Finally, William slumped at the table and said, "Rebecca, stop worrying. Made will definitely be fine"

Harvey was confused, he asked, "Where?"

William explained the situation to Harry "Rebecca and Queenie's father has led the Anderson family to blame Rebecca. If we don't retrieve Queenie's birth details, they'll use Rebecca's birth details to a ghost altar."

"A ghost altar doesn't sound like a good place at all. How could they put Rebecca's birth details there?" William asked.

*Mom, Dad!" Harvey interrupted, disbelief on his face. "You know the ghost altar is dangerous, and you're still sending Maddie there?"

He glanced at Madison, who was calmly eating her dinner, feeling irritated

Chapter 9

A week later, Madison went live again

As soon as she started the livestream, two thousand viewers joined quickly. She looked at the rising viewer count with a hint of confusion.

Many of the viewers who had been waiting for Madison's livestream noticed her confusion and flooded her chat

"The Lost Investrewn caused quite a stir in the financial world and give us a big scoop. We're satisfied with the drama."

"As a stockholder, I'm here to see there's any new development that might affect my stocks."

"I'm curious about the follow-up on the Norton and Anderson families."

"Such scandalous gossip will probably be blocked, but I have insider information. The Norton and Anderson families have called off the engagement

"The Anderson family beat up the scumbag so badly that he had to go to the hospital and wanted to sue them in the end, the two families semled the matter privately."

"Can mediation really resolve it? If it weren't for Maddie, the Anderson family's daughter would be left in the lurch.

"Rich min and their games

"Don't forget the poor gay, that bitch's boyfriend. Theard he's froma wedthy family, too."

As the discussion among the viewers housed up, gifts started pouring in from someone on the livestream. Motherships were being sent one after another.

Madison glanced at the account and narrowed her eyes

It was Queenie's account.

The gifts from Queenie quickly pushed Madison's livestream to the top, making it featured on the homepage

Madison said, "Stop sending gifts. I'm about to start the lucky dam!

She drew a number a "Today, I'll tell two stories I'll start the locky draw now"

Madison repeated, "I said stop sending glits. I'm about to start the draw."

The backstage was immediately flooded with participants. There were nearly ten thousand viewers in the dram room

"With ten thousand people and only two winners, the odds are too low!"

"Who cares? Let's just try."

"I win, I want to know who my hure husband will be!"

"If I win, I want to know the numbers for the next real lucky draw!"

Fifteen minutes later, the lucky draw ended. Two winners were announced.

Madison first contacted the winner with the name "Scenic Painting" and they agreed to a video call.

When Madison opened the video call, a man in his 50s appeared. His expression was visibly troubled.

"As usual, I'll first tell you about your past. You were born into a scholarly family, and both of your parents were educators. Your destiny indicates strong learning abilities from a young age." Madison explained. Scenic Painting was taken aback. "You can really figure that out? Yes. I've always excelled academically," he replied.

He had previously been skeptical of such superstitions, but now...

Madison continued, "What kind of story would you like to hear?"

Scenic Painting asked, "Can you really predict any story?" "I'll try my best."

Scenic Painting sighed softly, feeling he had no other options.

"It's like this. For the past ten years, I've been working on an important research project with my wife.

"But two years ago, my wife passed away in a car accident. Before she died, she told me she had made a breakthrough and that the research was progressing. However, after her death, I've been unable to find the related documents she left behind."

His voice choked with emotion as he continued, "This project is the result of our hard work. Now that she's gone, I must complete it."

He would have been unable to bear the pain of losing his wife if the research project hadn't sustained him.

Scenic Painting recomposed himself and continued, "I'll try to find the documents my wife left behind, and I'll try to overcome the research setback on my own."

Without his wife by his side, he felt that it had lost its meaning. If he couldn't even make progress with the research project...

A viewer named Seer Painting commented, "This Professor Wilk?"

"Is Professor Wallis from Reverield University. He and his wife were involved in several major medical projects. Their work significantly lowered the cost of medical products in om country and broke karriga monopolin on many drugs"

"After his wife's death, he stopped coming to the unheersity and has been working alone in the lab

"Wow" He's such a famous professor

Even unversity professors believe in superstitions Halal is this what a role model should be doing?

"In the viewer above out of their mind'-

Scenic Painting calmly observed the viewers' comments and anked, "Can you help me find my wife's manuscripe?" "Do you have a photo of your wile? Madison inquired

"Alright. I'm here to listen to a story, Megan said, deliberately raising an eyebrow and smiling at Madison "I heard you're great at storytelling, so I thought I'd see for myself "

Madison's expression remained unchanged from the moment Megan appeared, right through to when she started speaking

"As usual, let me begin by talking about your past," Madison said calmly

"You grew up in a middle-class family. When you were ten years old, you had an accident since then, you've been very afraid of water.

Megan, who had been listening with a cheerful expression, suddenly widened her eyes in surprise. She glanced at Madison with a hint of unease.

When the station didn't continue, Megan let out a quiet sigh of relief

"What story would you like to hear?" Madison asked calmly. "Something about the present or the future?"

Megan relaxed slightly, tilting her chin up with a touch of arrogance. "Are you really that accurate?"

"You'll know whether it's accurate after you hear it." Madison answered.

Megan's perfectly shaped eyebrows furrowed slightly. Her beauty and status in the entertainment industry commanded a large fanbase: Since her debut, she has been treated with admiration and respect both by other celebrities and the public.

Yet, Madison spoke to her in such an indifferent tone.

Megan felt a bit annoyed.

"I want to know if I'll be able to marry my boyfriend in the future," she said

As soon as she asked, the live chat erupted with excitement.

"Knew! She's asking about Nate. I'm a huge Megan fan, and I'm certain they'll end up together. They're definitely getting married."

"I might end up alone, but my ship has to sail!"

"I'd trade 30 years of my life just to see Megan and Nate together forever."

"A real couple is so much better than a fake one?"

watched that variety show they were on together, and they were so sweet! Nate treated Megan so well

"Same here! After seeing that show, I scared believing in love again.

As the live chat flooded with nervous and congratulatory comments, Megan's smile grew even brighter. "Thank you, everyone. Talia and Plate and can be together forever. "Maddie, do you think my boyfriend and I will end up together?" she asked with smile

In situations like this, most people would give a reassuring answer

The live chat was already filled with congratulations for Megan

But Madison's response stunned everyone. "No, you won't"

Megan and the viewers were left speechless...

Megan blinked. "Maddie, what did you say?!"

Madison's voice was calm as she replied. "You and Nate won't end up together. Your thread of destiny is tangled -

Megan's heart skipped a beat. "What do you mean by that?" she demanded

Madison held her gaze. "You know exactly what I mean"

Kaplan instinctively looked away to avoid Madison's piercing stare

After a brief pause, she quickly regained her composure "I don't understand what you're talking about Nate and I are deeply in love Why wouldn't we end up together the retorted "Maddie, don't say things just for shock value. There was a warning in her voice,

"I'm not making this up," Madison continued. "You have two romantic interests, one is obvious, while the other is hidden. Neither of them is your ideal match"

Megan's eyes widened in disbelief. "Y-You'd better stop talking nonsense. I'm warning you. Spreading false rumors has serious legal consequences."

At this point, a few viewers chimed in They urged Madison to stop spreading rumors or she would face legal action.

"Is Maddie talking about him "

"Maddie, are you talking about Director Shane Yeatman? that Shane is married"

Madison saw the comment and nodded. "Yes. This hidden romantic interest is a married man."

The viewers were stilled into silence

Megan's expression darkened "Spreading false rumors has legal consequences. You'll be hearing from my lawyer soon!"

Nate nodded and left Megan's house. A few steps away, he took out his phone, downloaded the Threestream app, searched for Madison's stream, and clicked on it. As soon as Nate left, Megan glared at the camera, her face full of anger. "You just said that ruining someone's marriage is terrible, so why are you ruining mine? My relationship with my boyfriend is great. You're accusing me of being unfaithful and intentionally disrupting other people's relationships." She was so furious that she went red and threw insults in front of the camera without caring about her image. The viewers were shocked by her reaction.

"I didn't expect Megan to have such a bad temper! Isn't she supposed to be the calm, intellectual type?"

"You can't really blame her! If someone accused you of being unfaithful, wouldn't you be angry, too?"

Seeing Megan's distressed and aggrieved expression, Madison spoke slowly, "I don't know who advised you to use a ghost bar to interfere with other people's relationships, but do you think you can escape retribution by passing it on to someone else?"

Madison stopped looking at Megan and addressed the camera, "Nate, if you want to know what's going on, you can join the call."

The next moment, Nate sent a call request.

Madison accepted the call and Nate's face appeared on the screen.

The score was split into three sections. Madison was in the center, with Nate and Megan on either side.

When Megan saw Nate, she became anxious. "Nate, are you doubting me? We love each other so much, and now, you're questioning me."

"I send you the address privately," Madison said.

Madison then turned to Megan, who was still speaking. She was blaming Nate, calling him a scumbag and a heartless man

"I've never seen such a shameless man! How could he stage a show with a streamer just to break up?"

"H, don't provoke Maddie. She's very powerful."

"Entact Maddie once caught a human trafficker and a murderer!"

"Anyone who's watched Ms. Locke's stream wouldn't dare say something so ignorant"

Many of those who were watching the livestream were regular viewers of Madison's streams.

However, Megan's fans flooded the livestream. They cursed and threatened Madison in the live chat.

Despite the heated contents, Madison's long-time viewers remained calm.

Madison noticed the change in Megan's expression and let out a soft laugh "Isn't the person who sent you to the ghost altar mention it would affect your career and En Megan remains silent

You must not have known," Alison continued. "If you had, you wouldn't have gone back to the ghost altar just for another role"

Megan's pupils trembled slightly, "I don't know what you're talking about," she said, trying to sound confident

Madison kept her tone calm, though her gaze was keen. "Your horoscope reveals that you're greedy and selfish by nature You're arrogant and wouldn't allow yourself to suffer."""
