

Chapter 370

These days, Lily asked Krista to take takeout and delivery and print. But the boss criticized Lily, saying that she didn't make good use of Krista.

The boss gave Krista's draft to Lily and asked Lily to lead Krista. Perhaps Krista would be the best designer.

Recently, a company offered Lily a high salary and asked her to work. But she had signed a contract with MY and it hadn't expired. If she left, she had to pay a huge amount of liquidated damages.

Moreover, her reputation would be ruined if she left MY in a short time. Thus, she had been hesitating.

But the boss understood that she would leave someday because everyone wanted to go to a higher and better platform.

And the other company gave her more money. She had no reason to say no.

Thus, the boss hoped that she could cultivate a designer before she left.

But Lily didn't want to do that. She didn't want to create an opponent. She also didn't want to see someone in her position after she left.

She had worked hard for many years, sacrificed her love, and kept single. She couldn't accept Krista who was a novice to be in her position.

Lily was unwilling to see that happen. She didn't take Krista seriously at all. Lily thought that Krista had little experience in designing because Krista just graduated from university a year ago.

Lily had planned to ask Krista to do trivial work for a few more days. But Lily didn't expect the boss asked her to quickly lead and cultivate Krista.

Lily didn't know Krista's strength until today. Krista had great talent and was well trained. And Krista had a unique understanding of marketing.

Lily didn't expect that Krista was capable at such a young age and knew much about the design field.

Lily didn't know that Krista graduated from the best design college and created a brand before.

Those customers came partly due to Lance, but mostly, they liked Krista's design. Thus, they always came and supported her.

Stacey was a very famous Chinese brand abroad. But no one knew who Stacey was. They only knew that she was Chinese because Stacey never agreed to have interviews.

"Well, don't forget your duties. You are only an intern. You need to fully assist me. Do what I say. Do you hear me?"

"Got it."

"Very good."

Lily stood up and said loudly, "I'd like to prepare the afternoon tea for you guys. Tell Krista what you want to eat and drink. She will go and buy for us."

"Lily..." Krista froze for a moment.

"What? Don't you agree? We are a team. You should help us. Everyone has to complete their design. You have nothing to do. You are the best choice."

Hearing this, Krista gritted her teeth and did not say anything. It was true that everyone was busy. Only Krista was free.

As long as she passed her internship period, she could begin designing.

Everyone told Krista what they wanted to eat and drink. Then they asked Krista to buy.

No one felt that this was wrong because most of them had worked as Lily's interns. They knew Lily's character and it was common for Lily to bully newcomers.

But Lily never did too much. This time, it seemed different.

Krista went to many places and finally got everything they wanted. She was so tired and panted as she went upstairs.

But she accidentally bumped into someone and almost fell down.

"Sorry, I didn't do it on purpose..."

"Krista."

She was stunned when she heard the familiar voice.
