

Chapter 7 Yes,I'm cheating on you

Julia always thought that Eagles Villa was her last harbor, but when she came back from her second chemotherapy at the hospital and saw Lauren in the hall, she realized that the last piece of her pure land was gone.

"All this furniture needs to be replaced with new ones," Lauren ordered.

"Put the furniture down."

Julia stood in the doorway and said in a cold voice.

Lauren looked at her over her shoulder, smug: "Sister, from now on, this is me and Robert's home. How I like to decorate, you have no right to interfere."

Julia saw that Lauren could not resist her urge to claim sovereignty, and sarcastically said, "Now you and Robert are not yet married. I am still Mrs. Adams, and you are a mistress. What right do you have to flaunt in my house?"

When the movers heard Julia's words, they looked oddly at Lauren.

Lauren's face darkened and she raised her eyebrows and said, "Sooner or later."

"Don't get so cocky. It might not come true." Julia mocked.

The corners of Lauren's mouth suddenly hooked up with a seeping arc after hearing that, "Really? Then we can bet on it."

Julia still didn't understand what she meant.

Lauren picked up the fruit knife on the table and cut her wrist viciously.

Julia looked at her incredulously, "You're crazy!"

Lauren retracted her knife, she raised her hand and looked at Julia with a smile, "Robert will be back any minute, let's see who he will care about first."

Sure enough, soon the sound of footsteps came from behind.

"Clang", Lauren threw the knife on the floor, falling to the floor, her tears rolling down: "Sister, it hurts, I am so hurt..."

Julia stood stunned there, coldly watching her acting, a touch of contempt flashing under her eyes.

She is the second young lady of the Smith family. Even if she is wrongly accused, she does not care about using such despicable means.

"Lauren, are you alright?" When Robert heard Lauren's cries, he almost rushed into the hall and held her in his arms.

From the beginning to the end, he did not look at Julia.

Julia stood aside watching, she gathered all her strength to stand still, seeing her beloved man holding another woman.

"Julia, this is not over." Robert picked up Lauren and threw out these words before he left.

Looking at the back of the man hastily leaving, Julia suddenly wanted to shout: Robert, how long are you going to be blind...

A few days later.

Julia was at the company preparing for the handover, she did not want to leave trouble when Robert took over after her death.

The assistant hurriedly came, full of anxiety: "Mrs. Smith, overnight, all the company's contracts have been breached, and the board of directors initiated an emergency meeting, asking you to go over."

When Julia heard this, she dropped the paper in her hand and ran to the big conference room.

By the time she arrived, it was full of people, and she held onto the wall, only to feel breathless as she looked at the man in the chief seat.

Robert folded his hands on the desktop and looked at her indifferently.

The meeting began, and Julia quickly understood it was just a means for him to force her to divorce.

He used her company to threaten her, not knowing that she had already given the company to him.

"Julia, as long as you admit to the cheating and promise to sign the divorce paper, the Smith family will be left unharmed."

The one who spoke out was Lauren's mother, Julia's aunt.

"Julia, the Smith Group has come this far thanks to Mr. Adams, we can't forget our roots. Only if you admit to cheating, it will not affect the reputation of him and Lauren." Her uncle said.

Julia's body swayed as she looked at the man in the chief seat: "Cheating? It is your idea?"

Robert's brow knitted slightly. For Lauren's reputation, he had to do this.

"As long as you are willing to admit it, I will guarantee that the Smiths will be unharmed."

His words were like knives.

Julia felt that the last touch of love for him at the bottom of her heart has been gone. She did not expect him to be so cruel.

Not only did he force her to divorce, but he also wanted her to admit something she didn't do.

This is the man she loves...

"Cheating? Then I have to ask Mr. Adams, when did I cheat and who did I cheat with?" Her words sounded sad.

"You really want me to say it out loud?" Robert held a stack of photos in his hand and scattered them on the table in the conference room.

The photos were of her and Dave. They just looked like ordinary friends in them.

Only, no one present spoke for Julia.

"Just say yes, Julia, do you really want your parents' single-handedly founded company to be destroyed in your hands?"

"You were the one who stole Lauren's groom in the first place, and now it's time to give him back."

"Just think of the shareholders here."

The oppressive sound that filled the room crushed Julia's nerves, and she could no longer hold back her tears.

This is her kin, and everything is worthless in the face of profit.

"Okay, I cheated, I cheated on him! Are you satisfied?"