

Found Pregnant After Divorce Novel

Chapter 381

His voice gradually became hoarse, and his eyes were darker than the night.

Kingston had never said so many heartfelt words.

Kingston was not a pretentious person and was never good at expressing himself. Even his love for Krista was also secretive.

But now, he has actually said everything.

After he finished speaking, Kingston felt much relieved.

Hearing her breathing, he knew that Krista did not listen to a word and had already fallen asleep.

He was always the winner.

Only in front of Krista, he was a loser.

He failed completely.

He didn't even dare to admit his mistakes.

It was quite silent in the darkness, and the moon's light cast soft shadows.

The next day, Krista, who was drunk, didn't wake up until the afternoon.

Krista had a sweet sleep after drinking wine. Her head did not hurt and she was in high spirits in the afternoon.

She felt refreshed and decided to drink some wine when she had nothing to do in the future. The wine could help maintain her beauty, young appearance, and sleep well.

She went downstairs and then saw Luck.

When Luck saw Krista, he lowered his head and wanted to walk away.

"You don't even greet your sister? Be polite." Krista said angrily.

"Krista."

Luck quickly responded.

"Did you help me go back to my room last night? Did Kingston do anything to me?"

"No."

When Luck said the word, his entire body was stiff.

Krista did not notice that because she was too hungry and didn't want to think of anything else.

She nodded and felt much relieved. Then she immediately went into the kitchen. Luck, who was behind her, also quickly left.

Krista walked around and found that Kingston was not home.

After asking the servant, she found out that Kingston had left early in the morning, saying that the group had something to deal with.

When she heard it, Krista still felt a little uncomfortable.

Kingston was the only son of the Irwin family. He faced many hopes, as well as much danger.

There were many people who wanted Kingston to fall, and they could take advantage of the Irwin group to develop their companies.

But if he fell, his kin would suffer unprecedented injuries.

No matter how tired he was, Kingston still walked forward. Even though he was covered in wounds, Kingston never retreated.

He would only be like a lion, hiding in the dark and healing himself. When he reappeared, he was calm and wise, as if nothing had happened.

This kind of person must be very hard, right?

Krista sighed and felt a little bitter.

What was even more terrifying was that people who were better than you were more hardworking than you.

'What kind of girl would match such a man in the future?'

Thinking of this, for some reason, Krista felt a little uncomfortable.

The weather was fine in the afternoon, so Krista took Luck out for a walk, afraid that he would be bored at home.

Krista went to the bathroom alone and asked Luck to wait for her in the store.

When she came out, she didn't pay attention to the road and collided with a man.

His chest was as hard as a steel plate. It hurt so much that her face and forehead turned red.

"Are you alright?"

A rough voice sounded in her ears.

Krista looked up and shook her head. "It's fine. I'm sorry. I didn't see the road. I'm sorry."

"It's you?"

The man frowned.

Krista was a little puzzled and thought that the man knew her.

The man had a height of 1.8 meters and a sturdy body. Even though he was dressed, one could still feel the muscles underneath his clothes and his strength.

His skin was slightly dark, and he had a buzz cut, making him look very spirited. His eyes were like a hawk's eyes, black and sharp.

The person ... she had no impression of him at all.
