

Fated To The Cursed Lycan Prince

Chapter 1234 Feeling Shy

(Rufus’ POV)

After making love, Crystal drifted off in my arms.

As I held her tightly, I began to regret losing my self-control. I shouldn’t have taken advantage of her.

But after what just occurred, I understood and became more convinced of my feelings.

Since we shared a past, I had to figure out what had gone down five years ago.

Why did Crystal take the children to the border pack alone?

I had to get to the bottom of these mysteries.

No matter what, I would keep this woman by my side. I couldn’t let her walk away from me.

I lowered my head and placed a chaste k*iss on the corner of her m*outh. I felt content. It turned out that it was a huge border pack alone?

I had to get to the bottom of these mysteries.

No matter what, I would keep this woman by my side. I couldn’t let her walk away from me.

I lowered my head and placed a chaste k*iss on the corner of her m*outh. I felt content. It turned out that it was a huge relief to have her with me.

This time, what we had just experienced together wasn’t a dream. Instead, I could feel her racing heart.

I lovingly caressed her hair. I found myself to be so obsessed with her that I didn’t want to take my eyes off her for even one second.

I just wanted to hold her in my arms, k*iss her, and gaze at her for eternity.

When the water was almost cold, I lifted Crystal out of the bathtub. I changed the water and rinsed her body.

She continued sleeping soundly. She relied on me completely, making me feel as sweet as honey.

After I wiped her body and was about to dry her hair, she opened her eyes groggily. She instinctively nestled into my arms. But when she met my gaze, her body stiffened for some reason.

I thought she had some discomfort, so I nervously scanned her body. “What’s wrong? Do you feel sick?”

“No.” Crystal’s voice was soft, and her face was flushed. She even avoided meeting my eyes.

I laughed and grabbed her face, watching her tenderly. “Why are you feeling shy suddenly? You weren’t like this a few minutes ago.”

Crystal’s embarrassment increased. Even the tips of her ears turned red. She gently shoved against my chest and said, “Don’t… Stop. Just now…”

“About what just happened, do you feel any discomfort?” I thought I had been too brutish just now and hurt her. I wanted to apply some ointment on her.

“No, I’m fine. Can you step out of the bathroom for a bit?” Crystal muttered, her gaze glued to the floor.

A peculiar feeling unfurled within me and I t*ouched her forehead. “Are you sure you don’t feel any discomfort?”

“I’m fine,” Crystal replied, shaking her head shyly.

“Let me help you dry your hair. You haven’t made a complete recovery yet. I’m guessing you don’t have the energy to hold the hair dryer.” I k*issed the tip of her nose intimately. My heart was bursting with affection, as if no matter how much love and care I showed her, it was not enough. I really wanted her to be in my arms all the time.

Crystal shoved my arm away and softly said, “I want to use the toilet. Can you go out now? You can come back later and help me dry my hair.”

“Oh, okay. You should have told me this earlier.” I snickered and stroked her face. “Are you sure you don’t need my help?”

“Yes. You can leave now,” Crystal urged, her face turning beet-red again. “I… I need to use the toilet now.”

I stepped out of the bathroom with a nod. I waited a few moments outside the door to ensure she didn’t fall down. Then, I spun on my heel and went to the closet to get her some clean clothes.
