

Forgiveness 17

Ex husband's Plea for Forgiveness

Chapter 17 It Was Over

"Since you have moved all your stuff here, do you plan to rent that house?" Kent asked. He was surprised to hear that Melinda wanted to rent an apartment when she had a home of her own.

"No, that's alright, I'll just leave it there for the time being."

Jonas knew the address to that house, so she wanted to change her living quarters and find a new place. Though, at the back of her mind, she was aware that there wasn't anywhere under the sun where she could hide from Jonas, if he wanted to find her.

"I have been too much trouble for you of late. I need to make it up to you. When I settle down, I'll treat you to a meal," Melinda stated while grateful.

Kent had always stood by her and always been there for her, when she needed support. However, there were some feelings that were cropping up and she didn't think she wanted to reciprocate them.

Melinda felt more comfortable living alone. She needed to be independent and to learn not to rely on others. Soon her life would be back to normal.

Nelson returned back to the Gu's mansion a week later. As soon as he arrived, he summoned Jonas to come home immediately.

"What is this that I have been hearing? If you don't give me an explanation today, I will..." Nelson reprimanded Jonas while still holding onto his crutch, but he was interrupted by the incessant ringing of a phone. Jonas was literally saved by the bell, but he instantly had a deep frown and his face became stiff when he saw the name of the caller.

"It's Mellie, answer it and put her on speaker phone."

Nelson had sharp eyes. Immediately he saw that it was Melinda who was calling. He ordered Jonas to put her on loud speaker so he could hear their conversation. He knew something was up but no one was telling him the truth. Jonas had no choice but to do as the old man ordered.

"Wow. So this phone actually works, my call has finally gone through this time and been picked." Melinda's surprised voice rang through the room. Hearing her statement, Nelson glared at Jonas, expressing his obvious disappointment at his grandson's behavior.

Jonas's eyes turned cold. He even wished he could use his cold voice to freeze Melinda.

"Why are you looking for me?"

"Jonas, what exactly do you want me to do to make you sign the divorce papers? What on earth do you want? Even Emily wants you to give me the divorce, right? Besides, the law will still grant the divorce as long as we have lived apart for more than two years," Melinda said, sounding agitated.

Meanwhile, Nelson's eyes seemed to grow bigger and widen with every sentence she said. They were as big as saucers filled with shock and anger. "I will not let you two get a divorce, neither are you going to live separately!"

"Grandpa?" cried Melinda in shock at the old man's declaration.

"Mellie, don't be afraid, I will help you and deal with my grandson accordingly!"

Nelson was always gentle and kind to Melinda, but he wasn't as gentle and loving to his own grandson, Jonas. He nearly never showed him any form of affection.

The phone was soon hung up before Melinda could react. At the Gu's mansion, the two looked at each other coldly.

with her. There must only be two of you in your marriage and make sure that you take her home tomorrow night after your had been listening in on their conversation clenched her teeth in anger. She didn't understand the sense in Nelson's words. Even though Jonas was unwilling to do the things Nelson demanded, he still nodded,

I do it always for your own good. I hope you can understand that." Since Jonas wasn't resisting his advice or acting a call from Nelson. He wanted to see her tomorrow. She couldn't refuse since he didn't even give women. It was an ordinary community, so they were not used to celebrities and the rich and famous coming to the place, especially one women stopped dancing and for his privacy made Jonas upset and his

the door, Jonas's cold face like a stone statue greeted her, which made her was not impressed by what he saw.

I didn't invite

Jonas. She took a bottle of drink out of the fridge and threw it to Jonas, not caring whether he would never see her like this before. This new side of hers made him very intrigued, as if he had opened the door to a new world, but then he immediately changed his mind and pulled a long face. 'This must be

"Let's go."

are we

with venom through his gritted teeth, Melinda opened her eyes wide and wanted to burst into laughter, whole thing. Thinking of Nelson's speech and his tone between the two of them disgusted her to the core. She could not imagine how it would go. In the end, the so-called date turned into a venting session for Jonas to express how unhappy he was with the whole situation as he drove them around communication between them was zero except into the main house following each other in a single file. Seeing that back so soon." When Queena saw that her son was being scolded by Nelson, her cheeks turned red; her for years.

to how much insults they could take. Being humiliated like this regularly, Melinda always got angry, but she

my son? Now you are threatening to comfort her. However, he saw a divorce agreement and given it to your son. But your son hasn't signed it yet. You better persuade him to sign it as was as if she had gone through a metamorphosis and she when she heard Melinda's words. Jonas was her pride and joy, and now Melinda was disparaging him.

She had obviously grown too

my son would hold onto a narrow-minded woman who is from a poor in tongue. She hated it when people spoke ill of her family. There was nothing should get along well with each other. You must be tired after playing all day. Let's go and have dinner before

other, Nelson hurried to stop them. He was also a little irritated, wondering whatever happened

while Jonas also followed