Chapter 191 Brittany Is Sick

She disagreed with the teacher. Luck was normal and smart. He could remember what he had read and was very interested in machines like computers.

He just didn't want to communicate with others. But he had no mental problems.

She took Luck to the library, and Luck was keen on reading.

Apart from the daily routines and fetal education, Krista spent most of her time reading books, visiting the material market, or going to the mall to appreciate others' fashion designs.

She was like a dry sponge, eager to absorb more knowledge. She kept learning even if she had left school, and what she learned in society was more than at school.

Moreover, Lance would send Krista emails from time to time, sharing his experiences and ideas with her. Lance was a person with a broad horizon, and Krista could learn a lot from him.

Lance only contacted her through emails.

Krista wanted to thank him for that, but she didn't know whether they would meet in the future.

If possible, she would say thanks to him in person.

She really appreciated Lance.

She was busy all day long, without paying any attention to the news of Kingston.

She would only think of but not think about him.

It was good for her.

She would contact Brittany through video calls twice a week.

Both Krista and Brittany were happy to talk with each other.

Brittany would also say something about Kingston. Sandra couldn't marry Kingston without Brittany's permission.

But recently, Krista couldn't contact Brittany.

She had tried several times, but Brittany didn't answer.

Finally, she decided to call Wyatt.

"Wyatt, why Brittany didn't answer my calls?"

"Brittany..."

Wyatt wanted to say something, but he held back.

"What's wrong with Brittany?"

Krista's breathing was quick, and she was worried.

"Brittany is sick. And she is not well. She looks pale, so she doesn't want to answer the video calls from you. She doesn't want to worry you."

When Krista heard this, her heart trembled.

"Why didn't you tell me? What's wrong with Brittany?"

"Her illness is induced by overwork in the past. The doctor said that they will give her an operation to check her organs. She is old and in poor health."

"Don't worry. I'll take good care of her. I will call you if anything happens."

Krista had wished that she was in City D.

After hanging up the phone, she was about to book a flight ticket.

When Aracely arrived, she immediately stopped Krista.

"What are you doing? You are pregnant now. Are you going to tell Brittany? You will make her blood boil if you tell her the truth."

"But Brittany is sick. I must go back to see her!"

"It is normal for the old to have these problems. I will come back to China tomorrow to check her situation. If she is seriously ill, you can return then."

"But..."

Krista still wanted to say something, but Aracely interrupted her.

"You could go anywhere when you were not very pregnant. But you are at eight months pregnant. You'd better stay here and wait for my news. Will you?"

"Yes ... I will."

Krista was worried all day long.

She took Luck to the church.

Chapter 192 Embryonic Arrest

"Krista."

He looked at her with a puzzled expression.

"Luck, can you pray with me? Brittany matters most in my life because just like you, she is our family member. Can we pray that she will recover from her illness?"

Luck nodded in earnest. He learned to put his palms together in front of his chest and close his eyes.

Krista looked at the Jesus statue and her eyes welled up with tears.

"I hope Grandma can be safe and I am willing to suffer for her. I haven't repaid her kindness. I beg... I beg that you can give me a chance and help her return to health."

She had been praying in the church until she received a call from Aracely in the evening.

"I visited Brittany today. Weaker as her body was, she talked to me consciously. She said that you needn't have come over yourself. It's common for her to have physical problems on account of her old age. Moreover, she will probably recover soon after having a minor operation tomorrow."

"I'll contact you after the operation."

"What did doctors say?"

"They said that Brittany was in no danger, but she must take medicine regularly because her body is not as good as before."

When she heard this, she signed with relief.

Fortunately, her life was not in danger.

She would return home in a few months.

She must look after Brittany well.

Aracely said Brittany was out of danger and began to regain her health.

But Krista was still a little uneasy, and she broke out into a cold sweat at night.

Krista had already contacted Brittany. she was lying on the bed and greeting her with a kind smile.

But it could be seen that Brittany was in fragile health and her eyes were somber pools that reflected no light.

Seeing her like this, Krista felt her nose sour and burst out crying. Brittany comforted her instead, saying that she was fine and that she would return to normal soon.

"Don't worry. I'm fine. It's just an ailment. I have put down everything and don't care about the death."

"I have lived long enough. But my biggest concern is leaving you alone."

"You can live much longer. Wait for me, okay? When I come back, I will eat with you, walking with you, and play cards with you, okay?"

"Sure. How could I bear to reject a girl like you!"

It was time for Krista to take a pregnancy test.

She didn't look pregnant until six or seven months later.

No matter how much she ate, she could not get fat. So her slender body didn't match her baby bump.

Over time, she felt it hard to sleep or walk.

She could only lie on her side while sleeping and had to go to the restroom several times a night. Her feet began to swell, and she walked with great effort sometimes.

Fortunately, Luck was so considerate and took good care of her.

With him around, she could rest assured.

And now at home.

In the City D.

Sandra woke up at midnight and she was so scared that found blood beneath her body.

She hurriedly called Vivian to send her to the hospital overnight.

Sandra was already in a coma from the pain, and Vivian arranged things for her.

"What's the matter with her, doctor?" The doctor had always been only responsible for Sandra's prenatal care. "The fetus is very stable this month. How could she suddenly bleed?" The doctor frowned and continued to check. Then he looked pale and said, " ... embryonic arrest ..."

Chapter 193 Sandra Conspires with Vivian

"What did you say?"

"I can't hear the fetus heart rate. It stopped."

"She is pregnant for eight months. How could that be?"

"Yes, it could be. Probably it is because of the lack of oxygen or bacterial infection. And she had the possibility of miscarriage before."

"What should we do now?"

"We'll have to induce her. The longer the dead fetus is in her womb, the more harmful it will be to her. And the operation can be made at any time. I will inform Mr. Irwin..."

"You can't tell Kingston!"

Vivian immediately grabbed the doctor's collar.

Her eyes were full of anger.

"Miss Vivian." The doctor was so frightened that he stammered.

"The fetus is still alive. Save it and don't induce her."

"But..."

"Shut up. If you dare to tell Kingston, I will kill you!"

"Yes ... I know what to do."

The doctor looked pale and nodded.

Vivian came to the ward to wait for Sandra to wake up.

Sandra opened her eyes slowly, feeling exhausted.

Being pregnant made her feel suffocated.

"How is the fetus?"

She asked.

"The fetus is dead."

"What did you say?"

Sandra was stunned and looked at her in shock.

"The fetus's heart stopped beating. It is dead."

"How ... how is this possible? Oh, my baby..."

She muttered to herself and could not believe it.

She touched her stomach and was close to tears.

Vivian did not even console her. Instead, she mocked, "Don't be so hypocritical. You don't care about it at all. You just want to take advantage of it, don't you?"

"Even so, I was pregnant for eight months!"

Sandra glared at Vivian.

"That's it. It's no need to be sad. How about your future?"

"Yes ... What about my future? It is my only hope, but I lost it. What am I going to do?"

"The doctor said that you cannot leave the dead fetus in your womb much longer, or it will risk you the chance to be pregnant again." Vivian still hoped that Sandra could give birth to a son who could take over the Irwins' family business.

"Half a month later, Krista will be pregnant for nine months. If she happens to miscarry it, I will contact the hospitals and send her a dead fetus."

"Am I going to Phelan City?" :

"No. You're in City D, while Krista is in Phelan City. There's no need to worry. I will deal with it."

"Okay. It's up to you."

"By the way, how about Brittany?"

"I have put a small dosage of poison in her everyday meals. She won't know it even until she dies." Sandra said with a mischievous smile.

It was the only thing of which she could be proud.

Finally, she could round up Brittany.

"That's good. It won't be long before Brittany dies. At that time, you will be Ms. Irwin."

When Sandra heard this, her eyes burned with flames.

She could picture how happy she would be, with fashionable clothes and jewelry to wear.

She was no longer the unlawful daughter that everyone bullied.

She would be Ms. Irwin in the future!

At that time, she could bully whomever she wanted.

She had had quite enough of these awful days.

Chapter 194 An Unexpected Accident

Half a month passed in a flash.

Aracely asked for a month's leave, just to accompany Krista in Phelan City,

After all, Krista was getting closer to her due date, and her water could break at any time.

Krista felt like she had become a rare animal in Aracely's eyes. Aracely won't let her do anything, like she could lie down on the bed until the child came out.

I'd like to take some exercise, too. Almost become a vegetable now."

"You are going to give birth. Just stay there. I'm so excited to find out right away whether I have a goddaughter or a godson!"

"Uncle, I am uncle,"

Luck said stiffly.

*They say boys are more like uncles. Luck is good-looking, so would be our boy."

"Like me, like me..."

Luck gradually loosened his tongue.

Krista also laughed.

They enjoying themselves like a family of three. "You're going to be hospitalized today. I'll drive. Luck, you help Krista to pack up while I go downstairs."

Aracely thought of it, quickly packed up her things, and helped Krista to go out.

Phelan City was very large and the place they lived was far away, somewhat remote.

Therefore, Aracely planned to stay in the hospital for the next two days until the child was born.

While they were driving, a black van suddenly drove towards them.

Suddenly, it deviated from its original track and rushed towards their car.

"Aracely, watch out!"

Aracely turned the steering wheel as fast as possible, but the situation was still out of control.

The car took a pretty hard hit on the front, and everyone in the car suffered a violent impact.

The car veered off the track and slammed into a tree.

Dense smoke came out of the engine, and the airbag also popped out.

Aracely was dizzy and her forehead was bleeding.

She bit her tongue to keep clear-headed.

Aracely looked at Krista who was behind her. She found that Krista was already unconscious and it was all wet under her body.

Her water was broken!

“Krista!”

Luck’s arm was cut by the broken window glass, dripping with blood.

However, he gave no thought to that.

“Krista, please don’t scare me!”

Aracely kept calling her name, but there was no response.

The black van that caused this accident had already run away. It seemed that it was drunk driving.

She ran to the middle of the road and kept waving.

“Somebody help us!”

Fortunately, there was a car passing by and took them to the hospital.

Krista was wheeled into surgery at once.

Aracely and Luck were also taken to treat their wounds.

Krista was in a daze and only felt nothing but pain in her head.

She felt that there seemed to be a cold instrument cutting her skin.

‘Child...

‘Was she giving birth to a child?’

She struggled to open her eyes, and vaguely saw the doctor with bloody hands, holding a small baby.

‘Her child...

She really wanted to raise her hand to feel the baby, but she had no strength.

She closed her eyes heavily, and then there was endless darkness.

Time slowly passed by.

As Krista slowly woke up, she felt her body ached badly.

The moment she woke up, she saw Aracely and Luck. She felt relieved to see them safe and sound.

Without the baby around, she knew that her newborn baby may be sent to an incubator. Her child was almost one month ahead of the expected date. Does he/she count a premature infant or not? Is he/she very weak?

“Child ... How is the child?”

She asked, her dry lips trembling.

The look of Aracely was complicated and her eyes were red.

“Are...Are you alright? Are you feeling better? The driver has been found. It was drunk driving, and things have been settled.”

“I’m asking you about the child, is the baby a boy or a girl? You got a godson or a goddaughter?”

“Krista...”

Aracely just lost for words.

Chapter 195 The Child Was Gone

She sensed something wrong and trembled.

Why Aracely was so sad?

“Tell me!”

She was agitated, but Aracely still refused to reveal a word.

She turned to look at Luck.

"Luck, you won't lie to me. Tell me, where is my child?"

Hearing her words, Luck just shook his head.

"You all refuse to tell me, right? Then I'll go find my child myself..."

She pulled out the needle from the back of her hand, lifted the quilt, and was about to get off the bed, thus tearing the wound on her abdomen, which was bone-piercing.

Aracely immediately stepped forward to hold her down.

"Krista, you can't move!"

"Let me ask you again. Where is my child?"

Krista spoke word by word, with eyes red and hands tightly holding Aracely's.

"Krista ... your child..." Aracely was extremely conflicted in her heart. In the end, she mustered her courage and said, "The child ... was gone. Not long after he was born, he stopped breathing. The doctor said that it was due to premature birth. Moreover, after you gave birth, you bled a lot. They risked their lives to save you."

"Do you know that you have been unconscious for two days? Don't talk about the child anymore. He shouldn't have appeared, because he would be a hindrance of the breakup between you and Kingston. Without him, your life will be much better in the future. You have me and Luck. Let's have a totally new start, okay?"

Aracely looked at Krista's pale face, eyes red and holding onto her arm tightly.

"Krista ... Krista, can you hear me?"

Her eyes were blank, ears were ringing, and mind was blank too.

She could only hear a few words.

The child was gone...

The child that she desperately wanted to keep stayed in her stomach for almost nine months, but ... was gone?

How could she accept such things!

She pushed Aracely away and flipped over the bed, but her cesarean section wound was not healed and she had no strength.

She fell heavily to the ground, but was supported by Aracely immediately.

“What the hell are you doing!”

“I want to... go and see him. I didn't even have the time to take a good look at him. He has always been healthy in my stomach, how could him be dead!”

Tears welled up in her eyes filled with despair.

“Krista, this is just an accident. It means that you have no fate with this child.”

“How could he come into my stomach without fate? I don't believe it ... I have to see it with my own eyes, I don't believe it...”

Aracely had no choice but to arrange a wheelchair to take her to the nursery.

Before the child's corpse was dealt with, she already knew that Krista would take a look.

The child's body was already stiff after two days.

It was a little boy.

He didn't even open his eyes!

When Krista saw the little baby, she sobbed so hard that it was difficult for her to breathe.

She found it difficult to accept this sad thing and directly fainted.

“Krista!”

Aracely was anxious and kept calling her name.

She quickly sent him to the ward and let the doctor save him.

“Excuse me, how should we deal with the child?”

“Cremate him ... before she wakes up.”

She said faintly.

She was afraid that Krista would be sad to deal with these follow-up things, so she'd better do it.

She chose the cemetery and the time to bury it. Right now, all she needed to do was wait for Krista to wake up.

But when she woke up, it was still hard for her to accept the fact that the child had left.

When the child was buried, Krista was dressed in black, which made her look even thinner.

Chapter 196 No Cure

When she returned home, she wanted to burn all the children's clothes.

But ... she was reluctant.

Every small piece of clothing was personally made by her. Every needle, every thread, and every embroidery was her love for the baby.

But they would never be used.

She silently sealed everything in the box, and burst into tears.

Perhaps Aracely was right that she and this child were not fated.

Perhaps, she should not have any ties with Kingston in this life, so the child did not come to this world.

No matter how sad she was, she could do nothing.

She couldn't fall down since she still had Luck to take care of.

She sent the child on his last journey on a raining day.

It was already summer, but the rain was especially cold.

She stood in front of the tombstone and could not come back to her senses for a long time.

The fate between her and this child was too short.

Aracely held the umbrella behind her and understood that she was very sad now.

"Krista, it is time to go."

"Do you think he will be afraid if he is here alone? Will he be lonely..."

"Krista!"

She interrupted her nonsense in time.

“Stop talking nonsense. It’s all in the past. Your top priority now is to take care of yourself.”

She was still in the postpartum confinement and had just recovered a little.

She had been absent-minded all day, hurting her health heavily.

Right now, she only wanted to bring Krista back to the car as soon as possible so that she wouldn’t get caught in the wind and fall ill.

She forcefully pulled Krista away. She looked back frequently with eyes filled with reluctance.

‘If the child was doomed to be taken away, why did I get pregnant at once?’

‘In the past, this child had stubbornly and healthily stayed in my stomach when I had caught a cold and was injured. Why was it that this time ... it was gone?’

‘Could it be that these nine months were just a big dream?’

‘Since he shouldn’t have come, why did he come?’

‘If he came, why did he leave?’

‘Will I have children again in the future?’

When she thought of this, she felt pain and despair, as if her heart was being roasted on a fire.

Aracely accompanied her day and night, afraid that she would not get out of the pain. As a result, she looked a lot more haggard.

It was not easy to endure until the end of the postpartum confinement. Seeing that Krista was much better, Aracely gave a sigh of relief.

Unexpectedly, they received a call from Wyatt.

“Krista, Brittany is dying. Come back quickly!”

Krista only heard this sentence.

Then the phone slipped from her palm and fell to the ground.

She left Luck in Phelan City and asked the nurse to take good care of him.

And she and Aracely rushed to City D as fast as possible.

As soon as she got off the plane, she was blown to coughing by the night wind.

“Are you alright?”

Aracely quickly put a coat on her.

“I’m fine, hurry to the hospital.”

She said anxiously.

They got to the hospital by car without any delay.

Brittany was still in the ICU, with all the family members isolated outside.

The moment Krista’s delicate figure appeared, Kingston immediately noticed it.

She was even thinner!

It was as if a gust of wind could blow her down.

Her lower abdomen had already recovered. Could it be that ... she had given birth to a child?

“Wyatt!”

As if she couldn’t see anyone else, Krista immediately rushed in front of Wyatt and grabbed his hand.

“How is Grandma? Wasn’t she fine before? Why did she suddenly fall down?”

“I don’t know either. The doctor said that her liver has insufficient ability to make blood, and her blood has solidified. There is no cure. She can only wait for death.”

“How could this be...”

Hearing that, she fell backward suddenly.
