

Found Pregnant After Divorce Novel

Chapter 380

"I see."

Krista delightedly responded and wore a sweet smile.

After changing the clothes for Krista, Kingston got sweaty, as if he had experienced a tough battle.

"Only to me."

Kingston said in a hoarse voice.

"I see."

Krista delightedly responded and wore a sweet smile.

After changing the clothes for Krista, Kingston got sweaty, as if he had experienced a tough battle.

But Krista knew little about Kingston's feelings. With red cheeks, she stared at Kingston and smiled innocently, showing her white teeth.

"It's late. Let's go to bed."

Kingston couldn't help touching her head. And Krista seemed to enjoy it as she rubbed her face against Kingston's chest.

Kingston covered her with a blanket and turned off the light.

Then Krista immediately got closed to him and nestled against his chest, tightly holding his waist.

It warmed Kingston up inside. He expected that Krista could rely on him and stay with him every day.

"I wish we could always enjoy our time in this way."

He said softly.

Krista was sleepy. She mumbled, "Me too. It's great that I would never wake up from the dream."

Only in the dream would Kingston be so gentle and tender to her.

She remembered that Kingston was always indifferent to her, which rendered her unconfident and anxious to be his wife.

She did try to improve herself. But Kingston was so extraordinary that it seemed impossible for her to become comparable to him.

So she used to admire him in awe, which suppressed her affection.

And that was why she felt inferior and never expressed her thoughts to Kingston.

She once planned to divorce since she was afraid that their marriage would create barriers to Kingston's real happiness.

She never imagined that, as a nobody, she could stay with Kingston forever.

Thus, having such a wonderful memory with Kingston in the dream was satisfying enough for her.

She never perceived that it was real.

It was only in the dream could she express her affection for Kingston at will.

Kingston also hugged her tightly. Some thoughts arose as his heart was softened.

"Krista, I have never told you that I don't love Sandra at all. I just felt pity for her at the beginning. And I am sorry for her.

"I made a lot of mistakes four years ago. I was wrong to regard marriage as a responsibility. I shouldn't go abroad soon after registering. I missed the time to be with you. And I didn't correct my mistakes even though I realized them.

"Four years ago, I had countless chances to take a firm hold of you but I missed you again and again. I didn't dare to show my love for you. Until you disappeared in the sea, I came to realize how important you were. I found that my heart was sleeping in the sea with you, while my body had to work as a member of the Irwin family.

"I even wanted to be buried in the sea when I died. So that I could stay with you. But thanks God, you are still alive. It's a second chance for me. I know my faults can't be made up. So I hope that you can give me a chance again. Just only one chance..."

Send Gift

Comments