

Forgiveness 25

Ex husband's Plea for Forgiveness

Chapter 25 Heirloom

Holley couldn't take her eyes off the photo. She didn't expect Jonas to have a picture of him and Melinda on his desk. They looked like a happy couple.

Holley knew that Jonas was confused. But she felt that Melinda would always be special to him.

She was frustrated that Melinda was destroying her chances with Jonas even after divorcing him.

Her eyes were blazing with anger.

She wanted to tear the photo apart. Holley couldn't stand the sight of the happy picture, so she grabbed her bag and stormed out of the room.

The secretaries saw Holley leave but they didn't bother stopping her. They were used to seeing her like this.

Everyone was aware of Holley's intentions and didn't inform Jonas about her arrival.

Two days had passed in the blink of an eye. Melinda received a call from Kent. His mother had been constantly pestering him to invite Melinda for dinner.

"Kent, can you pick me up later?" Melinda asked.

She had promised to meet him and was all set to see his parents.

Melinda was a courteous woman. She had brought gifts for his parents on her way home from work last night.

Kent arrived at Melinda's place on time. She slipped into a plaid dress and tied her hair into a bun. Tendrils of hair brushed against her forehead teasingly. She applied a mild coat of makeup to her flawless face and was ready to leave. The beautiful dress and subtle makeup enhanced her already beautiful look. She was looking like a teenager bubbling with life.

"I'd like to buy some fruits, Kent," Melinda said, biting her lower lip.

She couldn't find fresh fruits at night and decided to buy them on the way to Kent's house.

"Oh, come on, Melinda. You don't have to be formal," Kent said.

Melinda smiled and followed him without uttering a word.

Melinda finally got the chance to live her life. The constant stress and fear that were constantly lurking in her heart seemed to wither away. Things began to fall in place. She had signed a contract with one of the magazines and her book was scheduled to release; she also had another one that was serialized on a website with many subscribers. She didn't have to worry about her life anymore. Melinda followed her heart and would go wherever life took her.

She was grateful for having an incredible friend like Kent who always stood by her side and supported her through everything.

By the time they reached Kent's place, Janet was already standing by the door, waiting for them. She scolded Kent for making Melinda buy things for them.

Janet had always been fond of Melinda. She was a kind, respectful woman, who easily captivated the hearts of elders.

Janet asked Charles to go to the kitchen to prepare lunch, and she began to bombard Melinda with questions. Kent was left with no choice but to help his father.

enthusiasm

eyes were fixed on Melinda as he observed choice." Charles arched that they were not together, his parents refused to accept it. They believed that the two finally gave up. He knew that his parents wished for them to be together, but life didn't always give what we good girl," Kent loved Melinda and his parents adored her. He thought his life would become colorful if he shared it the boundary and take their friendship to the next level. But torture. She was close, yet too far. She was resolute about her decision years, even though he knew that he didn't stand a chance with her. But things her. You've finally done something to make quickly changed his expression. "Dad, I promise it bygones be bygones," Charles had a complicated relationship but they pretended to get along with shock. He didn't expect his father would untie the knot that had been choking him for many years.

memorable day for him. He couldn't stop talking with his father. He shared all the things that he had wanted to tell him. Charles felt that his son had grown up into a strong man without his support. He was proud of long time. Once dinner was I've just cooked something with what we have. Tell me what the juicy fish from the lot and placed it on Melinda's bowl.

the corners of Melinda's lips when she glanced at the food on the table. They were all her favorite food. She thought that Kent would've specifically asked Charles his thoughtfulness. Her eyes

They are took a mouthful of the food alone in the suburb. Is it true?" Janet who had been was enjoying her life. Living amid the students of the universities made her feel young and vigor of the youth. She was independent and lived her life the way she wanted to without being answerable any problems. If he doesn't help you, lifted his

and he couldn't help but me, will you? Let's eat," Kent said, rolling looked away. Melinda chuckled at the innocent expression on Kent's a sudden pang of jealousy in Melinda's heart when she saw Kent and his parents chatting happily. She sometimes wished to Don't be shy. We are a family. You look frail, been thin. But she had lost more weight and became weak after her illness. Fortunately, things were different now. The dark clouds faded away and the sun began
"Thank you."