

Forgive My Ex-husband Chapter 233

After all the people left, Kent gradually came back to his senses. His legs were almost trembling when he returned to the car, but when he opened the door, he was still shocked.

"Sir," he said in astonishment. Hadn't Vern already gone with Jonas? With such astonishment in his heart, Kent slowly got in the car.

He still trembled slightly. When he put his hand on the steering wheel, he found that he could not control the car at all. He loosened his hands in frustration.

"Are you okay?" Vern asked. He was supposed to leave just now, but thinking of what this young man told him when they were in danger, he asked Jonas to send him to this car.

Jonas had to do as he said.

"It's okay. I'll be fine after some rest," Kent said, a little embarrassed. He couldn't believe that his legs were shaking because of the fight just now.

He had been living by law and hadn't touched these gray zones. That kind of shock from the deep of his heart made him scared.

What made him so scared was that he accepted it so quickly.

"You're Mellie's senior, right? She once told me about you." Vern didn't know who he was until he took a closer look at him.

In Melinda's college days, she always talked about Jonas, and then a senior who was nice to her.

In Melinda's heart, Kent was a senior who was nice to everyone. She had never thought that Kent was only nice to her.

"Nice to meet you, sir. I'm Kent Jiang."

Kent didn't expect that Melinda would mention him in front of her father. He was flattered and couldn't help but speak more reserved.

"You are a good man." Vern never forgot the moment when Kent rushed in. He was also a little tired now. Kent was a sensible person. He let him lie down and have a rest. And Kent said that when he arrived home, he would wake him up.

Vern's father accepted. He was not as energetic as when he was young.

Especially when he just recovered from a serious illness.

Kent drove Vern home. But there was a mess at home because those people broke in this place.

"Sir, you can have a rest in the living room. I'll clean the bedroom for you." When seeing the scene, Kent could almost imagine how Vern resisted at that time.

"It's okay. You must be shocked today. Go back and have a rest." Looking at his own room, Vern said calmly, as long as there was a place for him to stay.

They had been used to this kind of life, so they didn't care about it. Especially because they were born in the military family, the hard work was almost a family training.

Although Vern didn't think it was a big deal, Kent still cleaned the house carefully and prepared food for him. His food was simple but showed that he was very considerate.

Kent believed that Jonas would strengthen his protection for Vern. He didn't worry about him, took the things he prepared to Vern and left immediately.
