

Found Pregnant After Divorce Novel

Chapter 382

She asked, "Do we ... know each other?"

"You ... don't remember me?"

John was a little surprised.

He had a deep relationship with her this year.

Thinking back to that year, his eyes were a little special.

She said, "Sorry, you might have mistaken me for someone else. My brother is still waiting for me. Bye—bye."

She was not used to talking too much to strangers, so she said goodbye politely and hurried away.

John didn't chase after her. He only narrowed his eyes and stared at her back. He had a strong interest in her.

The corners of his mouth couldn't help smiling.

Just then, his ear—piercing communication device rang.

"Mr. Riley, the criminal gang has been surrounded. Are you ready for the arrest?"

John said, "Okay, but be gentle. Don't scare the little guys in the mall."

John laughed and left.

When Krista bought things with Luck, she heard the surrounding people were gabbling.

"Did you know? Just below our mall, a group of human traffickers was arrested!"

"Really? Are there human traffickers?"

"Of course, there must be people who are careless and miss the child. Traffickers took advantage of this. I just saw that plain-clothed police catching them, and that police are imposing!"

"Is that so? I'll go and take a look too!"

Krista didn't expect such a big thing to happen around her. She couldn't help but grab Luck's hand.

At this moment, her phone rang. It was Kingston.

Kingston asked, "Where are you?"

As soon as she picked up the phone, she heard Kingston's worried voice.

She answered, "I'm at the Commercial Building..."

"I am nearby. I'll come to you right away. Stay there and take care of yourself."

He said anxiously.

Krista was in a fog. She didn't know why he was so nervous.

She was going to leave, but now she could only stand at the entrance and wait for Kingston.

Coincidentally, she saw the police grab the human traffickers into the police car.

She suddenly saw the tough man. She noticed that the rest of the people were respectful to him, and even called him Mr. Riley.

She didn't expect that he was a plainclothes policeman.

But she thought that it was a pity that the strong man was not the police.

John also saw Krista in the crowd, and a smile flashed across the corner of his mouth.

He walked over and said, "We meet again."

"Hello, Officer." She said politely, and her impulse was not strong against him.

After all, Krista had always believed that she would find the police when she was in trouble.

She thought that they served the people, and they were sacred and glorious.

"Just call me John. Do I look like a good person?"

He suddenly asked. He touched his short hair and smiled, revealing his white teeth.

"You are not like a good person, but you are a good man. You caught the human trafficker!"

She hated human traffickers so much!

She didn't know why she was so hateful and angry.

Because she didn't know that she had been kidnapped before?

John couldn't help but laugh out loud when he heard this.

He found that she had really forgotten that he had kidnapped her in the past.

John was the leader of the robbers who stole from the jewelry shop. He was already an expert to break out of prison, just like playing a cat and mouse game with the police.

The police thought highly of his anti-investigation ability and had been testing him repeatedly.

But he did not know that and thought he had successfully escaped from prison, so he went to rob a jewelry store.

He had never killed anyone before, and that was the first time he had taken the hostage. Because Krista had said that she was one of the Irwins, Kingston would give a large amount of money.

He lacked money, so he was tempted.

When he found out that he had been cheated on, he was so angry that he wanted to tear her apart.

He had planned to punish her and make her life miserable, but when he saw her slightly swollen belly, he was stunned.

He didn't understand why she was willing to help another person escape when she was pregnant.

Send Gift

Comments