying overseas, she had spent most of her free time acting in movies. She had even acted in a few famous dramas and played many roles. Having a resume like Ning Xi’s wasn’t easy considering how most movies overseas didn’t like using Chinese actors.

However, she could not bring up her experience overseas, because of her ridiculous dating history while she was overseas...

Although she had not done anything immoral and they had dated normally, the identities of her ex-boyfriends were all a little too eye-catching...

What she needed the most right now was a movie that she could openly claim she had starred in. If she was surrounded by the rumours of her love life the moment she entered the entertainment circle and the public was focused on her personal life, she might be able to gather a lot of attention and even become a hot topic overnight if she were lucky. However, it wouldn’t bode well for her long term growth.

Ning Xi was trying really hard to remember the roles she had acted since returning to China that she could mention openly. However, the reporters turned speechless upon hearing the list.

What kind of roles were these...

A mistress, a fox spirit, a demoness, a country girl, a brain-dead eldest miss, and even an evil old woman...

For a beauty such as her, what kind of interest is this?

Why did she like to choose roles like those?

Someone eventually asked, "Why do you keep playing antagonist roles?"

Ning Xi could not reveal Chang Li's actions here, so she calmly spoke up, "Actually, I didn't notice. Acting is a much beloved career for me, and every role has its own life. To me, there's no distinction between big or small roles."

Following that, the media asked more questions. Even though she didn't have a manager to guide her, Ning Xi had answered them perfectly one by one.

Guo Qisheng kept nodding as he watched from the side, "This lady is doing really well! Despite having this kind of quality and EQ, she still hasn't managed to make it big yet after entering the industry for a year... What do you think about this, Old Wang?"

The producer Wang Taihe said meaningfully, "If it's not the upper ranks at Starlight Entertainment turning blind, then it's..."

He gave him a 'you know' look after saying so.

It was clearly someone at Starlight purposely suppressing her.

Guo Qisheng's face was full of pity and regret, "What a waste of such good talent!"

"Well, gold will always shine in the end. Failing that, doesn't she have you?" Wang Taihe chuckled as he said.

At this moment, Ning Xueluo's nails had dug into her palms and her expression had become so ugly that she was close to losing her composure on the red carpet.

She had purposely let Chang Li inform Ning Xi at the last minute to make her a laughing stock at the opening ceremony. However, she had never thought that it would result in her making a stunning appearance to the crowd instead.

Damn it, Ning Xi's outfit alone cost several thousands, how in the world had she gotten this amount of money?

Clothing and accessories could be rented, but who did her styling?

She had underestimated this country girl!
